NEW ORLEANS RADIO STATION SEIZED AND MANY FACE ARREST

Federal Prohibition Agents Uncover What They Describe As Most Far-Reaching Liquor Syndicate Ever to Come to Light in U. S.—Rum Fleet in Gulf of Mexico Directed by Wireless—Drive Follows Weeks of Investigation.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 11—(INS)—Federal prohibition agents uncovered what they described as the most far-reaching rum syndicate that has ever come to light in the United States.

The agents seized a hidden radio station on Gladiola street. The station, officers said, directed the maneuvers of a rum fleet in the Gulf of Mexico.

Eight men, including Charles Andreas, the operator in charge of the radio station, were arrested by the federal authorities.

As a result of wire tapping operations of the agents, numerous other arrests will be made in New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Memphis, Gulfport, Miss., and Biloxi, Miss., it was said.

Al Capone Linked.

Prohibition officers linked Al Capone with the ring after it was discovered that a major portion of Chicago's liquor supply was furnished through this syndicate which operated from Canada through British Honduras to New Orleans.

Evidence obtained in the raids here will result in the arrest of more than 100 men all over the United States, Edmond E. Talbot, federal district attorney, declared.

"We believe Al Capone to be the master mind behind the organization," Talbot said, "and while we can't prove it, indications are that Capone was at least connected with the ring through purchase of contraband for Chicago consumption."

Alleged Capone Men Held.

NEW ORLEANS April 11—(UP)—Federal prohibition agents struck a decisive blow at liquor smuggling through New Orleans and coast cities of Mississippi today, with the

WINNING PLANE BY JOHN KRAUSE

Gool and Kenneth Pavey Win Father-Son Prize In Boy Scout Meet.

John Krause, 1245 H street, won sweepstake honors in the Boy Scout model aeroplane tournament staged Saturday afternoon in the university coliseum.

In the event for scientific models, young Krause's plane sustained flight for 1 minute and 14 seconds. He also won first in the competition for height, in which his model attained an altitude of 28 feet.

Kenneth Pavey and his father, Gool Pavey, 510 South Twenty-fifth street, were the winners of the father and son event. One of the co-operatively built planes sustained flight for 30 seconds.

Pavey also took first honors in the duration of flight contest with launching from the ground. Robert Gant, 465 South Twenty-fifth street, was winner of the event for fuselage models, built to scale.

Officials for the meet were: Trev Gillaspie, timer; Earl Johnson, starter; Ward C. Betzer, scorer; and Ray E. Colvert, general chairman. About 100 spectators were on hand for the contests.

The Saturday tournament was run off in preparation for the aviation act in the first Lincoln Boy Scout circus, set for the evening of April 18 in the university coliseum.

At least 75 planes will take part in the act next Saturday, according to R. E. Colvert, who is handling arrangements for the act.

Mrs. Longworth Breaks Sad News to Daughter

CINCINNATI, O., April 11—(UP)—Until this morning, little Paulina Longworth, 6-year-old daughter of Nicholas and Alice Roosevelt Longworth, had been kept in ignorance of her father's death.

It was Mrs. Loigworth herself who accepted the painful task of telling her. At Paulina's breakfast time today, her mother took her on her lap and explained.

NEIDEN RETRIAL LATE IN APRIL

High Court Remanded Case Against Grocer Owing To Error.

Retrial of Louis Neiden on a charge of receiving stolen property is on the docket made up Saturday for the next jury panel in District court, beginning April 20 and running for two weeks. On his first trial Neiden was convicted by a jury and sentenced by the court to serve from one to seven years in the state penitentiary. The defendant carried an appeal to the Supreme court where the case was remanded on error and a new trial ordered.

The state charges that Neiden, who was the operator of a small grocery store, knowingly accepted goods stolen from the Pepperberg Segar Co. on February 18, 1930. Two youths pleaded guilty to the theft and were sentenced to the state reformatory.

At the Neiden trial, the two were brought into court to testify against the grocer. In remanding the case, the Supreme court held that the

DOG WITH CANCER STARTS JOURNEY TO MAYO CLINIC

NEW YORK, April 11—(INS)—Prouse, a black and white English setter, is going on a long, sad journey today—to the Mayo brothers clinic at Rochester, Minn., where he is to be treated for cancer and subjected to studies by scientists.

Robert Thompson, owner of the dog, shed tears this morning as he said goodbye to the animal. Prouse will travel in a crate in the express car of a fast train. He will be provided with his own special brand of food.

Prouse is a rare find to the medical scientists because he is a living animal known to be suffering from cancer of the bone.

MILFORD YOUTH JUDGING WINNER

Vic Rediger Scores 704 Of Possible 800 In Ag College Event.

Vic Rediger of Milford won the annual students' dairy cattle judging contest held on the agricultural college campus Saturday. The Milford student scored 704 points out of a possible 800 to win the annual event. Thirty-three competed for top honors. Trophies and medals were awarded the winners.

Following Rediger was George Boyd, who scored enough points to place second. Marion Mecham was third. Other winners, in the order they placed, included Ralph Von Bergen and Arthur Peterson, tied for fourth; Ellis Hutchinson, fifth; Gordon Neurenberger, sixth; Clyde Batie, seventh; Ervin Watson, eighth, and Elmer Young and Russell Hughes, tied for ninth.

Elmer Young copped high honors in the Holstein class, with John Lowenstein in second place. Other winners in the breed included Arthur Peterson, who placed third,

SENATE LIKELY TO SEND BUDGET BACK TO HOUSE

Appropriation Measure May Be Killed To Force Action.

PLAYING GAME OF 'PASSING THE BUCK'

Sentiment For Approving Bill "Just For Spite" Dies Down.

Knocking the general budget bill, H. R. 242, in the head, rather than performing a major surgical operation upon it, was being talked of Saturday afternoon and evening as the best way for the Nebraska senate to deal with it, in order to get the legislative tangle over appropriations straightened out.

Such a move has been under discussion since Friday by several of the republican senators. Their idea is that if the bill embodying the Bryan budget is put to death in the senate and the corpse carried back and laid on the doorstep of the lower house, the latter chamber will then be forced to make some disposition of it.

It is figured out in advance, the house would thereupon have to get busy and formulate some other bill making provision for the maintenance and operation of governmental departments, institutions, and agencies during the next biennial period, or else ask the senate to reconsider its action and return H. R. 242 to the representative wing to be made over.

Either way, the senate would rid itself of the necessity of initiating amendments to the bill in the shape of increases and new items above the recommendations of Governor Bryan.

Proper Function of House.

The chief complaint senators have raised against the bill in its present form is that the house abrogated its constitutional power in favor of Governor Bryan, by passing H. R. 242 without the necessary majority to retain in it those items that the finance commitee had raised above

OPAL MEINEN IS CHAMP SPELLER

Firth Girl Wins Both Written and Oral County Contests.

Marian Marcks, Waverly Is Runner-up in Written Work.

Taking high honors in both oral and written contests, Opal Meinen, 12, of Firth, Saturday afternoon conclusively won the honor of being Lancaster county's champion grade school speller for 1931. To win this recognition, Opal had to outspell sixty other girls and boys, before a crowded room of interested spectators in the county superintendent's office.

Opal, who is in the eighth grade at District 44, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meinen, of Firth. She will represent the county at the state contest to be held in Omaha, April 24.

To Omaha also will go Marian Marcks, 13, Waverly, as runner-up in the county contest by virtue of her winning second place in the written competition. Marian, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Marcks, attends the consolidated school at Waverly, where she is in the eighth grade.

To Intercounty Meet.

The two girls, together with Gertrude Essink, District 27, who won second in the oral contest, and Mildred Hodtwalker, District 49, who was next to Marian in the written contest, will also be taken to Wilber Tuesday by County Superintendent Correll to compete in an intercounty contest there between several of the counties from this section of the state. Opal Meinen, by virtue of her victory Saturday, will be Lancaster county's entrant in the annual state fair contest next fall.

The written contest having been

END OF SESSION MUCH IN DOUBT

Date For Adjournment Uncertain Because of Budget Tangle.

Many Bills Remain On Calendars of House And Senate.

Up at the capitol they have quit guessing on the probable date of final adjournment by the legislature. Things are in such a muddle over the general appropriation bill, H. R. 242, that nobody knows right now how they are going to be untangled. The optimistic forecast on April 1 that the curtain would come down by the 18th or 20th is hardly likely to be fulfilled.

Besides the budget bill, which is the center of controversy, there are also the state officers' salary bill and the claims aid deficiencies bill to be acted upon. The first of these is still in the house finance committee's possession; the second has been approved in committee of the whole and will be passed and sent to the senate early this week.

Bryan Favors Increase.

SIGHT RESTORED TO THREE AGED MEN IN ARIZONA

Western Pioneers Rejoice as They Emerge From Darkness.

TWO BLIND OVER A QUARTER-CENTURY

Operation On the Fourth Is Not As Successful as Others.

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 11—(I.N.S.)—The miracle of surgery today had resored sweet sight to three Arizona pioneers, two of whom had been totally blind more than twenty-five years.

Four pioneers were brought here from the Arizona Pioneers' home near Prescott ten days ago to undergo eye operations.

Abraham H. Porter, 84, regained sight lost in an accident in 1904. "It's good to see again," he said. "I owe you a lot, Doctor."

George D. Hoyer, 87, laughed with glee after surgeons had tenderly removed bandages from eyes that had been sightless for more than a quarter of a century.

Sees Great Change.

"Things have changed a whole lot," he commented.

Stephen A. Tyler, 78, had been blind since 1922. He joined Porter and Hoyer in rejoicing as they emerged from the darkness.

Physicians said cataracts had been removed successfully.

For Harry Brown, 69, the fourth pioneer, there was sorrow.

Surgeons shook their heads in doubt. They said: "He might see again." Bandages were replaced, and Brown tonight lived in hope.

The Good Samaritan hospital said the operating surgeon's name would remain a secret.

INDIAN GLYPHS FOUND IN PARK

To Study Carvings On Rock In VanFleet Tract.

Evidently Made By Aborigines and Have Significance.

The observing eyes of a group of Boy Scouts and of children participating in the sunrise Easter pageant of the Resurrection at Van Fleet park, one mile east of Table Rock, last Sunday have resulted in the discovery of some interesting Indian glyphs which E. E. Blackman curator of the Nebraska State Historical society, plans to study.

Rev. Thomas N. Russell, pastor of the Christian church at Table Rock, promoter of the pageant, came to Lincoln last week to tell Mr. Blackman of the discovery. The latter returned to Table Rock with Rev. Russell, and together with Sydney Carroll and Ralph Cotton, Table Rock merechants, made a careful search of the rocks. They found 12 specimens of Indian carvings, a number of deep scratches, which Mr. Blackman declares have the ap-

PLANE CRASH KILLS TWO

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 11—(INS)—Crashing from a height of 500 feet when the engine of their airplane developed trouble, Dudley Strain, 24, who was piloting the machine, and Dr. Charles H. Cohenour, 27, a dentist, were dead today.

Today's Sermonette

BY REV. G. KELLER RUBRECHT.
(Pastor Grace English Lutheran Church).

GOD'S GUARANTEE BOND.

"What then shall we say to these things? If God be for us, who can be against us? He that spared not His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how shall He not with Him also freely give us all things?" Romans 8:31-32.

"If God be for us"—but is He? Countless millions of disturbed and perplexed souls have asked this question.

Life is a succession of confusing questions. Difficulties confront us everywhere. Priceless possessions are swept away from us, plans miscarry, hopes are shattered, friends disappoint us bitterly, fathers and mothers are called home and innocent little children are left to an unsympathetic world. Misfortune, sickness and disease invade every rank and take their daily toll. "What then shall we say to those things?" Does God really care? Is He for us?

The victory strains of Eastertide are still ringing in our ears. The gloom and disappointment of Good Friday, earth's saddest day, gave way to Easter Day, earth's gladdest day. It has been so always. Sunshine always follows the rain even as spring with its song and beauty and life always emerges from the cold and icy tomb of winter.

Easter was the fulfillment of a promise. All the promises of God are sure. To every trusting child He says "Fear not for I am with thee; be not dismayed, for I am thy God." Can anyone imagine that the Lord God Almighty would send His only begotten Son into the world to suffer the measureless agony of Gethsemane and Calvary and hell itself and not care for those for whom He has done all this?

"He that spared not His own Son, but delivered him up for us all, how shall He not with Him also freely give us all things?" This is God's unimpeachable guarantee bond that His promise will be fulfilled. Can anything be surer?

EAKER IS FORCED DOWN TRYING TO SET SPEED MARK

Lands at Columbus, O., When Motor Trouble Develops.

May Abandon Efforts to Break Hawks' Cross Country Record.

PORT COLUMBUS, O., April 11—(I. N. S.)—Capt. Ira C. Eaker this afternoon definitely abandoned his attempt to break the west-to-east transcontinental airplane speed record after he was forced down here by trouble with the super charger on his motor.

After an inspection of the trouble which forced his plane down, Captain Eaker expressed doubt as to whether or not he would make another attempt at the record of 12 hours and 25 minutes set by Capt. Frank Hawks. Eaker said, however, that had engine trouble not developed over Columbus this afternoon he believed he could have made the distance from Burbank, Cal., to New York in 11 hours and 30 minutes, nearly an hour under record time. He had hopped off from Burbank at 3:39 a. m., (P. C. T.) making a stop at Wichita for gas.

Eaker ordered a new motor in-

NEBRASKA MAN IN CRASH, DIES

Harold Arner of Shelby Struck by Hit-Skip Kentucky Driver.

DAYTON, Ky., April 11—(UP)—Harold Arner, 25, of Shelby, Neb., who was struck by a hit-skip motorist at Silver Grove, near here, died today in a local hospital of a fractured skull.

Arner and Claude McDaniels, 25, of Kansas City, Mo., were walking along the highway last night when an automobile struck the former. Police said they had no clues to the identity of the motorist.

The two young men had been wandering over the country in search of work, according to police.

YOUTH SUFFERS A BROKEN LEG IN MOTORCYCLE CRASH

C. H. Haskell, 22, 400 South Thirtieth street, sustained a fractured right leg when the motorcycle he was riding collided with a car said to have been driven by Floyd Lovitt, 41, 140 North Twenty-eighth street, at Twenty-eighth and O streets, at 10 o'clock Saturday night. Lovitt had pulled his car out from Twenty-eighth to O streets and stopped when Haskell crashed into the side of his car, according to the police report of the accident.

The injured man was attended by Dr. Aaron F. Speier at the Lincoln General hospital, where he was taken in Castle, Roper & Matthews' ambulance. His leg was broken just above the ankle. He also sustained cuts and bruises on the leg. He was later returned to his home.

HOUSE OF COMMONS VOTE OF CENSURE SET FOR THURSDAY

Strong Possibility Labor Government Will Be Defeated With General Election Automatically Following—Charge Election Pledges Dealing With Unemployment Not Fulfilled—Liberals Hold Balance of Power.

LONDON, April 11—(UP)—There is a distinct possibility of Britain's labor government being defeated in the house of commons next Thursday and a general election automatically following.

Parliamentarians have already warned their friends to expect the defeat of government when it is predicted, and this hitherto has held true, but the circumstances are different in this case, owing to two facts.

First, the conservatives have a cleverly drafted vote of censure on the government which many liberals can support.

It charges that the government is not fulfilling its election pledges as regards unemployment and the liberal associations throughout the country are insisting that while they do not desire to see the defeat of the government, they must have measures to alleviate the unemployment situation.

Liberals Antagonized.

Second, the government has antagonized many liberals by not consulting liberal as well as government representatives on committees dealing with thise problem and it will depend on what Prime Minister

GRAF ZEPPELIN IS HOMEWARD BOUND

LONDON, April 11—(INS)—The giant German dirigible Graf Zeppelin was homeward bound to Friedrichshafen, Germany, tonight after a lengthy cruise over Egypt and the Holy Land.

The huge craft, carrying twenty-five passengers in addition to the regular crew, made a brief stop at Cairo early this morning after cruising over northern Egypt during the night, and then proceeded to Jerusalem.

For several hours the ship soared over the ancient hills and temples of Palestine, and then returned to Cairo. The ship did not land on its second visit but continued on to Europe, leaving the Egyptian city at 6:30 p. m. (12:30 p. m., E. S. T.)

Marine Slain In Nicaragua

Captain Pefley Killed Leading Skirmish Against Rebel Band.

WASHINGTON, April 11—(UP)—The navy department was advised by a radio dispatch from Managua, Nicaragua, tonight that Capt. Harlen Pefley, 36, of the marine corps was killed today while leading a Nicaraguan guardia nacionale patrol in a skirmish with about fifty bandits.

The report said the engagement took place in Logtown, in northeastern Nicaragua. An enlisted man, whose name was not learned, was reported badly wounded.

Captain Pefley's home was in Idaho. He entered the marine corps in 1917.

LINCOLN'S JUNIOR CHAMBER TO BE ON NATIONAL AIR NET

When junior chambers of commerce throughout the nation broadcast programs over local radio stations this week, the Lincoln junior division will present a 15 minute broadcast over station KFAB.

The broadcast will be on the air Friday evening from 6:45 to 7 o'clock, featuring a talk by H. F. McCulla, formerly national president of the junior chamber, and musical selections by the junior division male quartet.

ASK COMPROMISE STRELOW CLAIMS

Administrator Seeking Approval Settlement On Legal Services.

As administrator of the estate of Charles Strelow, the First Trust Co. of Lincoln filed a petition in county court late Saturday asking the court to approve a compromse settlement effected between the administrator and certan claimants against the estate.

The petition asks that O. B. Clark be allowed $1,000 for legal services rendered Strelow prior to his death on January 21, 1926. Clark had asked $4,700 in his claim against the estate. The petition also asks that W. B. Comstock be allowed $1,141.05 for presenting in court the claims of the Schultz brothers of Martel to property owned by Strelow. The Schultz claim was based on a will signed by Strelow a few days before his death which was thrown out by the court as invalid and obtained at a time when the dying man was incompetent to transact such business.

It is also asked that the court find that the claim for $2,410.06 presented by A. E. Sutherland as Lancaster county treasurer, for taxes on Strelow's personal property from 1915 to 1924 is "without merit" and that the claim be disallowed.

As Rogers Sees It

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, April 11—Flew in here by Pan-American today. We was wakened exactly at the same time this morning by another shake in Managua. Now I am a prophet among the marines, as I said they would use them for reveille.

Tomorrow this beautiful little country celebrates a national victory over the United States. Now I know how an Englishman feels in our country on the Fourth of July.

Our calamities come in bunches, now Nick is dead. Washington won't seem the same to me, I used to go straight for his office and make it my headquarters at the capitol all day. We would get Jack Garner (who loved Nick) and then I would, between the two, get the real "lowdown" on what the government was not doing. I have been told many times by many democrats that he was the most able and most popular man in congress.

Why is it a bum politician never dies?

Yours, WILL.

N. Y. HOST TO JAPAN ROYALTY

Prince and Princess are Amazed by Gotham Skyscrapers.

Pair Tired Out After Strenuous Social Rounds.

NEW YORK, April 11—(INS)—Prince Takamatsu and his bride, Princess Kikukon of Japan, swung around the social circuit today in good American go-getting fashion. They were a couple of tired youngsters when New York got through with them tonight.

Shrieking police sirens shot the imperial bridal couple through the crowds which lined their passage from point to point.

The festivities included a trip to the museum of art where both were much interested in the oriental section; a ceremony at city hall where democracy dressed up in regal splendour to bestow the city's greeting upon the royal visitors; a visit to the studios of the National Broadcasting company in which the prince tinkered with the gadgets which go to make a sound go round the world; a ride up to the top of the Chrysler building where they gazed wide-eyed at the skyline; and a swanky luncheon and dinner attended by important persons.

The cherry-blossom princess kept smiling through it all.

Prince Imperturbable.

Her consort was more imperturbable facially, but appeared to enjoy it. However, there were many things he didn't quite understand—such as the action of photographers "shooting" at him and his bride in the broadcasting studio while a beautiful symphony was being played and why people laughed when Mayor J. J. Walker (who is officially charged with office inefficiency) should advise them not to take up politics as a vocation or an avocation.

The women in the crowds when they saw the dainty, 19 year old "smiling princess" from Nippon, kept exclaiming:

"Isn't she the cutest thing."

She knew the western business of dressing up.

His highness crashed Oriental tradition by making two personal speeches during the day—one at city hall and the other at the luncheon in honor of the bridal couple. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, presided at both occasions.

The prince spoke of the amazement that he and his bride were feeling at the hospitality of Americans and the wonders of the skyscraper city which they were seeing for the first time.

KING GEORGE IMPROVES.

WINDSOR, Eng., April 11—(UP)—King George, who has been suffering from bronchitis, is "improving slowly," but his fight against the disease is progressing, an official announcement said tonight.

Heiresses of U. S. Offer Hearts and Golf to Wales

LONDON, April 11—(INS)—The Prince of Wales still retains a strong hold on his role as prince charming for scores of wealthy American society girls, the Sunday Express will declare in its issue tomorrow.

The newspaper reveals that almost countless letters addressed to the world's most eligible bachelor during his tour of South America, and forwarded to London for examination, proved to be proposals of marriage. Scores of these, it was stated, were from American heiresses and society girls who offered their hearts and hands to the prince.

One letter stated the writer would bring with her a dowry of $1,250,000 in event the Prince of Wales looked kindly upon her proposal of marriage.

Feminine Leads in Kosmet Show

Byron "Bud" Bailey, left, will take the feminine lead role in the University of Nebraska Kosmet Klub's annual all male production "High and Dry" which will play in Lincoln May 1 and 2 during the traditional activities at that time, and in Hastings on April 20. Bailey takes the part of Jane, heroine of the story, which was written by William T. McCleery, senior journalism student from Blue Hill. Stanley W. Kiger, right, will take the part of the mother of Jane, in the production. Bailey is of Lincoln and Kiger of Omaha.

DETROIT AIRCRAFT EXHIBIT IS OPENED

Plane Ranging in Price From $50,000 to $975 On Display At Detroit.

DETROIT, April 11—(U. P.)—What the man of the street and the millionaire will fly this year was shown tonight when the national aircraft show was opened at city airport.

Giant liners which sell for $50,000 were ranged side by side with tiny craft which seemed lost beside them. The small ones, some weighing less than a motorcycle, sell for the price of a medium range automobile. The cheapest priced plane of the eighty three on display sells for $975.

Air notables of the country were on hand when the gates swung open and thousands flocked into the mammoth hangar to view the greatest display of aircraft ever assembled. The overflow of exhibits was housed in an adjacent circus tent.

Development of the small type plane, at a price to appeal to the individual of moderate means, was equalled only by the steps manufacturers of the big liners had taken to add refinements to their products.

Huge craft, seating a dozen or more, were equipped as finely as any Pullman, with outside jobs that equalled the interior decorations. Two tone leather seats were common, while old rose window drapes matched the plush of the seats in others. One liner's cabin boasted seats for eleven, inset card tables, plush covered footstools, a writing room, a dressing room and a kitchen cabinet complete down to the ice chest.

Rumor of Attempt to Bomb Hoover While in Cincinnati Said Fake

CINCINNATI, O., April 11—(INS)—"That is a fake, pure and simple!"

This was the answer of Theodore Joslin, secretary to President Hoover, todaq to reports that an attempt to bomb the chief executive had been uncovered in Cincinnati.

It had been reported that a piece of pipe found in the station here where the president arrived to attend the funeral services of NicholasLongworth, for six years speaker of the house of representatives, might have been part of an infernal machine.

"The secret serveice has investigated this report," Joslin asserted, "and they and Chief of Police Copeland of Cincinnati say it is a fake."

Dick Jervis of the secret service said that the chief of police had investigated the rumor and found no object of any kind in the station.

AUTO RUNS 59 MILES ON GALLON OF GAS

Automobile engineers who worked for years in an effort to reduce gasoline consumption have found the solution in a marvelous invention that fits all cars. An actual test made by one of the engineers showed 59 miles on a gallon of gas. Thousands of car owners have already installed this new invention. They find quicker pick-up, instant starting, smoother running motors and more power. The Whirlwind Mfg. Co., Dept.24-S Station C, Milwaukee, Wisc., for a limited time is offering a free device to those who will help introduce it. They also need men everywhere to make up to $100 weekly in their own territory taking care of local business. Write them at once for free sample and big money making offer.

POWELL CHOSEN BY SUGAR GROUP

American Asked to Head International Council At The Hague.

PARIS, April 11—(U. P.)—Francis E. Powell, an American, chosen because he has no personal interest in the sugar business and because the position requires a man of utmost integrity, was asked to accept the chairmanship of the permanent international sugar council, with headquarters at The Hague, it was announced tonight.

At the conclusion of the conference, in which Thomas L. Chadbourne, representing Cuba, won his fight for regulation of output and sale of sugar throughout the world, it was decided that the year round headquarters of the permanent commission should be at The Hague.

Selection of Powell to head this commission was made without knowledge as to whether he will accept. He is now chairman of the board of directors of the Anglo-American Oil Co. He has been in London the past twenty-five years and is one of the most prominent Americans in European business circles.

The sugar pact, supported by seven governments, is the first far reaching agreement ever made to regulate the industry. It arbitrarily fixes the price of sugar for a five-year period, under a plan for limiting production and exports.

STUDENT LOSES THUMB.

ALLIANCE, Neb., April 11—Harold Glarum, seventeen, student at local high school, is recovering from injuries received when his hand became caught in planer while he was working in mannual training class of the school. His thumb was amputated and his right hand was cut and bruised.

Dies After Waiting 71 Years in Vain for Her Soldier Lover's Return

FRIONA, Tex., April 11—(U.P.)—Death today had ended the 71-year vigil of Carrie Dewitt, evangeline of the Confederacy, for the soldier sweetheart who never came back.

When her fiance marched away to the Civil war, Carrie, then a belle of 17 years, promised to wait for his return. He was never heard from again, but Carrie waited 71 years until her death.

Her request that she be buried in the wedding dress which she made in 1860 but never used was followed by those in charge of her funeral here.

During the last years of her life she was a cheerful old lady known as "Aunt Carrie" and only tho > of her own generation knew of the tragedy of her youth and never forgotten promise.

The memory of these was so hazy today that they could not agree on the name of the soldier, much less his fate.

Some believed that the death of the soldier had been definitely established and the news kept from his sweetheart. Others said that he had never been heard from after marching to war.

Miss Dewitt was 88 at her death.

Uncle Sam Seizes Tickets On Derby

NEW YORK, April 11—(INS)—One million tickets on the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes were today seized by customs agents searching the baggage of D. Fish, first class passenger on the Aquitania. The tickets were printed to sell at 10 shillings or $2.50 each and were for a capital prize of $500,000 on the winner of the English Derby at Epsom Downs June 3.

GRIFFITH SAYS DID NOT SHOOT

Omaha Boy Under Arrest In California Denies Killing.

STOCKTON, Cal., April 11—(INS)—Maintaining a sullen silence, William Griffith, 17-year-old Omaha high school student, arrested here for the murder of an Omaha policeman during an oil station robbery, today refused to talk to relatives who came to visit him or to police.

The boy was visited in jail by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Riecks, at whose home he was arrested, and by an aunt and uncle, who also live in Stockton.

He grew more taciturn as the realization of the possible fate which faces him when he is returned to Nebraska grew more apparent, according to Captain of Detectives Frank H. Fredericks of the Stockton police force.

"I've said enough," he was reported as saying to Captain Fredericks when the inspector attempted to question him further today.

"I guess I'm going to get what I deserve when I get back there. But I didn't do the shooting. It was Eddie Jedlicka that did that."

"I've got a clear conscience. I didn't try to cover up my tracks," the boy declared to Fredericks.

"When school was over I bought a ticket and came out to see my grandmother on a vacation trip. I wasn't trying to hide anything."

MRS. RYDER DIES

HAVANA, Apr. 11—(INS)—Mrs. Jeanette Ryder, formerly of Wisconsin, social and welfare worker generally creditewd with ending bullfighting in Cuba, died at her home here today at the age of 65. Mrs. Ryder was the founder of the Band of Mercy of Cuba and established the first hospital ever opened on the island. She organized the sanitation system now used in Havana.

AMERICAN HOME

Safeguards Your Investment In Building & Loan.

No other form of investment can offer you greater security. Men and women work and save for an entire lifetime with only one aim in view, that of creating and insuring a home for themselves and their children. No other word brings to mind the happy memories of childhood that home does. The home, since the beginning of time, has survived all obstacles and will continue to do so until the end of time.

Ninety per cent of all loans made by building and loan companies are loans on homes, the most sacred institution of American civilization.

The business of a building and loan association is solely that of receiving money for investment and loaning this money to their members on notes secured by first mortgages on improved real estate security, which security consists almost entirely of homes occupied by the borrowers. Each month they collect from the borrower the interest and a payment to apply upon the unpaid balance of their notes. Twice a year, in January and July, building and loans disburse the earnings of the associations to their members, both borrowers and investors, in the form of a semi-annual dividend. They encourage thrift and saving, teach economy, and add to the general prosperity, wealth and happiness of every community they serve.

The aim and purpose of a building and loan association is to aid and encourage its members to learn and practice thrift by regular systematic savings, and to provide ways and means by which every family may procure a home.

Do you know that 85% of the home owners in Lincoln who have built their homes in the last ten years, financed them through building and loan associations.

STOCKS STILL ON DOWNGRADE

Weakness in Rail Shares Conspicuous During The Past Week.

Industrial and Utility Groups Stubborn in Giving Ground.

BY THEODORE KOSLOW.

NEW YORK, April 11—(I. N. S.)—The situation in trade and industry displays cross currents of a conflicting character, with the cumulative evidence of the past week's reports pointing to further hesitation in general business before any fresh upswing can be expected to get under way.

The stock market has sensed this change, and while better resistance to selling has been encountered throughout the past week, nevertheless prices have continued in a down trend, with but momentary interruptions. Weakness has been most conspicuous in the rail group, in which losses of substantial proportions have been sustained, particularly in such prime investment favorites as Atchison and Union Pacific, which have been in the van of the general retreat.

Contrary to expectations of the bear faction, however, the industrial and utility groups have refused to follow the lead of the carrier list, and have given way but stubbornly. Of courshe there have been exceptions to this rule where unexpectedly unfavorable earnings reports have come to hand, as illustrated by the abrupt declines in Westinghouse Electric and Johns Manville, but in the main the ranking pivotal leaders have performed in creditable manner. The market as a whole, as measured by the Standard Statistics index of ninety composite stocks has shown a net decline of less than 2 points in the week, while the loss in the rail group alone has totaled 3 points, with this average establishing a new low for the year during this period.

Bond Market Weak.

The action of the bond market is not such as to impart any fresh enthusiasm for the bullish contingent. It is customary in the final stages of a bear market for the bond section to begin to display quiet firmness, thus giving the signal to the junior market that the early stages of an advancing trend are not far off. The persistent weakness of bonds in recent days, with particular softness in the rail securities, may signify a further delay in hoped for improvement in the stock market.

The outstanding constructive development in the rather unpleasant business tidings of the past week has been the sharp expansion in building contracts. According to the F. W. Dodge corporation, the average daily value of contracts in March, at $14,246,388, represented an increase of 33.2 per cent over the daily rate in February, against a normal seasonal increase of 24.2 per cent. The more than seasonal increase of the March daily average, following a proportionately extra-seasonal rise of the daily rate in February, is a particularly encouraging feature.

The steel industry continues to show a disappointing absence of follow-up orders, such as characterized its recent upturn from the low levels of January.

Ingot Production Less.

Another decrease in ingot production has been reported in the past week, with the industry as a whole now operating at 53 per cent of capacity, as against 55 per cent in the previous week. Steel prices are more or less uncertain in tone, thus making the prospect for satisfactory earnings by leading makers a not very encouraging prospect. The United States Steel unfilled tonnage report for March showed an increase of 30,136 tons, which was somewhat less than expected, but it is reported that several of its important orders recently received were not included in this total.

The continued decline in the index of wholesale commodity prices, as compiled by The Annalist, is another of the increasing quota of adverse items to come to attention. While the loss was but fractional, it has carried the averages to the lowest point since 1914 and according to this authority the downward sweep since July, 1929, when the index stood at 151, to its present level at 107.7, has been one of the steepest in the history of commodity prices.

Electric power output shows a tendency to improve, but operations in the automobile industry, and the current level of freight carloadings, do not appear to promise much at the moment for a rapid return to normalcy.

Wheat Shows Strength.

CHICAGO, April 11 — (INS) — Wheat futures displayed considerable strength during trading on the Chicago board of trade today.

Trade was only moderate, but prices advanced to the best levels on the recent upturn. Pressure generally was limited in view of firmness in outside markets and continued dry conditions over the sprig wheat area of this country and Canada. The best levels of the day, however, were not maintained as near the close some week-end profit-taking sales developed.

Corn was erratic during the session with a slow outside demand noted. Oats held steady most of the day while rye was firmer.

Closing prices for wheat were ⅛ to ¾c higher; corn and oats ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher and rye ⅝ to ¾ cup.

The Liverpool wheat market closed ⅜ to ½d higher; Buenos Aires ⅝c up and Winnipeg 1⅛ to 1¼c better.

The Canadian bureau of statistics estimated wheat supplies in all positions in Canada as of March 31 at 275,000,000 bushels against 229,000,000 bushels last yaer.

Export business in domestic wheat was reported slow, but Canadian sales have increased recently.

Compared with a week ago prices for wheat in the Chicago market were ⅛c lower to ¼c higher; corn ⅝ to 1¾c down; oats ½ to ¾c lower and rye ⅛c up to ¼c down.

A rather steady undertone dominated the wheat trade the past week, in the face of bearish advices. The market seems to be reflecting pit conditions rather than the situation and news.

Resistance Shown.

The general feeling among pit operators stressed the point that prices are as low as they should go and accounts for the stiffening of buying resistance on the setbacks. This resistance was especially in evidence on Friday following the government report on the April 1 condition of winter wheat. The report issued on Thursday placed condition at 88.8 and estimated the crop at 644,000 bushels.

Heavy selling followed on the heels of the report, but prices did not decline very much before the shorts started to cover. The action of the market reversed itself and made the best closing on Friday than in a long time.

Crop news was closely watched. The general condition of winter wheat is fine. Conditions in the northwest and Canada, however, continued dry. The mild winter has given rise to the belief that the insect pest damage may be greater than usual.

Corn showed new lows for the season during the week as tired longs liquidated their holdings induced by the prospects of a larger acreage and a realization that corn prices are comparatively high compared with wheat.

Receipts were lighter and stocks showed a slight falling off, but the absence of important shipping demand checked the speculative interest. Weather conditions over the belt were generally favorable and farm work is reported to be two or three weeks early.

Oats generally followed corn. Rye was firm most of the week with a narrow trade.

Cattle Market Bearish.

CHICAGO, April 11—(INS) —Increased marketings and poor outlet for dressed beef exerted a bearish influence on the cattle market here this week.

The general market for steers was 25 to 50c lower than a week ago. Early in the week a top of $10.75 was recorded, but not many steers passed the $10 mark. The bulk of the week's business ranged from $7.50 to $9.50.

Cows and heifers sold off as much as steers, although the proportion of she stock was not large. Cows brought $4.25 to $6.50 and the bulk of heifers $6 to $8. Calves declined 50c with the week's supply 15,000, the largest of the season. Top hovered around $8.50.

Hogs dived 10 to 15c for the week although receipts were sharply curtailed. A break of $1 to $1.50 in dressed pork products more than offset the small run of 112,181 which compared with 132,000 last week and 114,000 a year ago. Extreme high for hogs this week was $8.25. The best price today was $8.00 with most of the light and medium weights at $7.60 to $7.90. Heavy grades held around $7.45.

A much better demand was noted for old crop wooled lambs this week, due to a broader demand for mutton products. Prices advanced 50c with top up to $10. The highest since last August. Ewes were steady. Native spring lambs were numerous and many had to sell sharply lower at $10 to $14.

The cattle supply for the week was 39,000 against 32,000 last week and 36,000 a year ago. Sheep receipts for the week totaled 80,000 head, compared with 86,000 last week and 59,000 a year ago.

Chicago Cotton Lower.

CHICAGO, April 11—(INS)—Cotton prices closed the week 16 to 20 points lower after pointing downward during most of the period under review.

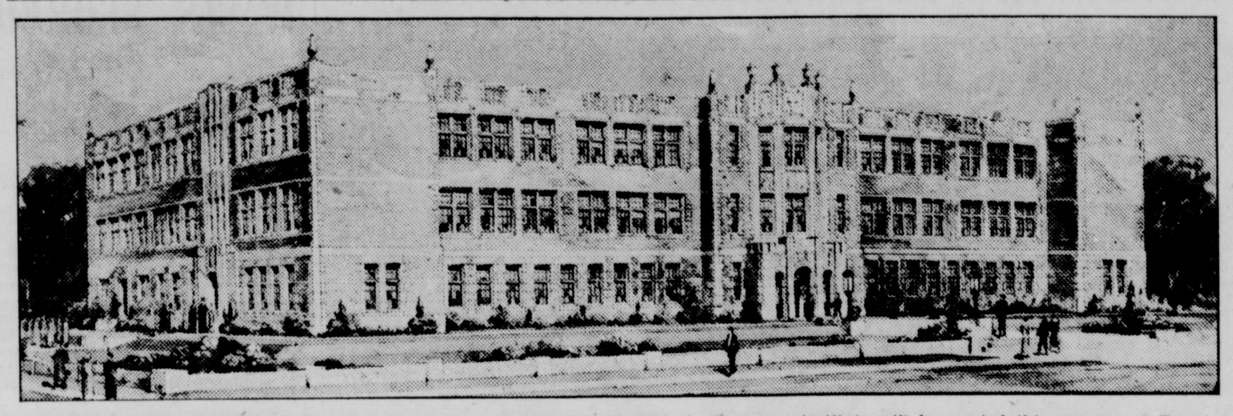

New lows for the season were established late in the week. The market showed a loss of almost $7.50 per bale at the low point compared with the high last March.

Heavy liquidation by tired longs featured the week's trade. Some support developed on the extreme breaks, but the general trade continues inactive, with the chief attention focused on the acreage and weather news.

Final prices today were 13 to 17 points higher, with short covering and scattered commission house buying.

May cotton futures closed at $10.40: July, $10.64; Oct., $10.96; Dec., $11.18 and January $11.28.

NEW $300,000 CATHOLIC SCHOOL TO BE ERECTED IN LINCOLN

Providing school facilities for 500 Catholic grade and high school students, Bonacum institute will be erected this summer at Twenty-second and G streets. The $300,000 school plant will stand also as a memorial to Bishop Thomas Bonacum, the first Catholic bishop in Lincoln, who served the diocese from 1887 until 1911. The building will be 216 feet by 197 feet, facing the state capitol. The new structure is to comprise four units; a central high school for the Catholics of Lincoln; a Cathedral parish elementary school; a gymnasium and auditorium, and the chancery offices of the diocese of Lincoln. Announcement of the sale of the G street property to the Catholic bishop of Lincoln by Frey and Frey, was made last week. Msgr. P. L. O'Loughlin, commenting upon the construction of the new plant, stated that it was being undertaken at this time primarily to help the unemployment situation.

Y. W. CAMPAIGN IS NEAR GOAL

Subscriptions for New Building Now Total $190,157.

With less than ten thousand dollars to go, the Y. W. C. A. building fund campaign is nearing a close. After an Easter recess the workers met for luncheon Friday to report a total subscription to date of $190,157.58. This is an increase of $4,271 over the last amount reported.

Mrs. Herbert Brownell presided over the business meeting following the luncheon. After the team reports had been given, R. E. Campbell congratulated the members for accomplishing what most business men in the city said could not be done. It was done under the most difficult conditions that could be imagined, he said, and they did it alone. The association stands for the very highest development of young womanhood, which appeals to all, he declared. "This feat is a tribute to your own hard work and to your organization," Mr. Campbell concluded.

E. N. Van Horne also spoke briefly to those present. He said that from an economic standpoint raising such a sum of money was a big thing.

Rev. Victor West of the Elm Park Methodist church gave the invocation and benediction.

ATTACK IS MADE ON HOOVER RULE

Walsh Says Democrats Can Win Presidency On Economic Issues.

Asserts Confidence of People Shaken in Republican Party.

NEW YORK, April 11—(I. N. S.)—Flailing the Hoover administration for unemployment, economic distress, the stock market debacle and agricultural depression, Senator David I. Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, tonight told the Democratic National club at a Jefferson day dinner that the democratic party can win the presidency in 1932 if it concentrates on economic issues.

Walsh declared the nation was ready to elect a democratic president but insisted the contest should be fought upon the record of the Hoover administration. He mentioned the prohibition issue, branding it a failure and declaring in favor of a modified Raskob plan for application of the Jefferson doctrine of state's rights to regulation of the liquor traffic.

Predicts Better Times.

A tumultuous gathering of eastern democrats heard Walsh review the record of the Hoover administration. He predicted "better times ahead," but charged the administration was "face to face with a grave crisis in government."

The administration's recent admissions of 6,000,000 unemployed and a $700,000,000 treasury deficit, said Walsh, along with its abandonment of the farm board's wheat buying policy, have shaken the confidence of the people in the republican party. With unemployment a "tragic problem," the treasury facing a possible deficit of $2,000,000,000 within another year, foreign imports declining and farm prices still falling, Walsh declared the democrats had a "golden opportunity" for victory in 1932.

Prosperity Myth Exploded.

"Conditions beyond the president's control have exploded the myth that prosperity is an inevitable concomitant of republican rule," said Walsh. Then, after referring to administration explanations of bad times, Walsh added: "During the time the unsound speculation and extensive inflation in finance, the pyramiding of wealth and the recapitalization of industry were going on since the World war, not a hand nor a voice was raised in protest of restraint by those to whom the people had a right to look for preventive measures against an inescapable economic cataclysm.

"Indeed, the party in control of the administration in Washington in election after election pointed to these conditions as evidence of real prosperity and guaranteed that this prosperity, which we now know was based on false standard, was destructive of the public welfare and was a breeder of contempt by government, would be maintained indefinitely if the people continued to entrust the republican party with control of the government."

Plans For Farmers Fair Progressing

Many Special Attractions Are Being Prepared for Event On May 1.

With Farmer's Fair but three weeks away much interest is being shown in the annual student event, according to Myrle White, fair manager. The 1931 fair comes on Saturday, May 2, on the agricultural college campus.

Committee selections involving every student in the agricultural college were announced recently and practically all of the groups have held their initial meetings, White said. The senior fair board composed of Niesje Lakeman, Elizabeth Williams, Esther Boyer, Emory Gahrney, Don Facka, and White announced today that more attention will be paid educational exhibits this year.

Change Policy.

Charges of commercialism have influenced the fair board in stressing exhibits this year. More space and time will be devoted to them. The games of chance on the midway will not be open until evening while the refreshment stands on the ground will be going all day.

As usual the big fair parade probably will take place on Saturday morning. The line of March probably will be down O street. Floats used in the parade will then be on exhibit on the ag campus throughout the day. In previous years the streets of Lincoln have been lined to get a glimpse of the parades put on by the college of agriculture students.

The inter-sorority riding contest is attracting much attention of students in theu niversity. Fred Grau has charge of the event. A polo game between two crack army teams is another feature being planned. The col-agri-fun, dances, horse pulling contest and exhibits will help attract a large crowd to the campus, Manager White asserted.

Stepson Weds His Own Stepmother

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11—(I. N. S.)—A stepson became the husband of his own stepmother in a ceremony at the Swedenborgian church here today when Mrs. Florence Ober Adams, af Palo Alto, 39, became the bride of Sidney Francis Adams, 36, Colorado mining engineer.

Mrs. Adams is the widow of Dr. E. D. Adams, former head of the history department at Stanford university, who died last September. Dr. Adams was 64 at the time of his death.

Mrs. Adams graduated from Stanford in 1913 and her stepson-husband in 1917.

In marrying his stepmother, Adams becomes the stepfather of his father's three young children.

In commenting on h's marriage to his father's widow, Adams declared that while it might seem very strange to outsiders, it was not strange to himself nor his bride.

"We truly love each other," he declared. "We found it out after my father died and we could see no reason why our love should not take its natural course."

HOOVER RETURNS TO WASHINGTON

People Gather Along the Route, But President Makes No Speeches.

ABOARD HOOVER TRAIN ENROUTE TO WASHINGTON, April 11—(I.N.S.)—The special train carrying President and Mrs. Hoover back to Washington from the funeral of Speaker Nicholas Longworth at Cincinnati climbed into the West Virginia mountains tonight, scheduled to bring the party into Washington at 7 o'clock Sunday morning.

The trip was one of mourning and rest. The president had in his immediate party Secretaries Joslin and Newton, Postmaster General Brown and Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, but it was said he put aside work because of the nature of his mission.

Many groups gathered along the route on the return trip but the president attempted no speeches. During his rides through Cincinnati streets to the Longworth home and again to the cemetery he was seen by scores of thousands who lined the streets.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hoover stood on the back platform. Just before the train left Winton Place, the station in Cincinnati, they responded to requests to lean over the side of the railing so that the crowds might see them.

Mrs. Hoover Throws Kiss.

The president smiled and Mrs. Hoover blew a kiss to a child in arms and he waved his hand when a proud father pressed two sons forward, saying "This is young America."

At Chillicothe, O., and at Athens, O., crowds greeted the president. In the former city he freely autographed cards for young people, who passed them to him on the rear platform. Virginia Francis, 13, was the first.

"Where's Mrs. Hoover?" asked a woman in the crowd.

"I'm sorry, she's sleeping," said the president.

"We'd love to see her," the woman said, and just before the train pulled out Mrs. Hoover emerged to the platform. She was loudly applauded.

HALF SECTION IN GAGE COUNTY SOLD FOR $100 AN ACRE

Sale of a half section of land in Gage county at a consideration of $100 an acre was announced Saturday by the Christian & Paap Realty Co.

The company also reported the sale of an acreage near Sheridan boulevard on South Forty-eighth street.

Chicago Boy, 3, Was Right; He Swallowed A Cermak Button

CHICAGO, April 11—(UP)—In the excitement that followed last Tuesday's mayorality election, Jackie Craddich, 3, swallowed a campagn button.

Jackie, who doesn't talk plainly yet, insisted it was a "Big Bill" Thompson button.

His father, a Thompson supporter, said Jackie had swallowed the button in chagrin because "Big Bill" was defeated so decisively.

Mrs. Craddich, who voted for Anton J. Cermak, was just as certain the badge was a Cermak one.

"Why should even a child have a Thompson button?" she asked.

The surgeons decided Jackie's politics today when they removed the badge from his stomach.

It read: "Cermak for Mayor."

WOMEN CALLED ON TO SUPPORT DRY CANDIDATE

Feminine Group Urges Hoover to Lead Prohibition Movement.

Drastic Enforcement Program Outlined at Washington Meeting.

WASHINGTON, April 11—(INS)—Plunging into the political arena with all the enthusiasm of veteran politicians, the women's national committee for law enforcement today appealed to President Hoover to lead the prohibition movement, and called on women generally to vote for a dry candidate for president in 1932, regardless of party lines.

The women, meeting in solemn convention, first submitted a report to the president, calling for strict enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment and opposing all forms of modification. The report, presented by Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, militant dry, of Florida, declared an affiliation of women's organizations, totaling 12,000,000 of the "weaker sex" were ready to enter politics on the dry side of prohibition in the next campaign.

After that members of the committee discussed current political and social problems, featuring many startling recommendations. Among other things, the speakers approved the Wickersham commission's report, condemned judicial leniency toward prohibition offenders, demanded legal punishment of the buyer of illicit liquor, urged censorship of wet scenes in the movies, encouraged development of athletics among children, appealed to parents to stop drinking and criticised male leadership of the nation.

Fire Interrupts Session.

There was an abrupt adjournment of the session when fire started in a benthouse adjoining the hotel room in which the women were meeting. Firemen, making no mention of the numerous speeches, blamed the blaze on accumulated grease in a smokestack.

The appeal to President Hoover to lead the dry movement was made by Mrs. J. C. Urquhart of Los Angeles, while Mrs. Clement L. Shaver, wife of a former democratic national chairman, appealed to women to suport a dry nominee in 1932. She declared talk of a third party was futile, since it was certain to lose.

"Unquestionably, the course for drys to pursue, irrespective of party affiliations, is to vote for the dry candidate as in 1928—for the greatest protagonist of prohibition," said Mrs. Shaver. "Of supreme importance, greater than that of a third party, is that women in both parties thus stand and vote together in perfect unison and so win the victory."

Half of Voting Power.

To this, Mrs. Urquhart added: "We further need to remember at all times that we are half the voting power of this country. We must look beyond partisan politics, keeping always in mind the great cause we serve and vote unitedly."

A threat to the democrats was voiced by Mrs. J. O. Ross, temperance leader of Houston, Tex. She warned that Texas would vote for a republican dry in 1932 just as in 1928 if the democrats nominated a wet for president.

The criticism of male leadership came from Mrs. Edna G. Fuller, a Florida legislator. She said: "The great and challenging program (of the drys) demands men and means proportionate to the task—and that we have not yet had so far."

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, noted suffragist leader in the days of the battle for the Nineteenth amendment, voiced the endorsement of the Wickersham report. She said the commission had voiced a policy, "taken from the W. C. T. U.," of "observance and enforcement—not repeal." She approved the Eighteenth amendment as the best liquor law she had observed anywhere in the world.

LONGWORTH HONORED.

CHICAGO, April 11—(INS)—Trading on the Chicago board of trade was suspended for one minute shortly before noon today as the members and employes listened to "Taps," played by a bugler in memory of Nicholas Lnogworth.

Reports of Prospective Marriage of Simms and Mrs. McCormick Revived

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., April 11—(I.N.S.)—Reports of the prospective marriage of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick and former Congressman A. G. Simms of New Mexico were revived here today when the couple was seen at breakfast together at the Broadmoor hotel.

Later in the day they took a mountain automobile trip, carrying a picnic lunch with them.

According to the hotel management, Mrs. McCormick has announced she plans to leave here Tuesday for Cincinnati to be with Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, a close friend.

"I have no information to indicate a wedding is being contemplated," Ed Burke, manager of the hotel, said.

Mrs. McCormick came here early this week after a ten-day trip to Mexico. She was accompanied by her son, Medill, 12, who attends school near here.

Prior to her Mexican trip, she spent several days in Albuquerque, N. M., as the guest of Mrs. William Eels, sister of Congressman Simms.

Kansas City Alarmed By Increase in Deaths From Motor Accidents

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 11—(U. P.)—Traffic laws, providing no maximum speed except that compatible with safety, have been unsuccessful, civic leaders here agreed tonight as, alarmed by an almost doubled auto death rate, they took steps for the return of standard ordinances setting definite limits.

The death of a 12-year-old boy beneath the wheels of a motor car last night furnished the most recent impetus to the drive for a return of laws curbing fast and reckless driving. But other auto deaths have occurred with amazing frequency, bringing the total since January 1 to thirty-five, as compared to twenty in the corresponding period last year, when a 25-mile limit prevailed.

The present traffic ordinances were adopted after an intensive study of conditions here by Dr. Miller McClintock, nationally known authority on such measures. They replaced a set of laws which citizens and lawmakers alike had come to regrad as outworn.

Lloyd George Says Palestine Mandate Must Be Carried Out

LONDON, April 11—(I. N. S.)—David Lloyd George, the grand old man of British politics, speaking before the Zionist federation of Great Britain tonight, declared that the Palestine mandate, recently promulgated, must be carried out in its entirety.

"The Jews going to Palestine," said the leader of the liberal party, "are enriched by contact with ever national civilization on earth.

"We are entitled to expect great things from such an experiment, not for Palestine alone but for the whole world."

Heard in U. S.

NEW YORK, April 11—(I. N. S.)—The voice of David Lloyd George, along with those of other speakers at the Palestine dinner in London tonight, was heard in the United States in an international broadcast over the National Broadcasting hookup.

Miss Robbins Talks On Trip to Europe

"Our Inspiration from Years in Europe" was the subject of a talk by Edith Lucille Robbins before the Organists guild at the Lincoln chamber of commerce Saturday noon. Her talk was illustrated with photographs and are treasures she has collected while in Europe.

FLIERS HONORED.

BUCHAREST, April 11—(INS)—Six prominent airmen, including Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, today were appointed commanders of the Roumanian order for air traffic accomplishment by King Carol II.

The others honored were Dr. Hugo Eckener, skipper of the Graf Zeppelin, General Italo Balbo, Italian air minister, and the French trans-Atlantic fliers, Captain Dieudonne Costes and Maurice Bellonte.

SPOTLIGHT ON BIG RUM PLOT

Quebec Investigation May Reach American Smuggling Rings.

QUEBEC, April 11—(UP)—Quebec provice's first major rum running investigation will get under way Tuesday with promises of sensational disclosures that may reach rum running rings now operating in the United States.

This investigation is the result of the arrest of eight men charged with conspiracy to defraud the dominion government as well as the provincial government. It involves annual smuggling of at least 500,000 gallons—2,500,000 "fifths" or short quarts—a large part of which reaches the states by devious routes.

The operations of the groups facing hearings next week are said to extend over a period of three years. Nearly all witnesses in the case are themselves "independent operators" who are granted immunity and protection by the government, hence may offer testimony that will prove highly colorful evidence of the methods used in handling contraband liquor.

New Yorkers May Be Called.

Two New Yorkers, engaged in liquor bootlegging near the Quebec area—where hockey teams from Boston, Springfield, Philadelphia, New Haven and Providence played a few winters back—may be called for testimony.

Oscar Gagnon, Montreal attorney, who started the investigation, was reported to be in New York this week to contact the two men whose testimony may be used.

Many ways and means adopted by smugglers to get liquor into Quebec for sale here below prices listed in the government stores and to get liquor from any Canadian point into the states.

Most of the liquor is smuggled in from St. Pierre and Miquelon off the dominion maratime province coast. It costs little there, is loaded onto small, shallow draught, but speedy vessels from larger "mother ships," which stay anchored off the three-mile limit until disposal of their huge cargoes.

Huge Still Raided In North Missouri

BROOKFIELD, Mo., April 11—(U.P.)—Federal prohibition agents today raided what is believed to be the largest still ever discovered in north Missouri. The federal agents were aided by Macon and Linn county officers.

The still, with a capacity of 300 gallons, was found in a barn on the Alex Clark farm, four miles west of here. Officers also found 300 gallons of alcohol and 15,000 gallons of mash.

A vat containing the mash was dynamited and all the other property seized.

Charles Bianchi, Macon, Mo., was arrested and held for investigation. Alex Clark, who was in charge of the still at the time of the rail also was arrested.

Washington Portrait, Worth About $100,000, Is Found In El Paso

EL PASO, Tex., April 11—(U.P.)—A portrait of George Washington, its value unknown during the 125 years it has been in the family of Dr. Paul McChesney, was pronounced today as having been painted by Gilbert Stuart and worth perhaps $100,000.

Michel Jacobs, New York painter and sculptor and Metropolitan Art school director, viewed the portrait and pronounced it an unsigned Gilbert Stuart painting.

The portrait originally belonged to Dr. Charles English McChesney, New Jersey secretary of state, and great grand uncle of Dr. Paul McChesney, who in turn willed it to its present owner.

Jacobs explained that Gilbert Stuart signed a Washington portrait and became famous with that painting. Later when he often needed money, he would make painted copies of the picture and send his daughter out to sell them for $50. The unsigned Gilbert Stuarts are called "fifty dollar bill portraits."

ARMY EMPLOYES' WAGES SCORED

LaGuardia Protests Low Scale of Laborers At West Point.

Asks Doak to Investigate And Make Report To Hoover.

WASHINGTON, April 11—(INS)—One of President Hoover's own departments—the war department—tonight was accused of disregarding his personal appeal to employers to maintain existing wage scales during the depression by cutting wages of civilian workmen at West Point, N. Y.

The department also was charged with ignoring the federal regulation passed by the last congress that rules all contractors awarded government work, must pay labor the prevailing rate of wages in the locality in which the building is being construction.

Representative LaGuardia, (republican) of New York, made the disclosure just after the white house had denied Monday Mr. Hoover had heard reports that salary cuts were widespread throughout the country. Mr. Hoover was held to believe that the leaders of industry and business were abiding by the promise they made to him here in 1929 to cooperate with the government by preventing a deflation of wages and lowering the American standard of living.

LaGuardia directed his charge against the quartermaster department at West Point military academy "which has been most unfair and unfavorable to labor for several years," and requested secretary of Labor Doak to investigate and present the facts to Mr. Hoover.

Cites Low Wages.

Skilled laborers, such as bricklayers, plasterers and stone masons are being paid "from 68 to 75 cents an hour less" than the prevailing wages in Highland Falls, Newburgh and Middleburgh in the immediate vicinity of West Point, the congressman asserted.

"These conditions were brought to the attention of the secretary of war only recently by officials of the bricklayers, masons and plasterers' union," LaGuardia said.

"I am informed that these officials were told by the quartermaster's office that they were acting under orders and would pay the prevailing rate of wages when ordered to do so."

He said it was unfortunate that one of the government's own departments "is setting a bad example to industry and is placing the administration in a most ridiculous position." Because of this he feels the facts should be brought to light and placed before President Hoover.

During the depression, work has been so slack in the building trades that the union members have been rotated so the work available can be divided among as many workers as possible, and also to prevent a reduction of the wage scale, LaGuardia explained.

Wealthy Georgian Found Murdered

Luther J. Clegg Found Riddled With Bullets and Robbed Of $1,000.

SCOTLAND, Ga., April 11—(I. N.S.)—Apparently slain by assassins as he rode toward his home Wednesday night, the battered and bullet-riddled body of Luther J. Clegg, 53, wealthy merchant, was found by a searching party late today. The discovery ended a three-day search.

A coroners jury returned a verdict that Clegg had been slain by "persons unknown." Clegg had been robbed of almost $1,000 he was carrying on his person at the time of his mysterious disappearance.

Lila Lee, Actress, Leaves Sanitarium

PRESCOTT, Ariz., April 11—(I. N.S.)—Lila Lee, motion picture actress, late today was discharged from a desert sanitarium where she had been a patient since July recovering from a breakdown caused by overwork.

Miss Lee, in company with John Farrow, Hollywood scenario writer, to whom she was reported engaged, planned to leave Prescott at once for Hollywood.

Physicians said she would be able to re-enter films within a few months.

Renee Adoree, another film actress, also today was reported improving in health under the healing influence of the desert sun and hoped to follow Miss Lee to Hollywood within a few months.

MALLARD IS BACK TO SUMMER HOME FOR SIXTH YEAR

(Special to The Star.)

ALLIANCE, Neb., April 11—For the sixth consecutive spring a wild mallard duck has returned to the F. J. Keller ranch southeast of here to spend the summer. Six years ago Mr. Keller, a well known bird fancier, banded this mallard. Each summer he builds her a nest on the top of a shed, where she lays eggs and hatches young. Mr. Keller makes friends with the wild game birds and they feed at his feet. He does not allow the firing of any guns on his spacious ranch and the birds have come to regard it as a sort of sanctuary.

NINETY STUDENT ENGINEERS GOING TO KANSAS CITY

Ninety juniors and seniors pursuing engineering courses at the University of Nebraska will take the annual engineering inspection trip April 20 to 24 which this year is to Kansas City, Dean O. J. Ferguson announced Sunday. L. A. Bingham of the department of electrical engineering is supervising this year's trip. Five other instructors will accompany the students.

Transportation to and from Kansas City will be private cars and busses. Busses will be used entirely for transportation in Kansas City. Busses will return to Lincoln Saturday morning, April 25.

Inspection of the following plants in Kansas City have been provided for: Chevrolet assembly plant, Ford assembly plant, Corn Products Refining Co., Cook Paint and Varnish Co., Kansas City Water Works, Washburn-Crosbey Milling Co., Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co. Swift & Co., Frank Paxton Lumber Co., Kansas City Structural Steel Co., Kansas City Power & Light Co., Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., Standard Oil Co., Security Stove Co., Sheffield Steel corporation, Union Wire & Rope Co., American Asphalt Roofing Co., Gleaner Combine Harvester corporation, Proctor & Gamble Co.

The inspection trips are annual events for upperclassmen in the college of engineering. Chicago, Omaha and Kassas City are the usual destinations. The Chicago trip is taken every other year and on alternate years the engineers go to Kansas City or Omaha.

Wholesale Killer To Go on Trial in Germany Monday

Phantom Slayer Accused Of Nine Murders and Seven Attempts.

DUSSELDORF, Germany, April 11—(U. P.)—Peter Kuerten, 48-year-old laborer, whose "engaging personality" attracted both men and women to him, will go on trial Monday, charged with a succession of murders that for a year threw this city into paroxysm of nightly fear.

Nine murders and seven attempted slayings are laid at the door of the man who appears to have a double personality. Among his alleged victims were four small girls, four women and one man. He was trapped by the diligent and courageous work of a country girl who "played at detective" and nearly lost her life in her pursuit.

The crimes were of the "Jack the Ripper" kind, the sudden flash of knife and then disappearance into the night. The murderer laughed at efforts to trap him and even wrote letters to the police taunting them with inefficiency. Finally, he described in detail where they could find the bodies of his two last victims, whom, contrary to his usual custom, he had buried.

The girl detective, Maria T. Buttlies, eventually succeeded in delivering Kuerten into the hands of the police. The sensational appearance of his escaped victim is said to have broken the man, who, police declare, made a confession.

Although Kuerten had had a previous police record, having spent seventeen years behind bars for thievery and petty crime, he apparently had "reformed" when he emerged from prison fourteen years ago. He maintained relations with the underworld, and appeared to be a sober, industrious and peaceful worker.

EATERN KIDNAP GANG SUSPECTED

Officer Thinks Brewer Was Abducted For 'Business Reasons.'

Ransom Demand is Reduced in Note Containing a Veiled Threat.

CHICAGO, April 11—(UP)—Lieut. Phil Carroll interrupted his investigation of the Fred H. G. Blumer kidnaping at Monroe, Wis., today and returned to Chicago to report developments to Capt. John Egan, chief of detectives.

Egan said Carroll gave him important details, but would not make them public for fear of jeopardizing the inquiry.

From another source, however, it was learned that Carroll suspected an eastern gang, which had moved before making operations from New York to a retreat near Monroe, of kidnaping the brewer, whose plant was the largest in that section.

Carroll's theory is, it was said, that the abduction was carried out "for business reasons."

Lieut. William Cusack, who solved the kidnaping of Billy Raneri, son of a wealthy Chicagoan, was sent to Monroe to take Carroll's place.

Ransom Demand Reduced.

MONROE, Wis., April 11—(UP)—The ransom demanded for Fred G. Blumer, kidnaped Monroe brewer, was reduced today from $150,000 to $100,000 by a mysterious, penciled note from Chicago, containing a veiled threat.

The note's authenticity was rejected by authorities, who suddenly became optimistic, without explanation, that Blumer would be returned to his family soon.

The fact remained, however, that the note was the only known communication about the kidnaping since the higher ransom was demanded in a telephone call Thursday night, several hours after Blumer vanished.

Note Made Public.

Archie E. Wells, secretary-treasurer of the Blumer Products Co., which Blumer headed, received the note and made it public.

It read:

"Deaor Sir: We ask 100 grand ($100,000) now. Wrap it in paper and wait at the corner of Madison and Canal (Chicago) Tuesday morning between 9 and 10. If you tell anybody about this—well, it will be just too bad. We are above the average in brains, so be careful."

"UNEMPLOYED GUYS."

The note was rejoined on a deposit slip of the Mid City Trust & Savings bank, which is half a mile from the specified rendecouz, in the center of Chicago's west side lodging house district.

Believed a Hoax.

"You can take it for what it's worth," said Wells, handing the note to newspapermen. I believe it's a hoax."

Lieut. Phil Carroll sent by the Chicago detective bureau to aid in solution of the kidnaping, indicated before returing to Chicago that he felt the note was not genuine.

"Blumer will come walking back into Monroe within twenty-four hours," Carroll predicted.

Deny Wife Consulted Bankers.

The attitude of all connected with the case had changed remarkably over night. Yesterday it was reported that Mrs. Blumer was trying to borrow $15,000 to pay the kidnapers, but had raised only $4,000. Today authorities denied that the wife had consulted any bankers.

Blumer's daughter, Marion, 19, appeared greatly relieved when she reported for her work at the Alley Ice Cream company's offices. She expressed confidence Blumer would not be harmed.

"I don't think father's in any danger," she said. "He's a fine fellow, and no matter how tough the fellows may be, they would not hurt him, I'm sure."

WHITTEN ATTACKS DENIAL SLEEPERS FOR EXCURSIONS

The practice of railroads in denying passengers on week-end excursion trips the privilege of sleeping cars is attacked by W. S. Whitten, secretary of the chamber of commerce, in a letter sent Saturday to the passenger traffic committee of the national industrial traffic league. Besides the letter that went to the chairman, Leo N. Golden at Grand Rapids, Mich., copies went to each member.

According to Mr. Whitten's letter, the practice of the railroads is analagous to a hotel telling travelers they can use its dining room, lobby and other accommodations, but cannot sleep there. To allow passengers to use sleeping cars would stimulate business, Mr. Whitten declares. It would cause many who are now remaining at home to go on the week-end trips, thereby not only increasing passenger revenues but also enlarging the business of the Pullman company.

Banquet Added to Program Arranged For Nursing Meet

Miss Lulu Abbott, a member of the committee in charge of arranging for the nurses' institute here Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, announced Saturday night that a banquet is to be an added attraction of the meeting. The institute is sponsored by the Nebraska State League of Nursing Education. All business sessions will be held at the Cornhusker hoted, with demonstrations in Lincoln hospitals.

The theme of the meeting will be expressed in the welcome which will be expressed in the welcome which will be extended by Myrtle Dean, league president, of Lincoln Tuesday morning. It is better nursing through continued training.

The principal speakers will be Mary E. Gladyin of Okron, O., and Edith S. Countryman of Des Moines, Ia.

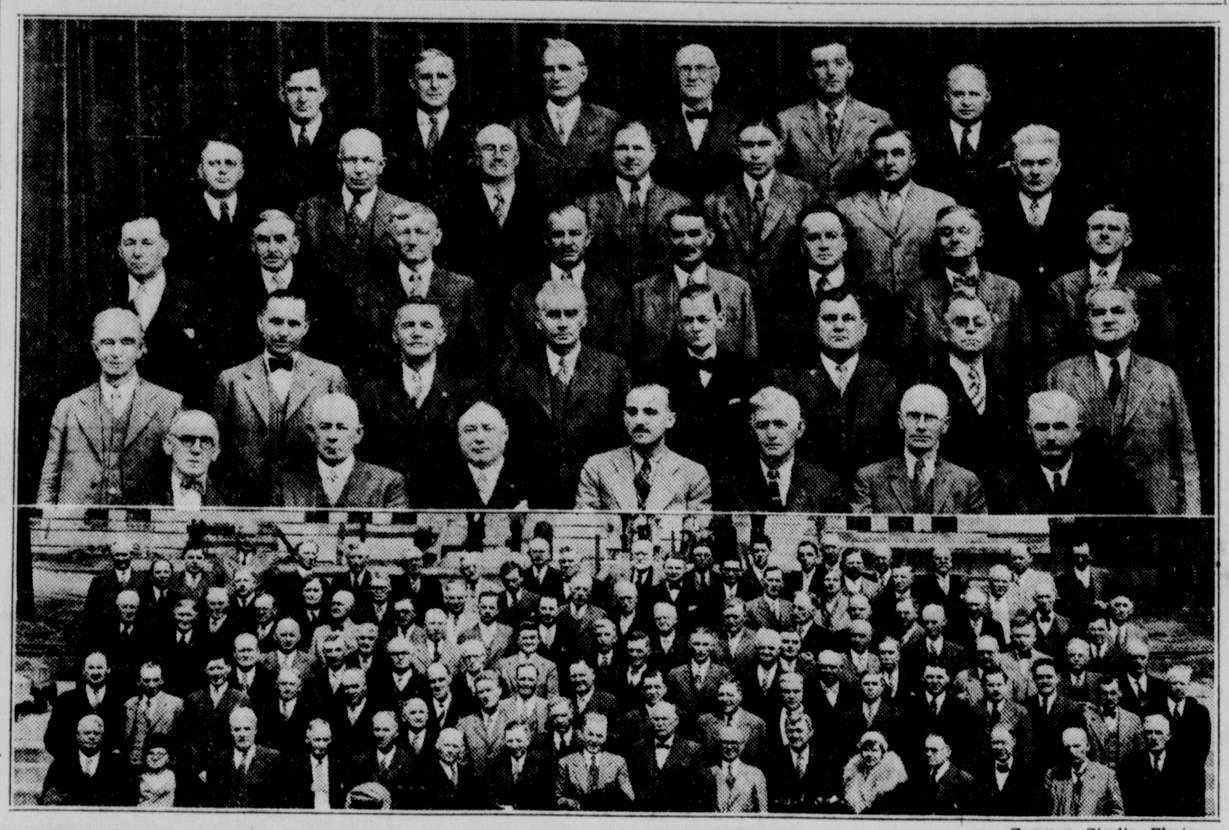

The committee in charge of arrangements is expecting the attendance at the institute to be the largest ever known at a similar meeting in the state.

CONFIRMS WEDDING.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Apr. 11—(UP)—Reports that S. S. Van Dine, mystery writer, who in private life is known as Willard Hungtington Wright, was married a year ago to Eleanor Rulapaugh, prominent portrait painter of Philadelphia, were confirmed late today by the author.

The wedding it was learned, was performed in New Jersey by Judge R. H. Schlosser.

BLAZING VESSEL RACING TO PORT

Steamer With Cotton Cargo Afire is Headed Back to Galveston.

GALVESTON, Tex., April 11—(I. N. S.)—A blazing steamer was racing into port tonight from the Gulf of Mexico, while coast guardsmen stood ready to answer any distress call she might issue.

The Brtiish steamer Middleham Castle radioed her agents here tonight that her cargo of cotton was afire and that she was hurrying back to Galveston.

It was presumed that the fire was being kept under control by use of steam smothering lines. Officials estimated that the ship would reach here by early Sunday morning if she won her race with the blaze. She left here Friday for Antwerp.

Carries Crew of 22.

The Middleham Castle carries a crew of twenty-two officers and men and is in regular service between Galveston and German ports.

Her cotton cargo caught fire just before the ship was ready to sail two weeks ago and had to be hastily discharged. The smoking bales were piled on a wharf and observed for two weeks before they were reloaded after the fire, apparntly, had died out.

Cotton, however, has a faculty of burning internally for weeks without an outward appearance and seamen here believe that some bale in the cargo of the Middleham Castle still had sparks of fire within it when it was reloaded.

BERKELEY BEARS BOW TO TROJANS

LOS ANGELES, April 11—(INS)—In a meet packed with upsets that favored the University of Southern California, the Trojan track team today defeated the University of California by a score of 103 to 28.

Two Trojan school records toppled as the U. S. C. athletes slaughtered their Berkeley rivals.

Vic Williams, national quartermile champion, wrote another brilliant chapter in his record by scoring a triumph in the 440-yard dash with a mark of 48 2-5 seconds to erase the previous record of 48 3-5 seconds, set by George Schiller in 1920.

Halstead of Southern California established a new record of 4 minutes 22 4-5 seconds in the mile run.

Frank Wykoff of the Trojans flashed to a 9 7-10 seconds victory in the 100-yard dash, leading Spencer Sparks of California by a yard across the tape.

Wykoff also won the 220-yard dash in the fast time of 21 2-5 seconds.

Moth Balls Fail To Throw Liquor Agents Off Scent

$100,000 Capone Syndicate Brewery Raided In Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 11.—(UP)—A barrel of moth balls intended to throw the trained noses of prohibition agents off the scent was among the many kegs of beer seized by government men today, when they raided a $100,000 brewery believed operated by the Al Capone beer syndicate.

When fifteen federal raiders stealthily closed in on the Wabash avenue garage building occupied by the brewery they were almost overcome by the pungent odor of camphor from windows and doors.

But the agents were not deceived. A huge 10-ton truck roared into action and battered down the rear doors of the buildings as other raiders, who had crept onto the roof, crashed in from above with sledge-hammers.

As the doors gave way, alarm bells jangled wildly. The ringing was as useless as the moth balls. Five men were arrested before they could flee. An inventory of the plant, which was put into operation only four days ago, disclosed 40,324 gallons of beer, barreled and ready for the speakeasy trade at $55 a barrel, and apparatus sufficient to turn out 130 barrels a day. The annual revenue from such an output would run about $2,500,000.

Shades had been nailed over all windows and the cracks of both windows and doors had been liberally filled with moth ball powder.

Arthur Billings Hunt, Air Pioneer, to Mark Eighth Year in Radio

When Arthur Billings Hunt, radio pioneer, offers the Mid-Week Federation hymn sing Thursday at 6 p. m., central time, over WEAF and stations, including WOC-WHO and KOA, the program will mark the baritone-director's eighth anniversary in religious radio. Hunt's recollection rolls back the years to the time WTAF boasted a one-room "studio" in New York City.

Contrary to the shouting methods of ardent "hit the sawdust trail" advocates, Hunt has offered beloved hymns in folk song fashion to the outspoken edification of speakeasy, sanitarium and spiritual school audiences. His fan mail proves this, the National Broadcasting company declares.

Interest in religious radio, during eight years on the air, caused Hunt to gather more than 300,000 items of music, and 5,000 different hymnals, into what he now calls the Hunt Library of First Editions of Music. The baritone-director displays with pride the lone copy, etched by Paul Revere, of a hymnal once the property of his ancestor, William Billings, once noted Boston musician. Hunt is a native of Fargo, N. D.

STATE OFFICERS CAPTURE STILL

Four Arrested in Nance County Raids; Man Held at Genoa.

Capture of a 100 gallon still, a quantity of alleged liquor and arrest of four men in a series of Nance county raids by state and county officers was announced Saturday night by State Sheriff Michael Endres. The state sheriff also announced the arrest of a man by his deputies Saturday on a possession of stolen property charge.

Both the liquor raids and the other arrest were staged by Otto Dudschus and Lee Burns, state deputies, Nance county officers, according to Sheriff Endres, also aided in the liquor raids, about 20 miles northwest of Fullerton.

The still and 30 gallons of alleged whisky was captured at one place, accordingt o Sheriff Endres. An incomplete 20-gallon still and a quantity of alleged whisky was taken at another. Beer mash and alleged whisky at a third place and a gallon of alleged whisky from a fourth place were reported.

The stolen property charge resulted in the arrest by Deputies Burns and Dudschus of C. I. Smith at Genoa, on a charge of possession of the stolen property. The deputies reported to Sheriff Endres that they confiscated six sets of allegedly stolen harness in his possession. According to information given Sheriff Endres, Smith was released on bond after his arrest Saturday evening.

Eight varsity basketball players earned their letters at Southern Calfrnia this year.

Seward Notes

In compliment to Mrs. W. B. Dearing, Mrs. Harry Norval entertained twelve guests at a bridge party aturday afternoon at her home. Pink tulips were the floral appointments used at the 5 o'clock luncheon. Mrs. Dearing has just returned from California. Mrs. Louis Nieman of Staplehurst was among the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hughes and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Gillen were hosts to the Twin Six club at the home of the former, Wednesday evening. Tulips formed the decorations at the foresome tables, at which lunch was served after the bridge games. Edwin Imig and Mrs. Erwin Imig made the high scores. Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Gillen of Gering, James Wentworth of Chicago, and Dr. and Mrs. Bert Morrow were guests of the club.

Mrs. Erwin Imig left Friday for Denver to meet her uncle, Harry Colman, former resident, who has been homesteading in Idaho since the war. He is on his way to New Mexico for his health.

Hack Wilson figures he is good for seven more years of big league baseball.

RUSSIA GRANTS BORAH'S APPEAL

U. S. Fliers Permitted to Cross Country on a World Flight.

Third Time Senator Has Defied Diplomatic Precedent.

WASHINGTON, April 11—(UP)—The soviet Russian government, in response to an appeal by Senator William E. Borah, republican, Idaho reversed today a previous decision and granted permission for two of the American fliers to cross the U. S. S. R.

Clyde E. Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, jr., thus may land in Moscow and follow the trans-Siberian railroad route across Asia, saving 4,000 miles on their globe encircling jaunt. An application for a permit, filed recently through the Amtorg Trading corporation in New York, was rejected by Moscow. It appeared the fliers would have to follow the long, hazardous route south of Russia.

Seek Borah's Aid.

Knowing Borah was a staunch advocate of Russian recognition, the fliers sought his assistance. On April 8 the senate foreign relations committe chairman sent the following message to Maxim Litvinoff, soviet commissioner of foreign affairs:

"Am deeply interested in American pilots Pangborn and Herndon being permitted to land in Moscow. (Signed) William E. Borah."

On April 9, Borah received the following direct reply from Litvinoff:

"Application Pangborn, Herndon, will be re-examined and your interest taken into consideration. Signed Litvinoff."

Wish Is Granted.

Today the soviet information bureau here received a cablegram from Litvinoff, saying the fliers would be granted permission to cross Russia and land in Moscow. This message was telephoned to Borah.

This is the third time Borah has defied diplomatic precedent by communicating directly with a foreign state.

In 1928 he appealed to Litvinoff to send aid to Carl Eielson, an American aviator lost in the Arctic snows. A Russian flier eventually found Eielson, dead.

Last year when sentiment here ran high against the soviets because it was reported they planned to execute fourteen rabbis, Borah asked Litvinoff if the reports were true. The Russian replied that all but three of the rabbis had been freed.

Stimson To Say Nothing.

These episodes have caused Borah to be called, in jest, "legisiative secretary of state."

Although Borah's practice has caused considerable surprise in official and diplomatic circles, the state department has carefully refrained from comment.

Secretary Stimson when asked today about the propriety of Borahs latest exchange of mesesages with Litvinoff merely laughed and would say nothing.

Senate Maneuver Recalls Action In 1911 Resulting In Formation Of Curtis School of Agriculture

How one of the state institutions of Nebraska came into being twenty years ago as the result of a parliamentary faux pas in the legislature was brought to mind the other day by a parallel incident which occurred in the state senate.

In each case an over-zealous opponent of a bill that had been indefinitely postponed sought to block its reconsideration by moving to table. The effect of the substitute motion, which prevailed on both occasions, was to save the bill from burial after death. In the former instance, the measure was later taken from the table, passed both branches of the legislature, was signed by the governor, and became a law.

Last Thursday it was Senator James A. Rodman's $25,000,000 road bond bill that got a new lease of life through Senator Kenneth Wherry's motion to table Rodman's request to have it reconsidered. As matters now stand, Wherry must keep a watchful eye on the bill, since it can be taken from the table at any time and put through to third reading if a majority of the senators present should take a notion to do so.

Had the senate been permitted to vote direct on Rodman's motion to reconsider it would have defeated that proposal, and the bill would now be dead beyond recall. Under the rules there can be only one vote on reconsideration of the same question.

How Curtis School Was Started.

Back in 1911 a handful of legislators from southwestern Nebraska came to Lincoln imbued with the idea that a new state school of agriculture should be established in their section of the state. A bill providing for it, but not fixing the location, was introduced in the house by Representative L. N. Eastman of Campbell.

The bill received considerable support, as a good many different towns hoped to get the new institution and kept prodding their members of the lawmaking assembly to help pass it. But there was strong opposition and they were unable to get favorable action in the house.

It was on a Friday when the house took the bill up, and the day proved an unlucky one, for the outcome was indefinite postponement of the measure. Everybody, including its advocates, thought that was the end of it. However, Mr. Eastman decided he would try the slim chance of trying to get a reconsideration.

He had to make his motion within one legislative day thereafter, as the rules then provided. Fifty-one votes, a majority of all the members, was necessary to carry the propoition. As the next day was Saturday, and twenty-five or thirty members had gone home for the week-end, there wasn't even an outside chance to muster the fifty-one. Still, the introducer went ahead and offered his motion to reconsider.

Bill Saved by Tabling.

Then up rose Representative H. C. Filley of Gage county, now a professor in the university college of agriculture at Lincoln, and moved to table the bill. That had been a favorite method of ditching measures in the legislature without discussion, as tabling is not a debateable question. Filley's motion carried with a whoop.

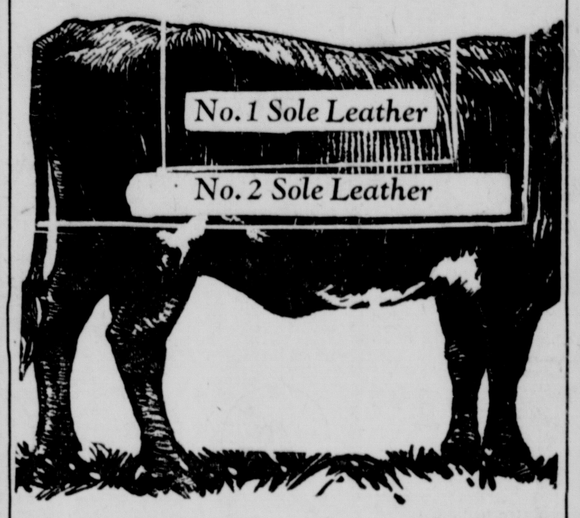

Friends of the agricultural school project were quick to see where this left their bill. It wasn't dead, but merely dormant. So they began a quiet canvass among the members on Sunday and Monday, and by persistent work succeeded in lining up a number who had previously voted against the bill.

About Tuesday, a motion was made in the house to take the bill from the table. It prevailed, and the next step was to vote a reconsideration. Then the bill was successively advanced to third reading, passed, and sent to the senate. The upper chamber gave it a friendly hand and also passed it. The governor affixed his signature when it reached him. And thus Professor Filley unintentionally won the title of father to the Curtis school of agriculture.

Lincoln's Shoe Re-builders

Announcement

It is possible to give different grades of shoe soles. The most durable, lasting soles cost more and are worth the few cents extra because they wear much longer. Lincoln shops are in the habit of using the best quality leather and getting only a fair price for it, in rebuilding shoes.

There Is More Than One Grade of Leather—

The above drawing shows two grades of leather. The number one sole leather comes from that section of the steer which contains the choicest cuts of meat. Nature has here provided the strongest portion of the hide to protect it. The best leather soles are made from this portion and these Lincoln shops pride themselves in using the best.

A number of Lincoln shops listed below are meeting the public demand for cheaper shoe soles by using Number two grade of leather. The fibres are not as close as in the number one grade and run more horizontally. But if you want a low price job many of the firms below are now in a position to give you this quality leather, also, although the Shoe Re-builders recommend the better grade.

Argue Important Irrigation Question This Week; Locations Proposed For Federal Structure

NEBRASKA CASE IN HIGH COURT

Validity of Damage Claim In Irrigation Seepage Involved.

Spurrier Suit Argued in Washington During Coming Week.

WASHINGTON BUREAU
THE LINCOLN STAR

WASHINGTON, April 11—The Supreme court of the United States will hear arguments early next week on the Nebraska case to determine whether an irrigation district is liable to land owners for damages to their lands caused by seepage.

Guy Spurrier and Gerata Cella Spurrier brought suit against the Mitchell irrigation district and the Gering and Fort Laramie irrigation district for $49,590, claiming damages in this amount had resulted from seepage of water from irrigation canals because the water raised the water table under their land and prevented proper drainage of the soil.

The trial court supported their claim, and awarded $2,612.76 damages. The Nebraska Supreme court reversed this judgment, on the grounds that the irrigation districts had not been negligent, that the owner of an irrigation canal is not liable for unintentional damages, that irrigation districts are common carriers and cannot refuse to furnish water to those entitled to it, that irrigation is a necessity for agriculture in a large area of Nebraska and hs been recognized and encouraged, that where water is supplied "in the interest of good husbandry," the subterranean drainage from it is a burden the lower land must bear, and that the irrigation districts had violated no property rights.

Go To Federal Court.

The Spurriers then appealed to the United States Supreme court, claiming violation of the 14th amendment to the constitution by depriving them of their property without due process of law, alleging that the irrigation districts damaged their property for a public use without compensation; that the Nebraska Supreme court erred in holding that the irrigation district laws afforded no remedy for seepage and damage to land outside of the voluntarily formed district, while providing an adequate remedy to those within the district suffering like damages, thus, according to the Spurrier claim, depriving them of the equal protection of the laws in contravention of the 14th amendment.

The briefs for the Spurriers further insist that the Nebraska high court erred in holding that a voluntary corporation for the improvement of property is not liable for "foreseeable and removable damages caused by the operation of the improvement," and in holding that, in the absence of negligence, there can be no liability against an irrigation district "for a private nuisance caused in the exercise of its functons."

The Gering and Fort Laramie irrigation district, in its brief, argued the constitutional points raised by the Spurrers' argument, insisting that the property was not taken nor were they deprived of their use of it, that they claimed only temporary damages for a specific two years, that the 14th amendment prohibition against taking property without due process of law applies to the state, and that the state was not involved, and that Nebraska law is sound in classifying an irrigation district as different from another corporation or person.

The Mitchell district added that it had not caused the damage, having operated for a quarter of a century without injuring the land in question, and that whatever the judgment as to the other disrict, the Mitchell disrict is in no way responsible.

Denies Causing Damage.

The Mitchell district's brief adds that the Spurrier argument is based upon several erroneous assumptions, among which are:

1. That any artificial interference with natural conditions to the damage of another gives rise to cause of action.

2. That the common law of Nebraska did not contain the right to appropriate and use water for irrigation as an incident to ownership of land.

3. That the necessity of water for irrigation was not considered a natural want in the state of Nebraska until the insertion of the provision on the subject in the constitution in 1920.

After the case is argued, the court will take it under advisement and render an opinion.

Visits Havana

Miss Alberta Applegate, a student at St. Stephens college, Columbia, Mo., spent her Easter vacation at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Applegate of Grand Island. Miss Applegate has recently returned from a Stephens college students' educational tour to Florida and Havana, Cuba. The tour was personally escorted by James M. Wood, president of Stephens college.

HOWARD C. HILL TO SPEAK HERE

University of Chicago Teacher to Address Historians.

Dr. Howard C. Hill, of the school of education in the University of Chicago, has been secured as the main lecturer for the Nebraska History Teachers association, which is to hold its spring meeting at the University of Nebraska April 24 and 25. He will speak at a university convocation at 11 o'clock on Friday, April 24, regarding "The Reorganization of the University of Chicago and Its New Plan of Education."

Dr. Hill, who is widely known for his text-books on civics, vocational guidance and history, has prepared several speeches for the program of the Nebraska History Teachers' association. Friday afternoon he is to speak at Park school to the Lincoln City Teachers and visitors on "Teaching Boys and Girls How to Choose a Vocation."

At the Friday evening dinner of the association, he will address them on "Washington, the Man." This talk will be followed by a general symposium on the new style of biography and its bearing on the teaching of history and citizenship. During Saturday's session Dr. Hill will speak on "Modern Trends and Problems in the Teaching of History."

SAUNDERS COUNTY ACHIEVEMENT DAY

(Special to The Star.)

WAHOO, Neb., April 11 — The achievement day program of the Saunders county women's extension clubs was given Friday at the chamber of commerce rooms here, with Mrs. R. H. Watson, county chairman, presiding. The exhibits of the year's work were in charge of the Colon Home Makers and the reception committee consisted of the members of the Goldenrod club of Mead. Miss Rizpah Douglas of Lincoln, who has brought the work to the clubs each month, was present and spoke of the work of the year.

The program consisted of musical numbers, playlets and readings, and Mrs. R. O. Grupe of Mead spoke on "Why We Are Here." The community singing was led by Mrs. A. P. Brainard of Cedar Bluffs.

YOUTHS TAKE OUT INSURANCE WEEK BEFORE ACCIDENT

(Special to The Star.)

FREMONT, Neb., April 11—Both George Clark and Lawrence McMillan, who were severely hurt when McMillan's auto crashed into the side of a Northwestern freight train early yesterday, had taken out accident insurance policies witnin the past week, it was revealed by their parents. Clark's policy provided for payment of $12,000 in case of the loss of a foot. Clark's left foot was amputated above the ankle after the accident.

Investigation revealed that neither of the youths saw the train or heard the warning bell at the crossing. The automobile crashed into the fifty-ninth car in the train, striking it in such a way as to smash the air brake connection, causing the train to stop. At the Richmond hospital today it was said both would recover.

DR. JOY GUILFORD, UNIPSYCHOLOGIST, GETS RESEARCH AID

Dr. Joy P. Guilford of the department of psychology at the University of Nebraska, is one of 31 successful applicants for grants in aid from the Social Sciences Research council, according to announcement made today. Dr. Guilford is the only Nebraskan to receive one of the grants which totaled $22,000.

He will use the grant in aid to complete his research studies on extraversion and intraversion in the field of psychology. He is attempting to determine conclusively if there are such things as intraversion and extraversion and to find out what their meaning may be if their existence can be proved.

In human beings, the intravert is supposed to have all interest centered in himself, while the extravert centers his interests outside himself. A questionnaire, filled out by nearly 1000 students at the university, has been given to ascertain the consistencies of qualities usually attributed to extraverts and intraverts. The grant in aid will permit Dr. Guilford to have the results of the questionnaire compiled and to probe further into his problem.

BURKHOLDER WILL BE DIRECTOR OF BOY SCOUT CAMP

(Special to The Star.)

FREMONT, Neb., April 11—Kenneth Burkholder, Eagle Scout and assistant scoutmaster of Troop 103, Fremont, has been selected as director of Camp Pa-ne-la-shar for the coming summer. The camp is maintained by the Pawnee district, Boy Scouts of America, and usually draw boys from six to eight eastern Nebraska counties. Burkholder is a junior at Midland college, where he is a football letterman, a varsity debater and editor of the college yearbook.

BELLEVILLE'S HIGH NEAR COMPLETION

(Special to The Star.)

BELLEVILLE, Kas., April 11—Belleville's new modern $175,000 high school building started last fall, is nearing completion, and the high school faculty and board of education are planning holding the commencement and attendant closing exercises in the new building, which includes, besides class rooms, a large auditorium and gymnasium, and other strictly modern features, both in rooms and equipment, making it one of the finest buildings of the kind in this section of Kansas.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The Federal Radio commission has set station KFAB's application for an increase in power from 5 kilowatts to 25 kilowatts for hearing at 10 a. m. on April 14. Previous hearings on this application have been held and an examiner of the commission has recommended that it be granted.

KFAB now broadcasts on a frequency of 770 kilocycles, sharing time with WBBM and WJBT. It also has an application pending, which will be considered at the same time, seeking unlimited time.

KINNAMON GIVEN TERM OF FIFTEEN YEARS IN PRISON

(Special to The Star.)

FAIRBURY, Neb., April 11.—Ross Kinnamon, 40, of this city, who was found guilty by a District court jury recently on a charge of child stealing, was sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary by District Judge F. W. Messmore. He served a 20-year term in the penitentiary for a similar offense, completing his sentence last year.

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS.

(Special to The Star)

MUNDEN Kas., April 11—A family reunion, reception and open house, marked the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James Ramsbottom, at their farm home near Munden, Friday. Settling in Republic county, 57 years ago, they were married in this county in 1881. Mr. Ramsbottom recently finished several years service as county commissioner from the first district. Both are still active, he, a native of Wisconsin, is 79 years old, and she, a native of Michigan, is 70 years old.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES.

(Special to The Star.)

FAIRBURY, Neb., April 11.—Word was received here today of the death of Mrs. Paul Ellsworth on Easter at Van Nuys, Calif. Mrs. Rogers, formerly Dora Rogers, was a former Fairbury resident, moving with her husband to California several years ago on account of failing health. She is survived by her husband and baby daughter, Joyce.

Kearney Notes

Miss Ethel Hill, of the modern language department president of the Kearney branch of the American Association of University Women, left last Thursday for Boston, to attend the fiftieth annual A. A. O. W. convention.

In the orchestra concert next Thursday evening, April 16, in the college auditorium, the Symphony will realize the fulfillment of the hopes of both the conductor and the forty-five members of the organization. During the past five years they have looked forward to the time when the members could play well enough together to warrant inviting some of the world's great artists to appear with them. Leo Podolsky, famous Russian pianist, will play two numbers with the orchestra at the concert next Thursday.

Doane Notes

Sunday morning, April 12, will be observed as Doane day by the Congregational churches of the state. The day will be observed at the Crete church at the morning service. The a cappella choir will give several numbers as a special feature.

A letter from Stephen P. Hieb, '22, dated March 13, from Tree Top Mahableshwar, India, states that he and his family are enjoying a respite from the heat. Mr. Hieb and his family have been granted furlough to return to America in August. He hopes to spend the following year in study in America.

Loren D. Graham, '31, of Crete, has been awarded a fellowship for graduate study in chemistry at the University of Nebraska next year.

FARMERS EJECT IOWA OFFICIALS

Governor Says Compulsory Tuberculin Law Will Be Enforced.

TIPTON, Ia., April 11—(INS)—Farmer opposition to the state tubercular test law tonight was approaching a crisis here as 300 objectors gathered at the E. C. Mitchell farm to discuss the warning of Gov. Dan W. Turner that the state militia would be called, if it was necessary to enforce the law.

State veterinarians were forcibly ejected from the Mitchell farm Friday in a demonstration by objectors.

When agents of the state agricultural department arrive tomorrow to hold a conference with the farmers they will find bitter opposition, the leaders of the agrarian group stated. It was also predicted that if the state troops are sent here to take charge of the situation bloodshed will result.

The crowd gathered on the Mitchell farm late today in response to a telephone alarm in which it was stated another attempt would be made to read tuberculin tests made on the Mitchell catte Friday.

State agents, veterinarians and county officials held a parley at Des Moines today with Governor Turner to decide on the next move. It was agreed that a conference would be held here Sunday with farmers, but the governor made it plain the law would be enforced. It was apparent from the governor's words that the militia would be called upon if necessary.

Representatives of the Muscatine, Ia., Free Press were the only newspapermen allowed on the farm during the meeting, the objectors claiming that they have been misrepresented by the state press generally.

secretary, at the rate of $3,600 a year. The salary of that official is fixed by law at $2,640 a year; but under Supreme court rulings if the legislature appropriates a larger sum he can draw it, on the theory that an appropriation has the same force as a statute and is the governing factor, being the latest expression of the legislature.

Calendars of both house and senate are filled with bills, including a number of considerable importance aside from appropriations. Many bills are also in the hands of committees. Neither chamber has taken action to clear the boards by killing its own bills not yet acted upon, in order to give the right of way to those of the other branch. Usually that is done about two weeks before final adjournment. Nor has a sifting committee been appointed by either the house or the senate.

The legislative score card reveals that the two chambers made about the same relative progress in disposing of their own bills. The house in the beginning had about one-third more bills than the senate; and it has handled a proportionately greater number.

A wide divergence appears, however, in the way the chambers have handled their bills. The house passed 144 of its own and killed 249, whereas the senate passed 147 of its measures and consigned 135 to the morgue.

The senate has passed 65 house bills to date, compared with 30 senate measures that the house has passed. On the other side, 17 senate bills have been put to death in the house, while the senate has slaughtered 15 received from the house.

Sixty-six bills have thus far been signed by Governor Bryan. Of these, 41 were house proposals and 25 originated in the senate. Nearly all of them are classed as "chicken-feed."

The governor has allowed three house bills to become laws without his signature. He has in his hands at present 14 house and 5 senate bills.

MUSICIANS OPEN MEETING SUNDAY

rive Sunday morning from Chicago and Denver, and reservations have been made at the hotels for musicians from St. Paul, Minneapolis, Milwaukee and many other midwestern cities. Des Moines, Kansas City and a number of Kansas and Dakota cities also will be represented. Nebraska will be represented by delegates from almost every city in the state.

Aside from the business session at the Cornhusker hotel in the afternoon, the main attraction Sunday is the family party in the evening at the Stuart theater, an annual affair of the Lincoln Musicians' association. The national officers and delegates will be honor guests. There will be a banquet in the evening.

Trip to Capitol.

The entertainment Monday will be a trip to the capitol, and a tour of the city, including the agricultural college and the city campus. At the latter place, Morrill hall will be visited.

The business sessions of the conference will not consider legislative matters. Instead there will be round tables and discussions of subjects that will be of interest to the delegates. It was thought Saturday night that most of these would be suggested from the floor. One matter that is expected to be discussed more than any other is Lincoln's boys' band of more than 300 players, organized last summer.

Information of the progress made by the organization has reached all corners of the country, it is said by Lincoln musicians. Leaders in other cities are expected to learn all they can about it while here, with a view to following the Lincoln plan upon their return home.

Mary Got Mad

TOPEKA, Kas., April 11—(UP)—It embarrassed Mary Webb to lose an undergarment while walking across the floor of a restaurant here. And when she heard snickering from some of the men customers she was downright mad.

Mary threw dishes at those who giggled at her embarrassment until the police department arrived in force.

The first policeman to reach the scene became a new target for dishes. He retreated and called for the reserves.

She paid a $20 fine today and served notice of appeal.

Musicians' Head Is Guest In Lincoln

JOSEPH N. WEBER.

stalled in his plane and said that he hoped to hop off for Detroit tomorrow.

Hard Luck Flier.

"I'm getting to be such a hard luck flier I think I'll give it up," he said ruefully in referring to his abandonment of the attempt. "Besides, I've got to get back to work," he added.

Eaker said that he had averaged about 220 miles an hour until the plane developed trouble over Columbus at a height of 9,000 feet. He had traveled between 9,000 and 13,000 feet all the way, he said.

Eaker said he did not encounter particularly good tail winds this far on his trip but had hoped to be aided by strong following winds farther eastward.

The smiling captain worked with mechanics at the field shortly after he landed, but after definitely establishing the fact that he could not expect to take to the air soon, he departed in quest of food.

Slower Than Before.

He pointed out that he made better time on his previous assault on Captain Hawks' record, having averaged 240 miles an hour until forced down then.

"But I had better tail winds to help me along then," he said. "With the same winds this time, I think I could have hung up a nice record, for this is a mighty fine ship."

Captain Eaker looked downcast as he sat in the dining room of the airport railroad station.

"Disgusted just about describes my feelings," the flier smiled wryly.

Discussing the possibility of his again attempting to break the cross country flight record, Eaker said he would "doubtless give it up as a bad job."

Pantages to Face Girl Bazaar Hearing Monday

Theater Magnate to Have Preliminary Trial in San Diego on Statutory Charges.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 11—(U.P.) — Preliminary hearing of Alexander Pantages, charged with statutory offenses in connection with the operation of a Hollywood girl syndicate, will be held here Monday.

Lydia Nitto, 16, and Helen Livingston, 17, principal state witnesses in the case, are expected to come from Los Angeles to appear at the hearing.

Others charged wtih Pantages are John P. Mills, Jesse Shreve, William Jobelmann and Oliver Clark.

The case resulted from police disclosure of an alleged organization which provided girls for parties to men of wealth.

District Attorney Buron Fitts of Los Angeles recently announced it was his intention to retry Pantages on a charge of attacking Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old co-ed dancer. The theater millionaire recently was granted a new trial by the Supreme court.

arerst of three alleged Capone agents, two Canadian distillers and the owners and operator of an illegal radio transmission station.

Arrest of more than 100 persons was expected by prohibition officers before nightfall. Warrants were issued for several Mississippi gulf coast county officers, some of the biggest bootleggers in New Orleans and others.

Bert Morrisson of the Vancouver Consolidated Distillers and Charles J. D. O'Neal, alias Charles Neal McDougal of another Canadian distillery, were arrested in New Orleans this afternoon.

The three alleged Capone agents under arrest were Nathan Goldberg, Al Hartman and Harry Doe. They were arrested at their apartment here.

Radio Operator Seized.

The radio station of Charles Andreas, jr., was seized and he was arrested and charged with sending messages to the rum fleet off the gulf coast.

Government officials were seeking a fleet of airplanes used by the syndicate to "spot" coast guard vesse'ls.

The arrests followed weeks of investigation by government agents from Washington.

Those arrested were exposed when the prohibition officers tapped wires and listened to conversations between the two distillery agents and their radio man.

Wararnts were issued for the arrest of a gulf coast bank cashier and the owner of a pretentious winter resort hotel, government agents revealed.

The officers said the bootleggers had smuggled huge amounts of liquor through Hancock county, Mississippi, of which Gulfport is the county seat, to northern cities.

MUSIC WINNERS AT SCOTTSBLUFF

Sixth District Contest Divides Honors Well Among All Schools

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb., April 11—(UP)—More than 700 students participated in the Nebraska sixth district music contest held here Friday and Saturday, the first time that two days have been needed for the western Nebraska music contest.

No grand prize was given this year to a school winner in group events. First and second places were awarded cups. In solo events first place was awarded medals and second place ribbons.

First, second and third places were divided as follows:

Gering, two first places, four second places, two third places.

Scottsbluff, eight first places, one second place.

Chappell, one first place, two second places, one third place.

Chadron high, four second places, one third place.

Rushville, two first places, two second places, one third place.

Hay Springs, one second place.

given first, that the judges might have time to score the papers, the 61 contestants lined up in the front of the room to face Mrs. Carrie Stewart Smith, pronouncer for the oral contest, shortly after 2 o'clock. Then began the testing ordeal from which Opal Meinen was to emerge victor nearly one and one-half hours later.

Museum Gets First.

"Museum" spelled downfall for the first of the 61 contestants. Thereafter the ranks thinned slowly as one and another contestant met his or her orthographical Waterloo.

Nearly half of the original three-score were retired, including many an older lad and lass, before tiny 8-year-old June Kreiner dropped out in a brave effort to master "chrysalis." June, who is in the fifth grade at District 109, won the hearty applause and admiration of an adult audience, many of whom would doubtless have stumbled over the word.

Two boys and ten girls faced the pronouncer at the end of an hour's time.

Then "insistence" caught Mae Dittmer, District 18, off her guard. "Homage" was the fatal word for Frank Louzek, District 144.

"Inefficient" Misspelled.

Bertha Borgman, District 38, was the next to go when she misspelled "inefficient." The last of his sex, Delbert Kraus, District 144, took the court when he was faced with "rebellious."

"Anticipate" took from the ranks Florence Speidel, District 112. Next to go was Edeth Newsham, District 35, when she fell down on "supersede." "Pantomime" removed Ellen Owen, District 97, from the competition.

With only five left in the race, Mildred Hodtwalker dropped out when she added an "o" to the first syllable of "mustache." Mildred represented District 49. Shortly afterwards, "metaphor" proved unsurmountable for Florence Schafer, District 5.

Outstanding from the first of the contest for the decisive self-confident manner in which she spelled all her words, diminutive Ruby Hodtwalker, District 115, won a hearty hand when she stumbled on "restaurant" to take third place honors in the oral contest. Next, Gertrude Essink missed on "illiterate" and the contest was over with Opal Meinen as first place winner.

Seven Write 100.

By this time the judges had scored the written papers and found seven 100 per cent grades. Among the seven, five had been among the last twelve in the oral competition. They were Edith Newsham, Gertrude Essink, Opal Meinen, Mildred Hodtwalker and Ruby Hodtwalker. The other two were Marian Marcks and Allen of District 131.

A run-off contest was then held from which Opal Meinen was the only one to emerge with a 100 per cent grade. In a second run-off contest between the remaining six, Marian Marcks won second place honors with Gertrude Essink next.

Acting as judges were Mrs. R. R. Betz, Mrs. Mary Graham, Mrs. A. C. Morton, Edith Miller, Frances Moore and Helen Dunlap.

SENATE LIKELY TO SEND BUDGET BACK TO HOUSE

the governor's figures, and in so doing "passed the buck" to the upper branch.

Since the constitution provides that appropriation bills must originate in the house, senators insist that it is unfair to them for the house to hand them a bill containing only those items which Bryan allowed, and expect the senate to spend a lot of time going over it, not knowing whether any of the changes it might make would later be accepted by the chamber which, in the first instance, acted as a mere rubber stamp for the governor.

Senate members, in the first flush of their "peeve," were inclined to manifest their resentment against the house for failing to perform its constitutional duty, by passing the bil without amendment "just for spite." That sentiment, however, has largely disappeared during the past two days. The prevalent feeling now seems to be that the senate should kill the bill outright and thus throw back upon the house the burden which originally belonged to it.

Some Would Amend Bill.

Not all G. O. P. senators have as yet given their indorsement to this plan. Some of the number, their ire against the house having cooled off, are willing to go ahead and try to put H. R. 242 into shape which would meet their approval by the usual method of amendment.

This could be done, either by substituting for the bill as it now stands the draft which the house finance committee prepared, but which the house failed to ratify, and using that as a basis for further amendments to be offered on the floor of the senate; or by presenting each amendment separately. The latter process would take more time than the former.

Another possible line of action would be for the senate to turn the bill back to its finance committee and let it work over the entire schedule of appropriations. Such is the ordinary procedure, which would have been followed except for the senate's action a few days ago in adopting a motion directing the committee to bring in the bill forthwith and have it placed on general file. Until that action is rescinded, the finance committee is relieved of any further duty in the matter.

The easiest way out of the whole mess, so far as the senate is concerned, would be to vote for indefinite postponement of H. R. 242, thereby automatically throwing the whole problem back up upon the lower chamber. And that is what the senate will probably be given an opportunity to do.

Axtell May Offer Motion.

Senator J. A. Axtell, republican, said Saturday that the proposal to wipe the board clear in the senate by killing the Bryan budget had been receiving serious consideration and that he or someone else might throw in a motion of that sort Monday afternoon.

If the bill were indefinitely postponed, a message would be sent from the senate to the house informing the later body of the action. The house would then have the choice of fishing up another appropriation bill and amending it nito the form of a new budget measure, or asking the senate to reconsider. Such a request from the house would undobtedly be granted by the senate, and if the house should express a desire to have H. R. 242 returned to its possession the senate would also comply.

Under either procedure, the house would again have before it a general appropriation bill which could be amended in any manner a majority of the members saw fit. All or any part of the items which were automatically dropped from H. R. 242 when it passed the house last week with less than the three-fifths majority needed to over-ride the governor's budget recommendations could thus be reinserted; or, some of them might be modified and new ones added.

It is not believed that Governor Bryan has constitutional power to submit a new budget to the legislature at this time, since it is specified in article 4, section 7, that he must do this "at the commencement" of the legislative session. By statute he is limited to a period of 15 days after taking office for the presentation of the budget.

Demos Won't "Die in Ditch."

Members of the democratic minority in the house, who defeated all excess items in the budget bill by voting almost solidly against them, are by no means unanimous in the desire to maintain a compact partisan front against these items Three of them who so voted declared Saturday that they were willing to compromise if the republicans would meet them in a conciliatory way.

A suggested basis of compromise was that the bovine tuberculosis appropriation be cut from $250,000 to $125,000 (Bryan allowed nothing at all for this purpose) and the item of $40,000 for the Ak-Sar-Ben livestock show at Omaha reduced to $30,000 (Bryan recommended $15,000).

Allen Burke, republican floor leader and chairman of the finance committee, said he had personally favored no more than $30,000 for the Ak-Sar-Ben show, but that a democratic member of the committee proposed $50,000, and it was fixed at $40,000 as the half-way point between.

Burke thought the G. O. P. membership might agree to a $50,000 reduction in the bovine tuberculosis fund, making it $200,000, but not to cutting it in half.

Have Local Interests.

No fewer than 17 democratic members, out of 47, have state institutions located in their districts. Four of them, and one who has no such local interest to claim his support, voted for H. R. 242 when it passed the house. Four other democrats "passed," indicating that they were not heart and soul for the Bryan budget.

One of those who stayed with his party and voted against the bill is Representative Walter Burr of Adams county. He made this statement Saturday.

"I make no bones over the fact that I think the institution in my district needs more money than the Bryan budget allows it. No doubt members from other districts feel the same way regarding their institutions. I look for a compromise on the budget bill."

Normal training in high schools is another item which interests many democratic solons as well as republicans. The governor allowed only $100,000 for the purpose, which the house finance committee raised to $190,000; but the lack of 60 votes for the bill on its passage restored the smaller amount. In all probability, if the bill comes back to the house this item will be raised.

Senate Won't Pass 242.

There is no expectation at this time that the senate will pass H. R. 242 in its present form. Perry Reed, in response to an outside suggestion that the senate had better pass the bill and then adjourn and go home, replied to this effect:

"No, we can't do that. Some other way will have to be found to get things out of the muss they are in."

Senator Arthur Bowring was rather partial to the idea of indefinitely postponing H. R. 242 and letting the house try its hand again.

The senate alone could force final adjournment by passing the present bill without change. If the senate should kill the bill, the house cannot throw up the sponge and quit, since the constitution prevents either body from adjourning more than three days at a time without the consent of the other. That proviso would force the house to stay at work until a solution is reached.

Public sentiment, moreover, would not countenance adjournment until financial provision has been made for carrying on the state government and maintaining its institutions. It may be taken for granted that no attempt will be made in that direction.

The two branches of the legislature will eventually agree on a budget bill, and it will be somewhat different from the Bryan budget.

Ervin Watson placing fourth, and Vic Rediger fifth.

Mecham Winner.

It took Marion Mecham to win the Jersey class. Vern Jeffers copped second place, Ralph Von Bergen third, Gordon Neurenberger placed fourth and Clyde Batie fifth. In the Ayrshire breed, John Lowenstein was the winner, with Glenn La Doiyt taking second place. William Ralston won third, Fred Seifer fourth and Jason Webster fifth.

In the Guernsey class, Vic Rediger came through to score the most points and win the class. John Rhodes, however, was second and Gordon Neurenberger third. Clyde Batie won fourth place and Virgil Taylor copped fifth.

Judges for the annual contests included N. W. Lawritsen of the Nebraska Dairy Development society and Frank Astroff of the American Jersey Cattle club. Students competing in the contest judged six classes, including two of Jersey, two of Holsteins, one of Ayrshires and one of Guernseys. Reasons were required on two classes.

MACDONALD IS FACING DEFEAT

Ramsay MacDonald's administration can offer the comtmons to show that they are dealing vigorously with unemployment, whether the liberals will turn it out of office or keep it in.

On Wednesday, there will be a meeting of the liberal parliamentary party to decide what action shall be taken and at this meeting David Lloyd George has promised not to use his influence to persuade the members to support the government. He will leave it to the free choice of his associates to decide what to do, and he will lead them in the commons in accordance with their decision.

Await Johnston's Reply.

The liberal News-Chronicle thinks this meeting will adjourn to await what Tom Johnston, the new lord privy seal, says in reply to the censure motion.

If Johnston's statement is unsatisfactory they will decide to oppose the government, or abstain from voting, either of which courses means the defeat of the government.

The government's attitude is that it is attacking unemployment as vigorously as it can, although its own left wingers disagree with this contention.

Sir William Graham, president of the board of trade, has been trying to persuade the country that the bottom of the current depression has been reached and that conditions are now to improve, and it is likely that this will be the government's defense in the commons.

Lancashire cotton manufacturers and others who have been hard hit by the Indian boycott, however, say that Graham is wrong, that the general feeling throughout the country is that the board of trade head is right.

One of the biggest factors in creating this new spirit of optimism is the Prince of Wales' reported success in South America. Reports from the British empire exhibition in Buenos Aires show that the exhibition has had a splendid effect, and orders are now flowing in to Britain in consequence .

Lincoln High Musicians Go To Des Moines Conference

—Bucklin Photo.

Members of the Lincoln high school music department who will represent the school in the program of the North Central Music Supervisors' conference at Des Moines this week. The students will participate at the sessions with selected orchestras and choruses from North Central schools throughout the central part of the United States. There will, however, be no competition between the various schools.

Those in the picture, who leave today for Des Moines to return Saturday, are Laverne Lamb, George Pillars, Russell Gilman, Helen Bedford, Jane Forney, Kathryn Kettering, Laura Kimball, Harriett Toren, Ruth Sibley, Dorothy Peterson, Doris Dickinson, Marjorie Seaton, Genevieve Smith, Charles Ledwith, Marvin Harper. Faculty members who will accompany the group are Bernard Nevin, Glenn Case and Helen Stowell.

In addition to taking part in the group orchestral numbers, the Misses Peterson, Dickinson, Seaton and Sibley will appear on the Des Moines program as a stringed quartet.

pearance of outline maps, He believes it is possible they are maps of the Nemaha valley, showing the location of the ford which Indians used to cross the Nemaha river.

"There are five depressions which show plainly that they have been cut in the solid rock," Mr. Blackman said Saturday. "These were probably mortars in which to crack and grind corn. Such mortars are common in stone ledges near Indian ruins. One of these is especially interesting. It is six inches deep and eight or ten inches across. Around the outer edge are grooves about a quarter of an inch deep and three inches long, cut at right angles to the rim of the mortar, giving the effect of the "sun burst" decoration found on robes and tpis. These grooves are rounded at the bottom and are so close together that the sharp edge of rock between is very sharp. It isa mystery what this was made for."

Photographs Made.

Mr. Blackman stated that his attention previously had been called to an Indian glyph on the rocks in 1928. It was a grotesque figure cut into the rock with lines a quarter of an inch deep. Photographs and impressions of the discoveries made last week have been taken, and the studies will be made in an effort to discover their significance.

Van Fleet park, an eighty-acre tract on highway No. 4 east of Table Rock, is named after Rev. Peter Van Fleet of Lincoln, who held a charge there as a young man. Rev. Van Fleet is a representative from the thirty-third district in the present state legislature. Table Rock was named after a huge rock in the park which had the appearance of a table It balanced on a frail pedestal near the bank of the Nemaha, and because it was considered dangerous, was blasted away. Other rocks in the park have the appearance of giant toadstools, some being eight or ten feet in diameter.

An interesting Indian legend clings to the vicinity, where it is evident an Indian tribe once lived. Indian ruins have been found farther up the Nemaha. The territory was claimed by the Otoe Indians, who hunted deer on the Nemaha. The Pawnee from the Loup valley and the Kaw from Kansas wandered over the area.

WUPPER'S WIFE ISN'T DISMAYED

Charles W. Bryan, Mrs. Brinkmann left the state capitol Saturday afternoon in quest of a lawyer.

Whether she employed counsel was in doubt as the whereabouts of the smiling but taciturn Philadelphia woman, was unknown Saturday night. Whisked from the capitol by a Lincoln resident who had yielded to her request to be taken to a lawyer, little was known of her activities afterwards.

Visits Local Attorney.

It is known that she visited at least two local attorneys, perhaps more during the afternoon, seeking advice as to how to press her claims for the reward. It is also known that she was driven past the state penitentiary where Paul Wupper, the man she knew until recently as her husband, is now confined. He is serving under a 110-year sentence imposed on charges arising out of manipulations of funds in the Bank of Beemer in Cuming county prior to September, 1928.

Although Mrs. Wupper No. 2 was driven past the penitentiary she did not stop for a visit. She had indicated Saturday morning at the Capitol in conferences with officers that she had no intention or desire to see Wupper.

Before leaving the state capitol Mrs. Brinkmann had informed State Sheriff Endres that she planned to get a lawyer here to aid her in the fight for the reward to which she feels she is entitled. The state sheriff gave her little encouragement. She told one attorney she would remain here several days. She sought advice on how to get the reward.

Appeared Unexpectedly

Mrs Brinkmann had appeared unexpectedly at the state capitol Saturday morning and spent nearly four hours in a series of conferences with officials. Two of the state officers she found could engage her in conversation in German, her native tongue.

These were State Sehriff Endres, and Franz Radke, secretary to Governor Bryan. She has only been in this country six years. She spoke English without difficulty, although slightly broken.

Where she is staying, was also a mystery. She was apparently not registered at a local hotel. She told the lawyers she is known to have consulted Saturday afternoon that she would stay with a friend in Lincoln. The friend was not named.

Eight Injured In Omaha Car Crash

Seven in One Machine Hurt When Autos Hit; Party Enroute to Dance.

OMAHA, April 11—(UP)—Eight persons were injured in a collision between cars driven by Bob Davis of Glenwood, Ia., and Roy Dean of Omaha, at Seventy-second and Maple streets tonight. Seven persons in Davis' car were injured. Dean was alone. Mike Greenlee of Glenwood was the most seriously hurt, with a possible fractured skull. Amana and Dorothy Paulsen and Ann Chatham of Omaha, Bob Davis, his brother, Earl, Carl Funk and Dean are the others hurt. The Davis party was enroute to a dance at Fort Calhoun.

POLICE HOLD MAN FOR KANSAS CITY ON THEFT CHARGE

Howard Thomas, 21, 1851 G, confessed Saturday night, according to police, to stealing a car in company with another young man whose name he claims he doesn't know, at Kansas City, Mo., on March 4. The two, according to Thomas, drove to Lincoln together. Since then he has not seen the other man, police said.

Suspicion fastened on Thomas when it was reported he had issued several bad checks here. Detective Gene Masters was detailed to check up on the young man's activities. Police Captain Olson's suspicions were further aroused when he learned Thomas had been driving a car in Lincoln. He was arrested Saturday night by Patrolmen Walter Goeglin and Paul Kerl when they spotted the car in a garage near Goeglin's home. Thomas is being held for Kansas City officials.

SMALL CRUISER IS REPORTED SINKING OFF PACIFIC COAST

SEATTLE, April 11—(U. P.)—Wireless reports that an 18-foot cruiser was half submerged and in an apparent sinking condition seven miles at sea west of Moclips, Wash., were recieved by the coast guard here tonight.

The coast guard cutter Snohomish was sent out from Port Angles.

Georgia Posse Pursues Pair Who Escaped Jail And Shot Ex-Sheriff

LAFAYETTE, Ga., April 11—(INS)—Close on the trail of two desperadoes, a heavily armed posse tonight pushed on into the tangled growth atop the Pigeon and Lookout mountains.

The fugitives escaped the Walker county jail yesterday, shooting down A. W. Harmon, former sheriff, as they fled. Harmon is in a critical condition but is expected to live.

First trace of the fugitives, Alec Williams and Earl Finney, since they fled into the mountains, was gained when a mountaineer and his wife reported that a wet, hungry man resembling Finney begged breakfast from them this moring.

Troy Crisp, who fled with Williams and Finney, has been recaptured. Lamar Glenn, nephew of the wounded ex-sheriff, was arrested later and admitted, according to officers, smuggling into the jail the pistol used in the escape. Glenn is the brother-in-law of Williams.

TRIO HELD FOR WHITE SLAVERY

Girl's Story Leads to Arrests of Three at Leavenworth, Kas.

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., April 11—(U. P.)—Three persons were under arrest here tonight, charged with violation of the white slave laws, after police uncovered what they believed was a syndicate formed for the purpose of bringing women here from other states for immoral purposes.

The operations of the ring were disclosed Monday with the arrest of a 21-year-old girl who told of being brought here in 1929 on the promise of a position and then forced to live a life of shame, turning the money she earned over to others.

The girl, Bonnie McCrorey, also known as Bonnie Pease, was arrested by Patrolman Kearsten. Under questioning at police headquarters she told her story, implicating the three persons now under arrest.

Turned Over to Government.

W. W. Woodson, chief of police, after verifying certain parts of the girl's story, turned the case over to federal authorities, and R. J. Caffrey, department of justice agent from Kansas City, Kas., came here to investigate. The arrests made late today resulted.

Carl Osteen, soldier stationed here, Bill Wheatley and Nellie Wheatley, who claims to be the latter's wife, were arrested and are charged as the operators of the ring. The three were arraigned late today before J. K. Codding, United States commissioner, and are being held in default of $1,000 bond each on charges of white slave law violation.

The McCrorey girl also is being held in $5,000 bond as material witness.

Further investigation of the rings' activities probaly will result in several more arrests, Chief Woodson said tonight.

Mother and Three Daughters Killed In Crossing Crash

Train Demolishes Car in Which Illinois Family Was Riding.

ROCKFORD, Ill., April 11—(I. N. S.)—Mrs. Stephen Mitchell, 60, and her three daughters were instantly killed late today when the automobile in which they were riding was demolished by a Milwaukee road freight train three miles west of Lanark, Ill.

The dead:
Mrs. Mitchell.
Alta Mitchell, 22.
Ruby iMtchell, 18.
Doris Mitchell, 9.

The eldest daughter was a school teacher and Ruby was a student at DeKalb teachers' college.

The automobile was demolished and the victims' bodies were mangled almost beyond recognition. The family resides on a farm near Lanark. The Mitchells were on their way to attend a sale when the accident occurred.

Illinois Farmer Defies Efforts Of Congregation to Oust Family From Church He Declares Is His

WAUKEGAN, Ill., April 11—(UP)—Members of the Hickory Corners Methodist church were called upon today by elders to attend services tomorrow, despite a well developed case of mumps, a pioneer's daughter who has a shotgun and knows how to use it, and a determined farmer, all occupying the church building at a crossroads near Antioch.

The farmer, Clarence Spiering, who moved his wife and daughter into the little white house of worship last winter when his own home across the road burned down, defied the church members to oust him.

"Nobody will ever get into this church but my family, relatives and friends," he said. "The deed to my farm says I own the church too and I'm going to stay here, elders or no elders. Those who want to make trouble will get just what they are looking for."

Wife Holds Shotgun.

Spiering issued his defiance from the steps of the church when he came from his morning chores. Behind him stood his wife, holding the shotgun he taught her to shoot. The daughter of an Indian fighting pioneer, she is as determined as her husband.

Still another factor opposed to the Hickory Corners congregation's hopes to regain possession of the church is the illness of the Spiering's daughter, Dorothy, 9. She is down with the mumps. Her cheeks are swollen with an advanced case.

The former owners of Spiering's farm deeded it to him with the provision that he could not use the acre of ground on which the church stands as long as services were held. Spiering declares the last prayer meeting was one year ago. He contends the church lost ownership of the property by failing to use it.

Freed by Jury.

Frank Edwards, church trustee, called upon the Spierings recently to ask them to move. The farmer was in the fields, but his wife met the trustees at the door, waved her shotgun and chased him away.

Spiering was brought before a justice of the peace on a charge of malicious mischief preferred by Edwards. He was found guilty, but took his case to County court for a jury trial and was acquitted Friday.

The verdict, however, did not settle the question of ownership, and the Hickory Corners trustees resolved on one last attempt to establish title to the church. They ordered that services be held at 2 p. m., tomorrow.

SILHOUETTES MADE OF CHILDREN BY VISITING ARTIST

Miss Evelyn Lee of Minneapolis, children's silhouette artist, has established an interesting studio in the children's department on the third floor at Gold and Co.

Miss Lee, with the snip of her scissors, produces cunning likenesses of children. She has spent many months studying child character. It took expensive training and much experience to enable her to produce with such exactness the clever silhouettes.

She describes her work as tremendously interesting. Miss Lee says that nothing pleases her more than to have hundreds of youngsters come to her daily. She loves them all and can find in every single one artistic features, she declares. Each child, she says, presents a different type.

The children all like Miss Lee too, for she is a vivacious young woman so intent upon developing a silhouette of art from every one of her youthgul customers that she never fails to win their confidence. Grandmothers, aunts, cousins, uncles, bigger sisters and brothers are among the many persons that have visited with Miss Lee during the making of their little ones' silhouettes. She likes them too and many times finds just the character she has been looking for, for a certain silhouette for this or that.

Miss Lee told of one woman in an eastern metropolis who was so enthusiastic over the silhouette of her little boy that she brought her Pekinese dog for Miss Lee to do.

"I liked doing him," Miss Lee declared, "he was a very good model."

When questioned as to the duration of her stay in Lincoln Miss Lee simply declared that her studio would be on the third floor at Gold and Co. and she hoped to stay at Golds until she had been able to meet most of the young people in Lincoln, for "I know I'm going to like them," she added.

KEMPTON FACES ARSON CHARGE

Frontier County Man is To Have Preliminary Hearing April 20.

Arrest of a Frontier county man on an arson charge as the result of the burning of his tire and battery shop there in March was announced here Saturday evening by Deputy State Fire Marshal L J. Butcher. He was informed of the arrest by County Attorney Fred Schroeder at Curtis.

Lester D. Kempton, 20, was arrested on an arson complaint charging him with having burned the contents of his tire and battery shop and oil station for the purpose of collecting insurance. He was released under $1,000 bail after his preliminary hearing had been set for the County court at Curtis, for April 20.

The building which was burned, according to Mr. Butcher, was owned by Mrs. Mary McCowin, and was worth about $700, carrying $500 insurance. The contents, Mr. Butcher said, were worth about $800 with $2,500 insurance in three policies. The building was burned about 4 o'clock in the morning on March 29.

An attempt had been made to burn the building three days previously, Butcher was informed while in Curtis this week. He investigated the affair with the assistance of Sheriff Art Hudson and County Attorney Schroeder. The building and contents were almost a total loss.

INTANGIBLE TAX CASE ON APPEAL

Lincoln Bank Suit Will Be Before Supreme Court April 23.

Final efforts to recover taxes paid the Lincoln school district under the unconstitutional intangible tax law of 1925 will be argued before the State Supreme court Thursday, April 23. The next call of cases before the court was released Saturday.

SIMPLE SERVICE FOR LONGWORTH

Speaker of House Buried In the Heart of His Native Ohio.

President and High Officials Bow at Bier of Staunch Friend.

CINCINNATI, O., April 11—(UP)—Speaker Nicholas Longworth, a beloved citizen sincerely mourned, rested tonight in the heart of Ohio where for more than a century and a quarter his ancestors labored and made American history.

His funeral services, impressive through the attendance of President Herbert Hoover, eminent members of both houses of congress and officials paying him the honor due a speaker of the house, were dignified in their simplicity, and touching in that they drew to his bier hundreds whose friendship was for the man himself, and whose affectionaate regard sprang from his kindliness and personality.

Nicholas Longworth was buried in the hills over which he roamed as a boy, and near the ancestral lands where successive generations of Longworths since 1804 lived, worked, grew in the esteem of their neighbors, and died.

No Great Throng.

There was no great throng at his burial place, though thousands had given their sorrowful testimonial and tribute at Christ church, where Bishop Coadjutor Henry Wise Hobson led the services.

Instead, the witnesses of the last touching scene were those immediate members of his family, whose depth of mourning was undisguised, the presidential party, the congressional delegation and the active and honorary pallbearers.

As Bishoh Hobson read the brief ritual for the dead, the silence of the quiet graveyard was broken by the whirr of two airplanes flying low over Spring Grove cemetery, to cast floral tributes from above. Then, silently, the company of America's great withdrew.

Note of Fine Simplicity.

The note of fine simplicity was recurrent through a day of tribute. At Christ church, seat of the Episcopal see of southern Ohio, the services were marked along by a wealth of rich music—the compositions of Handel and Hayden, of Mozart and Bach, for Longworth was a musician, deeply appreciative of the masters, and it had been his request that he go to his rest to the accompaniment of those great works.

At times the eyes of the mourners were directed to Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, his widow, for they realized the depth of her feeling. But her composure, the heritage of the Roosevelts, was magnificent. Little Paulina Longworth, their 6-year-old daughter, was not present. She had been told of her father's death only today.

Memorable Setting.

Beautiful weather, a warm sun, the budding of trees, provided a memorable setting for the services. Under these brilliant skies thousands of his neighbors and friends, although unable to go within the small church gathered outside to discuss his life and works, and to pay him a last gesture of respects as the funeral procession passed.

In this outpouring of friends, the "official" character of the nation's mourning was engulfed and forgotten. It was Nick Longworth of Cincinnati they were burying, not the Hon. Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the house.

The floral offerings that poured in upon the Longworth family came from the highest in the land and the humblest in the city. The president's tribute was a large wreath of holly, ivy and fern. Vice president Charles Curtis, calling at the Longworth home, left a spray of pink roses.

MEAD DECLARES WORK ON TUNNELS WILL START SOON

LOS ANGELES, April 11—(UP)—Dr. Elwood Mead, United States reclamation commissioner, said here today that construction of four fifty-foot by six pass tunnels at Boulder dam probably will start within two months.

Dr. Mead will arrive at Las Vegas, Nev., Monday to sign the contract awarded to the Six Companies, Inc., for construction of the dam. The contract will then be sent by air mail to Washington for the signing of Secretary of Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur.

Dr. Mead spoke today at a luncheon of the directors of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce.

"What we are doing with the Colorado river is to make possible the conservation and utilization of every gallon of water in that river," the commissioner said.

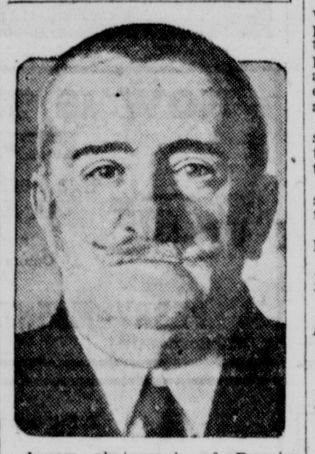

NEGROES CONFESS KENTUCKY MURDER DURING A ROBBERY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 11—(UP)—Three negroes were held here tonight in connection with the murder of Thomas Tillery, who was shot to death during a store robbery at Elizabeth, Ky., on March 11.

The meen, Walker Holmes, Walter Dewberry and Charles Rogers, also were understood to be wanted in East St. Louis, Ill., on charges of robbery and assault. Dewberry and Rogers were said to have been identified by East St. Louis authorities from their pictures.

They denied the East St. Louis crimes, but were said by police to have admitted firing shots in the store in which Tillery was slain. A witness from Hickman, Ky., was expected here to attempt to identify the men. The negroes were said to have confessed to several other robberies.

IOWA LEGISLATORS END SCHOOL PROBE

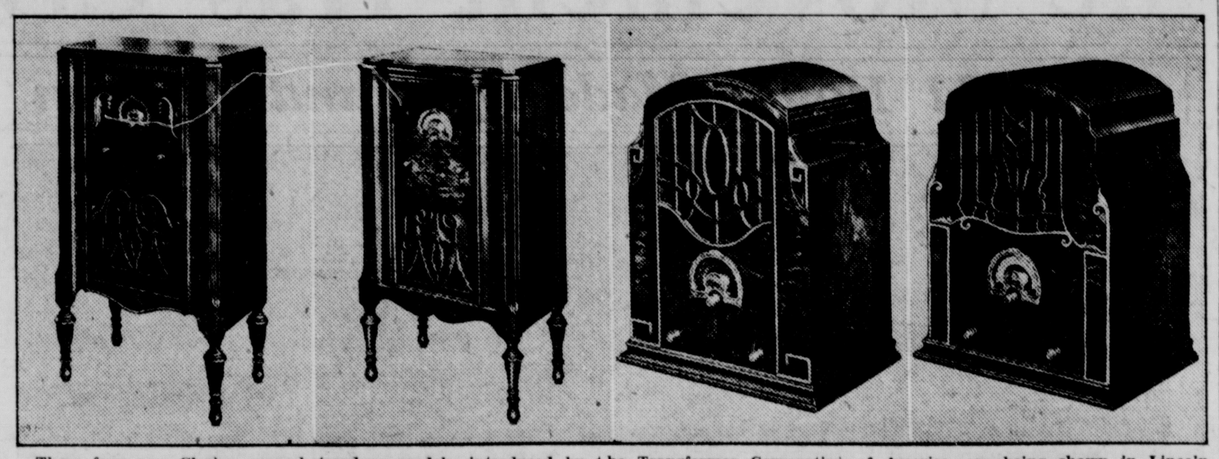

Report on Investigation of State University Will Be Submitted In Few Days.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 11.—(UP)—After six weeks of inquiry, the legislative committee investigating the University of Iowa ended its hearings today. It will report to the General Assembly next week.

Accusations of maladministration on the part of President Walter A. Jessup, as the chief cause of Iowa's ouster from the Big Ten, and incompetency and extravagance by other university officials, were the chief charges.

The committee will begin deliberating tomorrow, with at least one member of the committee hostile to a majority report. Senator W. S. Baird has announced publicly he will file an individual statement. Other members are disagreed over much of the testimony, which is a maze of 6500 printed pages, 405 exhibits and declarations by seventy-five witnesses.

FIRE KILLS MAN DURING A PARTY

Others Feared Dead as Result of Burning of Home in Akron, O.

AKRON, O., April 11—(INS)—One man was known to have burned to death and several other persons were feared dead as a result of a fire which destroyed a home in the residential section of the city here tonight.

The dead man was identified as Lonnie Carter, 38, of Akron, formerly a resident of Columbus.

The fire started during a party which was in progress in the house, police said. Authorities were unable to ascertain the exact number of persons attending the affair and an immediate checkup of those who escaped the flames was not available.

Friends reported Carter missing shortly after firemen arrived to battle the flames, which enveloped the tiny frame structure.

The house was completely destroyed. A search was instituted in the ruins by firemen and police.

The cause of the blaze was unknown.

Police said they believed about 10 persons were attending the party, when the fire broke out.

High Court to Resume Deliberations Monday

Arizona's Fight on Hoover Dam is Expected to Come Up Before Supreme Bench.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(UP)—The Supreme court resumes deliberations Monday, after a recess of three weeks, and a number of important decisions are expected.

Probably the most important of the seventy-two pending cases is the Hoover dam suit brought by Arizona against her sister states in the Colorado river basin. Arizona contends the giant power and irrigation project is an invasion of her sovereign rights.

The defendant states have asked to have the suit dismissed as being without merit and the court's decision may decide many important points involving the government's ability to develop the country's power resources.

Rail Labor Case.

Railroad labor has a substantial interest in the challenge given the full train crew law by the Missouri Pacific railroad in a suit brought against the Arkansas authorities. More than a score of states have laws specifying the number of workers that shall man trains within their borders and the fate of all these statutes may hinge on the decision in the Arkansas case.

Other cases involve the right of the oil companies to pool their "oil cracking" patents, the validity of Minnesota's newspaper "gag" law.

Cy Williams, big league veteran, will have his first fling at managing a ball club at Richmond of the Eastern league this year.

Chadron Notes

At Crawford all the Normal graduates have been re-elected for the coming year.

Miss Opal Bovee has accepted a teaching position in a rural school near Potter.

Mrs. Edna Rock, who attended the college during the winter quarter has been chosen to finish the term in teaching the third grade at Hay Springs.

A. T. McCue, a field representative of the national Red Cross addressed the student body on Wednesday, March 5, and, for several days, conducted life-saving classes for a large number of students at the college swimming pool.

The girls of Zeta Alpha sorority turned their last regular meeting on Tuesday, March 24, into a treasure hunt. The treasure, an Easter basket filled with candies, was finally discovered at the foot of the large hill which shows the large white "C" of cement on its side.

Arrangements have been completed for the purchase of 132 acres of land lying east of the college campus. A water plant will be developed on this tract and the land will be used for farm experiments. The produce raised on these acres will be consumed by the students in the dining hall of the college dormitory.

Additional seeding in grass has been finished this spring, greatly improving and extending the lawns of the college campus. Both the hockey field and the football field are now grass.

The college and the training high school track teams are hard at work in preparation for the coming season. There is an abundance of material from which to build strong teams.

In the sixth district commercial contest held here Friday, April 3, Alliance high school won first place, Crawford, second, Gordon, third, and Chadron fourth. The Chadron representatives were: Eva Towle, Robert Long, and La Jeane Carmody. At the close of the contest, Chadron was selected as the place of the contest for the coming year and the following faculty members were elected as officers: Miss Beth Getty, Alliance, president; Miss Margaret Leinemann, Chadron, vice president; Miss Gertrude Johnson, Rushville, secretary; Mr. John Haas, Hay Springs, treasurer; and Miss Maude Ummel, Chadron, member of the governing board of the state contest.

On Wednesday evening, April 8, the audition preceding the district music contest took place in the college assembly hall. Each school is entitled to compete in nine events and the training school is represented in seven of the nine permitted. The school is competing in the following: Orchestra, girls' glee club, string quartette, boys' sextette, girls' sextette, soprano solo, and violin solo. The soloists are Miss Marian Gibson, violin, and Miss La Jeane Carmody, soprano. Miss Henrietta Kuska, Chadron's piano contestant, is unable to remain in the contest because of illness.

In the training high school Eleanor Cook heads the magna cum laude list with an average of 2.95. Gloria Miller is second with 2.93, Estelline Pace and Marie Schaupp third with 2.91, and Sherman Crites, and Paul Roesch fourth with 2.89. The others of magna cum laude rank are: Kathleen Smith, Peggy Fish, and Robert Long. The cum laude list is: Franklin Coffee, William Colwell, Marion Gibson, Margaret Marston, Eleanore Nylen, La Jeane Carmody, Jerry Finney, Eva Towle, Mary Alice Case, Ellen Marriott, Phyliss Proudfit, Alfred Slattery, and Charles Tollman.

The honor roll for the winter quarter has been prepared. Miss Stella Myers, Chadron, heads the college list of magna cum laude with a perfect average, 3.00. Miss Frances Burnham, Bayard, and Lena Schwabe, Chadron, rank second, 2.82, and Lester Anderson, fourth, 2.80. The other magna cum laude students are: Ida Polyfuss, Elgin, Hollis Lintt, Chadron, Emil Prochazka, Hemingford, Andrew Blundell, Chadron, and Ruth Heller, Chadron.

The cum laude list, from 2.00 to 2.50, follows: Paul Bare, Florence Beguin, Emogene Bennett, Catherine Butler, Olive Hartwell, Milton Nissen, Lillian Jacobs, Homer Uglow, Elizabeth Wood, Emma Lou Paige, Grace Fox, Elsie Kellogg, Ila Yount, Janet Halldorsen, Melda Nissen, Emma Richards, Jessie Eckert, Edna Goding, Frances Anderson, Jessie Furman, Douglas Kocher, Edith Tissaw, William Powell, Mable Rogers, Irene McKie, Virginia Smoke, Betty Robinson, Georgia Downing, Dorthy Higgins, Caroline Sandoz, Iva Hamilton, Harold Buckingham, Truman Doyle, Audrey Higgins, Josie Klitzing, La Vere Lecher, Ruby Olson, Paul Parker, Joe Schwieger, and Evelyn Wilson.

Doane Notes

Dr. A. E. Vestling, until recently president of Olivet college, Michigan, but now returning to a professorship in Carleton college, Minnesota, was a visitor on the Doane campus Saturday, April 4. Mr. and Mrs. Vestling were guests of President and Mrs. Dean. The two families were associated at Carleton college before Dr. Dean came to Doane six years ago.

Miss Dorothy Darling, '31, has accepted a position teaching mathematics in the Stromsburg high school.

R. M. Schaffert, '30, of Hayes Center, who is now studying at the University of Cincinnati on a graduate fellowship in physics, has been granted an additional fellowship to continue his studies there for the coming year.

Regular work in the college was somewhat broken the past week on account of two mishaps involving the college faculty. A case of scarlet fever in the family of Mr. Bassett excluded him from his regular work. An automobile accident occurring April 4 and involving Mrs. Blair and her parents at Burlington, Iowa, resulted so seriously for Mrs. Blair's mother, Mrs. Barns, that Professor Blair and Miss Esther Barns, '31, were called to Burlington Monday, April 6.

A paper delivered by Professor R. H. LeRoy recently at the meeting of the American Chemical Society at Indianapolis will be published in the Journal of Chemical Education. Mr. LeRoy represented Nebraska colleges in the senate of the chemical education division. He was appointed a member of an important committee on the second year college courses in chemistry where he serves with Dr. R. W. Tyler, '21, now of the educational department of Ohio State university.

The chapel program Friday morning, April 3, was given by students of the Crete high school. The program included a violin solo by Ivan May of Crete, two numbers by the girls' glee club and two by the high school orchestra. All of these numbers were presented in the regional high school contest at Geneva, Friday, April 10.

President Edwin B. Dean left Wednesday, April 8, for California where he expects to meet Doane alumni and other Doane friends in that region. He expects to be gone about two weeks.

The work has been underway the past week on a new lake which is to appear by throwing a dam across the ravine just east of the Science building. This dam will also serve as part of the highway through the campus from Frees hall.

Dr. John D. Hicks, dean of the college of arts and sciences, will attend a conference of deans of colleges of arts and sciences in state universities of the middle west at Iowa City April 23 and 24.

RAID MAY GIVE CLUE IN SLAYING

Believe Colorado Liquor Gang on "Inside' of Marriott Killing.

FORT MORGAN, Colo., April 11—(U. P.)—A gigantic liquor manufacturing plant, which may have had some connection with the mysterious disappearance and murder of Enid Marriott, Wiggins, Colo., school teacher, was raided tonight.

Three men were arrested and one woman, 600 hundred gallons of whisky ready for marketing, 9,000 gallons of mash and a still capable of producing 500 gallons of whisky at a time, was seized.

The raid was conducted by Sheriff Rufus Johnston, aided by Walter Byron head of a Denver detective agency, and a posse.

Charles Lombardi, 35; John Sabino, 40; both of Denver, Leon Mullen, 55, of Wiggins, and Mrs. Mullen, assertedly acting as lookout, was sunning herself in the nude when the officers arrived at the isolated ranch near where the whisky plant was hidden.

It was the largest bootleg manufacturing plant ever discovered in northeastern Colorado.

For some time there have been reporteds current here that Enid Marriott was slain as a result of a bootleg gang fued. It was reported that she "knew too much" about a liquor gang, and was "taken for a ride."

The four arrested were to be questioned concerning the school teacher's disappearance, November 16, and the discovery of her bullet-riddled body late in December, frozen in an ice clogged irrigation ditch.

TRIPLETS ARRIVE AT THE HOME OF JOBLESS FATHER

CAMDEN, N. J., April 11.—(INS)—For a father to be thrice blessed is a great happiness, Lawrence Burkhard, 30, said today, but just at this time—well.

His landlord has given him notice he will be evicted from his home next week for four months rent overdue.

He and his good wife have four children ranging in age from 5 to 10 years.

Today pretty Mrs. Burkard gave birth to triplets, two boys and a girl.

Music Notes

When Barre-Hill, baritone of the Chicago Civic Opera company is heard in concert here April 26, 1931, with the Lincoln Symphony orchestra, his audience will have the opportunity to hear the youngest American singer portraying leading roles with one of the country's major opera companies.

At an age when most singers are striving to gain a foothold in the concert world, this celebrated young singer is about to enter into his third successive season with the famous Chicago company, having two full years already to his credit. Even before his debut there, however, at the early age of twenty-two, he had already made successful appearances with other well-known opera companies, including the America Opera company and the Cincinnati Zoo Opera company.

From time to time, it has not been unusual to hear of "boy prodigies" and "youth geniuses" in the field of piano or of violin. The public has almost come to expect an early flowering of talent in these several musical channes. Not so, however, in the world of opera. A youthful success in this field has always been looked upon as nothing short of a farity. Perhaps it has been because the latter field holds such exacting qualifications—experience which few can hope to have during early years. It has been said that a truly great singer must be not only a finished singer but a finished actor as well. The success of Barre-Hill at his early age has been "explained" because of this combination—a truly great voice and mature histrionic ability.

Heads Fleet

Adm. F. H. Schofield (above), commander of the battle force, has been designated to succeed Adm. J. V. Chase as commander-in-chief of the fleet when the latter's year in that post is completed in September. Admiral Chase will be assigned to a vacancy in the navy general board with the permanent rank of rear admiral.

Mrs. Thomsen May Be Given a Sanity Test

Wellesley College Graduate Accused Of Killing Wealthy Recluse Pleads Not Guilty.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., April 11—(UP)—Mrs. Frances Thomsen, 20-year-old Wellesley college graduate, sat calmly in a cell in Luzerne county prison tonight, held without bail on a charge of murdering 76-year-old Minnie Dilley, wealthy recluse.

She had entered today a plea of not guilty, despite an alleged confession to authorities.

Evidence including letters presented at today's preliminary hearing tended to show that Mrs. Thomsen had been haunted by the belief that the older woman was planning to found in the Ponoco mountains a "love colony" with Carl Thomsen, the defendant's husband, as "general manager."

A series of rambling letters have come to light, and because of these, authorities admitted, the woman may never come to trial. Instead, she may be given a sanity test.

The letters showed the woman viewed the aged Miss Dilley as a woman who sought to lead Thomsen astray and over whom Miss Dilley wielded a "hypnotic influence."

The fear of the loss of her husband's affection and the breaking up of her own home led to the killing, according to statements read in Judge W. S. McLean's courtroom.

Woodcock Changes Lineup in Forces

WASHINGTON, April 11—(U. P.—Federal Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock took disciplinary action today on the eve of a trip of inspection to the far west and northwest. It may bring other changes in the nation's prohibition forces.

He dismissed one federal agent who has been operating in Maryland, Charles R. McCartney, on charges of stealing money from a negro during investigation of an alleged prohibition violation.

Woodcock also made a change in administration at St. Louis which he said is one of the "sore spots" in enforcement by appointing Jefferson Davis, now a special agent at Philadelphia, as deputy administrator, and demoting James Dillon, who held that job, to second in command under Davis.

Clothiers Pick the "Perfect Man"

Before Clothes Can "Make the Man," the Man Must Have Figure and the Knack of Wearing Them—Despite Conventions, Average Man Is "Well Dressed" If He's Comfortable.

(By International Illustrated News)

NEW YORK.—When the Clothing Designers Executive association met recently in New York, that august body set the machinery in motion for the annual attempt at masculine clothing reform. One of the purposes of the convention was accomplished when the committee selected the "perfect man" from a field of 300 applicants.

The winner of this singular title is John Tempre, 28, of New York. According to the C. D. E. A., Mr. Tempre has the ideal figure for the correct wearing of clothes. And to prove it they modeled a new Summer afternoon dance suit on the lines of his perfect frame.

This business of wearing clothes correctly is a subject that should be included in high school curriculum along with the subjects that equip the pupil with the means for acquiring the clothes. Some men can don a $20 suit and look as if they had just stepped out of the pages of a sartorial magazine. Others are specially tailored by experts yet give the impression of having slept in their clothes.

It is this art of carrying his raiment that has earned for Adolphe Menjou the title of the best dressed man in moviedom. Not that Mr. Menjou hasn't the very best duds that money can buy; it is said that the star could change his complete outfit three times a day for a year without wearing the same suit twice.

Americans, particularly New Yorkers, regard Mayor James J. Walker, affectionately known as "Jimmy", as the peak of sartorial perfection. No one has ever seen Hizzoner appear otherwise than as if he had just been unpacked from a bandbox. Like Mr. Menjou, Jimmy is a past master in the art of carrying his clothes, and from the soles of his faultless footgear to the crown of his inimitably titled hat he is the last word in style.

But it is to his royal highness, the Prince of Wales, that the honors for the greatest influence on men's fashions must go. Prince Eddie is considered one of the world's foremost connoisseurs and leaders of masculine styles. He has but to wear a certain type of collar, hat or tie and the youth of the world will follow his lead.

Every once in a while a movement is started rolling to make the male fashion-minded, but, so far, they have all ended in that conservative creature just sticking to the old tried and true standard.

Last summer an attempt was made to popularize shorts for hot weather wear. It was doomed to failure from the moment of its inception for the simple reason that men's knees crave privacy. They do not lend themselves to publicity, lacking as they do the beautiful, rounded symmetry that distingushes the limb of the female of the species.

After all, why bother about styles? The term "well dressed man" is merely a matter of viewpoint. The average man considers himself well dressed if his clothing is neat and comfortable and he is quite happy if allowed to follow his natural inclinations in the way of what he shall wear.

Raymond Duncan, brother of the late Isadora Duncan, has emancipated himself from the slavery of clothes. He makes his own and they consist of a long toga-like garment, a pair of sandals and a piece of string around his head. The purpose of the last named article isn't quite clear but accuracy forbids its omission. Mr. Duncan in that outfit looks like a carbon copy of an an old Roman senator, and who would want to resemble Jimmy Walker when it's so easy to look like Julius Caesar?

Modern Home Movement Has Civic Approval

Property Values Grow With Improvements

Modernization Pays Dividends in Comfort

It goes without saying that a city or town s judged largely by the appearance of its homes. The stranger who drives through the streets passes summary judgment on what he sees. The town is good or bad, depending on whether the residences are modern or antiquated in appearance.

That is just one aspect of the problem of modernization that is engaging the attention of the public at the present time. Civic pride demands that the city shall be comprised of smart appearing homes. The liveliness and rogressiveness of the community from the outsiders' viewpoint depends largely on appearance.

Not only this but the desirability of living in a certain section of a town is based largely on the appearance of the homes in that vicinity. The better part of town is usually that part which can boast of the newer residences.

Desirability Measures Values.

The desirability of a house is in a large degree a measure of its value. This desirability depends not only on its external appearance but also on the arrangement of the interior, the method of heating, the type of plumbing, the style of electrical fixtures, the choice of painting and decorating. If the home is up-to-date in these respects, it carries a higher value. If it is not modern, no matter how strong and substantially built, no matter how sturdy its construction, its intrinsic value is low. The home owner with a modern apearing residence can command a decidedly higher price than his neighbor next door whose home is old in design and layout.

And he can sell this modern residence in a slow market for these reasons.

Property value depends largely on the type of homes in the locality. The moderization of a residence will add value, not only to the house, itself, but also to property near it. This movement extended to a neighborhood will increase property value by ten or twenty per cent.

A Good Business Proposition.

Modernizing a residence is a good business proposition. It lifts the house from the undesirables into the desirable classification. Old and undesirable property is good only for a first mortgage loan of less than 25 per cent of its value.

On the other hand the same property modernized becomes good for a first mortgage loan of 50 per cent of its value.

The appraiser of the house judges largely by its appearance. He estimates its value not from the soundness of its timbers or the value of good workmanship that was put into it by the early building contractor, but by the outside lines, the floors, the plumbing, the lighting fixtures and other visible evidences of up-to-date construction. Such an estimate may seem superficial but it is based largely on the proposition of a quick sale. The appraiser is basing his figures on the reaction of a possible purchaser. He knows that the average purchaser of a home will buy sooner if the residence has the elements of modernization.

Hence the desirability of investing dollars and cents on modernizing program has a fundamental element of gain. The owner not only enjoys greater comforts and beauty but he also secures a greater value in his home for the money invested.

Modernization Brings New Comforts.

That's the masculine side of the picture. The man thinks of a better investment. Terms of value mean much to him. The woman, on the other hand, desires a modern home because of pride of possession, beauty of surroundings, comfort and utility.

Modernization brings new living comforts. Old fashioned stoves or antiquated types of heating plants are relegated to the background in favor of newer, modern methods of heating. Ugly, dusty-looking floors give way to beautiful hardwood, highly polished or waxed and easy to clean. Dingy electrical fixtures are superseded by modern fixtures and an abundance of electrical outlets, conveniently located to facilitate the use of the varied electrical appliances that ease the housewife's burden.

Modernization, you see, is more than a matter of the exterior lines of the house. It goes deep into the lives of the occupants. It touches them in every phase of their existence. It adds to the richness and fullness of their life.

An Old House Made New and Modern

This smart looking residence shows the magic touch o f modernization. Built forty years ago, it has been clothed in the simple effective lines of today. A far cry from its fo rmer appearance as depicted below.

This ugly shell of a house was the eye-sore of the neighborhood, yet was easily transformed into the beautiful dwelling pictured at the top. No house is hopeless when an experienced architect or contractor is given full sway.

Beautiful Residence Made From Old Worn-Out House

What moderization means when applied to the exterior of a house is aptly illustrated by the views on this page.

These cuts show more clearly than any description the radical improvement which takes place when a skilled architect or experienced contractor assumes the problem of improving a piece of property.

The illustration to the left shows a home that for sheer beauty of lines can seldom be surpassed. It is a home that any man or woman would be proud to own. It shows taste, refinement and an artistic apreciation of the value of simple lines.

Once an Eye-sore.

Yet this residence grew from the drab, dejected, lifeless dusk of a house shown below. Before the magic of modernization touched it, the house was one to be avoided. It was an eye-sore of the neighborhood, a shack rather than a dw lling. A person with any pretentions to social respect would shun living in such a place.

Notice how cleverly the builder has applied his art to the old shell. These before and after pictures show how simple it was to transform the ugly duck house into the beautiful swan home.

Your Cold House May Be Due to Poor Construction

Your Heating Plant May Be Doing a Good Job With Great Difficulties.

If you had trouble in heating your house during the past winter, it is unfair to blame the cause on the heating plant without making a thorough, impartial investigation to see if other factors enter to aid in giving you a cold house.

The heating plant of a residence, if properly installed, should give reliable, even heat during the coldest of weather.

When your home is subjected to constant cold, check not only into the heating plant but also the windows, the floors and the insulating of the walls. Any of these may be at fault and entirely to blame for those high fuel bills.

Windows and Floors Cause Drafts.

The windows may be loose, warped or shrunken. Loose windows allow the ready entrance of cold air and the house on the windward side will generally be cold and drafty if the entrance of air through the windows is permitted. The remedy may be weather-stripping, fitting storm windows or replacing the furring.

Poor floors often allow cold air to creep in, thus disturbing the heating arrangements and causing the fuel bills to mount to an unreasonable figure. Poor floors should be replaced by well seasoned hard wood. Properly installed by an experienced builder using good material, your floors should be practically airtight and cold resisting.

The 1931 baseball season is half over and the clubs will now leave the sports page and do battle on the diamond in an effort to break the eight-way tie for the pennant.

Organized baseball first made sure that Villa was dead before invading Mexico.

HUSKER GRIDMEN WIND UP SPRING DRILLS

Bright Prospects For Fall Campaign

Varsity Men Nose Ahead of Freshmen, 14-6, In Final Clash of Nebraska's Practice Preparations for the 1931 Season.

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

The breaks of a football game which so often play a determining factor in the great collegiate sport came thick and fast as the varsity defeated the freshmen, 14-6, at Memorial stadium Saturday afternoon. The game was the finale of a six weeks' spring practice period for Coach Dana X. Bible's Cornhuskers.

After three periods of stubbornly contested football, the spring practice game cracked wide open in the final period, as the two teams registered three touchdowns.

Varsity Scores First.

The varsity's two counters came first, Witt intercepting a Norwood pass and sprintnig 60 yards for the first touchdown. The second tally came a few minutes later when Sauer got off a poor punt into the wind, the ball sailing out of bounds on the frosh 19-yard line. Jack Miller and Kreizinger then ripped through the frosh line for consistent gain, Kreizinger driving across on a three-yard plunge for the touchdown.

Kreizinger added the first extra point when he drove his toe into a placekick, the ball hitting the upright and bounding inside and over the cross bar. Jack Miller plunged for the point after the second touchdown.

Freshmen Come Right Back.

The cheers for the varsity rally had hardly died down before the freshmen methodically set to work to manufaciure a touchdown on their own account. A stalwart varsity forward wall, which was given some fine support in the secondary by Lee Penney, had the frosh drives of Sauer, Masterson and Bauer well under control and so the yearlings switched to aerial football.

Going into the teeth of a discouraging cross wind, Bauer started shooting passes and finally connected with one to Masterson. "Big Bernie" sprinted to a 49-yard gain before he was finally downed

Tilden Party Due Sunday Afternoon

Big Bill Tilden, Karel Kozeluh and other members of the tennis party who will appear at the University of Nebraska coliseum Monday evening are scheduled to reach Lincoln, Sunday, at 1:20 p. m., according to word received by university athletic authorities.

BIG BILL DATED DISPLAY SKILL

Tilden and Troupe Show Their Wizardry Monday Night at Coliseum.

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

Tenn's royalty of national and international importance will be in Lincoln Monday for an evening exhibition at the University of Nebraska coliseum. The display will bring together one of the greatest array of sport celebrities ever assembled in Nebraska and certainly the finest assortment of racqueteers capable of displaying a dazzling exhibition of court technique.

The program for the Monday exhibition includes:

Singles—William Tilden, manytimes national and international champion and world professional champion, vs. Karel Kozeluh, European pro champion and former world's professional champion.

Singles—Emmett Pare, Chicago national clay courts champion, and Bobby Seller, former Pacific coast ranking player.

Doubles—Tilden and Pare vs. Kozeluh and Seller.

Second Nebraska Appearance.

It will be the second appearance in Nebraska of the Tilden troupe of professional tennis players. Big Bill and Kozeluh mixed in Omaha several weeks ago in a thrilling five-set match which finally found Tilden on the winning end. Tilden is reported to have declared his Omaha exhibition the greatest of his long career. In fact so interesting was the Omaha match that a good-sized delegation from the metropolis will make the trip to Lincoln to see the return engagement.

Business Manager of Athletics John K. Selleck of the university estimates a crowd of several thousand will be at the coliseum for the match, reservations indicating that Lincoln will be the mecca for a horde of Cornhusker tennis enthusiasts the night of the match. Early ticket sales have been reported from Seward, York, Crete, Norfolk, Holdrege, Ashland, Hastings, Fairbury, Tecumseh Giltner, Fremont, Columbus, Grand Island, Nebraska City and many other points.

Special Canvas Court.

A special court of heavy canvas will be spread on the coliseum floor for the Tilden-Kozeluh exhibition. This court, which is part of the eequipment carried by the troupe, enables the players to receive practically same bounce as on an out door court. The caliber of tennis displayed in the Omaha matches and other contests of the tour settled the question of whether tennis can be played under the bright lights. At Omaha, Tilden and Kozeluh exchanged lightning volleys and drives which sent the ball zipping across the net in rallies which brought 15 to 20 exchanges before the point was finally decided.

Sport fans who travel to the coliseum Monday will see tennis as it is played by experts. The exhibition enables the masters to display every variety of stroke and shot in the book from the sensational overhead work and powerful volleys of Tilden to the skillfully executed placements of the clever Kozeluh.

Big Bill's Cannonball.

Even the cannon-ball service of Big Bill will be on display. At Omaha, Tilden electrified the crowd with a sudden display of his powerful service by cutting loose with a Thar's Plenty Power In Them Thar Racquets.

Big Bill Tilden, internationally famous tennis star, who will meet Karel Kozeluh at the University of Nebraska coliseum Monday evening, is a man of many racquets. If you don't think so, just take a look at the above picture which shows Big Bill with an assortment of the racquets he uses during his matches. His cannon-ball service and powerful drives demand frequent changes and Tilden is never caught unprepared.

PRACTICE TEST BY BROWNEMEN

Nebraska Baseball Men Getting Ready For Iowa Series.

Giving 33 players a chance to exhibit their skill in the national pastime, Coach W. H. Browne sent his entire University of Nebraska diamond squad through a nine-inning practice game Saturday afternoon at Landis Field as a means of choosing his first and second squads. The Regulars trounced the Yannigans, 14-8.

"I am well satisfied with the results so far," stated Coach Browne after the practice. In view of the fact that the squad has only been able to get five outdoor practices, the Husker mentor is of the belief that his squad is rounding into shape for the approaching games with Iowa at Iowa City.

Browne Picks First Squad.

Browne announced the list of men who would comprise the first squad following the mix. This list is only temporary, the "B" players having a chance to regain their positions after the end of this week. Charley Black, husker basketball mentor, will have charge of the substitute squad.

The men selected by Browne to fight for places on the Iowa journey include Williams, Wuelser and

Ice Hockey Series Stands at Two-All

MONTREAL, Que., April 11—(INS)—Fighting with the desperation of drowning men, the Montreal Canadiens drew up even with the Chicago Blackhawks in the Stanley cup series here tonight by trimming the Chicagoans, 4 to 2.

It was the fourth game of the series, which now stands two-all. A playoff encounter will be necessary. The prize is the Stanley cup, now a bit tarnished and battered and which cost $50 when it was posted, but withal the most coveted hockey award on the American continent.

The hotly fought contest was interrupted in the first period when a penalty became the signal for a demonstration on the part of the crowd, which heaved all forms of objects onto the ice. Included were many rotten eggs. It took several minutes to clear the debris from the rink.

GOOD MARKS ON HASTINGS OVAL

Six Records Broken By Athletes in Annual Relay Carnival.

HASTINGS, Neb., April 11.—(Special.)—College and university athletes from five states, strengthened by a splendid array of high school stars, raised havoc with Hastings college relays records here today, when six marks went by the boards.

A strong wind from the south, which gained momentum as the meet progressed, bothered throughout the afternoon and ruined other anticipated smashings of records.

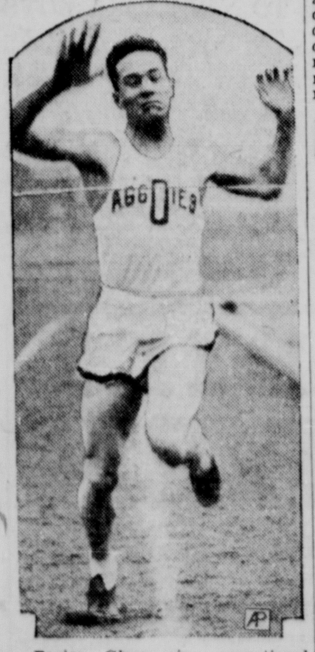

Strangely enough, it was the individual events that received the worst slaughtering—the two-mile, discus, javelin, high jump and broad jump registering new records. The only relays record to be lowered was the 440-yard event, Hastings high school clipping nearly half a second from the time to establish a new mark of 45.7 seconds.

Lydic Wins Two-Mile.

Frank Lydic, Kearney Normal distance ace, started the record shattering early in the afternoon.

New Sprint Ace.

Peyton Glass, jr., sensational sophomore sprinter of the Oklahoma A. & M. track squad bids fair to succeed Cy Leland and Claude Bracey as the southwest's dash star.

Glass was unknown until he won the "century" at the Southwest Exposition this spring at Fort Worth, Tex., in 9.6 seconds, equaling Leland's record time for the meet. Later, at the Texas Relays at Austin he was twice clocked in 9.5, a mark which, if approved, would tie the world's record. In high school, Glass specialized in the broad jump. He is 19 years old.

Washington in Sweep Over California In Boat Race.

OAKLAND ESTUARY, Cal., April 11—(UP)—Reversing advance form, the varsity, junior varsity and freshman crews from the University of Washington made a clean sweep of the California crews in their annual regatta today, establishing new meet records in all three events.

The Washington varsity crew skimmed over the three-mile course in 14 minutes 53.4 seconds, the fastest time in the history of the dual regatta.

Previously the Washington junior university and freshman crews had won to set new meet records in both events.

The freshmen covered the two-mile course in nine minutes, 56 sec-

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 11.—(UP)—Gar Wood, American racer, will not attempt to break the world speed-boat record until Monday, he announced at 4:30 today, after strong east winds had prevented him from "giving the gun" to Miss America IX on the Indian river.

MAX IN MARKET FOR RASSELERS

Lincoln Promoter Seeks Opponent for Krieger In Mat Rumpus.

Business of digging up a suitable opponent for Adam Krieger in a Lincoln mat encounter is easier to talk about than to accomplish. Max Johnson, who revived the rasseling racket three weeks ago at the new Lincoln auditorium, has been searching hither and yon for a grappler of the 190-200 pound weight division to pit against the capital city bone-crusher, but to date is no farther advanced than when he started.

Roy Gillis, Sioux City 195-pounder and claimant of the national policemen's championship, hinted that he would be pleased to take a whirl at Adam's game—that is, he dropped said hint two weeks ago when Promoter Max visited in Sioux City, but when actually given his chance to meet Krieger, the Sioux City detective had an excuse for dodging the issue.

Gillis Ducks Out.

"I wired Gillis a few days ago," Promoter Johnson said Saturday, "and offered him a Krieger match in Lincoln, on terms that Gillis told me in Sioux City he would accept for coming here. The response I got was that Gillis had a lame ankle and couldn't make connections here. As Gillis would outscale Adam at least 17 pounds, I thought he would take me up.

"I am now on the trail of two heavyweights, George Kogut of Chicago and George Mack of Milwaukee, both of whom have been recommended to me as worthy performers. I have sent wires to their managers and expect early responses. These two fellows, Kogut and Mack, are 195-pounders and performers of several years' experience in professional mat circles.

Willing Take Short End.

"Krieger would be taking the short end of the weights in meeting either one of this pair, but Adam assures me that he is willing to start taking on the tough ones, even if they are heavyweights, as he realizes that a bout with an opponent big enough to have a good chance to put him down would be

JACK MAY SEEK DIVORCE IN RENO

Dempsey Letter to Wife Places Decision In Her Hands.

RENO, Nev., April 11—(UP)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, admitted here tonight that "he might ask for a divorce" from Estelle Taylor, screen actress.

"It's just possible that I might file a divorce action," he said, "but what I'm really here for is a rest.

"Estelle and I have had a little spat, all right. Those things are usually patched up, though, you know."

Dempsey arrived here this morning, stating then that he merely was after a rest prescribed for him by his physician.

He denied then that he contemplated filing action against Miss Taylor. Neither had they had any disagreement, he said. Later, however, he admitted a minor dispute with his wife and still later he said it might result in a divorce action.

Puts It Up to Estelle.

"It depends mostly on letters I've written to her, I guess," he said. "I want to patch the thing up and I'm sure it can and will be fixed up."

Dempsey explained that his primary interest in coming to Nevada was to regain his health.

"I got all jumpy and nervous," he said, "so the doctors called me off my tour and told me to come out here for several weeks."

Dempsey said he expected to be in Nevada several weeks. Only a six weeks' residence is required for a divorce here under the new law that was passed at the last session of the legislature.

Explains Purpose of Trip.

RENO, Nev., April 11—(INS)—"My personal and family affairs have nothing to do with my visit to Reno." Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, declared here tonight.

He was commenting on reports that a quarrel with his wife, Estelle Taylor Dempsey, motion picture actress, brought him to this famous divorce center where six-week div-

AFFAIRS that are fistic are in a sadly tangled snarl, which proves again that when Tex Rickard, the old master of ballyhoo, passed over the hill, the ring racket lost his wisest promoter.

The fist industry is in a bad way in practically every spot on the map where glove-swinging once paid rich dividends. Madison Square Garden, capital of the glove realm when Tex was its guiding genius, has lost every semblance of the monopoly that it once enjoyed.

Folks at the Garden thought they had another Sharkey-Schmeling battle in the bag, but Maxie declined to have it out with the Boston sailor and, for his refusal, drew a decree of suspension by the Empire state commission.

This particular play by the commish, in which it claimed arbitrary power, meant nothing to Maxie, as he turned right around on his heel and signed to risk his sceptre in a rumpus with Will Stribling.

The German fellow is to drag down the long end of the box office intake at Cleveland, which is to be officially selected as the scene of the battle, so the suspension plastered on him in New York was, after all, a meaningless gesture.

AFTER being chiseled out of the proposed Schmeling-Sharkey brawl, the Garden takes another punch below the belt. Dapper Jimmy Johnston, favored child of the New York commission, thumbs his nose at the Six Hundred Millionaires, backers of the Garden, and deftly proceeds to hook Sharkey, booking him for a joust with Primo

WHITNEY COLT FACES STARTER

Equipoise Prepared For First Appearance In Race This Week.

BY THOMAS H. NOONE.

NEW YORK, April 11—(UP)—Equipoise, favorite in the future book wagering on the Kentucky Derby, will make his first appearance as a three-year-old at Havre De Grace, Maryland, next Monday. He will meet half a dozen thoroughbreds of his own age at six furlongs in the Glen Oaks purse, which features the opening day program.

Cornelius V. Whitney, owner of the handsome son of Pennant and Swinging, has high hopes of winning the Pimlico Preakness with this fellow on May 9 and then shipping him on to Louisville to take part in the historic Kentucky stake the following week-end. Each race carries $50,000 added money.

High Up In Winnings.

Equipoise wound up his juvenile racing season the leading money winner of his age, with earnings of $156,935 to his credit. Should he manage to duplicate the feat of Gallant Fox in winning both the Preakness and the Derby he would stand an excellent chance of equalling or exceeding the money-winning record of $328,165 amassed by the "Fox of

DENTON HI VICTOR IN TRACK COMPET

DENTON, Neb., April 11.—Denton high defeated Raymond in track yesterday, 77½ to 26½. Denton swept every first place, Stoneman being high scorer with 24½ points. Results:

12-pound shot put—Won by F. Riley (D); second, Mickle (D); third, W. Riley (R). Distance, 34 feet 11 inches.

Mile run—Won by Mickle (D); second Sedlacek (R); third, Ivey (R). Time 5 minutes 25 seconds.

100-yard dash—Won by Stoneman (D); second, F. Riley (D); third, Ingersoll (R). Time, 11 6-10 seconds.

Pole vault—Won by Mayer (D) Smith (D), Stoneman (D), tied. Height, 6 feet 9 inches.

60-yard high hurdles—Won by Smith (D); second, Stearns (R); and Hellerich (R), tied. Time 14 seconds.

High jump—Won by Stoneman (D); second, Mayer (D); third, Ivey (R) and F. Riley (D), tied. Height, 4 feet 11 inches.

440-yard dash—Won by Stoneman (D); second, Hellerich (R); third, Dedlacek (R). Time, 58 seconds.

220-yard dash—Won by F. Riley (D); second, Ingersoll (R); third, Olson (R). Time, 25 7-10 seconds.

110-yard low hurdles—Won by Smith (D); second, Stearns (R); third, Carstensen (D). Time, 18 1-10 seconds.

Broad jump—Won by Stoneman (D); second, Helerich (R); third, Sedlacek (R). Distance, 18 feet 9½ inches.

880-yard run—Won by Mickle (D); second, Peterson (D); third, Hellerich (R); Time, 2 minutes 19 seconds.

880-yard relay—Won by Danton (Mickle' Baughman, Stoneman, F. Riley). Time, 1 minute 51 2-10 reconds.

Kansas Relays Next.

The first event on the outdoor program is the Kansas relays at Lawrence and Coach Henry F. Schulte plans to head a party of more than 20 athletes to the Jayhawker carnival next Saturday.

Foremost among the Nebraska competitors will be Hugh Rhea, husky shot-putter, who boasts the record of being all-victorious in his weight campaigning this season.

Rhea, in fact, got away to a flying shart on the rest of the squad by making a solo trip to the Texas relays, where he copped the shot events at both Austin and Houston.

Exceeds 51 Feet.

His best mark of 51 feet 2⅛ inches, made at the Texas carnival, hung up a new Nebraska record and marked Rhea as one of the handful of American college athletes who have shoved the 16-pound iron ball farther than 51 feet.

Rhea's progress with the shot this season has been remarkable. The Arlington athlete has one more year of collegiate eligibility, yet his record for the junior year campaign to date reads:

Indoor Competition.

K. C. A. C., 48 feet 9 inches.
Kaggie dual, 50 feet ½ inch.
Big Six indoor, 48 feet 3¾ inches.
Illinois relays, 49 feet 11¼ inches.

Outdoor Competition.

Texas relays, 51 feet 2⅛ inches.
Rice relays, 50 feet 10 inches.

The Husker's best effort last year was 50 feet 2 inches, made in an early season meet at Oklahoma. He won the 1930 Kansas relays event with a mark of 48 feet 6 inches and got 49 feet 2¾ inches to place third in the national collegiate meet last June. The national meet was won

CAMPOLO COMES BACK TO U. S. A.

Argentine Giant Booked To Battle Loughran In New York.

NEW YORK, April 11—(U. P.)—Vittorio Campolo, giant Argentine heavyweight, is scheduled to arrive Monday on the liner Southern Cross, after vacationing in Buenos Aires. The South American is expected to make his first start against Tommy Loughran here on May 15. The bout has not been officially announced by Madison Square Garden, but both men are reported to have agreed to the match.

Loughran, one-time light-heavyweight champion, is in the midst of a spirited comeback and already has disposed of Max Baer, Ernie Schaaf and Tuffy Griffiths. A victory over Campolo would place Loughran well up among the leaders.

Kid Chocolate Coming Back.

Luis Gutteriez is back from Cuba, bringing word of Kid Chocolate, spectacular little negro fighter. Chocolate, according to his manager, will arrive in New York May 1 and promptly challenge the winner of the Tony Canzoneri-Jack Kid Berg match for the lightweight title.

Chocolate left here a featherweight, but since having his tonsils and adenoids removed, has added weight and will confine his activities to the lightweight class.

Klein Signs.

Chuck Klein, slugging outfielder of the Philadelphia National league team, signed a three-year contract after stubbornly holding out during the training season.

COLLEGE CHAMP "DIXIE" WINNER

Dunlap Victor In Final Match of Tourney On Pinehurst Links.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 11—(INS)—George T. Dunlap of New York, national intercollegiate champion, this afternoon won the North and South amateur golf championship when he defeated S. M. Sacks, jr., Pittsburgh, six and five on the thirty-first hole of their final match.

The first six holes of the match were halved. Dunlap first took the lead on the seventh when Parks got into a trap. The lead from then on see-sawed back and forth between the duelists until the half-way mark was reached. Dunlap was then leading two up.

Defied Steady Rain.

The afternoon round was started in a steady rain, which had fallen intermittently throughout the morning, and the greens were very heavy.

Despite the fact that he fell into a trap on the nineteenth, Dunlap halved the hole in five. He went to the turn in 39 to stand four up, gaining two holes on the trip out.

Bishop, Boley Stellar Duo At Keystone Sack

Max and Joe Starting Their Tenth Season as Pair Infield Dazzlers

BY FRED TURBYVILLE.

The start of the 1931 American league baseball season will be the start of the tenth season of the famous Bishop and Boley team of keystone stars.

It is the fifth season the "BB's of the A's" have worked side by side in Philadelphia. Previously, they had paired up for five years during the time the Baltimore Orioles were winning seven straight pennants in the International league.

Their Record Unique.

And the end is not in sight. Connie Mack has brought in several reinforcements in the last few years, but no young infielder will supply either Max or Joe until one or both of the veterans start slipping.

Mack values the teamwork record of his "BM's" and realizes that a pair working so long together has something on a new combination, even though a newcomer might show greater individual brilliance.

There is no combination in baseball that has such a record, and when the day arrives for the breaking up of the "BB's" it will be done with considerable relutance.

No two men of a baseball team need the co-ordination that is required of a keystone pair. Their smoothness of functioning in infield play is comparable to that of a basketball quintet that has worked together for several seasons.

Make It Tough On Youngsters.

That is the chief reason it has been so hard for some of Mack's young infielders to break into the lineup. A young shortstop or second baseman with the world's champs will have to wait longer for his chance than he would with some other team in the same league.

Joe Boley will be 33 years old July 26, while Max Bishop will be 32 on Oct. 5—about the time the A's hope to have another world's championship on the fire.

But though Joe is the older of the pair, he hasn't been in baseball as long. Max started a year earlier, in 1918, and at once became the regular second baseman of the Baltimore club.

Won String of Pennants.

Joe came along the next year, 1919, and was a regular from the start. That is the year the "BB's" started their long association.

Through the seasons of 1919, 1920, 1921, 1922 and 1923 they played side by side with seldom a substitution. And in each of those years the Orioles won a pennant. In fact, the start of their teaming up was the start of Jack Dunn's winning.

As Max beat Joe into the minor leagues, so did he beat him into the majors. But that wasn't because Max was the greater player. Jack Dunn wouldn't sell Boley—kept him three years after he had let Bishop advance to the Athletics.

Spurned Big Money for Boley.

Boley was the star shortstop of the Baltimore club for eight years and Dunn could have sold him for big money at any time after the first two years.

At one time Dunn refused $125,000 for Boley's release, saying he would keep Joe as long as the Orioles were winning pennants. After failing to win in 1926, Dunn let Boley advance, but he didn't get any amount such as he had been offered a few years previous.

Thus Bishop and Boley were apart three years. And by the time Joe arrived, Max was a fixture. It wasn't long before Joe was a fixture, too. They took up where they had left off in Baltimore in 1923 and gave Mack the best keystone combination he'd had in many seasons.

Four Years In Phily.

They have played together four years in Philadelphia. This is the fifth. Neither has batted as well as he did in Baltimore, for with the Orioles both Max and Joe were star stickmen.

Max has batted .268 in seven years and Joe has hit .269 in four years. Each has had one standout season—Max in 1928 with a mark of .316, and Joe in 1927 with a mark of .311.

Boley batted well over .300 in six of the eight years he was with the Orioles. Bishop was twice over the .300 mark.

Veterans In Game.

They certainly are veterans in baseball, for this is Bishop's fourteenth season and the thirteenh for Boley. But they started rather young and appear to have several good years before them.

They've done well in baseball earnings, for both of them were well paid in Baltimore. Boley received as high as $9,000 a year from Jack Dunn. And they had two big world series cuts and hope for another one this fall.

a better attraction than a match with an easy mark.

"I am taking Adam at his word and making a hard try to make connections with a grappler that perhaps may have the goods to put the Lincoln man on his back. I have offered either Kogut or Mack the April 20 date and hope to close the negotiations within the next two days."

Kogut Bothered McGill.

By thumbing the Omaha newspaper files, Manager Johnson has ascertained that Kogut and Mack both appeared on a mat program in the Nebraska metropolis several months ago. Kogut tackled Pat McGill, one of the top-notch heavyweights in the mat game who scales now at 220 pounds, and held McGill at bay something like 40 minutes.

Mack was on the same card, but his bout with Ernie Hassen, Omaha 225-pounder, was not finished, State Boxing Commissioner Ira Vorhies ordering the referee to halt the match because the rasslers were making matters a bit too rough.

Track and field is more popular than baseball in high schools and colleges of California.

Alex Joins Bearded Team.

STICKS TO A'S AS LIKELY WINNERS

Critic Figures Connie's Club Has Stuff to Win Another Pennant.

BY LES CONKLIN.

NEW YORK, April 11—(I. N. S.)—The Athletics by a head, Washington by a length, and the Yankees by a nose.

That is the way the 1931 American league sweepstakes shapes up three days before the opening of the campaign. The writer believes the teams will finish as follows:

1—Philadephia	5—Detroit
2—Washington	6—Chicago
3—New York	7—St. Louis
4—Cleveland	8—Boston

That is exactly the way they finished last season, except that the Browns wound up sixth and Chicago seventh. The line of demarcation between the first six clubs was sharply drawn. The Mackmen finished eight games in front of Washington; the Senators led the Yanks by the same margin; New York had a five-game edge on Cleveland, and the Indians were six games in front of the Tigers, who, in turn, finished 11 games ahead of St. Louis.

Predicts Tighter Race.

The writer looks for a closer race this year, but believes that the A's championship machine still is powerful enough to make it three pennants in a row. The only other three-time winner in the league's history was the invincible New York Yankee outfit of 1926, 1927 and 1928.

Grove, Earnshaw, Simmons, Cochrane and Foxx should pull the A's through. Earnshaw has not broken into the box scores yet and may get off to a slow start; Shores has not been so hot this spring and old Jack Quinn is gone; but, to offset these factors, Connie Mack has uncovered one of the greatest pitching finds of the year in Hank McDonald, 19-year-old rookie from Portland.

Senator Strong in Pitching.

Washington, whose pennant drive was halted last year when Heinie Manush was injured, has the best balanced pitching staff in the league and should give the Athletics a close battle. The Nats are weak behind the bat, however, and such players as Sam Jones, Joe Judge and Sam Rice are no longer in their prime.

The Yanks, who batted .309 as a team last season and scored the amazing total of 1,062 runs, have it in them to dethrone the champions. Joe McCarthy, New York's new pilot, is certain to get the maximum results from his material, but even Marse Joe's dynamic efforts and the slugging of Ruth, Gehrig, Dickey, Lazzeri, et al, may be offset by the bugaboo of poor pitching. Pipgras will not be available until June, Pennock and Wells are old men in a baseball sense, and Johnson and Sherid are not certainities.

Indians' Infield Wobbly.

Cleveland is likely to get better pitching from Hudlin, Brown, Harder and Craghead to help Wes Ferrell, but the left side of the infield is wobbly. Moe Berg, bought from the White Sox yesterday, and Luke Sewell give the club a strong catching staff.

New blood seems to have done wonders for the Detroit Tigers, who have made a good record against major league opposition in exhibition games. Although weak at shortstop, Detroit has good pitchers and may land in the first division if Cleveland should falter.

Sox Show Improvement.

St. Louis, with three new infielders and one new outfielder, is in the experimental stage. The White Sox, with promising recruits in Appling at shortstop and Simons in center field, and the veteran Lu Blue steadying the infield at first base, should advance a notch under the capable leadership of Donie Bush.

Shano Collins hasn't much material with which to work at Boston, although the Red Sox have compiled an excellent record in the Grapefruit circuit this spring.

series of rifle-speed shots which swept him through to victory in the tense moments of the deciding set.

Few men, if any, have dominated their particular sport as has Big Bill Tilden. In spite of a stormy career with the American Lawn Tennis association, which would have worn down and wrecked the nerves of the average champion, Tilden has gone ahead to compile a glittering record which cannot be matched by any other competitor of modern times. His record:

Tilden's Dazzling Record.

Eleven years American Davis cup star.

Seven times American champion.

Seven times American clay court champion.

Five times American doubles champion.

Five times American mixed double champion.

Ten times No. 1 ranking player of America.

Three times singles champion of England.

Two times singles champion of France, singles champion of New Zealand, singles champion of Italy, singles champion of Austria.

Karel Kozeluh, Tilden's opponent Monday night, has been a rather obscure figure in the tennis world until the past few years. Tennis professionals were kept in the background until the past two seasons, when recognition of this branch of the net sport gave the "pros" their chance.

Former World's Pro Champ.

Kozeluh, native Czechoslovakian, learned tennis caddying for a rich tennis devotee in Prague. Kozeluh coached the American Davis cup team in Paris. He is a former European and world's pro champion and considered an authority on the game.

Emmet Pare and Bobby Seller, other members of the party, are outstanding players who recently joined the professional ranks. Pare is present Chicago national clay court champion, while Seller was ranking player on the Pacific coast before joining the Tilden troupe.

The tennis party carriers everything necessary to make a spectacular indoor show. Dr. Lock Wei, captain of the Chinese Davis cup team, will referee the coliseum matches. A battery of ball boys and net men, all of whom travel with the troupe, complete the crew necessary to stage tennis indoors in the same big league fashion as presented outdoors at Forrest Hills.

Road to Title Is Wide Open

Watts Gunn, fellow-townsman of Bobby Jones and who once threatened to be quite a rival, talks about this year's championship:

"With Jones and Von Elm out, the national amateur will be won by whoever happens to be "hot" the week it is played."

ONCE A CHAMP; HAS-BEEN NOW

Paul Berlenbach Trying Come Back But Is Only Pathetic Figure.

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

NEW YORK, April 11—(INS)—Five years ago, Paul Berlenbach, the "Astoria Assassin," was the light-heavyweight champion of the world He was riding the crest of fame, a "big shot" in his chosen profession. Every where he went friends slapped him on the back and told him he was a great man. Whenever he fought, big crowds went to see him deal his famous knockout left hook.

Today Behlenbach is a pathetic "has-been" trying to kid Father Time and stake a "come-back" in the gruelling and heartless business of busting beaks. It isn't that Berlenbach is broke. He still has a substantial bank roll, but he thinks he needs ready cash and, besides, the lure of the game is calling him.

Paid Him Paltry $40.

Berlenbach was paid a paltry $40 in Brooklyn the other night for knocking out "Six Finger" Eddie Clark in the third round of a preliminary bout at the New Broadway Arena. This was quite a financial comedown for Berlenbach who, in his last appearance in Brooklyn, was guaranteed $125,000.

Only a small turnout of fans witnessed "Oom Paul's" achievement, if, indeed, it could be called that. They scarceley could have paid more than $2,000. And yet less than five years ago, on July 26, 1926, a vast crowd paid $478,000 to see him drop his title on a close decision to Jack Delaney in Ebbets Field, not a great distance from where he fought the other night.

Pathetic Figure.

Berlenbach's "come-back" showing was rather pathetic. Clark, a negro veteran, had little to offer. The swarthy, black-haired Berlenbach crawled through the ropes and took the same corner that he occupied for his tenth professional fight with Jimmy Darcy. A touching gesture. And, by a strange coincidence. Eddie Forbes, who referred his bout with Darcy, was again the third man in the ring. Berlenbach was seconded by Dan Hickey, the veteran trainer who made a champion of Paul. After Berlenbach had 'k. o.'ed' Clark in the third, old timers recalled that he had "k. o.ed" Darcy in the third, too. The first Darcy bout was staged less than two weeks before Berly's sensational four-round defeat of Jack Delaney in the old Madison Square Garden.

Ghost Of Old Self.

But the Berlenbach that exchanged leather with Clark the other night was just a groping ghost of his old self. The old Berlenbach would have put Clark away in less than a round. Clark seemed ready to flop throughout the bout. He went down from a hard shove in the second round and was on the resin when the bell rang. He came out for the third with an apprehensive look on his pan and while he was backing away Berly let go one of his old-time left hooks. The blow caught Clark on the button and it was curtains.

Well, sir, old Berly appeared to be as happy in his dressing room after the fight as if he had knocked out Max Schmeling. Eagerly he inquired: "How did I look?" The hangers on in the liniment-smelling room didn't have the heart to tell him "terrible."

Thinks Himself Good.

And so, from time to time, you may read of Berlenbach going in against other "ham-and-egg" fighters. For, until some one knocks him out, he will be convinced that he still is a good fighter. His manager, Hickey insists that Berly is well preserved, despite his three years absence from the ring, and that he is anything but a punch-drunk specimen.

"In 21 fights he never got hurt." Hickey insists. 'It will be four-round fights for him for awhile. He can't start at the top. But he's got plenty of stuff left. Just wait and you'll see."

Berlenbach hadn't fought since May, 1926, when he retired. In his day he fought some mighty good fellows.

Had Stribling Holding On.

He gave William Stribling a terrific pasting in New York in 1925. He had Strib holding on for dear life throughout 15 rounds and, of course, Berlenbach's hand was raised at the finish. He could hurt with that terrific left hook to the body and Stribling found it out in the first round.

The irony of it is that while Berlenbach is today getting $40 for a fight, Stribling scon will meet Max Schmeling for the heavyweight championship of the world, a bout that should net the Atlantan a fortune.

Berlenbach is only 30 years old. He says he has about $125,000 to show for the half million he made in the ring. But he needs ready cash. Most of his fortune is tied up in municipal bonds which have decreased in value. He is a clumsy, likeable chap, afflicted with a stolid determination that prevents him from realizing that the chances are 100 to 1 against that he will ever be more than a "has-been."

Shipwreck Kelly, Kentucky's brilliant halfback, runs the hundred, 220 and 440 and does the broad jump for the Wildcat track and field team.

Chinese women played polo in the eighth century, it is claimed by scientists.

Yank Pilot Likes His Double Plays

Joe McCarthy, Yankee manager, is particular about his keystone combination and here is why:

"Make a couple of double plays behind a pitcher and you make the ball game for him."

Banquet Rounds Out Fine Year In Athletics At Crete Hi.

CRETE HIGH SCHOOL "LETTER" CLUB.

The Crete high school "Letter" club held its eighth annual banquet Saturday evening at St. James hall. Plates were set for 116, the largest banquet in the club's history. Frank Kobes, jr., was the toastmaster and those responding to toasts were Clarence White, David Cawley, George Feeken, Miss Jean Cassell, Millard Taylor, Principal Dwight L. Williams and Coach W. H. Browne of the University of Nebraska.

Guests of the club included Mrs. W. H. Browne, Mrs. L. F. Klein, Supt. and Mrs. C. H. Velte, Assistant Coach Donald Shoup, Miss Mina Pfeifley, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Blauvelt, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Williams.

Letter club alumni returning for the occasion included Paul Parker, Leslie Reitfors, Harold Robb, Neal Shepherd, William Stone, Garfield Hawlick and Thomas Walkin The club members in the picture:

Knute Rockne LIFE STORY OF the Man

By WARREN BROWN.

CHAPTER THREE.

(Copyright, 1931, Chicago Herald and Examiner. Distributed by Universal Service.)

Some mention has been made, from time to time, of Knute Rockne's scuperstitions.

His players who have invaded the "Plains" at West Point recall that they were always required to use the waiters' entrance.

It is a known fact that Rockne and his teams, while in Chicago, invariably stopped at the Auditorium hotel, on the lake front. It is a matter of record that no Notre Dame team in the Rockne era ever lost a game in Chicago.

Not Always Superstitious.

That is one phase of the Rockne superstitions. That he was not wholly superstitious, I am prepared to prove. If he had been, it is improbable that he would have departed on the fatal journey to the Pacific coast, much as he liked that great section and its residents.

For Rockne recognized the fact, coincidental or not, that each successive visit was accompanied by trouble.

The evening before he left the office of the Herald and Examiner, to catch the train for Kansas City and begin the air journey that ended in tragedy, Rockne himself brought up this subject.

"Well," he said, "I wonder what will happen, this time?"

The topic, developed, presents, to me at least, a strange series of coincidences.

As far back as the appearance of the "Four Horsemen" at Pasadena, in the New Year's game of 1925, events transpired that left Rockne many unhappy moments.

Crowley's Life In Balance.

The game with Stanford was a thrilling spectacle. And, although it was won by Notre Dame, 27 to 10, the gruelling contest took its toll. Within a day after it, Jimmy Crowley, one of the "Horsemen," exhausted from the play, collapsed, and for a time his life hung in the balance.

This, in itself, was disaster enough, but when one of the frequent newspaper controversies broke out, over something that had been said—or hadn't been said, as it later developed—over the Stanford style of play, there was trouble enough for a team of Rocknes.

On a subsequent trip to Los Angeles, this time with the University of Southern California as his objective, Rockne stopped over with the team at Tucson.

He was host, as he has always been, to the sports writers and permitted them the freedom of the practice field.

Some of them, considering it their line of duty, brought back and published details of offense and defense that were supposed to have been held secret.

Rock Never Forgot It.

Rockne never forgot that incident. He forgave it, years later, and even used it as the basis of some of his humorous stories, in Los Angeles, no later than the recent winter.

But at the time, and for a long while thereafter, he was wary of newspapermen who looked too much like investigators, or "scouts."

On another trip, little Jack, one of Rockne's sons, was left at home in South Bend, and even as the game with Southern California was being played, the youngster was engaged in a fight for his life from complications that had set in after the lodging of a peanut shell in his throat.

Little Jack, the last of the Rocknes, put up a fight that was worthy of his sire and won through to recovery. Nevertheless, the anxious moments were never forgotten.

It was on the way to Los Angeles last December that Rockne first called my attention to this series of ill-fated happenings.

He wondered, then, what was going to happen on that trip.

Something Always Happening.

At the moment, when he became convinced that his regular fullback, Larry Mullins, would be unable to play, it seemed that enough had happened to tie that trip up with the others, and their misfortunes.

But when Rockne reached Los Angeles, he was cast into the midst of a Pacific Coast conference controversy, raging around one of his old boys, Jimmy Phelan, now coach of Washington, and Howard Jones, coach of Southern California.

There had been charges and counter-charges that Washington's team had rough-housed Southern California, in a game just before the arrival of Notre Dame. Jones, in radio broadcasts, was quite indignant about it all.

The story was told and retold, and, as stories will, grew out of all proportions in the telling.

Story Carried to Rockne.

When Rockne reached Los Angeles, the substance of the story that was first told him, was no less than sensational.

Without attempting to weigh its merits, though most of it, I am sure was ridiculous—it seems proper to tell it here, so that its effect upon Rockne can best be judged.

He was told, and I was in the audience, that Jones had charged Phelan with coaching his team in rough tactics, with a view towards weakening Southern California for the Notre Dame game, Phelan being, of course, a Notre Dame man.

It was told that Jones had recalled a game with St. Mary's, coached by Ed ("Slip") Madigan, another Notre Dame man, that had also interfered with the health and happiness of the Trojans, and he was told, finally, that Jones was intimating that this procedure was a part of the Notre Dame system, and that agitation should be started to put Phelan and Madigan in their places.

Calmed Down by Phelan.

For the first and last time in his life, I saw Rockne in a rage. He sent for Phelan, and got his version. He calmed somewhat, then. He was scheduled to speak at a Southern California dinner that night, and he left his hotel determined to have a showdown with Jones, going so far as to say that if there was an element of truth in the reports of what Jones had said, relations between Notre Dame and Southern California were at an end.

What transpired between Rockne and Jones, I do not know. Certainly there was no heated argument between them, for Phelan and I were close enough to have been attracted by any undue vocal gymnastics.

That the whole affair was a tempest in a teapot, seems obvious, for when the Coast conference met a day or two later, Jones and Phelan not only shook hands, but games between Southern California and Washington, and even Southern California and St. Mary's were arranged, without any great debate.

Provided the Answer.

Whatever the merits of the coast's controversy, the fact remains that it supplied, on the very first day of his arrival in Los Angeles, the answer to Rockne's question:

"I wonder what's going to happen, this trip?"

Rockne went back to the coast in February of this year. I was there, at the time, and knowing that he was coming, began to wonder what the fates might spin this time.

Newspapermen, or many of them had difficulty in finding Rockne the day of his arrival, though he had been at various places throughout the day.

And then broke loose that story concerning a possible suit against him for an accounting of money advanced for the importing of an all-star Notre Dame team to Los Angeles for a charity football game, a few weeks previous.

Jinxed by the Country.

Rockne was disturbed by that story, though it collapsed in short order. He had reached a point, he told me then, in which he had about decided he had enough of that part of the country, much as he liked it.

"If I could come out here once, just once," he said, "and not have something happen, I'd like to reconsider. But maybe I'd better see about arranging games with Bill Ingram at California, or with 'Pop' Warner at Stanford, and try my luck up there.'

As far as I know, Rockne had reached a tentative agreement with Ingram for a home-and-home series with California, beginning in the fall of 1932.

When we were talking, just before his departure on his last journey, Rockne discussed that situation, at length.

Agreed to Schedule Bears.

"There are some matters that have to be arranged," he said, "but I'm meeting Bill Ingram in Los Angeles, and we'll probably straighten it all out."

Rockne twirled the inevitable cigar between thumb and forefinger, in silence for a moment.

"Of course," he concluded, "we'll talk about that, if I'm not being sued, or something else. I wonder what it will be, this time?"

Superstition? No.

premonition?

I wonder.

(To Be Continued.)

Wymore Outlook On Cinders Only Fair

WYMORE, Neb., April 11—Track prospects at Wymore high are only fair this year, with six lettermen reporting to Coach Al Gembler.

The Cardinals have shown considerable talent in the field events, but are weak on the track with the exception of the mile run.

Glen Dorsey, present holder of the Southeastern Nebraska pole vault record at 11 feet, is showing promise of bettering his mark in early workouts. Logan Neuman, star weight man, is doing good work with the shot and discus, while John Thomas, veteran miler and holder of the Cornhusker league mile record, should surpass his former mark. Floyd Antram and Willard Coffee lead the list of sprinters, with Bob Punches setting the pace in the high jump.

Promising new material includes Herman, Skanes and Dillow in the distance runs; Clark, Fulton, Danforth and Williams in the sprints; and Chase, Chaney and Adams in the weights.

Fairbury Cindermen In Wednesday Test

FAIRBURY, Neb., April 11—Fairbury high track candidates will receive their first test next Wednesday when Coach A. L. Biehn sends his squad through an inter-class meet.

Leo Fry, sprinter; Jess Peratt, middle distance runner and Max Denney, miler, are the lettermen.

Other promising material includes G. West, Jake Helman, Craig, McDole, sprints; Hutson, Hose, shot; H. Peratt, Loch, E. Bauer, discus; E. Bauer, broad jump; H. Bauer, Onnen, high jump; G. West, Hutson, low hurdles; Denncy, Reynolds, Coffin, Friesen, Pidcock, Juarez, middle distance; J. R. West, Hose, H. Peratt, quarter-mile.

Hoffman Re-elected Elmwood High Coach

ELMWOOD, Neb., April 11—Bion A. Hoffman of the University of Nebraska has been re-elected athletic coach of Elmwood high. The Elmwood football schedule will open with two games in September. Schedule:

Sep. 18—Weeping Water at Weeping Water.
Sep. 25—Sterling at Sterling.
Oct. 2—Ashland at Elmwood.
Oct. 9—Adams at Adams.
Oct. 16—Cortland at Cortland.
Oct. 23—Open.
Oct. 28—College View at Elmwood.
Nov. 6—Open.
Nov. 11—Weeping Water at Elmwood.
Nov. 20—Talmage at Elmwood.
Nov. 25—Brock at Brock.

TRACK NUMERALS TO NEBRASKA BOYS

Twelve track numerals to Nebraska high school athletes for meritorious performance in track and field sport were announced Saturday by Henry F. Schulte, head track coach at the University of Nebraska. The list:

Full blue—Art Edwards of Mitchell; Ronald Miller of Hartington; John Parilek, Frank Kobes, Millard Taylor of Crete; Rex Fritz, Harry Stephenson, Lee Todd of Fairmont; Cliff Anderson of Brady; Charles Wood of Bridgeport; Donald Turner of Dubois.

Half blue—Harlan Meyer of Fairmont.

Dempsey Still Capable of Returning to Ring

Two Months' Careful Preparation All He Needs Do His Stuff

BY ROBERT EDGREN.

Jack Dempsey said he'd never fight again, and a few days later stood right up in a Chicago court and offered to fight Harry Wills "any time the promoters put up that millions dollars they offered."

Well, you couldn't blame Dempsey for changing his mind if there's that much profit in it.

Jack Still Pretty Good.

Jack Dempsey never could be the iron-fisted ring tiger he was when he battered the gigantic Willard into a helpless hulk. But he could be a very good fighter if he wanted to come back, even now. Dempsey is only a year older than Bob Fitzsimmons was when Bob knocked out Jim Corbett for the world's championship.

He is four years younger than Fitzsimmons was when Fitz put up the greatest fight of his life, battering the greatest heavyweight champion of them all, Jim Jeffries, to a bleeding pulp in that San Francisco ring, smashing both hands in the vain effort to crush big Jeff down, and being knocked out himself only when both hands were gone.

Corbett and Jeffries.

Dempsey is only a year older than Jim Corbett was when Jim startled the world by fighting 23 fast rounds against Champion Jeffries at Coney Island, before Jeff caught him and knocked him out.

There isn't any reason why Dempsey couldn't get into shape to fight one of the short bouts of today, 10 or 15 rounds, against any heavyweight now in sight. He'd have a lot of trouble with a clever youngster like Stribling, while Schmeling, with his combination of rugged endurance and good fighting judgment, would not be an easy mark.

I'd place a come-back Dempsey, if he was well handled in his training, a 50-50 chance with either of these two, even today. He'd beat Sharkey because he has Sharkey's goat. He'd beat Carnera because he could easily beat Carnera to the punch. He'd beat a lot of them, if he wanted to try.

Wills Hollow Shell.

As for Dempsey's fighting old Harry Wills, that would be just a joke. It wouldn't have made a fight years ago, when the match was on and the promoters couldn't find a state that would stand for it. Wills was washed up when Sharkey whipped him, and long before that—but nobody knew it. He had to hold and wrestle through bouts and he couldn't take a punch or land one without holding his target motionless with the other hand—his favorite trick.

Paolino finished Wills in four rounds just four years ago, and that knockout proved Wills was entirely through. The big colored fighter went groggy as soon as Paolino tapped him on the chin, and when he reeled around after a first knockdown, the Spaniard socked him on the jaw again and he went down as if he'd been hit with a hammer.

No Chance for Big Gate.

Four years ago Wills couldn't take a punch. Oh yes, a crowd might turn out to see Dempsey and Wills fight in Chicago, just out of curiosity and a desire to see Dempsey in action again—but not at seat prices in proportion to a million dollar purse. Might have done it five years ago, but not now.

Last time I saw Dempsey, a few months ago, he was in fine condition for a man not in training to fight. He had some fat around the face aid neck, but his body wasn't out of shape. He always keeps in pretty good shape, and it's easy because he is so full of nervous energy that he never stands still.

He's always moving around, briskly. He can't stay on one spot. He's driven by a restless spirit that won't let him loaf, and that's why he hasn't put on a lot of weight like other retired fighters. He weighed just 210 pounds. That isn't too much for a man built like Dempsey, out of training for a long time.

Overtrained for Gene.

When Dempsey trained for his come-back fight with Tunney, he trained himself. And he drove himself through a training schedule fit for Dempsey of the Toledo days. He worked too long and too hard. If he tried to fight again, and put himself through the same schedule, he'd have nothing left to fight with.

But a foxy and experienced trainer like old Jimmy DeForest could take Dempsey in hand for two months and send him into the ring fit to go as fast as he'd need to go for ten rounds, without any trouble at all.

If Jim Corbett could go at top speed with the young champion Jim Jeffries for 23 rounds before his legs grew tired, Dempsey could easily go 10 or 15. Corbett knew how to train for a wonderful come-back. He worked a long time, but didn't kill himself. He trained back to astonishing condition and fooled everybody.

Dempsey Lives Carefully.

And Corbett in those days never lived as carefully as Dempsey has all his life. Dempsey, properly advised, could do the same thing.

Dempsey could come back to some pretty good fighting if he wanted to. Chances are he doesn't want to, and the offer to fight Wills was just part of his legal battle. It was pretty well qualified with the reference to a million dollars.

But any man with Dempsey's experience and record and habit of moving around and keeping in good shape should not be through with the ring under 40, if he cares to go on boxing. Fitzsimmons fought his last ring battle, six rounds to no decision, with K. O. Sweeney when Fitz was 52 years old.

Fitz Plenty Durable.

Fitz was 41 when he beat George Gardner in 20 rounds for the world's light-heavyweight championship. He broke the first two knuckles of his right hand in the fourth, knocking Gardner down with a clout above the ear, and fought the remaining 14 rounds with one hand. Otherwise it wouldn't have gone 20 rounds.

The only reason Dempsey hasn't been fighting since his last Tunney fight is that he has plenty of money. In the past year he has made over $200,000 as a referee, breaking all records for referee earnings. And as long as he can do that chances are he won't fight again, even if offered a lot of money.

I am told that Dempsey was scheduled to fight Carnera, a few months ago, but that Carnera's poor showing against Maloney killed that "million dollar proposition" deader than Tut-ank-hamens' cat. It would be fun to see the old Mauler against the biggest beef he ever socked, at that.

Sandlots Slugger Gets Diamond Call

Ollie Carnegie, sandlot slugger deluxe, who has been a holdout from the ranks of organized baseball all his life, is about to weaken to accommodate old friends.

Carnegie is a Pittsburgh sandlot star. They call him the "Smoketown Bambino."

For years he has been besieged with big league offers, but he turned a deaf ear to each. He was satisfied to stay at home, pursue his regular work and play ball on the side.

But the past winter some of his old friends took over the Hazelton franchise in the New York-Pennsylvania league and Ollie may weaken and give league baseball a tryout this summer.

WRIGHT AGAIN ROBINS' BIG 'IF'

Shortstop Dazzler Has Lame Ankle and Club May Be Hard Hit.

The Brooklyn Dodgers start the 1931 pennant season with the outcome apparently hinging on the ability of Glenn Wright to perform regularly and up to his 1930 standard.

And this is the biggest "if" the Dodgers have to contend with, for Wright now has a lame ankle and the best specialists of the east appear puzzled. Wright came back a year ago and proved that his right shoulder was as good as ever, after an operation.

No longer is the club worried about that, but the new ailment may again keep the Dodgers away from the top, as numerous other injuries have held them back for several years.

The Cubs have to contend with Lester Bell's sore arm and Hornsby is not as fast in the field as of yore.

The Tigers are worrying about the ncient pitching arms of Uhle and Hoyt. The White Sox are none too sure of Tommy Thomas' ability to cut loose as of yore. It was ever thus.

Sport Briefs

Hoyt, Uhle, Sorrell and Bridges are to be the pitchers Deitroit will deepnd on for regular duty. Hoysett, Wyatt, Cantrell, Page and Sullivan will complete the staff.

Spring football practice at Oklahoma A. & M. drew 75 candidates.

The Middle Atlantic league is the first 12-club circuit of the twenieeth century.

Pete Scott played last year with Reading. Since that time he has been owned by Rochester, Jersey City and the Missions.

Douthit, Cardinal outfielder, was on the bases 203 times last season and will be leadoff man this year.

St. John's college, national lacrosse champion, will play four of its 1931 games in Baltimore.

Each major league plans to carry 27 southpaw pitchers this season.

Boston Plans Cheat Cellar

Shano Collins, the new manager of the Red Sox, starts the season thinking his pitchers the strongest in the league. He says:

"I think we have the best pitching staff in the land. Pitching is about 62 2-3 per cent of the team's strength. And if we are as strong as we seem, it is time to get out of the cellar."

Sport Briefs

Although he was a holdout, Rip Collins, Browns' pitcher, did not miss a day of spring practice. He worke dout with the University of Teas team at Austin.

John Phillips will manage the Jeanette team of the Middle Atlantic league, and Bill Phillips will be the boss at Charleroi.

Walter Brown has been named as Washington's starting pitcher against the A's, April 14.

Pie Traynor has batted .326 for the Praites in 10 campaigns. He has been at bat 5,147 times and made 1,678 hits.

The National league batting championship is held by an old-timer, despite this age of lively balls. Hugh Duffy's 1894 mark of .438 still stands.

George Little, former wealthy manager of Jack Johnson, died penniless. Johnson does odd jobs for a living.

Jack White, star quarterback of the Purdue Boilermakers the last two seasons, is captain of this year's tennis team.

Harvey J. Harman, Penn's new football coach, attended the graduate school there, receiving a master's degree in political science. He played four years of football at Pitt, graduating in 1922.

Good Golf.

BY CHESTER HORTON, "Golf's Greatest Teacher."

The complete, correct order for golf progress requires you, first, to acquire a swing. Cultivate it until in practice it flows smoothly and the action is without restraint. It need not be perfection itself, but it should be smooth and natural. Golfers usually talk of improving their swing when what they mean is improving their golf. Golf seldom is improved through improvement in the swing—tuck that thought away. It is improved through more understanding of what it is you seek to do with the swing you have. You know plenty of players who attain good golf with a terrible swing, which proves the point. Your right road is: See the shot first, then put it in abeyance and undertake, as a thing apart, the making of the shot. Then if things go wrong, you have only to correct your judgment on some one thing— not on many. There are not so many things to think about in golf, but such as they are they become nonsense if you fail to think of them in proper order. The professional's secret is—he can tell you—he "don't think o' nothin' at all."

Charlie Jamieson, veteran Cleveland outfielder, needs only 24 more hits to reach the 2,000 mark for major league competition.

Ten basketball players of Oregon State college will receive sweaters for their work during the season.

Death Takes Heavy Toll

From the windup of 1930 baseball to the start in 1931, four veteran leaders died. Besides Ban Johnson and Ernest S. Barnard, the only presidents the American league ever had, the National league lost William F. Baker, owner of the Phillies, and the International lost Lawrence Solman, owner of the Toronto club. Baker and Solman were two of the oldest baseball men in the game. Solman was the veteran of the International league.

Sports Parade

BY FRED TURBYVILLE.

A BIT of commercialism could be taken out of football and we'd still have a good game.

After Rockne's death, thousands of columns of comment on his life and experience were written. To the writer, one of the interesting bits had to do with the football relations between Notre Dame and Army.

For 10 years Notre Dame played at West Point, receiving each year a guarantee of $3,500. That money came out of the Army athletic association funds—made up by subscription.

Then one year they played in Brooklyn and took in $99,000. The Army got a third—making up for all the past guarantees paid Notre Dame. Notre Dame got a third—a profit of $30,000. The ball park got the rest.

After that this game was played for all it was worth—outgrowing Brooklyn, overflowing Yankee Stadium and filling Soldier Field.

These games may have improved, but that wasn't due to the fact that admission was charged. The game was just as interesting when played at West Point.

ALL of the big relays meets this spring are attracting record fields. More than a thousand athletes from sixteen states competed in the Texas Relays.

The Penn relays and the Drake relays have the biggest entry lists this year in the history of the two classics.

All of which is preliminary to the greatest Olympic track and field team this country ever turned out—for the 1932 games in Los Angeles.

The winners of this year will have a big advantage over the field. They'll be able to start next year with the confidence that goes with a string of medals.

The unknowns breaking through also will inspire more unknowns to put forth a supreme effort to do something in time to gain recognition.

More than a year remains and if there is some young fellow about who has everything that a winning athlete needs, excepting experience, there is still time for that. Get behind him and urge him to compete.

IN LIFE, Knute Rockne was a great inspiration to others. In death he will continue to inspire.

In the last 10 years, other coaches have tried to catch up with his nimble thoughts. The fact that he turned out super teams brought the development of better teams elsewhere. Football was not better in one spot, Notre Dame, but everywhere.

In death, the inspiration still pervades the ranks of coaches and players. The story of his life brings out the story of the development of the forward pass. Rockne and Dorais were the men who put it over.

The forward pass revolutionized football. That style of play has been used for nearly a score of years. It is time for something entirely new. And as Rockne and Dorais put over the pass, so may some other young coach find something else to startle the football world.

It is reported that Harry Stuhldreher, one of Rockne's boys, has something in the making at Villanova. Those who have seen it hint that it is an unstoppable attack—such as the Dorais-to-Rockne pass in the Army game of 1913.

THE high schools of Indiana supply basketball players for many of the big colleges and universities of the middle west.

And Maryland turns out almost as many lacrosse players each year for the big institutions along the Atlantic seaboard.

Lacrosse really has its headquarters in Maryland. There the game is played by Hopkins, Navy, Maryland and St. John's is at its best. Generally one of that quartet is champion or runner-up.

It's the rest of the world against Maryland in lacrosse each spring.

On this year's Princeton squad are 10 Maryland lads, nine of them from Baltimore. Many of the coaches are products of the Maryland colleges.

One of the leading coaches—almost a Rockne in the ranks—is Ray Van Orman of Hopkins. He never played the game as a youth, but he picked it up after moving to Baltimore, which should be encouraging to others who would like to try it.

ONE of the mysteries of sports is why Havana has not yet been taken in by one of the leagues of organized baseball.

Time and again the Cubans have demonstrated their interest in the sport, the last time rather convincingly. They turned out from ten to fifteen thousand strong to see two teams from the Brooklyn squad in daily exhibition games.

In a league with southern cities, where each game counted in the competition, they probably would outdraw any city in the minor leagues.

True, it would cost more to travel to and from Havana, but the difference in attendance would more than take care of that item.

The Arizona-Texas league has lapped over into Mexico, at Nogales. The International league has strongholds in Canada, at Toronto and Montreal.

When air travel is a safer proposition, and rates are lower, we may see Ban Johnson's dream realized—a great international league of our biggest cities east, west and south, Havana in Cuba, Mexico City in Mexico and clubs in Canada.

ONE of the ideas of men interested in wider sports programs in our institutions of learning is to send each graduate out into the world with a love for a "carryover" sport.

A "carryover" sport is one a fellow may follow for many years after he has finished school—one that will provide with good exercise while he's spending most of his days in the office.

Football, baseball, basketball, track and field, crew, soccer, boxing, wrestling etc., are not good examples, for they are young men's sports.

Tennis, golf, fencing and swimming are better examples, though tennis might be removed from the list after a fellow is 10 years away from the campus.

Perhaps, the best sports for men of all years are golf and bowling. We find more old men in these two sports than in any others, and they are likewise attractive to the young. Why don't the colleges have bowling?

BOBBY JONES SAYS

BY BOBBY JONES.

APPARENTLY there are a good many ways in which a golf ball can be struck correctly—some of the time. That is, there are different methods which, when they are functioning properly, and are correctly timed, will accomplish the desired results with a golf ball.

But, after all, the method we are all seeking is the one which is reliable; the one which affords the player the widest margin of error, and the one which places upon his physical mechanism the least possible burden of accuracy.

There has never yet lived a golfer who could go out day after day and be certain that he would have the "touch." So what we all want is a manner of playing which will allow us to make our little mistakes without paying too dearly for them.

I HAVE in mind particularly two methods of playing the iron shots, which one sees employed by some of our very best players, both amateur and professional.

It might be said that these players divide themselves into two schools—the one which favors the downward stroke, striking the ball before the club has reached the low point of its arc; and the other which inclines toward the stroke which flicks the ball cleanly off the turf.

I dislike the comparison which is often made by calling the first-class "punchers" and the second "swingers," because it is possible to swing and at the same time strike a downward blow and take up a sizable divot after striking the ball.

I may as well state that my decided preference in playing an iron is for the stroke which, in the vernacular, "knocks the ball down." And my preference is based solely upon considerations of reliability.

I HAVE watched a good many very excellent exponents of the other style—that is, of those who play the ball cleanly off the grass—and every one of them I have found to be inclined to make one mistake.

They all find days when their swings begin to quit just before the ball is reached. Their timing must be set very accurately, and if it is off the least little bit, both direction and range must suffer.

On the other hand, when one sees a player who hits the ball downward with an iron, he can be certain that man has a firm left wrist and a left arm that is active at impact. That is, he is always driving the club through the ball, and not merely flicking it up, as he would a dandelion.

That means that where the "flicker" has a margin of a mere inch or so, the other man can rely on at least moderately good results if he contacts the ball at any point along six or eight inches of the arc of his swing.

Of course there is, the theoretically, only one point in the arc of the stroke at which the ball may be taken to produce perfect results. But the golfer does not live, and never has lived, and assumably never will live, who does not vary from the point of even practical perfection.

THIS observation is made from personal experience of a somewhat acute nature. I am safe in saying that I can count on the fingers of my two hands, probably without using the thumbs, the iron shots I have hit, in my whole life, which I could call absolutely perfect; that is, hit exactly true and exactly according to my intention.

In the above photo, Bobby Jones is shown just after hitting an iron shot. Notice the cloud of dust, showing that he knocked the ball down; taking a divot.

There may have been a few more which I don't remember, because my intentions were not as well considered for the situation as they might have been, but I believe it would surprise a lot of struggling duffers if they could look into the so-called expert's mind and see how many of his apparently marvelous shots were pure accidents.

All this, of course, is intended to emphasize the importance of having a margin within which to work. It is important to the expert, with all his keen sense of "feel" and his experience, and it is proportionately more important for the average golfer.

I think that, no matter how fine may be a man's control of a golf club, he is running foolish and unnecessary risks when he relies upon his ability to flick the ball cleanly off the turf.

Diamond League of Eight Clubs, With American As Executive.

Organized professional baseball will be played in Japan beginning next year, with Herbert Hunter, former big league player and America's "baseball ambassador to the Orient," as its commissioner.

Hunter has accepted an offer to serve in an advisory capacity for the next three years.

The Japanese sportsmen have already raised $6,000,000 to finance a league which will have eight clubs. Tokio, biggest city, likely will have two clubs and continuous baseball. Other cities tentatively accepted are Yokohama, Kobe, Kyoto and Asaka.

Hunter already has made three baseball trips to Japan and will make his fourth next fall with a team of big league stars who will play college teams of the Orient.

Two or more Japanese college teams will tour America this spring and summer. Several Japanese baseball coaches are spending several weeks in America this spring learning more of the game that has enjoyed a sudden popularity back home.

Marvin Ferrell of the North Carolina Ferrells is getting a tryout with the Milwaukee club. If he makes good he will be advanced to the Browns where his brother, Richard, a catcher, works.

Pat Tebeau Originated "Intentional Pass"

Old "Cy" Young First Pitcher to Give Walk to Batsman In Pinch

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

The free pass to first base originated in the 90's, when a "croocial moment" in a diamond combat prompted the fiery Patsy Tebeau to demand that Cy Young issue complimentary transportation to enemy batsmen.

Tebeau, then was leader of the Cleveland Spiders, which held a franchise in the National League and Young, destined to become an immortal moundsman, was the heaving ace for the scrappy Spiders.

Tebeau Did Some Thinking.

Accidents and injuries had riddled Tebeau's staff of pitchers and he was called upon to send Young onto the firing line, although the old "Railsplitter" was suffering from a lame arm. The teams went along even-stephanie until along in the fifth. Then one of the opposition singled and hopped along to third on an infield error.

Two men on the sacks—one on the first, the other on third — and up came the slugger. At this juncture, Tebeau hustled over to Young and instructed him to pass the batter to first. Young blinked. Was he hearing right? So he asked Tebeau:

"What's that? Pass a man intentionally?"

Crowd Did Some Jeering.

"Yes," replied Tebeau. "Here's why. Your arm isn't in very good shape today and this fellow is tough. You can't fool him very well when you're right. So why take a chance of letting him knock it out of the lot? Put it where he can't hit the ball and we will take a chance on the next batter."

Young followed orders. He tossed four wide ones, while the crowd sat in puzzled amazement. Up came the next batter—the presumed weak one. He promptly maced out a long single, which put his team ahead and gave the Cleveland audience a chance to hoot and jeer at Tebeau. But Patsy wouldn't concede that the play was a failure.

Then the Crowd Cheered.

Later in the game, when the score had narrowed down to a one-run lead for Cleveland, a similar situation came up. Once again Tebeau instructed Young intentionally to pass the heavy hitter. His orders were carried out and the next man hit into double play, retiring the side and winning the game for Cleveland. The crowd didn't hoot then.

Tebeau continued to use the play. Its uniform success awakened other managers to its value and soon the intentional pass became a universal baseball strategy.

HUSKIES CLEAN UP IN REGATTA

onds, to break the record established in 1925, and the Jayvees rowed the three-miles course in 15 minutes 30 seconds, breaking the mark set by the California crew in 1927.

Husky Crew Shows Power.

The Washington varsity oarsmen outrowed a smoother, more polished California crew, surprising even themselves when they did not crack under the suicidal pace they set at the half-mile mark to overtake California's slight lead.

The California crew passed up the challenge, keeping its smooth, rhythmic gait as the Husky shell edged by and Bear fans predicted that a California sprint down the last half-mile would leave the spent Washington crew behind.

But when the sprint came, Washington had something left, and it was the California crew, instead, that was losing ground at the finish.

Bears Away In Lead.

Both shells got away fast, California stroking 33 to the minute and Washington 32. California took a slight lead as they passed the quarter-mile mark. At the half-mile post, the Bears led by approximately five feet.

The Washington crew stepped up its stroke as it passed the half mile, and California speeded up a moment mark, Washington was rowing 33 and California 35. The Washington shell forged ahead as they neared the two-mile mark, and led by five feet as they passed it.

Huskies Better In Finish.

The California gait was increased slightly as they came down the stretch and the California shell took up a foot or two of the lead. It was lost a moment later, however, and the Husky crew led by half a lengh with half a mile to go. Both crews sprinted and they fought down the last few yards at a 36-stroke gait.

In the last 200 yards, the powerfully stroked Husky shell shot ahead to lead b a good length as they swept over the finish line.

Approximately 35,000 persons lined the banks of the estuary to witness the twenty-fifth renewal of the annual classic.

Blues Edge Out Cubs.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 11—(I. N. S.)—Bill Swift, a recruit, held the Chicago Cubs to two hits in six innings as the Kansas City Blues trimmed Roger Hornsby's boys 9 to 7 here today.

The Blues sent Swift in in the fourth inning after Ed Holley let the Bruins pile up six runs in the first three frames. Sheriff Blake and Guy Bush did the pitching for the Cubs and were pounded for seventeen hits. Hornsby tried to redeem the situation by hitting a homer in the seventh, but it was the last tally scored by the Cubs.

Belair," as he has been named for several other rich stakes to be run during the summer.

Trainer Fred Hopkins has the star of the Whitney stables as fit as his hands can make him. His charge has been assigned an impost of 123 pounds in the Glen Oaks, 13 pounds more than the next allotment.

Dark Hero and Sunny Lassie, two other candidates for both Preakness and Derby, are entered against him, and have a big weight concession. Dark Hero worked a sensational six furlongs recently and, with a 15-pound pull in weights, may be formidable.

Jockey Raymond "Sonny" Workman, pilot during Equipoise's successful juvenile campaign, is nursing a fractured ankle sustained in a fall at Miami. He feels confident he will take his place astride the favorite inside a couple weeks.

Busy Campaign Ahead.

Equipoise most likely will be seen in competition more than once during the Havre De Grace meeting. Plenty of star three-year-olds are on the grounds and if he manages to defeat all comers before moving over to Pimlico, he will be entitled to bear favoritism in the Preakness. Whether or not he will be able to fill his engagement in the Derby, depends largely upon the outcome of the premier three-year-old stake of Maryland.

MAJORS ON MARK FOR GONG CLANG

Big League Ball Clubs All Set Start Season Next Tuesday.

NEW YORK, April 11—(INS)—Baseball, the American national pasttime, is about to make its debut.

On next Tuesday, the baseball season officially opens when 16 ball clubs, fit and primed for action as a result of a long spring training, swing into action in major league cities. Thousands of loyal rooters will cram their way into the ball parks to see their favorites for the first time this season, as well as to give the "double O" to the rookies who are trying to make the grade in the big show.

Here is how the clubs will line up next Tuesday at the grand opening:

National League.

Brooklyn at Boston.
New York at Philadelphia.
Pittsburgh at Philadelphia.
St. Louis at Cincinnati.

American League

Boston at New York.
Philadelphia at Washington.
Chicago at Cleveland.
Detroit at St. Louis.

The various major league clubs are now all up north, where they are playing exhibition games among themselves as a prologue to the season's opening next Tuesday.

Today the fans in the New York metropolitan area had their first look at the big leaguers since last fall. At Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, the Robins staged a contest with the New York Yankees and at the polo grounds the Giants met the Chicago White Sox.

Phillies Win City Series.

Exhibition games were also played in other cities. Earlier this week the Philadelphia Americans and the Philadelphia Nationals staged a city series, the latter club conquering the world champions.

Although the fans enjoy these exhibitions, the season does not really open for them until next Tuesday. From then on—throughout the 154 game schedule—every contest will count. It is safe to predict many office boys' grandmas will pass away next Tuesday.

PRATCICE TEST BY BROWNEMEN

Snygg, catchers; Armatis, Oetgen, Wondra, Fairchild, Bittner, Livingston, Beckner and Meredith, pitchers; Frankfurt, Davey, Urban, Leffel, Beck, Simon, Levinson, Maser, Staab, Davison, Reinmiller, and Costen, infielders; and Rosenberg, Kotab, Smith, Sabota, Dempcy, Jackman and Brown, outfielders. Fairchild, one of the pitchers, is ineligible at the moment, having to work off an incomplete before being eligible for competition.

"Boo" Williams' spectacular game behind the bat rated him as the best catcher Saturday, while Livingston, Armatis and Wondra appeared best of the hurlers. Frankfurt, Leffel, Davey and Davison looked good in the infield, and Kotab, Rosenberg and Sabota starred in the outfield.

Whitey Kotab took the hitting honors with three solid triples in four times at bat, while Mutt Davison collected a home run and a three-base hit in five trips to the plate. Davey's two singles and double gave him leading honors among the substitutes. The score:

Brass Tacks

Carnera at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn.

Two attractive mitten encounters —Sharkey vs. Loughran and Sharkey vs. Carnera—and the Garden is getting only a sniff at the gravy. The spectacle is quite enough to make Tex, the old master, writhe in his grave. Substantial profits are in prospect and the Garden is all but erased from the picture.

How different it would be if Tex only were present to pull the strings, making the commission fairly dance at his command and getting the nod from fight managers who, despite their greed for dollars, ended every argument with Tex by going down on the dotted line.

TEX RICKARD had ju t about everything that a smart entrepreneur is supposed to possess. Denied the advantages of an education, Tex had a keen mind and he followed the rough life in Texas, in the Klondike and the mining camps of the far west for so many years that he was the finished product i. knowing how to handle troublous situations, always keeping his head and figuring the : re way to master his problems.

A smart student of mass psychology, he made his matches and put them over with a line of ballyhoo that for sheer genius never has been approached.

Although Tex took his first whirl at fight promotion while operating a gambling house in Nevada nearly a quarter century ago, when he staged the Gans-Nelson brawl, and later literally stole the Jeffries-Johnson battle of 1910 right from under the noses of his rivals, the Willard-Dempsey fray of 1919 gave Tex his entree to the fat profits in fist fighting.

IKE DORGAN, first lieutenant of Tex and general manager of the great promoter's department of ballyhoo, recently penned an interesting series of stories telling numerous incidents and details of Rickard's career.

According to Dorgan, Tex had little faith in the ability of Jack to drag the ponderous Willard from his championship throne. He looked on Dempsey and his garrulous, also grasping, manager as just a pair of upstarts.

Yet Tex was shrewd enough to realize that a Dempsey capable of administering knockout drops to so many opponents, especially a Dempsey that had put Fred Fulton, elongated plasterer, on the floor in less than 20 seconds, had something beyond the ordinary in the way of goods, hence his desire to match the young fellow from Manassa with the cowboy giant from the Sunflower state.

But Tex, knowing the vast physical difference between Willard, the champion, and Dempsey, the challenger, played a wise game in covering up that long margin in stature and weight on the scales.

IT IS related that Tex baffl.d every attempt by the sports writers to get ress and Jack together at Toledo, in advance of the fight, for picture-taking purposes. He feared that such a picture would all but kill the show. The scribes were persistent, but Tex played his hand to the end, making clever excuses and wriggling out of every tight situation.

Rickard's lack of faith in Dempsey's aspirations did not seriously worry him. The rub came in keeping the public from cultivating a similar idea.

Tex managed that phase of his problem, attracted a turnout of cash-paying customers that netted him a substantial dividend and, at the end, he was the most surprised man in all that Toledo crowd when the dynamic Dempsey battered big Jess all over the ring and wrested the crown from the cowboy's brow.

Dempsey's success was closely knitted with Rickard's rise to a position that gave him complete control of the fist industry. The new champion and his business pilot, Kearns, wisely figured that their interests were best conserved by giving Tex a free hand.

The champion and his manager eventually parted company, but Dempsey would trust his fighting activities only to Tex—a tie-up that made the Manassa mauler a millionaire and established Rickard as a promoter without a peer.

THAT the Madison Square Garden management is sorely in need of another Rickard has been demonstrated by recent events. Besides losing the upper hand in New York, it must stand by, twirling its thumbs, while sleepy Philadelphia proceeds with arrang ients to stage a Sharkey-Loughran duel and while Dapper Jim is pitting the B on sailor against the Ambling Alp.

The Garden, of course, will have a fat finger in the Schmeling-Stribling affair in Cleveland, as the bout is to be under Garden promotion, yet it will be a far cry from the Dempsey-Carpentier, Dempsey-Firpo and Dempsey-Tunney combats, all with Tex at the lever, to the mix involving the German pretzel and the boy from the Georgia canebrakes.

Cleveland, of course, may surprise the prophets, contributing a substantial patronage, but the odds are great that the fight-going public will decline to be seriously interested—the master helmsman to guide the ship is missing. Tex has gone hence for all time and there is none to take his place.

GOOD MARKS ON HASTINGS OVAL

when he stepped the two-mile in 10:07. The Hastings high relay team of Taylor, Breault, Young and Hejkal broke the quarter-mile mark in the first relay event of the afternoon.

Mendel of Yankton added 7 inches to his record in the broad jump, and Compton of Doane surpassed the javelin mark by nearly two feet. Compton's best throw was 181 feet 2 inches.

Washburn college, coached by Elmer Holm, won the majority of the honors in the college relays, copping first place in the two-mile and getting ties in the mile with Nebraska Wesleyan and Emporia in the sprint medley.

University of Nebraska "B" team performers did not do so well, Leon Carroll getting third in the high hurdles and Eisenhart third in the discus.

Outstate colleges were very much in evidence throughout the afternoon, Washburn and Ottawa securing firsts in the relays, while Cobean set a new mark of 5 feet 10½ inches in the high jump.

Kimball's toss of 129 feet 11 inches in the discus was also a record for Emporia college. Mendel defended his honors in the 100-yard dash and broad jump.

Hastings was the class of the high schools, winning three of the four events and placing third in the other.

Summary of results:

College Division.

880-yard relay—Won by Ottawa university (Livingston, Hetzel, Wagga, Henshaw) Doane, second; Nebraska Wesleyan, third. Time, 1:33.3.

Two-mile relay — Won by Washburn (Buckner, Martin, Stalker, Zumwalthy); Emporia college, second; Hastings, third. Time, 8:28.5.

Mile relay—Won by Washburn (Thompson, Martin, Mathias, Zumwalthy) and Nebraska Wesleyan (Pixley, Bauer, Gibb, Briggs) tied for first and second; Creighton, third. Time, 3:35.2.

Sprint medley—Washburn and Tarkio tied for first; Kearney, third. Time 3:47.

High School Division.

440-yard relay—Won by Hastings (Taylor, Breault, Young, Hejkal); Grand Island, second; Friend, third. Time, 45.7 seconds.

880-yard relay—Won by Hastings (Breault, Harmon, Young Hejkal); Norfolk, second; Grand Island, third. Time 1:37.

Mile relay—Won by Hastings (Youngblood, Owen, Harmon, Young); Superior, second; Grand Island, third. Time 3:45.1.

Sprint medley—Won by Kearney (Saunders, Fay, Vest, Franks); Crete, second; Hastings, third. Time 3:58.5.

Individual Events.

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Evans, Wayne Normal; Cobena, Washburn, second; Leon Carroll, Nebraska, third. Time 16.5 seconds.

100-yard dash—Won by Mendel, Yankton; Thompson, Washburn, second; Browning, Tarkio, third. Time, 10.4 seconds.

Two-mile run—Won by Lydic, Kearney; Hoberly, College of Emporia, second; Orile, Kearney, third. Time, 10.07.

Pole vault—Won by Foulks, Washburn, 11 feet 6 inches; Harbaugh, Hastings, Baker, Wayne; Coban, Washburn, tied for second and third, height, 11 feet 3 inches.

Discus—Won by Kimball, College of Emporia, 129 feet 11 inches; Weiner, Doane, second, 128 feet 9 inches; Eisenhart, Nebraska, 125 feet 9 inches.

High jump—Won by Cobean, Washburn, 5 feet 10½ inches; Evans, Wayne, second; Shively, Hastings; Allen, Yankton; Murphy Creighton; Coe, Midland, and Sudgen, Peru, tied for third.

Shot put—Won by Biffar, Midland, 42 feet; Johnson, Wesleyan, second; Compton, Doane, third.

Broad jump—Won by Mendel, Yankton; Ad Bivens, Hastings, second; Shively, Hastings, third. Distance, 23 feet 7 inches Javelin—Won by Compton, Doane; Davis, Doane, second; Cipra, Emporia, third. Distance, 181 feet 2 inches.

SCHULTES SQUAD TO BID FOR TITLE

by Rothart of Stanford with a toss of 51 feet 1¾ inches.

Trio of Good Jumpers.

The work of the Huskers in individual events at Lawrence also will find Nebraska bidding for honors in the broad jump. Schulte has three lads who have done better than 23 feet in competition this year. Hugo Hege stretched out 23 feet 1 inch in the Kaggie dual, while Don Gray did 23 feet 8¾ inches to win the jump at the Illinois carnival. Cobe Tomson, Big Six outdoor champion, won second place at Illinois with a leap just two inches behind that of Gray.

Jerry Lee, co-holder of the Big Six indoor title, is entered in the high jump, and Orlin Dean, who did 12 feet 6½ inches in the Kaggie indoor, is enrolled in the pole vault.

Schulte's shuttle hurdle relay team which won at Illinois is entered in the barrier event at Kansas. Lamson, Smutny, White and Petz comprise the quarter. The Nebraska entry list for the Kansas carnival follows:

Kansas Relays Entries.

100-yard dash—George Smutny, Seward; Jerry Lee, Bassett.

120-yard high hurdles—Willis Lamson, Nelign; Linus Carroll, Cambridge; Harold Petz, Nelson; Meryl White, Albion; George Smutny, Seward; Howard Jackson, Beatrice.

2,000-yard run—Robert Nuernberger, Wakefield; Phil Garvey, Rushville.

16-pound shotput—Hugh Rhea, Arlington; Albert Rist, Humboldt; Claude Rowley, Clyde, Kas.; Don Eisenhart, Culbertson.

BACKGAMMON OF TODAY

BY JOHN LONGACRE.

(This is the 15th of a series of articles on this highly interesting game.)

Article Fifteen—Chouette.

This is a method of play, not confined to Backgammon—originally, it was used at Piquet—by which a game, primarily for two, may be played by several. The French Chouette, or screech owl, is always attacked by all the other birds; therefore, here, one player, who is "in the box," is opposed by all the others.

Each player throws one die. The highest number is "in the box," the next highest becomes his playing opponent, and the other allies back the play of this opponent with their stake, and, if he is defeated, succeed to his position in order of their dice.

The "box" therefore risks as many times the agreed stake as there are players against him. But he plays this multiple stake only while winning; as soon as he loses a game, he takes his place as the last of the allies, the winning opponent takes the "box," and is in turn played by the succeeding ally. Thus, while success is profitable to the player in the "box," ill luck is not disastrous, because he can lose only one game at multiple stakes.

The game itself is played as usual; doubles, redoubles, and double games increasing the initial stake in the customary manner, for each player. The only original feature is in the relationship between the allies and their playing representative. Each move is subject to the discussion, criticism, and suggestion of any of them, but the final decision rests with the actual player, and, in regard to the play his action is binding on all his associates. Any increase of the stake, however, is a matter of individual option. No one is compelled to offer or accept a double which he considers disadvantageous.

For instance, A is playing in the "box" against B, C, D, and E. A doubles, thereby offering to play for eight times the stake. B and C are willing to accept the double, but D and E consider the position unfavorable. D and E then forfeit their original stakes to B and C, and their interest in that game is terminated. B and C then jointly put up the eight stakes called for by A's double, and the game proceeds, with B and C sharing in the final profit or loss.

In like manner, should B, who is playing, wish to double but C, D and E disapprove, the three latter forfeit their original stakes to B, who thenceforward assumes all financial liability for the game.

JACK MAY SEEK DIVORCE IN RENO

orces will become the fashion May first.

"I came here for a good rest and to look after certain business interests," Dempsey said.

Although Dempsey was emphatic that he had no plans for divorce, he admitted a misunderstanding existed with his wife.

"It had no bearing on my coming here," he declared.

Quits Long Distance Talks.

He admitted that he had not been in communication with her since arriving in Reno. Some of his best friends here though this was significant, because the Dempseys have been known as free users of the long distance telephone to keep in touch with each other when separated.

Dempsey insisted his plans were very indefinite.

"I may stay here a week and I may stay for a month." he said. "I may remain right here in Reno at a hotel or I may go to a ranch. What I want to get is a good rest and what I do depends upon how I feel. I may even go into the back country for a couple of weeks and rough it."

While Dempsey said his first thought was a good rest, it was apparent that he was not overlooking business. It has been reported here for weeks that Dempsey planned to enter the gambling business here.

May Invest Some Money.

His first conference upon arrival here was with William Graham, the sportsman and part owner with James Mackay of Cal-Neva, famous gaming resort on the California-Nevada line. "The Willows," a Reno night club, and other gaming interests. Graham met Dempsey and held a conference of considerable length with the former heavyweight champion.

Although he said he had little sleep the night before and was seeking a rest, Dempsey put in a busy day. He registered at the Riverside hotel, fashionable headquarters for the divorce colony, and put in a busy day meeting old friends and new ones, answering the ever ringing telephone bell, taking care of business conferences and seeking a house.

Considering Gaming Casino.

The report was persistent here that Dempsey would either become associated with Graham and Mackay in the management of their enterprises or would head eastern capital in establishing a new gaming casino near Reno.

Dempsey had no comment to offer on these reports. He drove around Reno during the day looking for a house, indicating his intention of establishing a residence here.

Dempsey's mother and sister were understood to have accompanied him here from Salt Lake.

Estelle In Seclusion.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., April 11—(UP)—Estelle Taylor, film star and wife of Jack Dempsey, was in seclusion here today and could not be located for comment on Dempsey's statement in Reno that he "might file a divorce action."

Rumors of discord between the actress and the former heavyweight champion have circulated here for a year or more.

Miss Taylor, as well as Dempsey previously had denied they contemplated separation.

Recently, Miss Taylor denied she planned to sue Dempsey for divorce and said that she knew nothing of plans that he planned to bring a suit.

Estelle In Seclusion.

HOLLYWOOD& Cal., April 11—(I. N. S.)—Conflicting reports were given out at the Dempsey-Taylor home regarding the whereabouts of Estelle Taylor, film actress, today, left unanswered the question now on every tongue in Hollywood: "Have Jack Dempsey, former worlds heavyweight boxing champion and his beautiful wife separated, and is a divorce in the offing?"

A telephone call to the Dempsey home, answered by a man who said he was one of the servants, brought forth the information that Miss Taylor was "resting and could not be disturbed for several hours."

But a personal call, made at the home a few minutes later, brought forth an entirely different answer from a woman who said she was the housekeeper.

"Miss Taylor has been gone for some time. She has gone to the studio to work and will not be home until late this evening," the woman declared.

At the studios where Miss Taylor had worked there was no trace of her.

BALLER OUTFIT ENDS PRACTICE

Lincoln High Coach Picks Squad of 36 Gridmen For Fall Drills.

With another spring football practice period written into Lincoln high history, a tentative first squad of 36 candidates has been selected to report for practice next fall. Thirty-six other candidates were tentatively selected to comprise the next season's reserve squad, while the rest of the 111 men who reported for spring football are assigned to service on North field.

Coach Baller is highly pleased with the spring drill in fundamentals, and at the conclusion of practice announced that the second evening of practice next fall will see the boys taking up plays and scrimmages will be held during the first week. It is Baller's opinion that his proteges will be a hard team to beat next fall and he promises to have a capable team on the field when the Red and Black eleven is host to Schuyler Oct. 2.

Five End Candidates.

Five ends are on the first squad—Harold and Herod Miller, Jack Green, Mark Owens and Don North. North, originally a tackle, will be a hard man to beat for a post and Harold Miller looks like the other probable regular. Six tackles rated first squad ranking—Lloyd Aylesworth, Burl Richardson, Francis Rine, Don Shurtleff, David Rankin and Gifford Price. Shurtleff played end last year and seems slated for a regular berth, with Price, Aylesworth and Rankin in the fore in competition for the other position.

Guard, which appears to be the doubtful spot in the line, will have plenty of competition, nine players being selected. Dick Chowins, Reed Christian, Lewis Mackey, Charles Wilson, Jack Harris and Carl McGrew from last year's reserves and Bill Kahler, Bill Olson and Joe Roth complete the group, with the six men from the reserves in leading roles. Four centers were selected for trial. Dick Smith, Bob Heilig, Bob Ray and Harry Cotton coming under the barrier. Smith probably is a cinch for the regular post, although Ray's scrappiness may make him a tough lad to beat.

Even Dozen Backs.

An even dozen backs will receive tryouts next fall. Boyd Bronn, Ray Baldwin, Clifton Deeringer, Clifford Dietrich, Dick Geisler, Dawson Hawkins, Claude Young, Jerry Hunt, Ray Schwartz, John Williams, Bill Kulper and Bill Kierstead were chosen for trial. Baldwin is reasonaby sure of one ball-toting post, while Hawkins, Deerinnger, Deitrich, Geisler, Williams and Kulper look best among the others. Kierstead, who was placed on The Star's Greater Lincoln honor roll last season while playing on the reserves, is having considerable trouble with his studies and may not be available next year because of scholastic difficulties.

Three Dozen Reserves.

Catering mostly to backfield men, Coach Baller selected three dozen men to comprise the reserves next season. The roster includes Monty Heidenreich, Harry Rymer, John Saunders, Ruben Schneider, Bill Stenten, Aaron Knowles and Lloyd Stall at end; George Murdock, Orville Kingery, Lester Brown and Jack Campbell at tackles; Lowell English, Bob Martin, Bill Pappas, Earl Warner and James Hutchinson at guards; Jake Geler, Bob Hutton, and Ernie Shackle at center, and Harold Cates, Ray Calvert, Ben Ewing, John Groth, Bob Holland, Fred Jasper, Stanley Miller, Don Moran, Dick Paul, Dick Portsche, Clyde Rine, Bud Sibley, Claude Stowell, Bill Thorpe, Tony Rodgers, Charles Traver, Bill Weaver and George Wasson in the backfield.

Leading men on the reserve squad are Knowles, big colored gridder; Lester Brown, tackle from last year's reserves; James Hutchinson who was a star pivoteer for Lincoln high and Nebaska U. several years ago; Lowell English, hard-hitting guard, and Thorpe, Miller, Weaver and Stowell in the backfield.

on the varsity 21-yard line. Masterson's weaving run, which sent him whirling through a broken field of tacklers, was a beauty and near-duplication of his sensational sprint of the previous Saturday's contest.

Frosh Refuse Be Denied.

Kreizinger knocked down a frosh pass on the fourth down to give the varsity possession of the ball on its 13-yard stripe, but the frosh were not to be denied, for Sauer soon intercepted a long varsity pass and ran 41 yards to the varsity 20-yard line before he was forced out of bounds.

Bauer started shooting passes again and the frosh had the ball on the varsity one-yard line when the officials ruled Roby had interfered with Schmitt, frosh end, as the latter tried for a Bauer pass. Bauer failed to gain, but Masterson plynged over on the next play.

The splendid punting of Everett Kreizinger and George Sauer featured the game. The two backs were getting off beautiful kicks into and against the wind.

Kickers Do Their Stuff.

Sauer planted a 55-yard boot out of bounds on the varsity five-yard line during the second period. Kreizinger's best performance was in the fourth period when he kicked one 50 yards out of bounds on the frosh nine-yard line The ball was called back for the infliction of an off-side penalty and Kreizinger sent the ball 55 yards out of bounds again and across the sideline nine yards from the goal.

The defensive work of Penney stood out for the varsity, along with some bright spots in the ball-lugging department provided by Kreizinger, Swanson and Jack Miller. Kreizinger played a consistent game all the way, while Swanson ripped off several gains of eight and 10 yards during the first period.

Miller Shifted to Quarter.

Miller, shunted to the quarterback spot because of the absence of other varsity generals, made several lengthy returns of punts and in the drive to the second varsity touchdown slipped through for an important six-yard gain.

Sauer, Masterson, Boswell and Bauer seemed the most effective frosh backfield combination, this quartet having an effective aerial as well as running attack.

Industrial Stocks Settle To Slightly Lower Level Of Prices During Saturday's Listless Trading

Week-End Market Dullest of Year

Rails and Utilities Almost Disappear From Active Trading Lists.

International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 11

In the dullest week-end market of the year, industrial stocks settled down to a slightly lower level of prices today. The rails and utilities disappeared almost completely from the active trading lists and the turnover in the coppers, motors, oils and other important groups was the smallest since December, transactions on the big board totalled only 600,000 shares compared with the previous low record of 642,000 shares on January 17.

Johns Manville, Westinghouse and McKeesport Tin Plate were under pressure most of the short period. Johns Manville dropped off 5½ points to 56½ and closed near the bottom, Westinghouse fell off about a point to the year's lowest price at 79. McKeesport closed 4¼ points lower at 95, principally as the result of profit taking. Auburn Auto soared to 286½ for a new gain of 12½ points but closed only 4½ points higher, at 278½.

United States Steel revolved in a narrow price range and closed ⅛ higher, at 137⅜. American Tobacco B was up 1¼ at 126¼; Vanadium down ⅝ at 55½; Bethlehem Steel up ⅝ at 52¼; General Motors unchanged at 43⅜; Consolidated Gas up ⅛ at 99¾.

Dullness and irregularity ruled in the week-end stock market. Most of the market favorites dropped off to slightly lower prices, with a 4½-point drop in Johns Manville as the outstanding reaction in the industrials. Auburn Auto was primed for another spectacular exhibition of its climbing capacity, moving 11½ to a new high at 286½. Oil and copper stocks were slightly lower.

The week-end business surveys were generally favorable, though retail trade in some sections of the country are not holding as well as expected. Reports from the setel industry indicated that mill operations have not yet reached the peak for the present season and further improvement is expected. Automobile manufacturers are also preparing to step up production.

The drop in Johns Manville to 57⅞ followed directly the issuance of the first quarterly statement, showing net income of 13 cenas a share on the common stock. Selling was heaviest at the start of the session and the stock rallied moderately as the day advanced. Standrad of New Jersey led th ereaction in the oils and lost about a point. Steel and amusement issues attempted with little success to continue the rallies staged near the close of Friday's market.

The selling wave in the railroad socks did not reappear today, and there were good recoveries in railroad bonds. The reactions of the last week or two have placed many of these bonds on the investment bargain counter, and investing institutions have not been slow to see their opportunities in this quarter.

Stocks see-sawed their way thorugh an extremely narrow price range as the second hour wore on. New York Central, New Haven and other leading rails moved upward a point or so and the steel stocks recovered their early losses. Bethlehem Steel was well bought around 53 and American Rolling Mills moved ahead 1½ to 32½; Radio Keith was the most active of the low-priced amusement stocks, moving ahead fractionally to 22¼. Utility stocks were als odull and steady.

The commodity markets were firm, wheat and corn sold up about ½ cent a bushel in Chicago and New York, and cotton advanced a few points.

The market was irregular at the opening today, with wide price swings in the active shares. Auburn Auto jumped 5 points to 279 and Union Pacific moved up 1⅜ to 172, while Johns Manville fell off 2 points to 60.

United States Steel was unchanged at 137¼; American Tel and Tel up ½ at 188⅜; Allied Chemical up ½ at 134½; American Can up ⅜ at 122; Standard Oil of N. J. down ½ at 43⅜; Bethlehem Steel up ⅝ at 52¾.

Pennsylvania Railroad was unchanged at 55⅝; Chesapeake & Ohio down ⅛ at 40¼; Southern Pacific up ½ at 92¾; Southern Railway down ¼ at 41.

Utilities were also irregular, with Electric Power up ⅝ at 51½; American and Foreign Power down ¼ at 39½; American Waterworks down ⅛ at 60½; Columbia Gas down ⅝ at 38¼; North American up ¼ at 78; United Corporation up ⅛ at 24½.

Vanadium moved up ¼ to 56¼; American Smelting was up ⅜ at 46⅞; Anaconda Copper unchanged at 33; Mexican Seaboard up ¾ at 20½; Allied Chemical up ½ at 134½; American International up ¼ at 43½; Fox Film down ½ at 25½; International Telephone and Telegraph unchanged at 33¼; Montgomery Ward up ¼ at 22½; Radio up ¼ at 20⅝; Radio Keith up ¼ at 22; Sears Roebuck up ½ at 54½.

Auburn Auto pushed ahead 10 points to a new high at 284 in the first period.

Grains Steady At the Close

Wheat Firm to ¾c Up; Corn and Oats ⅛c Higher to ⅛c Down.

By International News Service.

CHICAGO, April 11.

Grains closed steady to firm today. Wheat was steady to ¾c up, corn and oats were ⅛c higher to ⅛c lower. Rye was ⅝ to ¾c higher.

Wheat opened steady but later firmed with active buying on relative firmness in Liverpool and the more favorable character of the news from abroad. Cables report prices in leading continental markets as 3⅛ to 4¼c up for the week.

Winnipeg bought 300,000 to 400,000 bushels of wheat adn 300,000 bushels of barley taken for export. The Liverpool wheat market closed ⅝ to ½c higher. Winnipeg was ⅜ to ½c higher at mdisession. Winter wheat reports are generally favorable, but the trade was uneasy over dry conditions in the spring wheat area.

Corn acted much the same as wheat. Weather conditions over the belt were generally favorable.

Oats and rye were slightly higher. Trade in both pits was moderate. Estimated cariot receipts were: Wheat 32, corn 95 and oats 20.

NEW YORK CURB REVIEW.

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 11

Curb stocks backed and filled irregularly in listless weekend dealings today, with few changes of a decisive nature recorded in the general market.

Utilities were irregular, with commonwealth Edison standing out prominently with an advance of 1¾ points at 236¾. Electric Bond & Share, American Superpower, American Light & Traction, and United Gas were other issues ruling firm, although showing no particular inclination to improve their position on the upside.

Cities Service churned around at approximately unchanged levels throughout the course of the abbreviated session.

Oils were in fair demand, with modern price improvement noted in Gulf and Vacuum. Members of the Standard Oil group just about held their own.

Pilot Radio Tube was a feature in a mixed specialty list, scoring a gain of 1¼ points at 18⅜. Aeolian preferred extended its gain to a new 1931 top at 53, and Cord Corporation ruled firm in reflection of the continued strength of Auburn Auto on the big board. On the other hand, Aluminum sold off 2 points to 172 on liquidating turnover.

Investment trusts attracted little interest, and virtually no changes of consequence were in evidence.

Krieger Victor In Gruelling Rassle

DUBUQUE, Ia., April 11 — (Special) — Adam Krieger of Lincoln and Heinie Engle of Dubuque, wrestling rivals of long standing, renewed their controversy here Friday night before a packed house, the Nebraska grappler bagging the verdict after the most gruelling match in years on a local mat.

Krieger apparently had the advantage when he clamped on a punishing headlock in bidding for the first fall, but Engle countered with a leg split which, from the severe punishment inflicted, compelled Krieger to surrender the fall in 26 minutes.

Rasslers In Head-on Crash.

The two grapplers coming back for the second fall, collided head-on when both leaped from their corners and met in the middle of the mat. Engle was knocked unconscious, while Krieger was only groggy, the Lincoln grappler easily pinning his helpless opponent.

Engle took the full 20 minutes to come back for the third and final fall and immediately unleashed rough-house tactics by trying to kick Krieger out of the ring when the Lincoln man was floundering near the edge of the mat.

Krieger came back in full measure with a series of rabbit punches, after which he hoisted Engle high in the air and dropped him with a lumber-crashing thud to the mat. The tumble took the fight completely out of the Dubuque boy and he was an easy prey for the fall that gave Krieger the victor's verdict.

Engle partisans were wrought up by the defeat of the Dubuque favorite and police had to be called to escort Krieger to his dressing room.

ELMWOOD, Neb., April 11—Elmwood and Louisville are leading the Cass county high school baseball league this week, each team having three victories to its credit. The two leaders meet at Louisville next Friday.

Louisville won a pair of victories last week, defeating Alvo by a 14-4 score and winning a 20-2 victory over Greenwood. Murdock trimmed Alvo, 5-1, and Elmwood outscored Murdock, 8-4.

Games next Friday are Elmwood at Louisville, Weeping Water at Alvo and Greenwood at Murdock.

Entries Close For Kansas U. Carnival

LAWRENCE, Kans., April 11—(UP)—Complete entries for the ninth annual Kansas relays, April 18, were announced today by officials of the University of Kansas athletic office.

Athletes from 23 universities, 28 colleges and 8 junior colleges are to compete. Included in the list were the entries for the decathlon event, which will be held Friday afternoon and Saturday morning.

There are 343 athletes entered in the university class, 312 in the college class and 62 in the junior college class. All sections of the country are represented in the entries.

Candidates For Track In Training at Wilber

WILBER, Neb., April 11—Coach George R. Willy has three lettermen out for track at Wilber high, the veterans being A. Janouch, M. Smith and William Watkins. Other men who have not won letters but are showing up well, include H. Shimerda, J. Bartos and L. Brolliar. New men of promise are V. Sebek, S. Rejeha, H. Zwnoechek and P. Chase.

Wilber will compete in the Southeast Nebraska meet at Beatrice, the invitation meet at Wesleyan and the state championships in Lincoln.

BRITISH GOLFERS USE YANK BALL

ROEHAMPTON, England, April 11.—(UP)—Herbert Jolly of Foxgrove today won the 200-guinea professional golfers' tournament, defeating Charles A. Whitcombe, captain of the British Ryder cup team, one up.

Seventy-four professionals, including practically all Ryder cup candidates, entered the tournament. Most of them failed to qualify and the last 16 players included none of the cup candidates. Participants used the American ball.

"Y" Team Leaders To Meet Monday

KING MOTORS IN NEW QUARTERS

Willys-Knight Distributors Now Located at 1600 O Street.

King Motors Inc., formerly at 1608 O street, have now occupied their new location at 1600 O street, as distributors of Willys-Knight and Willys motor cars.

E. D. King, in business in Lincoln for more than twenty-one years, announced Saturday that the move was necessitated because of the increase in sales and the demand for more floor space for display.

Monday morning the parts department, service department and shop will be open for use, complete service being given all cars as one of the features of the new location. Used cars will now be kept in the same building.

The location at 1600 O street was used by the King Motors for many years and was recently replaced by a miniature golf course which has since been removed.

THOUSANDS SEE AUBURN, CORD

Many Attend Opening Lincoln Agency of J. H. Hansen Co.

With the opening of J. H. Hansen Motors Co., 1608 O street, Lincoln people now have an Auburn and Cord distributor in the city.

At the opening Thursday evening more than 2500 people visited the new show rooms and viewed the assembled models now on display. Fifteen hundred visited the exhibit Friday and Saturday brought a record attendance.

J. H. Hansen, former Cadillac dealer of Omaha is now operating the Auburn and Cord agencies in Omaha and Lincoln with Robert Funk, treasurer and vice president of the firm, as manager of the Lincoln agency.

Conspicuous by its dash of color is the Cord "Blue Boy" which occupies the favorite space in the front window of the new location. This car has received a thorough inspection by interested automobile owners since its arrival in Lincoln, while the maroon Auburn convertible cabriolet has received no less comment.

According to Mr. Funk the public is invited to call and view the new models which are offered in a wide range of price.

PRODUCTION OF OAKLAND GAINS

Progressive Monthly Increase Reported By Company.

PONTIAC, Mich., April 10—A progressive monthly increase in Oakland-Pontiac production since the turn of the year culminated with a total of 11,291 units built in March which exceeded not only January and February but also was larger than March of 1930.

Unexpected increases in retail demand have necessitated emergency trainload shipments to various points, especially in the west and middle west. Both the Chicago and the Minneapolis-St. Paul areas have received large emergency shipments of Oakland-Pontiac cars,

DODGE SIX ADDS NEW FEATURES

Improvements Made For Dependability and Comfort.

New beauty as a complement to sixteen years of Dodge dependability is strikingly brought out in the new low-priced Dodge six. A number of new and interesting features have been added which distinguish it among six-cylinder cars in its price group.

The mono-piece body which Dodge cars have made famous is continued with added advantages in style treatment and construction which the engineers have incorporated as a result of further developments in steel stamping and flash welding. Windshields which open out are chromium framed and double t op-cowl ventilators insure comfort to occupants of the car in all seasons.

Every convenience possible has been included for the comfort of driver and passengers. Front seats are adjustable to fit the driver. Radiator shutters, which are standard equipment, are hand operated. Bodies are provided with arm rests, while the garnish mouldings and instrument boards are ebony finish.

STUDEBAKER TO RETAIN MODELS

No Mid-Year Changes is Word of Executive; Praises Machines

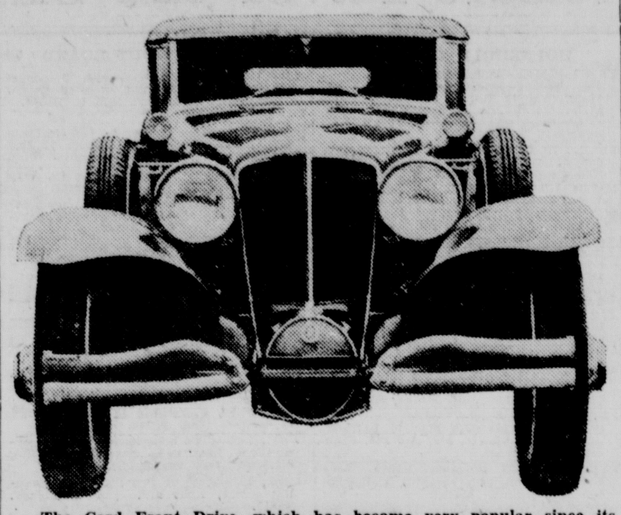

Convinced that free wheeling with positive gear control represents the apex of present-day automotive engineering achievement, Studebaker announces that there will be no mid-year model changes this summer. In fact, none will be made before next winter.

"Today, every Studebaker model—President, Commander and Dictator eights, as well as the new Studebaker six—offer this epochal engineering advancement in addition to the utmost in chassis improvements and body refinements," says Paul G. Hoffman, vice-president of the Studebaker corporation. "We feel, therefore, that mid-year model changes are unwarranted and unnecessary.

"Not only Studebaker owners, but all others considering the purchase of a car, should reap the benefit of this decision. Studebaker owners may now feel secure in the knowledge that their cars represent the very latest in automotive progress, while new purchasers are relieved of all doubt concerning the possibility of unexpected announcements of model changes in the near future.

"Thus, owner contentment is created, as well as buying confidence on the part of the public. It is reasonable to expect that this policy, recently endorsed by the national automobile chamber of commerce and adopted by the majority of its members, will work as a powerful stimulus to the automobile industry."

Cord Front Drive Shown Here

Auto Notes

Simple Task to Clean Spark Plugs.

To clean spark plugs, simply fill the lower part of the plug with alcohol and allow to stand for a few seconds. Take a piece of wire covered with one thickness of cloth and rub the carbon from the insulator, then wipe clean and dry thoroughly before replacing in the engine. Clean sparking points with emery cloth or a knife.

Frequent Inspection Urged for Cars.

Periodic inspection is the key to lower automobile maintenance costs. After a car has been driven a certain distance, some parts need tightening, others need adjustments, and some should be replaced.

Steering Car With Ease and Safety.

It is much easier and safer to steer a car with wheels that "toe in" than one with front wheels that are straight or "toe out." Front wheels toeing in tend to keep the car in the enter of the road. Little or no effort is required of the driver to keep the car moving in a straight line. Frequent measurements between front wheels should be taken. The distance between wheels should be from one-eighth to one-quarter of an inch smaller at the front than at the back. Take both measurements at a height above the ground equal to the height of the front wheel bearings (half the height of the wheels). Do not measure between tires; measure from a point on the inside rim of one wheel to the same point on the inside of the other.

New Location At Sixteenth and O Streets of King Motors

The new location of the King Motors Inc., is shown above. The company now occupies the building located on the northeast corner of Sixteenth and O streets. These are the same quarters the company occupied until about six years ago when it moved to 1608 O street. The Willys and Willys-Knight cars are handled by King Motors. E. D. King, head of the firm, has been engaged in the automobile business for the past twenty-one years.

while the arrival of two trains carrying nearly 400 additional automobiles to Pacific coast points, was followed shortly afterward by a further call for 212 cars in Denver, Salt Lake City and Oakland, Cal. This latest emergency shipment left here last week in a train of 53 freight cars.

According to factory executives, these emergency trainload shipments represent the margin by which actual sales have exceeded dealers' forecasts.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES.

A bucking engine is sometimes due to improper spacing of spark gaps, or because the plugs are badly worn.

Tires should be given careful inspection and if cuts from glass or road bruises develop they should be attended to at once.

Tires with worn-off treads are liable to sudden deflation should they be pierced by a nail or bolt on the road. Many times this has resulted in wrecking the car.

WILLYS SALES SHOW INCREASE

Prospects are Extremely Encouraging Says Graham.

TOLEDO, O., April 10—With Willys-Overland sales for March showing an increase of 19.6 per cent over February and 92 per cent over January, each successive month so far this year has shown a gain, George M. Graham, vice president in charge of sales announced here.

The company entered April with a good bank of unfilled orders on hand, Mr. Graham said, with dealers reporting that they expected this month to show an increase over March.

"Not only is our passenger car business satisfactory but the sales of our commercial units and the future prospects are extremely encouraging," Mr. Graham said. "March truck shipments showed a gain of 101 per cent over February. We entered the month with a bank of unfilled domestic truck orders which were 10 per cent greater than the total shipments in the month of March."

Best Grip for Steering Car.

Two hands firmly grasping the steering wheel at points approximately opposite each other is the best way to guide a car. The palm of the left hand should be under the rim with the fingers gripping upward, thus allowing the left arm and hand to serve as a brace. The palm of the right hand should be on top of the rim, with the fingers gripping downward, thus affording the greatest and most quickly available leverage.

Brakes squeal when they are glazed or when improperly adjusted.

OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES FAVORED BY SOCIAL SET

Social Activity of Week Mostly At Country Clubs

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hosburgh Give Unique Affair at Eastridge When Guests Appear Dressed in Clothes of School Days.

OUR disillusionment is complete. The social renaissance that was expected to follow close on the heels of the lenten season, did not arrive post-haste, but instead, seems to be requiring no end of time for organization.

The monotony of routine, the usual clubs, the usual foursomes, the rendezvous for luncheon, the usual conversation concerning the usual people has grown somewhat irksome, and those who have found themselves a prey to this lack of variety in the scheme of things have welcomed the warm weather which makes outdoor activity possible.

The palest hyacinth bloom has a meaning all its own this delightful spring weather, and one of our most attractive young matrons has cut, from her own garden, a jonquil or two for her living-room. Gardening has become an art at which women are most adept, and which for them seems to hold a joyous fascination. In fact, pink tea gossip for the next few weeks is most likely to be concentrated upon bulbs and seeds and the best possible results to be obtained from various types.

However, other interests have their share of attention, also, with a party now and then thrown in for good measure. And on the subject of parties—for a real out-and-out different affair, the A. J. Hosburghs should at least have honorable mention.

Last Thursday evening they entertained at a school-day party at Eastridge Country club. Eighteen couples were invited, with instructions to dress as children. A schoolroom was arranged, and after the good-morning song, school was dismissed long enough to go to the dining-room, where supper had been put into old-fashioned school lunch boxes. The guests were seated at a long supper table, where hot dishes were served as well as the school lunch. An hour's session in the school-room, where a typical Friday afternoon program was presented, followed the dinner. The remainder of the time was devoted to bridge and dancing.

While the coming week isn't to be a riot of activity by any means, at least it has its moments. Tues-

May and June to See Usual Number of Church Weddings

April Ceremonies Noticeably Simple and Indicate Spring Marriages Likely to Be Informal. Miss Ruth Judge Becomes Bride.

A SPRING season of informal weddings is predicted if the present vogue for simplicity continues. No doubt May and June will each have its share of large church affairs, but those of April are noticeably quiet and simple.

Extremely interesting is the marriage of Miss Ruth Judge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Judge, to Keith J. Hardie of Des Moines, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Hardie of Des Moines, which was solemnized at an early service Saturday morning at St. Mary's Cathedral. A very few guests were invited for the service, which was read by Monsignor P. L. O'Loughlin at 9 o'clock.

Mrs Harriet Cruise Kemmer sang Gounod's "Ave Maria," before the service. Mrs. Guy TouVelle, who attended her sister as matron of honor, wore a frock of beige figured net with a large flesh-colored horsehair braid hat. Marcus Hardie of Des Moines, was best man.

The bride was attractively gowned in white satin made with long tightly fitted sleeves, and a long skirt slightly flared. Her long tulle veil was fastened with a tiny cap adorned with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of roses and gardenia.

Mr. and Mrs. Judge gave the wedding breakfast afterward at the Lincoln hotel. Twenty-five were seated at a table appointed with bridal decorations. The couple are taking a southern motor trip and will make their home in Waterloo, Ia.

The prenuptial dinner for members of the family was given Friday evening at the Lincoln hotel. The time was spent informally.

Superior Girl Married.

Miss Louise Mitchell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Mitchell of Superior, Neb., became the bride of Mr. Herman Frederick Otte, son of Mr. Fritz Otte of Leigh, Neb., at a quiet church wedding Easter Sunday, in Sound Beach, Conn. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Allen Lorimer, immediately

Nebraskans In Washington Active In Social Affairs

Delegates from State to National D. A. R. Congress Will Be Honored at Many Affairs Being Planned by Former Residents.

BY DORTHEA J. LEWIS.
WASHINGTON BUREAU
THE LINCOLN STAR
(Washington Society Editor.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 10—Great dazzling events dotted the social firmament last week to make it truly a glittering and gay Easter time, but in between the big affairs, society could be heard drawing deep breaths, and whispering about coming events which have been casting their shadows before them for some time.

Mother is talking about the opera, particularly glamorous Lawrence Tibbett, here April 14, 15 and 16. Daughter is rather excited about Tibbett, too, for hasn't she seen him in the movies?

Mother and Aunt Minnie are looking forward to the D. A. R. Continental Congress on April 20, in which Mrs. K. A. Van Orsdel of Beatrice, will take a prominent part, and which a number of Nebraska members are expected to attend.

They are fighting over two feminine prohibition conventions of the near future. Mother is a dry and she's interested in the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement meeting here, April 10 and 11, while Aunt Minnie believes that she is somewhat more modern and more progressive (and why shouldn't she be, unencumbered with children), and with no relatives to speak of save mother and is championing the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform, that meets here, April 14 and 15.

Daughter and Little Sister are going to the Girl Scouts "Festival of the Nations" late in April, which General Pershing and Rep. Ruth Bryan Owen are sponsoring. Father and Son are holding their breath until after the first Hoover-thrown baseball, also on April 14. (What a day the 14th will be! It is officially Pan-American day, and there are concerts and speeches and celebrations galore already planned.)

But the events that have the entire family, mother, father, daughter, son, little sister, Aunt Minnie and even Cousin Willie, excited, are the visits of Royalty, with a capital R.

On April 15, Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan brother and sister-in-law of the Japanese emperor, are scheduled to arrive here for a few days and the family is praying for cherry blossoms by that time. Then, on April 29, the king and queen of Siam will come to the national capital—the first ruling

Spring Flowers Lend Beauty To Affairs of Dance Clubs

Parties Planned for Week To Be But Forerunners of Summer Activities, As Many of the Groups Will Frequent Country Clubs During Warm Weather.

The loveliest of the dancing club affairs are the spring dinner dances when flowered chiffons appear, and delicately shaded blossoms make appropriate table appointments. These parties, many of which are scheduled for this week, seem to be just forerunners of summer dances, for in a short time the same groups will frequent the informal dances at the country clubs.

Fifty-Fifty club will give its final party for the spring, a dinner dance at the Lincoln hotel, Tuesday evening. A spring motif will prevail in the appointments for the table arranged for forty couples. Presiding at the affair are Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. King, Judge and Mrs. G. H. Risser, and Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Smith.

Roland M. Andersn is the new president of the club; T. H. Wake of Seward, vice president, and Mrs. H. B. Sawyer, secertary-treasurer.

Monday Night Dance.

Monday Night club members will attend a dinner dance Tuesday evening at the Country club. Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. Don Miller, and Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Hawke are in charge, and fifty couples are expected to attend. There will be a few favor numbers.

April Dinner Dance.

The April dinner dance of the Saturday Night club will be given Thursday evening at the Lincoln hotel. The affair will be a garden party and about forty couples will attend. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Koupal, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. McCulla, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard McCain, who are in charge, are planning two favor dances.

Dine and Dance.

Merrimyx club members will dine and dance Monday evening at the Lincoln hotel. Vases of sweet peas and tapers in spring shades will decorate the tables and there will be favor numbers. Presiding at the party will be Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Keeley, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Edwards, Dr. and Mrs. Leo Gartner, and Mr. and Mrs. William Kleinbecker. During the evening there will be dances by members of Thirza Fay's dancing school. The affair is the last of the season for this club, and new officers will be elected.

Seasoned Motif Planned.

A spring dinner dance is being given Friday evening at Eastridge Country club by Sans Souci club for fifty couples, including several guests. The appointments are to carry out a seasonal motif, and there will be several favor numbers. Dr. and Mrs. Jesse Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Kirtley, and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Ryne will be in charge.

Polo Ball Big Event.

As for the events of last week, there was the polo ball and the Congressional Country club Venetian ball Which Mrs. J. R. McCarl, formerly of McCook, helped to arrange, Monday night.

This year, the Easter egg rolling on the white house lawn was a dismal failure. A more forlorn group than the few brave, bedraggled, wet children slipping about on the rain drenched lawn, would be hard to find.

The youngsters of the Simmons family of Scottsbluff, Neb., on the other hand had a grand time, safe and warm and happy inside the white house at the party for the three little Hoovers.

Stories foretelling the glory and grandeur of the Easter Monday egg rolling spokeof festivities from "sun up until sundown," but the sun did not even try to show his face on Monday.

Red, yellow, green and purple balloons lent a little color to the otherwise drab scene and, of course, the eggs were bright and gay, when the fun started. Throwing eggs seemed more in favor this year than rolling them, and certainly it disposed of them sooner and allowed wet parents to coax "Mary" and "Bob" home.

One little boy, with a bright yellow egg clutched lovingly in one hand, was asked if he was having a good time.

"Cracked," he said, "all cracked," and that was the limit of his comment.

"Yes, ma'am," said a little girl in answer to the same question, and bit away on a pink candy egg.

There were huge baskets and great soft bunnies, almost as large as their owners. And there were little black egg-rollers with one precious egg apiece. They probably had a good time after all, for in spite of cloud and rain and cold, it was Easter Monday, wasn't it?

Players In Last Show Of Season

"Bird In Hand" To Be Given At Temple Theater Week Beginnig Monday.

Representing a battle of young ideas with wornout prejudices, John Drinkwater's latest comedy, "Bird in Hand," will be opened by the University Players tomorrow night for a week's run at the Temple theater. At the close of this final production, the Players will initiate their season ticket sales campaign for next season.

"Bird in Hand" has created a stir among Broadway dramatic critics, and is considered one of the comedy hits of the season. Miss Delellis Shramek, senior in the dramatic department and a member of Kappa Alpha Theta, has been selected to play the leading feminine role. Her performance as the gum-chewing Follies girl in "Ladies of the Jury," gained popularity and recognition for her among University Players patrons.

Miss Shramek plays the part of the 1931 English girl, who is thwarted in her matrimonial and romantic attempts by a straight-laced, unreasonable father. W. Zolley Lerner, recognized for his character interpretations, will take the part of the mid-Victorian head of the family.

The "Bird in Hand" is an English tavern, situated near the home of Sir Robert Arnwood. Miss Shramek, as the daughter of the inn-keeper, falls in love with the son of Sir Robert. Her mother, Mrs. Greenleaf, played by Dorsel Jaeke, is understanding and sympathetic, but her father is determined that no daughter of his shall disgrace herself by marrying outside her social circle.

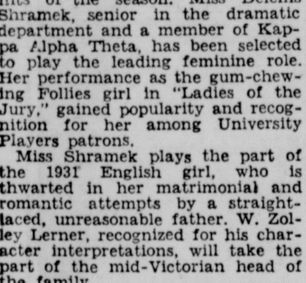

Elbridge Brubaker, as the Rolls-Roycing son of Sir Robert, insists upon courting the inn-keeper's daughter. Three guests drop in at the "Bird in Hand" and join in the family discussion, throwing their influence on the side of the charming daughter.

These three guests provide an unlimited amount of humor for the "Bird in Hand" comedy. William F. Thompson, who played the henpecked husband in "Fashion," is a sardine salesman. Having done business with canned fish for some time, he has his own interpretation of social customs. Herbert Yenne, blonde attorney for the defense in "Ladies of the Jury," is a wealthy barrister, another of the guests. Leland Bennett, a two-fisted gentleman in "Ladies of the Jury," is the third guest. Without invitation these men take sides in the Greenleaf family's squabble, complicating matters for the father.

When Joan Greenleaf's chances of marrying her aristocratic swain seem darkest, Sir Robert Arnwood himself enters the picture. Paul Thompson plays this part, and his logical manipulation of the innkeeper finally brings him around.

"This is the most natural and funniest play we have worked on this season," explained Miss Alice Howell, director of the Players. Since "Bird in Hand" closes the University Players' 1930-31 season, the academic actors are anxious to keep up the attendance records established by "Ladies of the Jury," and "Fashion."

Will Speak

Miss Marion McClench, national president of the Business and Professional Women's clubs, will be a speaker at the annual convention in Omaha, this week.

Havelock Notes

Mrs. C. N. Goslin entertained Mrs. Louis Funk and daughter, Esther, and Mrs. John Moore to dinner Sunday, the occasion being the birthday anniversary of her daughter Mildred.

Two Birthday Anniversaries

Betty Jean Radcliff, left, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Radcliff, 501 E street. She had her first birthday April 9.

Harold Sherman entertained at the Lincoln theater Monday afternoon, in honor of his ninth birthday. The guests included Alice Wenkler, Dorothy Sherman, Genevieve Reeves, Maurine Reeves, Jack Harding, Earl Grady, Thomas Meries Allan Frass, Fred Cassidy, and Bernard Helen. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sherman, 921 Garfield street.

Handling Mail Big Business

Business Women Hear T. E. Gillaspie and Elect Convention Delegates.

Potmaster Trev E. Gillaspie was the speaker for the dinner meeting of the Lincoln Business and Professional Women's club, Thursday evening. Many facts about Lincoln's airmail and postoffice service were recited. He invited the people to make a tour of the postoffice and see what he described as one of the largest institutions in Lincoln, having a payroll of $426,000 a year. Last year's receipts were $963,000, and 114,000 pounds of parcel post matter and 12,000 pounds of first class mail were posted in Lincoln for outside points in one week.

The difference between registered and special delivery mail was described as the difference between safety and speed at destination. The dead letter office, Mr. Gillaspie stated, in a year receives about twenty-three million letters, with much loss of time and money, almost entirely due to carelessness in addressing and lack of return card on the envelope. Mr. Gillaspie displayed pictures of the mail planes, including a "monomail" ship to be put into service soon, which maintains a cruising speed of 170 miles an hour. The Boeing company is the only one employing girls on their ships, they being used as stewardesses.

Walter L. Wheatley opened the evening by singing "Land of the Sky Blue Water," by Cadman; "Deep River," a negro spiritual, by Burleigh; "Mattinata," by Leon Cavallo, and "The Owl," by John Barnes Wells.

As delegates to the state convention of Business and Professional Women at Omaha on April 17, 18, and 19, the club named Mrs. Ida Vose, Mrs. Margaret Carns and Dr. Ruth A. Warner. Mrs. Gladys VanCamp, Miss Narcissa Snell, and Mrs. A. F. Berggren are the alternates. A communication was read giving final arrangements for the convention, which will include banquets, vocational luncheons, emblem breakfast, emblem pageant and business sessions. Headquarters will be at the Fontenelle hotel. The final occasion will be a midnight frolic to be given at the "Gilded Cage Night Club." Various members of the Lincoln club will motor to Omaha on Saturday and those desiring to go may apply to Mrs. Crowley for space in cars.

Among those receiving Phi Beta Kappa honors from the Nebraska university recently, Miss Evelyn Adler was assisted to her success through aid from the clubs' student loan fund. Two new applicants have received loans from the fund during the past month.

Public Invited.

Miss Lyda Hafer announced completion of plans for the benefit bridge to be held at the Cornhusker hotel ball room on the evening of April 14. The public generally has been invited to attend this function. Refreshments will be served and prizes will be given. Tickets may be secured from any member of the club. Members of the recreation committee will serve as hostesses.

At the dinner meeting on April 23 Dr. S. L. Ashworth will serve as dinner chairman and Mrs. J. O. Rodgers will take care of the dining room service. Mrs. Grave Y. Boomer and Miss Margaret Valentine will be hostesses.

Guests on Thursday evening were Dr. Laura Brown of Glendale, Cal., who was the third president of the Lincoln club; Prof. Walter Wheatley, Trev E. Gillaspie and Mrs. Gillaspie, Mrs. Eva Robison, Dr. Margaret Hammond, Miss Florence Jenkins, a teacher at Jackson high school; Mrs. Charlotte Thurtle, Miss Grace Beardsley, and Miss Eva Pierce of the city engineer's office.

Wednesday Club At Crete Studies Norwegian Author

CRETE, Neb., April 12—The life of Johan Bojer, a Norwegian author was studied by the Wednesday club this week when members were entertained by Mrs. Homer Osterhout. Miss Gertrude Brown had charge of the lesson and later reviewed his book, "The Emigrant." The current topic presented by Mrs. G. A. Gregory was followed by a musical program arranged by Mrs. Charles Wechbach, which included Grieg's Sonata in C Minor. A color note of green was used in the appointments for the dinner. Covers for fifteen were placed at tables attractive with their spring floral centerpieces and other spring decorations. Special guests were Mrs. W. S. Kinney, Mrs. P. W. McDermond and Mrs. Herbert Smith.

Complimentary to Mrs. H. H. Hosford of Cleveland, who is the house guest of Miss Gertrude Brown, the members of the Women's Faculty club gave an informal afternoon tea Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edwin B. Dean. A musical program and a social time were enjoyed.

The Crete Woman's club met Friday afternoon at the club rooms. Mrs. Robb Douglas led the discussion on "Cause and Cure of Crime."

Legion Auxiliary.

Mrs. Fred Roland, membership chairman of the American Legion auxiliary, reported at the meeting Tuesday evening that Crete unit had gone over the top with a membership of 121. Plans were made for Poppy day and rehabilitation work was reported. A short program preceded the serving of refreshments by Mrs. Louis Kerst, Mrs. E. E. Swanbom, Mrs. W. H. Pallett and Mrs. Frank Kokrda.

The Cete Rotay club held its regular mid-week dinner at the Cosmopolitan hotel Wednesday evening with Rev. Guy Ballard as speaker. Ivan May, accompanied by Miss Cecilia Marek, played the violin solo with which he took place at the Geneva district contest Thursday. Vit Jelinek was chairman.

Mrs. Earl Garrett entertained the members of the Idyl Hour club at an afternoon of bridge Friday. The spring motif was used in the appointments for the bridge tables and for the luncheon. Club guests were Mrs. M. J. Blue, Mrs. Joe Roulier, Mrs. Edgar Savage, Mrs. R. Winsinger, Mrs. John Weiss and Mrs. Waldo A. Keitges.

The members of the Be Pah club were dinner guests of Mrs. R. L. Wygant Thursday evening. A bouquet of snapdragons centered the table, at which gold and black cards marked each of the eight places. An evening of bridge was enjoyed. Mrs. Ralph Pflasterer and Mrs. James G. Miller were special guests.

Two tables were placed for bridge Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. Earl B. Hardeman was hostess to the Contract Bridge club. Mrs. Earl Weingart and Mrs. James G. Miller scored high.

Junior-Senior Formal.

Many Interesting Quilts Are Exhibited By Ladies, Seward

SEWARD, Neb., April 12—An unusual and interesting display of quilts was the feature of the tea held at the home of Mrs. Leonard Fuque Thursday afternoon by the Congregational Aid society. A committee consisting of Mrs. Ruth Fisher, Miss Flora Brandes, and Mrs. Ed Woods gathered the quilts from the community. One hundred and twenty-five were exhibited and every type was represented from the old homespun to the latest applique. Mrs. Fisher gave a talk on the different patterns. She said that making patchwork or pieced quilts is a distinct American art and comes to us from pioneer days. She said that happiness most frequently lies in the simpler things.

Among the oldest quilts were "The Ohio Rose," owned by Mrs. Mary Leger, 83 years old; one owned by Mrs. Garfield Lee is 101 years old; the "Sugar Loaf," owned by Mrs. Ben Hughes, 101 years old; "Ocean Wave," belonging to Mrs. W. H. Moffit, is fifty years old; "Double X," exhibited by Mrs. George Leffel, is eighty-five years old. A homespun coverlid 100 years old is owned by Mrs. William Dearing and one made of 10,000 pieces is owned by Mrs. R. S. Norval.

Among the better known quilt patterns were the "Wind Blown Tulip," "Double Irish Chain," "Gentleman's Necktie," "Flower Garden," "Chinese Aster," "Lone Star," 'Double Wedding Ring," 'Wild Rose," "Crooked Road," "Rose of Sharon," "Weeping Willow," and 'Pickle Dish."

Cake and coffee were served to the seventy-five guests by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Cliff McGrew, Mrs. Frank Hintz and Mrs. Ray Olmstead. Tulips and green and white candles were used for decoration on the tea table and buffet.

BACKBONE KEY TO HEALTH CHIROPRACTORS CLAIM

The human spine has a wonderful meaning. In length it measures considerably short of three feet, extends head to hips, attaches the ribs and pelvis, the bones of the arms, and is itself composed of segments which are of limited motion and play a most important part in the items of health and disease. A principal function of the spine is to systematically distribute the nerves on their way from the brain to the body. It performs its full duty in this respect when its joints are in natural position. In a situation like that it provides free passage to the nerve trunks which will insure to the human system throughout the maximum of health and immunity from disease.

The first unity in the spinal column proper, the one forming a rest for the base of the skull, is called the atlas. If there is even a slight displacement of the atlas to cause deviation of any of its points of articulating contact with the cranium with the axis, its nearest neighbor below, the changed shape will press the nerve lines dependent upon it. The effect will be some one or more of those physical inco-ordinations that are distinguished from health by calling them diseases, such as headaches, facial paralysis, epilepsy, affections of the eyes and ears, as well as other parts of the anatomy of the head and body that are controlled or influenced by the nerves involved.

In like manner every joint in the spinal column gives off nerve trunks on either side. Where there is disease in any body part it is traceable to a causative derangement in the spin, which cause in the science of chiropractic may be readily located and definitely removed by specific adjustment of the offending spinal joint. This in brief is the chiropractic theory of the cause of disease and the way to remove it.

The mind of civilized man has been trained for centuries to believe that disease is a THING, a tangible something, an entity as it were and that it can be cured by a drug—or by taking something into the human system through the stomach or otherwise that holds some strange and magical power to change disease into health. This idea, like many others, has prevailed through time largely because of its mysteriousness.

As long as people live they will subject their bodies voluntarily and accidentally to conditions of unusual burden on the spinal column and any of these stresses the column is physically unable to withstand will effect displacements of its parts. And inasmuch as the vast majority of human ailments result from compression of nerves caused by spinal subluxations, adjusting by the chiropractic method is the most important thing that can be done to improve the health of any suffering individual.

Modern science has clearly demonstrated the importance of the human spine in health and disease. It is known that the backbone of man is the key to his health. It has been proved to the entire satisfaction of many leading health scientists who have investigated the science of chiropractic that where the spinal column is realigned by specific adjusting it will insure the return of health to any ailing body part; contrariwise, it is now known beyond doubt that the displacement of any segment of the spine will produce disease in the part of the body that is reached by the nerves it impinges.

Axis Club Hears Talk By Teacher

Miss Hilda Tillinghast Tells Of Her Work With Deaf In Schools.

The Lincoln Axis club met at the Lindell hotel Tuesday night and heard an address on teaching deaf children. Miss Hilda Tillinghast was the speaker. She is instructor of deaf children at the Prescott school and, in addition to telling of her work, gave demonstrations, assisted by two of her pupils.

Teaching the deaf was unknown in the United States prior to the end of the eighteenth century, according to Miss Tillinghast. At that time, she said, the principles of the work were introduced into America by a Connecticut school teacher who had studied the methods used abroad.

At first the instruction is largely a matter of gestures, according to Miss Tillinghast. After that language is taught by using objects, gestures, pictures and by observation and lip-reading. The child is then able to progress in other subjects. It usually is quite easy for the deaf child to learn to write.

Miss Tillinghast comes from a family of teachers of the deaf. Her grandfather followed the work for many years, and her father is now an instructor in the South Dakota school for the deaf.

Return From Abroad.

The Thomas Woods arrived home Friday, after being abroad two and a half months. Most of the time was spent in England, although three weeks were spent in Paris, and taking a 500-mile motor trip through the Loire valley and Chateau country. While in Paris Mr. and Mrs. Wood had luncheon one day with Mr. and Mrs. Chester Chubb and their son, Niles. And, apropos of the Chubbs—rumor has it that they are returning to the States one of these days before long, to stay.

The Woods made the trip to Europe on the S. S. Majestic, but returned on the S. S. Bremen, which is probably the most perfectly appointed ship in existence.

Eve Goes a' shopping

The Laundering of Ruffled

Curtains need not harrass your days, for the Evans' huge curtain department has every available commodity necessary for the proper cleaning of them and when you receive them you'll understand just what I mean. Each ruffle is hand ironed, every length is measured and they are as fresh, crisp and lovely as new. B6961.

And Another Treat

is in store for the stylish women of Lincoln, for Cadwallader's offer their lovely white Arctic and dyed Arctic fox scarfs $75. This next week—all of them, at least $150 values, and this week only $75. Be sure and select yours this week, and they invite you early so your selection is the best.

and suits have that indispensible chic which makes smartness on almost any daytime occasion. Those of this season have cunning short jackets of contrasted stripes and smart berets, or unusually jaunty flares and fittings which indeed make for comfort chic and very inexpensive too. At Gold's I found many, many new one, which predict gayly dressed Lincoln. Any shade, any style and I might add almost ay price you'd care to pay. Some extraordinary values in three-pieced effects for $17.50. See them this week on the Second floor of Gold's, in the Ready-to-Wear section.

Griswold-Comstock's

Lincoln's only exclusive floor-covering store is situated across from the Lincoln Hotel on P St. Here one may find lovely boudoir carpet with gay flowers, etc.; all-over design; hit and miss; the new type "Jaspe"; lovely, rich brocade effects; friezes—all types for every room in the house, including attractive inlaid Linoleums for the kitchen, sun-parlor or bath.

Thank Your Father

And your brother...and all the other men who stand silently by while we swipe their most beautiful materials, and use them for our own spring suits and coats. These woolens are so rich ...so smart...so perfectly adapted to the new casual-looking clothes, that you won't want to resist their charm. Tiny checks, pencil stripes, and interesting gray, tan, blue, and brown mixtures are the most popular of these so-called mannish suitings, and you'll find them all in the store you prefer, because you know its fashions are always up to the minute—and even a little ahead of time.

Have You Heard Polly?

She talked over KFAB last Friday A. M., at 9:15, told a clever little story about painting, how she had enlisted the aid of Mr. Eller at the Western Glass and Paint Co. How he not only sold her lovely devoe but instructed her step by step to use it to accomplish a professional looking job. Next Friday, same time, she will give another chat over KFAB.

1, 2, 3, 4 and More

It's simply fascinating, how many parts these modern ensembles seem to have. Of course most of them are just a dress and three-quarters jacket, but we saw a few very interesting ones—imagine—a skirt and a blouse, and a waistcoat, and a long silk scarf, and a bert and handbag to match — all in the most beautiful tweed, and at the most beautiful low price. With a few different blouses, and by changing the colors of your accessories, you can make almost a complete daytime wardrobe out of one of these ensembles. And do weaken, and get yourself a very dressy one too, in pastel silk, with a little fox collar, for formal afternoons. They're not half as expensive as they look.

The newest, smartest shade of hose is almost mysterious, because it looks quite dark in the hand, but when you get it on, it's a sort of misty, soft neutral shade that you can wear with every color frock, for every occasion. The color is called Vapor, and if you get it in chiffon you'll feel exquisitely stocking-ed, even though you only pay $1 a pair. And while you're in a stocking mood, you're sure to want to choose a few pair in big open-work mesh, for your tailored daytime clothes, in a daintier mesh for evening.

If You Enjoy

Shopping for hats where style and low price are symonmous—you'll surely enjoy Orkins. Such loves arrive every day from Eastern markets and always the added value of Miss Pralles' excellent assistance. If, for instance she doesn't have in stock the exact one you wish, she will personally design one exactly by your direction and the finished hat will cost you no more than one of the stock. Don't fail to match your spring ensebles with gay hats from Orkins.

Before and After

Before this season, pastels were delicate, pale, dainty, fragile hues that reminded us of nursery wall paper. But how they have changed! These Spring 1931 pastels have taken on a vivid, daring hue. They look like electric-light reflections, and they make the new clothes doubly attractive. The best thing about these new hues is that they are becoming to every type.

Hoot Mon!

If you're on friendly terms with some Scotchman, maybe he will give you a kilt for you to make into a little plaid waistcoat ...or skirt. But if you haven't, you'd better trot right over to some shop, and get either one, or both, to wear with a little solid color jacket. You can't help loving plaid, it's so youthful, and you can't help finding just the kind you can wear.

History of Poetry Reviewed For Wilber Literary Guild

WILBER, Neb., April 12—Miss Stella Mares entertained the Literary guild at the home of her parents, on Thursday afternoon. Roll call was answered with current events or comments and criticisms on recent books. Mrs. Lad Skocpol had charge of the lesson, and chose to trace the history of poetry from the days of Greece days, depicting the various types. Excerpts from writings of noted poets were read to show expression of emotions and moods. "Club and Individual Improvements" were discussed at the close of the lesson. New books were exchanged among the members for home reading. During the social hour a dainty supper was served at three small tables. Guests present were Mrs. John Richtarik, Mrs. F. V. Bors, Mrs. I. J. Montgomery and Mrs. J. F. Zwonechek.

A choir of thirty voices from the Methodist church at Crete will give an Easter Cantata at the Community Methodist church here Sunday evening, with Mrs. Clyde Knight as director. Lumir Havlicek is the pianist.

The Double Six card club met with Mrs. Mike Janecik Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. Emma Jirsa and Mrs. Ed. McElroy won high scores. Consolation was given Mrs. Mary Vosika. A five o'clock luncheon was served.

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Emma Richtarik was hostess to the members of the Better Home and Garden club. Roll call was answered with "Exchange of Garden and Home Experiences." Mrs. Anthony Shimerda had prepared and read an exceptionally interesting and instructive paper on "Landscaping a Hillside Lot." Protection and care of native birds is one of the objectives of the club and is being stressed at this time. Dainty refreshments were served.

Mrs. Edward Mashek was hostess to the Thirteen club at her home on Tuesday evening, when three tables were placed for five hundred. High scores were held by Mrs. Adolph Wanek and Mrs. Rud Hubka, and low score by Mrs. Charles Soukup. Guests were Mrs. Rud Hubka, Mrs. Steve Aksamit, Mrs. W. J. Shestak and Mrs. Edw. Cizek. A supper was served at the close of the evening.

The Royal Neighbors met at the home of Mrs. T. J. Littrell on Friday afternoon. During a short business session, Mrs. Minnie Newburn and Mrs. Mayme Zajicek were elected delegates to the district convention. A five o'clock luncheon was served by the hostess.

In compliment to the lady members of the Wilber city school faculty, Mrs. A. W. Fridrich entertained four tables of bridge on Wednesday evening. A spring motif was used in card favors and table appointments. Red carnatoins were given as favors to all the guests. Pussy willows were used in room decorations. Awards for the card games went to Mrs. John Richtarik and Miss Mary Kafka. Mrs. R. F. Richtarik won the door prize. Other guests were Mrs. R. F. Richtarik, Mrs. George Willy, Mrs. John Richtarik, Mrs. I. J. Montgomery, Mrs. Stanley Shimonek and Mrs. Leabman. A two course supper was served.

Mrs. Earl O'Brien and Mrs. K. C. Zavadil were hostesses to members of the M. E. Ladies' Aid and friends on Thursday afternoon in the church parlors. The time was spent with quilting and other needlework, and a dainty lunch was served. Plans were made for the annual mother and daughter banquet to be held early in May.

Mrs. L. J. Bouchal was hostess to the Triple Four Bridge club Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. Bertus Dodson and Mrs. R. F. Richtarik carried off card honors at the three tables. Mrs. A. E. Bocek was an invited guest A five o'clock plate luncheon was served at the small tables.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Jelinek were hosts Wednesday evening to the seven members of the orchestra, of which their son, Milo, is a member. The affair was in honor of Milo's birthday. Cards were played during the evening and a late supper was served. Guests present were Earl Hanna, William Savage, Charles Novak, R. K. Kunc, Milo Jelinek, Fred and Edward Kubert.

Many young people are in Wilber visiting during the Easter or spring vacations of the various schools which they are attending. John Shimonek, principal in Ewing high school, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Shimonek. Misses Grace and Gertrude Greer, daughters of Mrs. Sadie Greer of Cedar Bluffs, but formerly of Wilber, were guests of friends and of Mrs. Mary Greer. Norman Prucha, of the University of Nebraska, week ended with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Prucha. Other guests in the Prucha home during the week and for Sunday dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Julian Ball, sr., daughter, Mary Lou, and sons, Julian, jr. and Louis, of Omaha; Sergeant and Mrs. Devon and daughter and Sergeant Stuart of the University of Nebraska. John Zwonechek, jr., student at Doane college, spent his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Zwonechek.

Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Cordts will be guests Sunday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Perry of Beatrice, when Rev. Cordts will officiate at the wedding of their daughter, Miss Genevieve and William Suiter of DeWitt. The ceremony will take place at two o'clock. Immediate members of the family will be present. Mr. and Mrs. Perry and Miss Genevieve had made their home in Wilber for the past ten or twelve years, but moved to Beatrice this winter.

Members of the Wilber Rotary club had as their guests Thursday evening the boys glee club from the Wilber high school. The boys were to compete the next day in the district music contest at Geneva, so they sang their two contest numbers. A boys quartet from the group sang two numbers and Mr. Hanna played two numbers on his piano-accordion.

Grace Shimerda placed third in the soprano solo section at the District music contest Thursday. Over twenty contestants were in her group, including representatives from Lincoln, Beatrice, etc. Henry Shimerda placed third in the saxophone solo group, which also had a large number of entries.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kotous of this city announce the marriage of their daughter, Mary Jane, to Harry Horr of Lincoln. The bride is a graduate of the Wilber high school, where she was very prominent in the various activities, and was a graduate of a Lincoln business college. They will make their home in Lincoln.

Mrs. J. J. Grimm and Mrs. George Shestak entertained Friday evening at a bridge party at the home of the former. Three tables were placed for cards, at which Mrs. V. C. Shestak won high score, Mrs. E. J. Prucha second. The door prize was won by Mrs. Fred Kotouc. A spring motif was used throughout the card favors and table appointments, with yellow color scheme predominating. At the close of the evening a dainty supper was served.

The formal opening Friday afternoon, of the Iowa-Nebraska Light & Power Co., took on the nature of a social affair, when the company opened in new quarters which hev been recently remodeled. Officers of the company from headquarters, Lincoln and Beatrice, were present. Mr. Theleen of the Lincoln office and Robert Richtarik, local manager, were in charge for the day. Miss Edna Dean of Lincoln was in charge of the refreshments, which weer served to all guests. Mrs. Robert Richtarik had charge of the registration desk and distributed favors to all the visitors. It was estimated that approximately 1,000 visitors call" during the day.

To Observe Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dilman will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Sunday, April 19, at their home, 5845 South street, with a reception from 2 to 5 o'clock, and another reception in the evening. The family dinner will be held Saturday at 7 o'clock.

'ARBOR DAY

Wednesday, April 22nd

TO THE SCHOOL CHILDREN OF GREATER LINCOLN

(and for Thousands of People in Years to Come)

WILL YOU PLANT A TREE

and Help to Raise a Forest of Beauty?

We will give you, without cost, a four to six foot Elm or Silverleaf Maple Tree

Ready to Place in the Ground, If You will Plant and Tend It.

You cannot walk into a store and purchase the stately beauty of a full leafed, full-grown tree...nature is bountiful, yes; but, if you would have trees, you must plant them.

This year, Gold's will give, without cost, elm or silverleaf maple trees to the children of Lincoln...the only condition we make are that your boy or girl register in our boys' department this week...so that sufficient trees may be provided for every child.

There will be a tree for your boy, your girl...but she or he must promise to call for the tree on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday, April 20th, 21st or 22nd and to plant the tree on or before Arbor Day.

These trees will flourish . . . blending neighborhood landscapes into colorful scenes of Autumn splendor or colonnaded ranks of spring-green spires...will you, then, see that your child's tree is planted? Will you plant, or help plant one tree on Arbor Day, and help raise a forest of beauty for Lincoln, and for the Lincoln to come?

Have Lead Roles In Play

Ruth Gillispie and Sterling Helvy, who are carrying two of the leading roles in the Havelock high school senior play, "A Full House," at the high school auditorium Friday, at 8 o'clock. The other main characters are Maxine Malone, Bernice Kaufman, Lawrence Barrett, and Harry Smith, with the able support of Nellie Marie Fordyce, Grace Bartlett, Berniece Stabler, Mable Freeman, Paul Prentice, Charles Huston, Thomas Bare, and LeRoy Hilt. The play is being coached by Miss Mercedes Ames, dramatic instructor.

The action features a man who writes classical love letters to a designing chorus girl, his fiancee, the bride and groom who are caught in the net woven by a Chicago crook, and a not-so-brilliant maid. The play is produced by special arrangement with Samuel French of New York.

SECKATARY HAWKINS FAIR & SQUARE CLUB

"A QUITTER NEVER WINS — A WINNER NEVER QUITS"

Shadow Climbs to Pulpit in Vast Cavern and Makes Important Discovery

THE scare we two boys got in the cave when we imagined we saw two green eyes coming toward us was soon forgotten after we were safely back in our clubhouse. Our whole interest now lay in the object which we had found in the cave, before we had seen the green eyes. It was a piece of very thin silk, about a foot wide and eighteen inches long. At each end was a thin, round stick. Part of the silk was still wrapped around one of the sticks. We unrolled it upon my desk, and together Shadow and I bent our heads over it and tried to figure out what it was.

"Looks like a map, to me," said Shadow. "But the writing upon it is in Chinese letters."

"By Jinks!" I exclaimed. "Look! Shadow, this is a copy of the map that Roy Dobel's daddy made of these caves right after the discovery of the largest cavern, the Wonder of Wonders. See it, now?"

"Well," said Shadow, slowly, "it does look a little like the map Roy's daddy has. But I wouldn't say for certain—"

"Well, I would!" I broke in. "I just know it is, Shad! Look, this line is supposed to be the river bank—see the wavy lines outside here? Now, then, here comes Cave River, starting from the big river—look how it enters these lines here—supposed to be the Cliffs. Now, all this space in here is Cliff Cave—and go further and see what this space means? The Cave of Wonders! Now a narrow pass. Look, you can even see the arched opening into the Cave of Wonders—"

"Well, if you are right," said Shadow, suddenly, "what good is that map now? Since we had the earthquake all that is changed and the landslide in the caverns makes this map no good to us—"

"Oh, yes, it does, Shadow! You don't seem to get my idea—well, wait! I'll try to explain. The Chinaman who came running out of that cave just as we were about to enter, dropped this map, don't you think?"

"Yes, I sort o' think he did—the green eyes scared him, just as they scared us."

"What's he doing in that cave, though, with this old map, made by a Chinese, before the earthquake changed the caverns?"

"Well, I don't know exactly—maybe he was sent there by somebody who did not know the caves were all shifted around—"

"You are right! Somebody gave him this map and told him to go into the cave—what for?"

"I'll give up! What for?"

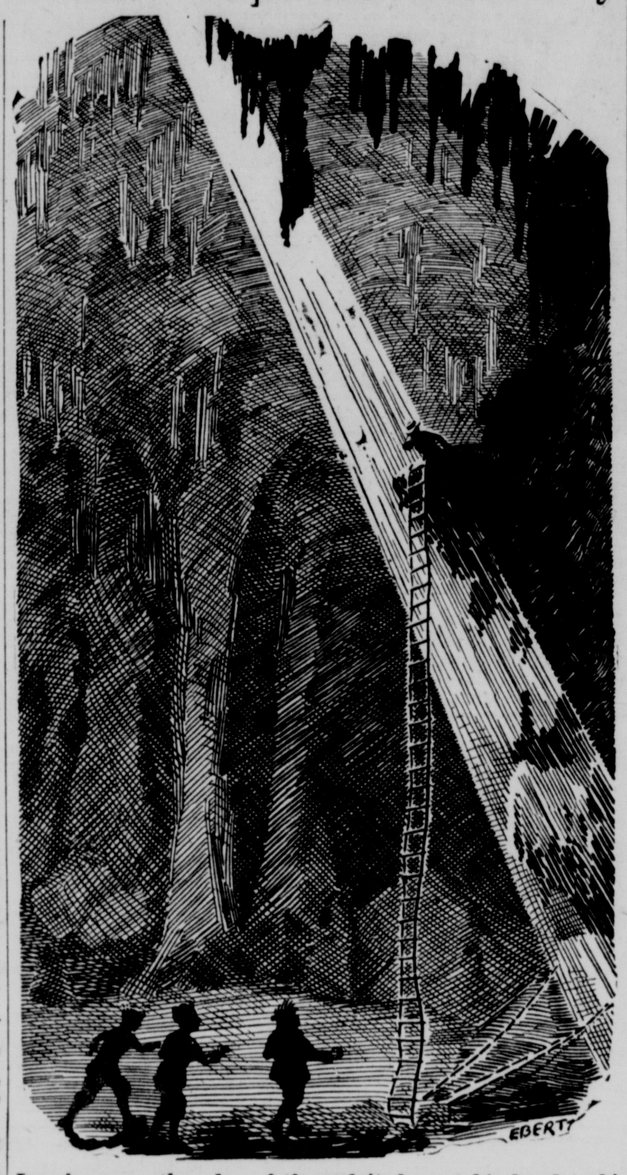

"Don't be silly, Shad! To find something!"

"All right, I'll bite again—what did he want to find?"

"The emperor's sword!"

"What? Have you found out something about a sword, then—"

"No, I haven't the slightest idea what it looks like or why these fellows want it. But I do know that the old man with the trained bear who came here and asked me for it was mighty anxious to get it. He thinks I know where it is. Well, now, look at this map, Shadow. Remember, when we fellows helped to capture Mui Fong some years ago, they were holding their headquarters in the big cave called the Wonder of Wonders. We found the tong's treasure. They think we also found this emperor's sword. Now, look where my finger is pointing—here is the Wonder of Wonders on the map—you can tell it by these big torches—see how well they are drawn? Those big bronze standing lamps that lighted the cave for Mui Fong and his followers."

Leaning over the edge of the pulpit, he put his hand to his lips and called down to us.

"Well," said Shadow, as I paused, "what makes you so excited over this map?"

"I believe if we could read this map, Shadow, we would find the emperor's sword."

"And most likely find ourselves in greater danger for having it."

"No, no, Shad! I wouldn't want it. But I should like to have it, so that I can give it to the old man with the bear—believe me, he frightened me. I've been nervous ever since he came here. He said he could lay his hands on me whenever he wanted. And I believe him. If he would turn that bear loose upon me—well, Shad, I'd like to discover the secret of this mystery and get the sword, give it to him, and so have peace again on this river bank."

"Well, now that you have that Chinese map, what do you figure out?"

"I think the Chinaman who dropped it in the cave was trying to get an opening to the Wonder of Wonders Cave. Whoever gave him this map sent him here and told him where to go and how to get it. But, of course, the Wonder of Wonders is now cut off by that landslide of rock that has made a wall between it and the arched opening. But the trouble is that Wonder of Wonders has only one opening now, the 'Open Sesame' door in the rocky pass—"

"And you don't want to go to that door because you are afraid you will find Little Paul's long lost brother there, and he might be mixed up in this shady business, and you won't be able to restore him to his father—is that it?"

But I was paying little attention to Shadow now. A new idea had come into my head since I had turned my eyes back to the Chinese map.

"We've been foolish!" I said half to myself. Shadow leaned forward again and bent his head close to mine. "Grundy's door in the rocky pass—it might be that it does not open into the Wonder of Wonders—by Jove! Shadow! It doesn't! That's why they haven't been able to find the sword. The thing is hidden in the Wonder of Wonders! They have not been able to get in—else they would have found what they were seeking—they wouldn't have come to me—"

"Don't be too sure of that, Seck," said Shadow, pushing his chair back and getting up. "Anyway, if they haven't been able to find a way into the Wonder of Wonders, then there isn't any. Believe me, from what I have seen of Grundy, nothing ever slips past him. And if the fellows he is with are like him, which I think they are, then there's no use of us trying to find something which they have not already found."

"Have your own way," I said, as I rolled the silken map around one of the thin sticks, "but I'm going to find my own way into the Wonder of Wonders, and when I do—"

WE took a small rowboat next day and paddled down to Cave River. The willows were beginning to get green, and hide the mouth of the underground stream, but we shoved under and soon were in the old familiar haunts that reminded us of the thrilling days when the Skinny Guy was with us, and when we chased the Gray Ghost through these hollow hills. It was not so much our intention of trying to discover a way into the big cavern. But Shadow insisted that we should avoid the upper regions where we had encountered the mysterious green eyes in the dark; not that he was afraid, but it was not wise to stick one's head into danger. I, too, had never seen the lower section of this underground since the little earthquake that caused such havoc in the cliff caverns, and it was like exploring a new territory. However, little change had occurred as far as Cave River was concerned. It seemed as if the tumble of rocks had started from the top, and had not gone more than half way. We got out on the flat table rock on the left, and pulled our boat after us. We both had obtained new and more powerful flashlights, and Shadow had a hand axe and a kit of things strapped on his back.

We climbed the steep, rocky ledges that jut out like a giant's stairway from the dark river up into the eerie crevices and narrow passages full fifty feet above the rumbling water below. Thousands of sparkling stones reflected our lights, and the beauty of it all was so entrancing that we did not notice the flight of time, nor how far we had gone, until Shadow, leading the way, gave a sudden exclamation of surprise, and stopped on a flat rock about ten feet above me. I hurried up to him, and then I, too, gave a whistle of surprise. For we had arrived at a vast, cathedral-like cavern, with a roof so high that it seemed to be a hollowed mountain. We did not need our flashlights here; for, from a hole in the top of that great dome, so high above us, came a powerful beam of daylight, and it seemed to stab the darkness like a huge sword. It lighted up the opposite wall, which was straighter than the rounded side from which we had entered, and this opposite wall was a remarkable thing to look upon. I mean that the stone and rocks had fallen in such peculiar formation that it seemed a wonder that they still could stand in such positions. Shadow and I gazed at them and spoke our wonderment. Some huge slabs that must have been millions of years old seemed to rest on one tiny point of a small rock, balanced there by nature, to stay so until another landslide would come to change them. But that which impressed us both the most was the strange formation of a jumble of rocks on the wall high up and just within the path of the downward sweeping ray of daylight.

It was perhaps thirty or forty feet above us. A series of rocks, jutting out, were surrounded by a queer combination of rocks that had paused there, in their mad tumble, forming a sort of pulpit against the wall. Indeed, it was Shadow who voiced the thought, but I was thinking the same thing, when I turned and gazed at the vast darkness behind us, and the high dome, and the whole thing seemed so much like a great cathedral that it was only fitting that we should call that rounded jutting of rocks the pulpit. And even to this day we call that particular cave "The Pulpit Cave."

We slowly made our way through this grand cathedral and found that it was a huge, almost round floorspace, with rounded roof high above, but no apparent means of exit except by the way in which we had come. We traversed the floor until we stood again at the descent to Cave River, but both of us turned to take one last look at that high pulpit.

"I should like to climb up to it," said Shadow, whimsically, and as I looked upon his face, the reflection from the ray of daylight gave him such a ghostly look that, considering the foolishness of such an attempt, I grew rather spooky myself, and gripping his arm I began to lead him out and down the huge rock steps toward our boat.

"It would be foolish to attempt it, Shad," I said, "and furthermore, it is too high. No human being could scale that wall of rock up that far, and stand in that pulpit."

"I'll bet I could," he said, as if to himself.

BASEBALL PASSWORD.

The solution of last week's password was "Easter Lily." These puzzles with two words in them make you work a little harder, but then, there's more fun in it too. Here we have a baseball password:

KRISREST THEE

You see, a boy named Kris was at bat, and the umpire said, "Kris, rest thee," or words to that effect, of course the letters are all mixed up, but if you take a pencil and paper and place the letters in their right places, you will have two words that the umpire really said, which meant that that it was time for Kris to take a rest. Now, what did the umpire say?

AND so I was not surprised next afternoon when I found Shadow working with much rope and many knots; beside him on the clubhouse porch a lot of bamboo fishing poles, each one fitted with a metal ferrule at the end. Lew Hunter and Jerry Moore were helping with the rope, tying knots and pulling tight, measuring with a two-foot rule another knot—

"What's coming off?" I inquired. But I knew what the answer would be even before Jerry said:

"Shadow's going to climb into the pulpit. And because we are helping him with the rope ladder he is going to let Lew and me see him climb it.

There was no use of my arguing about it. If I didn't agree, they would go and do it without me. So that is how I found myself once mare traveling under the willows that hide the mouth of Cave River. I felt rather miffed about Shadow telling Lew and Jerry about the pulpit cave. But, after all, weren't we all one club? Wasn't it fair for them all to know? Yes, it was only the possible danger that made me worry.

Once again we climbed the giant's stair, and again we stood in the great cathedral cavern, and saw the big ray of daylight that fell from the high roof to the floor below, lighting up in its downward path the pulpit against the rocky well. Shadow had guessed the height very well; in fact, his rope ladder was even longer than needed, and the only difficulty was in hooking its two ends securely over the rocky edge of the pulpit. The bamboo rods were fastened together, end to end, by means of the metal ferrules, but by the time they had a sufficient length of bamboo to reach the pulpit, the bamboo was swaying dangerously and threatened to crack in two. However, Shadow skillfully handled the long rods, assisted by Jerry Moore, and finally they had lifted one hook over the rocky edge. The second hook took a little longer, but finally the rope ladder hung by both ends, and all it took now was nerve. Who could say whether or not those hooks would hold? And the ladder, with the weight of a climber, might come dashing to the rocky floor below. At the height it would result in disaster.

But you can't keep Shadow down by scaring him. I knew that. That's why I didn't say anything as I saw him start to climb that rope ladder. At the fifth rung it seemed to begin to sag with him, and he suddenly stopped. And looking down, he called out to us:

"What's that humming noise?"

We all turned our ears away and listened. Yes, there was some sort of a humming sound. It seemed to come from a distance, but its echo seemed to be a live buzzing in the air right around us. Shadow did not wait for us to answer him; when we looked again at the rope ladder he was already over the tenth rung and climbing swiftly. Silently we watched him, as he grew smaller and smaller and finally reached the top of the ladder, where its metal hooks clung to the edge of the pulpit. We saw him pull with both hands against the rock; then steady himself and look down. His voice now, as he shouted to us, seemed high and shrill:

"What's that humming noise?"

And the echoes of his voice flung back from the darker corners of the cave, and seemed to mock him. We stood staring up at him with such gaping mouths that none of us could answer him. He did not seem to want an answer. He threw one leg over the parapet, hung for a moment, disengaged his other foot from the rope ladder, and then leaped into the pulpit. We heard a cry from him then—a cry such as one might hear from a victor in a great contest—and the next moment he was out of sight. Gone! For a moment I strained my eyes upon that pulpit while I waited with bated breath for him to reappear. He did so, almost in an instant, and leaning over the edge of the pulpit he put his hands to his lips and called down to us.

Seck's Weekly Mail Bag

It has been a long time since I have said anything about putting your age at the bottom of your letter, but this week I see many of you have forgotten to do that again, and for that reason your letters cannot be used in the contest for prizes.

Try and remember, hereafter, won't you? There are so many good letters that cannot be used just because you forget, sometimes, the rules of the game. You see, in order to be fair and square with all of you, we have to abide by the rules, too, even though it means passing up some wonderful letters, sometimes. It is really a little thing, I know, but it is one of the rules and we have to live up to it.

The first letter on the list today is from a little boy who lives in Lincoln:

Dear Seck:

I certainly think your adventures are interesting and no one ever sees the paper until I have seen your story in the Sunday Star.

I have never joined your club, but I wish to greatly. I will send my membership blank and two cents for a letter.

Everyone should be fair and square as that is a wonderful motto. I have pictures of nearly every one of your guys, and I play with them a lot. I have Jerry, Dick, Robby Hood, Link, and you, of course. I got a big Easter egg with my name and Seckatary Hawkins printed on it.

I do not expect to get a book the first letter, but if I don't, I'll try again.

Yours, fair and square,
Fred Cassidy, 8.
2400 South Tenth street,
Lincoln, Neb.

Her First Letter.

Here is a letter from a brand new member who gives a guess as to the solution of Stoner's boy. Do you think she is right?

Dear Seckatary:

This is the first time I have written to you, and I am enclosing a coupon and a two-cent stamp. I like your colors as they are our school colors. I read your comic strip and your stories in the Lincoln Star. I am guessing a solution to your comic strip concerning Stoner's boy. Isn't Jude the fifth Stoner's boy? Am I right? If this doesn't win a book, I will try again because I am sticking to your motto, a winner never quits and a quitter never wins.

Yours, fair and square,
Margaret Azzarello, 11.

Poem By New Member.

From Stamford, Neb., comes a poem from a new member who is only eight years old:

Dear Seck:

I would like to win a book. I hope I win it with my three verses. I am eight years old and in the fourth grade. Here it is:

I read your comic every day,
Because I know I should.
And for the sui I have to pay,
I think it's very good.

The lesson that it teaches me
Of Stoner's boy and Seck,
Are right, truth and honesty,
And not for self, by heck.

I want to join your club,
And wear my pin each day.
Other boys I never snub,
But be fair and square, alway.

Yours, fair and square,
Donald Ross,
Stamford, Neb.

Would Start Branch.

Here is another new member who writes us that she likes our club and would like to start a branch of it.

Dear Seck:

I received my membership card and club button last Wednesday. We did not have any school all last week. I'll surely be glad to get back to school again. Say, your stories are just simply wonderful. At least I think so. This is my first letter to you, but it surely won't be my last one to you, dear old Seck. I would like to start a branch of the Seck Hawkin's club around here, but I only know one other member. I'll try and get my older sister to join, too. She's been thinking about it. Well, I'll close now. Hoping to see my letter win a book, I remain,

Fair and square,
Alma Durham,
2229 Randolph Street,
Lincoln, Neb.

HOW TO JOIN THE CLUB.

Spring Days Bring Back Thoughts Of That Ol' Ball Game Down On the Lot

Dear Pen Pals:

Just a few days and all over the country the cry will be "Play Ball!" For weeks our thoughts have been turning on very sunny days to little groups on the vacant lot or down in the old hollow, practicing up on the old game. Oh, Boy! How quickly the thrill of it comes back to you with the first warm flush of spring.

You step up to the plate! Your jaws square—your heart pounds against your ribs—you grip the old bat till your knuckles are white—and then you feel a surging determination to clout out a homer—to push your team to victory! boy! What a thrill that is!

It is not going to be a surprise to me to find the letters of my pen pals full of baseball gossip this week. Some of our good artists are going to feel the urge to draw pictures on the subject and enclose same with the letter. Not only do boys enjoy this great American sport, but most of our girls are also enthusiastic baseball fans. Many girls' teams are now playing, and those girls who do not play are all eager to sit on the sidelines and root for their favorites. Even watching a good game of baseball gives as much enjoyment to some as the actual playing does to others.

Let us have order in the club house now, and we will open this meeting and present the lucky pen pals who are to receive this week a book of the adventures of our club down on the river bank. The first one is a breezy little letter from a pen pal in Indiana:

Dear Seck:

I wrote last week, but did not win, so I said to myself, "Stick to Seck's slogan and win." I'd sure like to be the owner of one of your books. I am 13 years old and am a pupil of the 7th grade. What I got a kick out of was the picture in the paper of you seeing that Chinaman in little Paul's room. I am built the very same as you, because I am "fat." I always like to read your part in the paper, but sometimes I miss the picture by not getting the paper. The store where I get the paper does not always have it, or maybe I am too late to get there. But just the same I'll write. I always try to win. My father says I use more postage stamps than I do my brains. I hope I win.

Yours, fair and square,
ARTHUR LOGAN,
1201 St. Peter St., Indianapolis, Ind.

A Clever Rhyme.

Next we have a very clever rhyme from one of our pen pals down in dear old Georgia:

Dear Seck:
I've always meant to write to you,
but heck!
I don't know what to say or do;
I'm such an awful writer, too;
But th's I mean, I sure like you a peck.

Now, Seck:
I'd like a book, my bookshelf to bedeck;
Of course, I'd like the entire set;
If I get one for this, I bet
I'll write for still another yet—
By heck!

Well, Seck:
I'm glad that I at last could take the dare.
Your beck
And call I'll answer if I also share
The pen pal privilege with the ones
now there—
And promise to be always fair and square.
So check.

I was 9 years old the 27th of October, and am in the high fifth grade.

I have just returned from St. Augustine, where the roses are blooming and the palms tower over gay red poinsettia blossoms. And here, only 300 miles away, it is snowing today!

I saw the old Spanish fort, San Marco, and the old city gates. Have you and the pen pals seen them? And aren't they wonderful?

Yours, fair and square,
JEANNE URVAN,
468 Parkway Drive, Atlanta, Ga.

From West Coast.

Here's a California pen pal who has made up his mind not to quit until he has won every book in our series:

Dear Seckatary:

This is the fourth time I've written to you, but not, not by far, the last. No, sir! You've got ten books in your set—right? Yes? Well, I'm not going to stop till I get that same ten. And I know I can get 'em, cause I know a rule, and it works in lots of cases. It goes: "If you don't succeed the first time, then try, try again." And then there's another: "A quitter never wins, and a winner never quits." And I'm not going to quit!

I wrote something—not a poem—but a try at one. It's about our club.

Seck Hawkins club
Spreads o'er the land,
From the North Pole's cold
To Egypt's desert sand.
Black or white,
Yellow, red or brown.
In Seck's club we're gay—
Forget that frown!
Our club's a little shack
On an old river's banks;
But with the best of them
We're proud to say it ranks!
So long, Seck!

Yours truly,
DOUGLAS HEYES,

Ohio Pen Pal.

An Ohio pen pal writes five stanzas in which he explains himself and his aim to win, which this week he reaches:

Dear Seck:
Some members write from Canada;
Yes, Europe and Asia, too;
And though I live in a small town,
I'll gladly write to you.

I enjoy all your stories.
I read them every week,
And always on the Sunday morn
The Hawkins page I seek.

For seven months I've written to you,
But I've never won a book.
Each week I'm disappointed
When for my name I look.

Perhaps I am a bit too old,
Though I hope it isn't so;
If I was asked to leave your club
I'm afraid I'd holler "No!"

You are certainly having lots of fun;
I wish that I were there.
But just the same,
My wish can't come true;
I'll be as fair and square.

Nebraska Letter.

Now we introduce one of our Nebraska pen pals, who would like to hear from some of our club members in foreign countries:

Dear Seck Hawkins:

May I join your club? I have wished for some time to do so, and also receive a badge and earn a book. I enjoy your stories in the paper every week, and I am anxious to see your comic strip in the dailies. I hope you will find little Paul's lost brother and wish you good luck in capturing Stoner's boy.

I like your club motto, "Fair and Square," and also your club colors, blue and white, because blue is my favorite color. I believe in the motto "A quitter never wins and a winner never quits." I would like to have pen pals write to me from foreign countries and also other pen pals.

Yours, fair and square,
DOROTHY FAHRENBRUCH,

Bluegrass Verse.

More verses from a pen pal in Old Kentucky, whose letter succeeds this time in missing Mr. Waste Basket:

I've written you but once before,
And I haven't won, so I'll try once more.
I certainly would like to win a book.
This may not be good, but take a look.

I like the club colors, white and blue;
To this dear club I'll always be true.
A winner never quits, they say,
So that's why I'm writing you today.

I have a message just for you
Before I sign off by saying "Adieu."
Maybe it's not just the think to ask it,
But will you let this escape ol' Mr.
Waste Basket?

An Iowa Pal.

And now let us hear from a little pen pal in the Hawkeye state, who may some day be a ukulele player:

Dear Seck:

I am a little girl 8 years old. I read your stories and the letters in Seckatary Hawkins page. I like to read them. I have started to take ukelele lessons. When I learn to play better, maybe I can play on your radio program. I like to play the ukelele very well.

I have never written to you before, but I have been a member of your club for about two years.

Good-bye. Your pal,
CARMELLA M. WIECKHORST,
2830 Bridge Ave., Davenport, Ia.

Adjourn for Week.

We now adjourn till next week. Don't forget to tune in to our radio meeting Saturday evening from station WLW, at 5 o'clock, Eastern time. And try to get your letter in as early as possible this week. If you are not yet a member, send along the membership coupon properly filled out, and you will receive club button and membership card.

Bye, till next week.

Yours, fair and square,

HAVE YOU HEARD SECKATARY HAWKINS ON AIR SATURDAY?

Each Saturday evening at 5 o'clock Eastern Standard Time Seckatary Hawkins and his pals give their half-hour playlet of the latest adventure happening on the old river bank near their clubhouse.

These sketches come from station WLW, Cincinnati.

It's just as good as a show, too. You hear Seck talking and all the other characters who take part in that week's story, and the action is full of thrilling, exciting moments.

Tune in next Saturday and hear it. Curtain rises promptly at 5 o'clock, when you hear the steamboat whistle blow— and you're down on the old river bank with Seck and his pals.

GENEVA BOY IS CONTEST WINNER

Fred Zelenka Does Best Work in Coloring Sap Sucker.

First Prize.
Fred Zelenka, Geneva, 10 years, District No. 33.

Second Prize.
Agnes Aufenkamp, Haigler, 10 years, District No. 75.

Third Prizes.
Norene Gore, 2312 R street, Lincoln, 11 years, Elliott school.
Della Hoemann, Staplehurst, 11 years, Zion Lutheran school.
Curtis Wheeler, Crete, 8 years, East ward school.
Juliana Dalton, Twenty-seventh and Merrill streets, Lincoln, 9 years, Sacred Heart school.
Lester L. Rohmeyer, Summerfield, Kas., 12 years, Summerfield school.

All contestants should send their parents' initials. In some instances there has been difficulty in delivering the awards, as the children were unknown to the postmasters.

Contestants this last week had the opportunity to learn that all birds that resemble wood peckers aren't woodpeckers. The yellow-bellied sap suckers appear very much like the usual red-head pecking at a tree, but they have a name and a disposition all their own. Some of the boys and girls are keeping the descriptions of the various birds, so that they can have their own bird book and learn to recognize the many feathered songsters that make life so pleasant in the spring and summer.

The sap sucker was done in bold, broad colors, but the bobolink picture for this week requires softer tones and more delicate shading. It is a charming picture, as softly tinted as the spring, but not at all difficult for those who follow the suggestions with care.

A number of last week's birds were too late for judging. A couple of them were very fine, but the bird editor doesn't even consider the late ones for prizes.

Here are the rules:

A bird to be colored is printed each Sunday in The Lincoln Star. Each bird is to be sent in each week, as the prizes are awarded weekly.

The contest closes Thursday night at 6 o'clock. Lincoln letters must be postmarked before Thursday noon. Outstate letters should be mailed Wednesday evening.

Fill out the coupon accompanying each bird. Always put the name of the town or city, as the judge must know where you live. In the future, send your parents' initials, as this enables the postmaster to deliver the award promptly.

The Bobolink

By Miss Carrie Jacobs

We may know more of bobolink through what is written about it than through what we have seen here, for we are just a little too far south to see it in its summer home and much too far north to see it in its winter home. Neither do we see much of it as it migrates from one home to the other.

The states in the northeastern part of our country seem to suit it best for a summer home and here is where they know it as a jolly fellow. Here and there, about here, they are seen and all who are on the lookout for birds may have a chance to see them. Farther north in this state they are more plentiful. The greater number choose a way farther east when they journey back and forth, but even here during the clear evenings of late April and early May, and again in parts of August and September, their tink, tink calls can be heard overhead, as signals to keep the flock together. Few birds travel a greater distance. They leave their summer homes in August or September and turn their faces toward Florida.

Many spend some time in the rice fields on the way and are known as rice birds. Because many are seen among the reeds along the rivers where they find grass seeds they are called reed birds. From Florida numbers go to the islands out in the Atlantic Ocean. Upon some of these islands are tall grasses and here the birds feed until they become fat and are called butter birds.

Their journey is not yet finished. Along in October or November they leave Florida and the islands and fly a long distance over the ocean to South America, where they spend the rest of the winter. In all they travel between six and seven thousand miles. Again in spring this distance is gone over to reach a place to build a nest and rear three or four young bobolinks. No one knows just when they start back, but they are back again in Florida in April and reach their summer home in May. They spend about four months with us and twice that long a time in their winter home and on the way there and back.

When you think of this do you wonder why?,

The red-winged blackbirds and others stop and spend the winter in our southern states but bobolink has chosen to go, or is sent by its Maker, a much greater distance. No wonder men of great minds have pondered this question of migration and have not been able to solve the problem. Much has been learned as to where the birds go especially since some people have put bands upon their legs and the birds with these bands have been caught in other places far from where they were banded. But no one has given and may never be able to give a satisfactory answer as to why birds do migrate. Reasons

INSTRUCTIONS FOR COLORING.

We all love a beautiful landscape and here is your chance to paint one with two pretty birds as the point of interest. The sky should be an opal gray with faint tints of yellow and red, the distant hills should be a light purple, the clump of trees in the upper left corner should be light green, yellow and dark green, the field near the trees should be light cream yellow with blending of rose and green getting stronger and more greenish at it nears the foreground.

The daisies are white with yellow centers and green stems, the clover is green with red bloom, the straws and grass blades upon which the birds are swaying should be yellowish green shaded with dark green. The male bird, the large one near the top of the picture, is the brightest in color; it is almost solid black with a bright lemon yellow spot on the back of its head, a patch of gray over the shoulder and running back to the tail; the tail feathers are black. The female is yellow and brown, with deep brown spotted streaks on the head and deep brown wing feathers; the breast and throat are yellow, the feet are light red.

Crete Councillors Busy Themselves Getting Ready To Entertain 600 Camp Fire Girls at Huge June Meeting

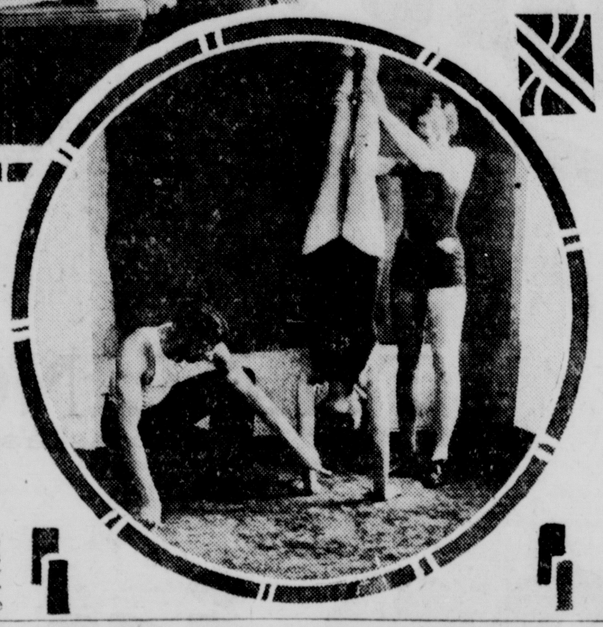

Camp Crete councillors are busily planning their program for the Camp Fire camp, to be held at Horky's park in Crete, June 7 to 14. Many interesting diversions are planned for the young campers, who anticipate this summer week from the time the snow is flying.

In the upper picture, Roma and Joan Ridnour are planning hand craft work for Camp Crete. The stage craft class is also a popular course, and on the lower left, Mrs. Warren Ogden is making up Virginia Irons for a Bible pageant. Girls will be girls, whether on their head or their feet, but when in camp they enjoy trying a little hand-walking. Slayton Pierce, the director, is instructing Justine Mickey, who is trying a novel attitude, aided and abetted by Josephine Darrow, on the right.

This camp, the largest in the world, enrolls girls from all parts of Nebraska, and from the near parts of Kansas, Iowa, and South Dakota. The averge attendance is 600 girls, who live in sixty cabins. They are fed in army style, in mess lines, with each girl carrying her own tray of dishes. The entire group is cared for in thirteen minutes.

Councillor Kept Busy.

The councillors find it necessary to make their plans early, to be ready for the week's work, amusing and instructing 600 avid young minds. Hand craft is particularly popular, and dozens of objects must be prepared for the youngsters to paste, paint, and dye, to model and weave. They enjoy playing at "make believe" with the dramatics instructors, and trying thei rskill at swimming, tap dancing, acrobatics, and games.

Sunday is visiting day at the camp, and more than 2,000 persons have visited the camp on this day to watch the campers at their various sports and pastimes. The enthusiasm expressed by the 600 when the group is gathered in the big pavilion for a sing is inimitable.

Camp Crete is directed by Mrs. Frederick Teal. She is assisted by the following officers: Assistant director, Mrs. Warren Ogden; leadership and nature lore, Mrs. C. O. Bruce; dramatics, Mrs. Noel Wallace of Omaha; head of swimming department, Dorothy Weaver; patrol captain, Jerry Baker; music, Mrs. Frank Warner of Norfolk; office, Mildred Johnson of Holdrege; camp craft, A'Louise Tresster; games, Lucille Livingston of Nebraska City; hand craft, Roma Ridnor; commissary, Virginia Irons. The assistants in these departments are Ruth Weaver of Falls City; Dorothy Young of Syracuse; Lucille Wallender of York; Jane Youngston, Joan Ridnour, Ruth Sidnor, Mrs. Mildred Scott of Omaha; Merna Dainton of Dorchester, and Jean Holland.

WHAT'S IN FASHION?

Important Spring Fashions

Directed by AMOS PARRISH

NEW YORK, April 12—What did you see on Easter? (Think well, now, because we're going to do a little boasting and say "We told you so.)

A week ago we predicted that you'd see certain fashions. Did you see them? Indeed you did—no matter where you were if you had your eyes open. And the new things you saw on Easter you'll continue to see all spring.

You saw scarf coats, didn't you? (As we said you would!) We predicted scarf coats would be the most important new Easter coat. And they were.

Many Kinds of Scarfs.

Coats with all kinds of scarfs. Lots of them white fur on black and navy coats. Lots of them made of the fabric of the coat. And they looked pretty fine, so we thought—tied in cravats, in bows, in loops, or draped over the shoulder of the wearer.

They're going to continue to look pretty fine all spring. Watch and see if they don't.

Different Suits.

Did you see a number of the new tailored suits on Easter? Also some suits that weren't strictly tailored? And we also said that one of the most popular of all these soft dressmaker suits would be the one that fastens at the side in a diagonal line.

What did we predict about Easter hats? And what did you see? Well, we predicted turbans would outnumber any other type and that the turban with the roll of material or band of flowers or leaves across the front would be the one seen most often.

Lots of Turbans.

Certainly if you were watching you saw more turbans than anything else. And the Agnes roll turban more than any other kind. They're favorites because they're becoming. And because they look well with the new coats and suits.

Another hat you saw lots of, as we prophesied you would, was the hat with milan brim and a crown of tricot or visca. It was the leading type of all hats that had brims. You'll continue to see them because they're a comfortable late spring hat.

Jacket Dresses.

What else did you see? If you went calling or teaing or places where you saw women without their coats, you surely saw Jacket dresses

"Dresses with matching jackets will be an important Easter fashion," we said just a week ago. They were—plain colored dresses and printed dresses, each with its own little jacket. Cardigans, side-tie jackets, peplum jackets.

They're a practical fashion. Going to make a fine street costume later on when it's warm enough to go without coats.

Other Important Fashions.

There were other important fashions on Easter. You saw more biege gloves than any other color. But you saw more white gloves than you saw last year. And you saw them worn with black and navy costumes.

You saw white touches everywhere on black and brown and blue costumes. White furs on coats.

IMPORTANT SPRING COAT AND SUIT.

Right: A dressmaker suit with side closing.

Plans for Girl Reserves Hobby Show Completed

At a meeting of the junior citywide council Tuesday afternon, the plans for the girls' pet and hobby show April 25, were discussed, and definite arrangements made. Catherine Ingles of Irving was appointed chairman of the hobby program committee, and has as her committee members, program chairmen of every junior Girl Reserve club.

Assistants to hobby show supervisors elected at the council meeting include Adele Staats, and Bernice Burmood, collections, Ruth Lewis, and Arlene Williams, fine arts; Nancy Lee and Lois Threlkeld, pets; Maxine Caslasky, manual arts and Jenny Hagel, nature lore.

Rules and regulations for all the hobby horse riders in the show are:

An entry blank must be signed before any exhibit may be entered. A separate entry blank must be made for each exhibit.

Blanks may be secured from the grade or junior high school, or from the Y. W. C. A. They must be returned before Friday, April 17.

Exhibits for the hobby show will not be accepted before Wednesday morning, April 22, at 9 o'clock and not later than 6 o'clock, Friday, April 24, with the exception of pets, which must be brought down Saturday, April 25, between 8:30 and 10.

No entries should be removed before 8:30 p. m. Saturday, but should be removed that evening.

Articles will be given all possible care; but are entered at the owners risk.

All entries in division V (pets) must belong to the girl. She is required to state that she cares regularly for the livestock she enters, and that it has not been acquired merely to enter in the pet and hobby show.

All collections or single articles, must be securely mounted or fastened together to eliminate every possibility of damage through handling. In case of several pieces, or a set of handcraft, all pieces should be together, so that no part will be lost.

Girls entering pets or other livestock must see that all feed and care for the day is provided for them.

Whenever it is possible, entrant's name should be inconspicuously attached to the entry.

Superintendents for each division will assist in checking hobby exhibits in and out. The co-operation of all entrants with the superintendents, their assistants and ushers or monitors at the show will be appreciated.

Although the show is non-competitive, and there will be no prizes awarded, those in the lead in the hobby race will be given special recognition.

About twenty members of Irving Girl Reserves are planning to join a 'bacon bat' picnic, Thursday. Each girl is bringing her own bread and fruit, and will cook her 'kabobs' outside over an open fire.

Bethany Girl Reserves are planning a surprise program for their Monday meeting. Those taking part in the program will not be known until they appear.

Fourteen Havelock junior high Girl Reserves hiked to a picnic grounds Monday evening, with their sponsor, Mrs. Harold. The members of the group will hold a bake sale in Havelock, Saturday.

Bancroft school Girl Reserve club met Monday at the school. Plans were announced for the hobby show. Each girl worked on her individual hobby. Games were played.

Clinton school Girl Reserve club walked to the agricultural college to observe birds, at their meeting Wednesday.

Hartley school Girl Reserve club made Bird note books at their meeting, Thursday. Some of them worked on soap carving or individual hobbies.

Willard school Girl Reserves held a cross-bow tournament at their meeting Thursday. Arrangements and plans for the hobby show were discussed.

Sheridan school Girl Reserves, Miss Betty Harrison, sponsor, met at the school Thursday and completed arrangements for a hike to be held Saturday, April 11. Entry blanks for the hobby show were filled out.

Prescott Girl Reserve club met on Friday and continued work on hammered silver bracelets. Definite arrangements for the hobby show were announced and each girl made plans for an exhibit.

Saratoga Girl Reserve club met Friday and gave the play, "Cinderelela." This is the second in a series of plays that the group is giving before the members of the club. Hobby show plans were announced and arrangements for exhibits discussed.

Hayward schol irl Reserve met Thursday at the school. Arrangements for the hobby show were discussed and plans for exhibits made. A play which will be given at the meeting next week was rehearsed. Costumes and properties for the play were planned.

Longfellow schol irl Reserves met Thursday at the school. Arrangements for the hobby show were discussed. A program was given by several members and songs were sung by the group.

Park schol Girl Reserves met on Thursday. Hobby show plans were discussed and arrangements for exhibits made. Games and songs concluded the meeting.

Elliot school Girl Reserves met Friday at the school. Miss Estel Anderson, sponsor, told of the hobby show and plans for exhibits were discussed.

BOBOLINK SUBJECT OF NEXT CONTEST

have been given but no one is certain that they are right.

Bobolink is an interesting bird. He has two suits a year. Down in his winter home some time in February he puts on one suit and travels to us in it, changing to another before he leaves us. The one that he leaves in is "yellowish brown above and brownish yellow below." That is what it looks like but is not a plain colored suit. It is streaked. The mother birds look like this all the time and all bobolinks look very much alike when they leave.

The summer suit of Robert-o-Lincoln is the one by which we know him best. It is black, yellow and white. Any one would suppose that he wore a black coat and white shirt and yellow tie. Here again bobolink surprises us and shows what a jolly fellow he is for he has put on his black coat with the front to the back, and the yellow is on the back of his head. The white is on his back. Wings and tail are black. Don't that make you think of a clown or a boy who wanted to make his playmates laugh?

Mrs. Bobolink is a very plainly dressed, quiet bird, but she seems perfectly satisfied for her mate to show off and have a jolly time. He surely does act as if he were always having fun. He has been called "the merriest of all" and his song has been likened to the "laugh of a young child." He is seldom quiet. He does not sit on a branch and sing as if he were singing for himself. Mr. Lowell has called him "gladness on wings." Some one has said that the notes tumble out so fast that no one has been able to write them down, that its music bubbles forth in such a way that a half dozen notes seem to be crowding upon the heels of each note it utters. All say that its songs of joy are among the finest songs of the fields. It will begin a song while on a branch and fly out finishing the song as it flies.

The merriest time with them is when the robins are singing their evening songs. The robin began before sunrise, and has finished its morning song and is ready to look for its breakfast when bobolink begins. They seldom fly without singing, and will hover over the nest where the mate is sitting, with fluttering wings, and pour forth their tinkling songs. Bobolinks do not begin early in the morning, but they keep on singing with the vesper sparrows and thrushes late in the evening.

We would never get through telling what poets and prose writers have said about the bobolink and its song. Every one who knows it in its summer home likes it. Here its food consists of such insects as grubs, caterpillars, beetles, grasshoppers and crickets with seeds of wild grasses and weeds.

At the time when the young birds must be fed bobolinks sober down. Before the young are altogether able to care for themselves he begins to put on his coat of sober colors ready to leave us. They build no nests nor do they sing in their winter homes, but when they return to our country they are again gaily dressed and full of song. Perhaps they are happy because they are so near home.

Mr. Audubon heard them in spring in the south and describes their concerts there. He says that after the first notes are given by a leader the others, as many as thirty or forty, will follow one after the other quickly and make a medley that no one can describe but that is very pleasant to hear. While you listen all stop at once. This takes place every time a flock goes to a tree after feeding a while on the ground and several times during the day.

Building Depression Belied By Work At Bancroft School As Pupils Make More Than 200 Bird House

—Bucklin Photo.

The building program has not slowed down in Bancroft district. Bancroft school children are aiding the building program this season, putting up more than 200 bird houses. There are big houses for big birds like flickers and wood peckers, middle sized houses for middle sized birds like blue birds and nut hatches, and little houses for little birds like wrens. Business depression has not lowered the rent. They rent for a song.

TO LET.

Pleasant apartments, an airy location,
For robins or bluebirds and all their relations.

Neat, modern bungalow, wonderful view;
Swept by the breezes and sprinkled with dew.

Bath, running water within easy flight
Of orchards or garden; well lighted at night.

Markets convenient—a few little hops
To bugs, worms or cherries, your favorite crops.

Children are welcome, their noise no objection.
Robin or bluebird, or martin or wren,
Bird-houses wait for your coming again.

Ready today for the earliest bidder;
Rental is free, though your notes I'll consider.

Shadow Makes An Important Discovery

"Come up! Come up, Hawkins! Hurry, hurry!"

Shadow was calling me. Perhaps he needed me. Without waiting to think, I rushed for the rope ladder. Lew and Jerry were holding it steady to allow me to get a start. I climbed that flimsy ladder as though I had been accustomed to it daily; hand over hand, foot over foot—only at the tenth or twelfth rung did I pause to look down. Lew and Jerry were looking up at me with anxious faces. I turned my eyes up again and continued to climb. At last I was at the end, but my breath was beginning to come fast, and I could feel my heart beating wildly. I was at the edge of the pulpit! Shadow was leaning over to help me into the hollow of rocks aaginst the high wall. Now I was over—upon my hands and knees I fell, safe though! Shadow was helping me up.

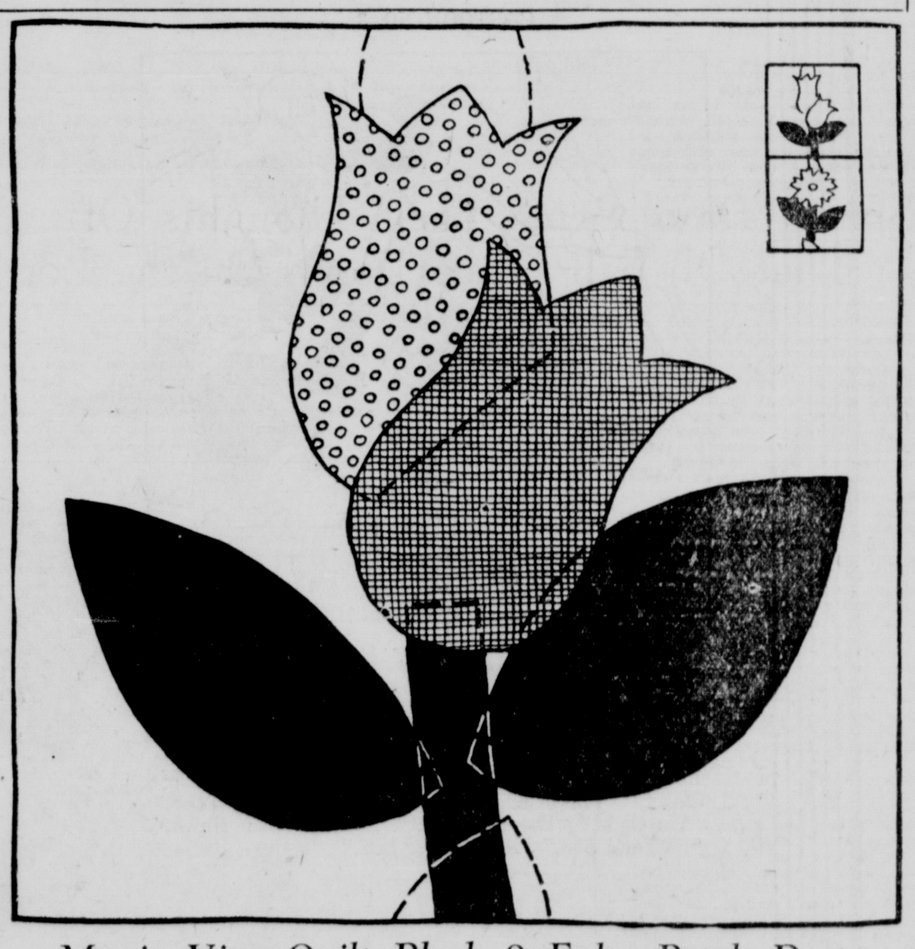

"Look!" he was saying, as he dragged me down a short incline. "Look! See what I have found! For you, Seck! It's what you wanted!"

"By Jove!" I exclaimed, between breaths. "By Jove! Shadow, this is it!"

Behind the pulpit, and somewhat lower, as the floor sloped, was a semi-circular opening in the wall. And beyond the wall lay what I had wanted to find—we were staring into the Wonder of Wonders!

Nancy Page Quilt Club + + + By Florence La Ganke

Magic Vine Quilt-Block-9 False Beech Drop

A DIRECTION LEAFLET

That will aid in making the Magic Vine Quilt will be sent free to any reader sending a stamped, addressed envelope to Nancy Page in care of this paper.

The club members came with anticipation. They had been told by Nancy that the new flower would have the initials F. B. D. They had searched flower guide books in vain. One member, Judy, said she had the name but that Nancy's flower did not resemble her flower.

"I think it is false beech drop, but if I am right then the flowers ought not to be so upstanding, they ought to droop more than you have them doing."

"Oh dear, Judy, you are too literal. This is the false beech drop, but I could not make the blossoms droop because it would have spoiled the symmetry of the vine. So I just pretended that the flowers stood upright when they grew on this magic vine qilt. Anyway, you know this vine thrives in never-never land, so I think I am safe."

"All right, Nance, we'll let you off this time, but why do they call it a false beech drop?"

"Oh I can explain that," chimed in Judy. "There is a real beech drop, a sort of fleshy parasitical thing which grows near beech roots. This particular flower grows near the roots of oaks and pines. Because its shape is similar to that of the real beech drop it is given that name, but because it favors oaks it is called a false drop. See?" And the members assured her they saw.

While they were seeing they were busily cutting the paper square from the paper and pasting it onto light weight tag or card board. It was dried under pressure. While it dried they selected the color. Nancy told them the flower was a light crimson red lightly touched with yellow.

This made the group think they might use some of the old fashioned dotted calicoes or the copies of the flowered calico which has a red ground with an all over pattern in small yellow flowers. Whatever the material, they knew it must be color fast. A quilt as beautiful as this is spoiled if the colors run when the quilt is washed. In the pattern the dotted lines on the flower and stem indicate the places where one piece of pattern overlaps another. The dotted lines at top of pattern and at the bottom indicate the over-lapping leaf which joins one block to another. This leaf is cut, basted and pressed and laid in place at the top before the flower is appliqued in place. Later it is appliqued itself, after the downy gentian and beech drop blocks are ready.

In cutting the patterns always allow one-quarter inch for turning under edges. Baste these in place, press and then lay the pieces in place on the six and one-half inch square white block as indicated in the pattern given in today's paper.

Remember that this flower is repeated in the third long vine which is in the quilt. That means that two blocks with the beech drop will be made.

Use dark green for stem and leaves. The overlapping leaf is cut from material in a lighter shade of green. Use fine slanting, invisible hemming stitch in appliqueing the flower and leaves. The stem, in this case as in all earlier blocks is best cut from a bias piece of material. It is cut twice as wide as the pattern and then the raw edges are turned back until they meet. They are based in place.

The club members were so interested in guessing the flower to come that Nancy gave them the little peek at the next flower. You can see it in the corner of today's pattern. Guess what it will be, it's initials are B. B.

Where Are Earlier Scholars Elected To Phi Beta Kappa?

Survey Of First Decade Of Honorary Group At Univerisity Of Nebraska Shows Members In Far Parts Of Globe And Following Many Varied Occupations

WHEN forty - six new members of Nebraska Alpha of Phi Beta Kappa were elected at the University of Nebraska Tuesday, many queried verbally or mentally concerning the histories of those who had had the honor in previous years.

Nebraska has chosen more than eight hundred of its senior students for this national honorary scholastic group, since its charter was granted thirty-five years ago, February 15, 1896.

The accomplishments of that many hundreds seemed rather a formidable task, especially when those of the last decade are yet too youthful to have been singled out for fame for noteworthy achievement.

During the first decade of this chapter, something over two hundred students of high learning were admitted to membership. They have gone into varied occupations, and names that have come to note are sprinkled through those first ten years of the group.

Educators in colleges, high schools and universities, missionaries and religious workerss, bankers, nurses, a doctor or so, judges, botanists, librarians an electrical engineer, journalist, business men of varied occupation, a research chemist, farmer, attorneys, bacteriologist, and civil service employes are the paths those two hundred have taken. A score or so are deceased. Some are unknown in the records, but a small number, compared to those who have been selected.

Most Women Married.

This hasty scanning of records shows one thing, that the brilliant college woman does not scorn marriage. She may postpone it until she has tried out the value of her new sheepskin, but the women Phi Beta Kappas of the first decade have in large numbers given up the business world for the less adventurous but ever fascinating seven rooms and a breakfast nook. Some of them have continued their special interest after marriage, but their chief work is—occupation, house wife.

Nebraska chapter of Phi Beta had a charter membership of thirteen, all faculty members. They included Chancellor George E. MacLean, Williams, '71; Lucius Adelno Sherman, Yale, '71, dean of the college of literature, science, and thhe arts and professor of English literature; Thomas Morey Hodgman Rochester university, '84, associate professor of mathematics; Henry Baldwin Ward, Williams, '85, professor of zoology; James T. Lees, Western Reserve university, '86, professor of the Greek languages and literature; W. G. Langworthy Taylor, Harvard, '80, associate professor of political and economic science; Robert Anderson Clark, Williams, '85, adjunct professor of physiology and hygiene and gymnasium director; A. H. Edgren, Cornell, '71, dean of the graduate school, professor of Romance languages and instructor in Sanskrit and comparative philology; Ellery W. Davis, Johns Hopkins, '84, professor of mathematics; Charles Edwin Bessy, Michigan Agricultural college, '69, dean of the industrial college and professor of botany; Laurence Fossler, University of Nebraska, '81, professor of Germanic languages; Oscar V. P. Stout, Nebraska, '88, associate professor of civil engineering; and J. S. Dales, Nebraska, '73, secretary-treasurer, acting steward, and superintendent of buildings and grounds.

Associated With University.

Of that number, three are still associated with the faculty. Dr. Sherman is emeritus dean and professor of English language and literature; Professor Fossler is chairman of the department of Germanic languages, and Mr. Dales is corporation secretary of the board of regents and secretary of the senate.

The first six members of Phi Beta Kappa were elected in February, 1896. They were John Edwin Almy, professor of experimental physics at the university, Harris Miller Benedict, until his death professor of botany at the University of Cincinnati; Ernest A. Bessey, chairman of the department of botany and dean of the graduate division, Michigan state college, East Lansing; James W. Searson, associated with the University Publishing company at the time of his death; Sara Vore Taylor, a member of the staff of the Omaha high school, and May Cynthia Whiting, now Mrs. H. Theodore Westernman of Bronxville, N. Y. They were all of the class of '96.

First Elections In 1896.

For the only time in its local history, Phi Beta Kappa elections were made again in June, 1896, when several of the new members were members of earlier classes. Those included in the June group of 1896 were Edward A. Bessey, now deceased, Roscoe Pound, dean of Harvard law school, and his sisters, Louise Pound professor of English at the university, and Olivia Pound, assistant principal of the Lincoln high school; William L. Westermann of Scarsdale N. Y., Gertrude Laws, now Mrs. W. E. Hardy; Josephine Tremain, now Mrs. James Warren McCrosky of New York City; and Lydia Mullen of New York City.

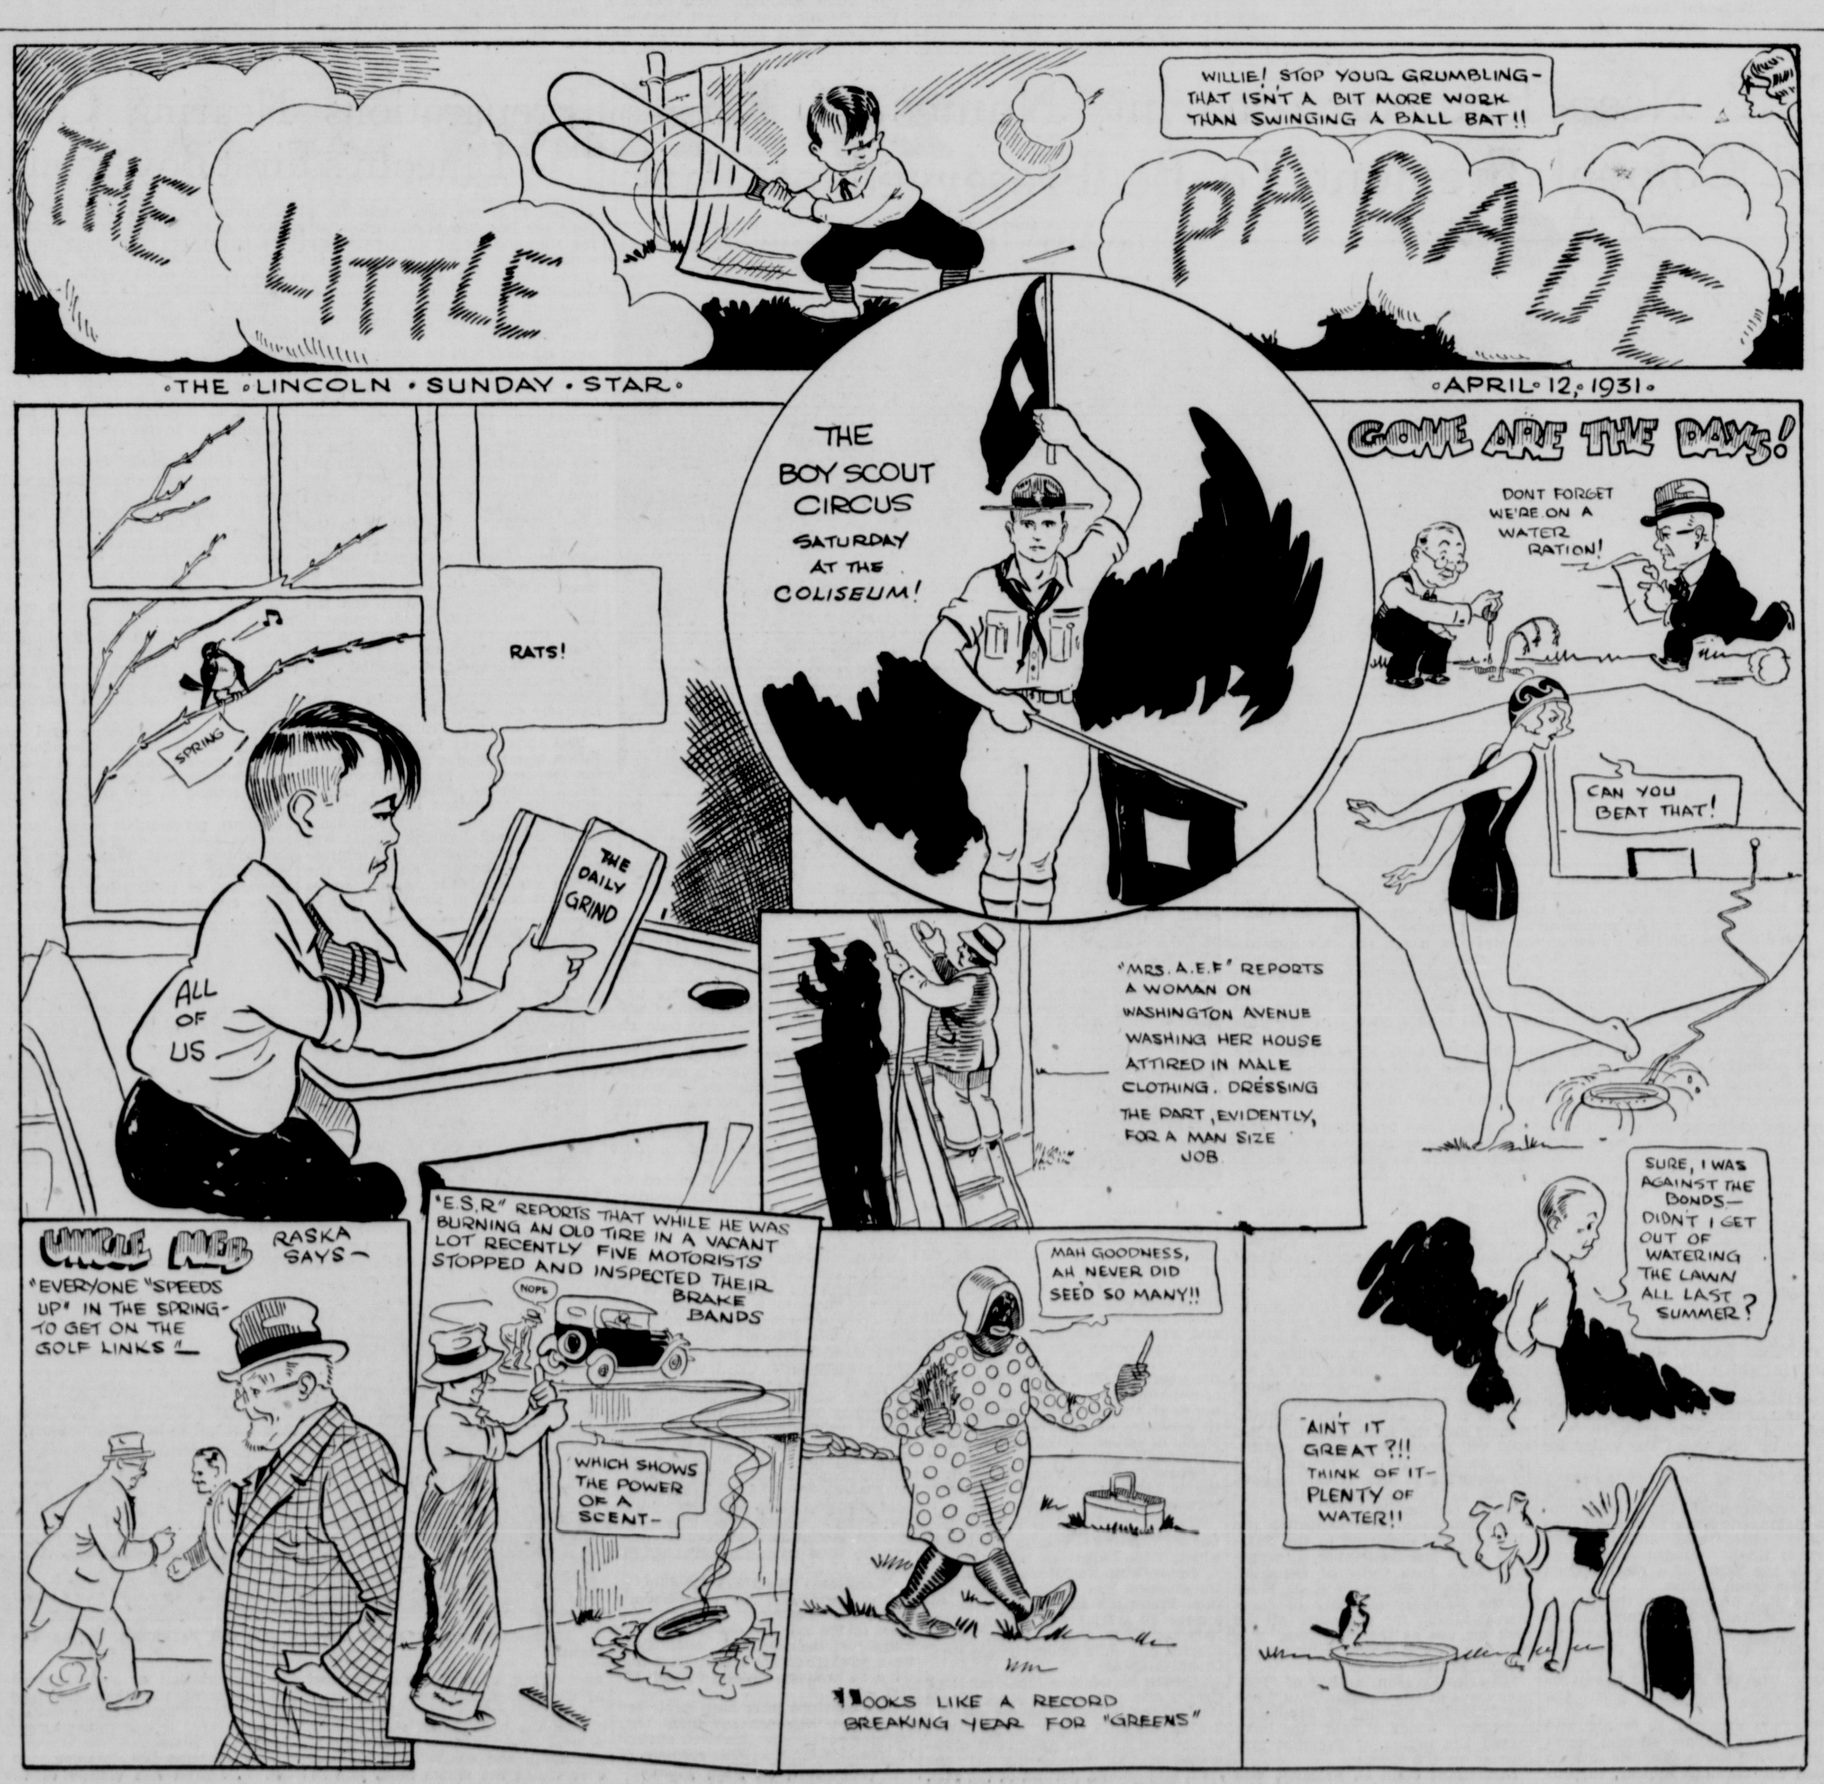

May Chamberlain, now connected with the Choate school at Wallingford, Conn., Jessie Jury, a teacher in the Lincoln high school, Martha Burks, now Mrs. H. H. Harley, Grace Irene Bridge, on the staff of the Chicago city schools; Mrs. Lincoln Frost, who was Miss Jennie C. Bonnell, and Judge Frost, now of the Lancaster county district court, Alma S. Hosic, instructor in German and French in the Kearney normal, and Nellie J. Compton, assistant librarian at the University of Nebraska, were also chosen that spring. Others chosen at that time were Maude Hammond Fling of Lincoln, Julia M. Korsmeyer, deceased, Ward Hildreth of Torrington, Wyo., Alice C. Hunter, Dr. Byron B. Davis of Omaha, a former university regent, George B. Frankforter, professor emeritus of the University of Minnesota, Phoebe May Hopper, professor of English at Nebraska Wesleyana, Mrs. Rufus C. Bentley, formerly Ellen Hart, and Mr. Bentley, of San Mateo, Cal.

Others of '96 Class.

W. L. Stephens, superintendent of schools at Long Beach, Cal., Frederick E. Clements, associated with Carnegie institution in charge of ecological research, Clarence J. Elmore of the biology department of William Jewell college, Liberty, Mo., Hans C. Peterson of Wilmette, Ill., F. E. Bishop, deceased, Charles Sumner Lobinger international jurist, legal educator, and author, Katherine M. Melick who teaches English in the Lincoln high school in Seattle, Vesta Gray of Windsor, Cal., and Charles Berry Newcomer of Des Moines complete the list of '96 members.

Nelly King Griggs, now Mrs. Hartley B. Alexander of Claremont, Cal., Carl A. Bessey, an electrical engineer, who makes his home in Evanston, Alvin S. Johnson, editor of "The New Republic" and director of the New School for Social Research, Rollins A. Emerson, head of the department of plant breeding and dean of the graduate school of Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y., Henry Newhouse, whose address is not known, Francis S. Philbrick, professor of law at the University of Illinois, J. Van Zandt Cortelyou, professor of modern languages at Kansas State Agricultural college, George H. Thomas of Washington, D. C., Edwin F. Piper, author and professor of English at the Univer-

DEBATE TEAMS COMPETING HERE THIS WEEK

SIXTEEN WINNERS OF DISTRICT HIGH SCHOOL CONTESTS ENTERED IN CONTEST OPENING THURSDAY FOR THE STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

The sixteen high school debating teams that will compete for the state championship here this week are pictured above. These teams, as the winners of the district high school debate tournaments, won the right to enter the annual tournament sponsored by the Nebraska High School Debating league. The debates will be held at the University of Nebraska on Thursday, Friday and Saturday under the direction of Prof. H. A. White, president of the league.

The subject for debate is, "Resolved, that the nations of the world should adopt a policy of complete disarmament except for forces needed for police purposes."

Debaters receive their assignments for the first round of the tournament Thursday evening when they meet at 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the university studio to have their pictures taken. Second round debates will be held Friday morning, semi-final rounds Friday evening and finals Saturday. Only one judge will be used for all debates.

Winning Teams.

Second row from top: Jackson high of Lincoln, District Seven champions, Mrs. Mabel D. Thompson, coach; Curtis school of agriculture, District Fourteen, C. K. Morse; Geneva, District Eleven, Howard W. Hamilton; Grand Island, District Nine, Carl F. Hansen; Beatrice, District Six, R. B. Carey.

Third row: Wayne, District Five champions, Howard R. Best, coach; Plattsmouth, District Two champions, Gerald V. Kvasnicka; Holdrege, District Twelve, Edward S. Betz; Lyons, District Four, Harry R. Hoy; Norfolk District Ten, Glen A. Warner; Chadron, District Sixteen, Miss Mildred Cerny.

Sandstone Cliff Near Endicott Bearing Names of Kit Carson and Colonel Fremont To Be Preserved as Park

A PLAN for preservation of one of Jefferson county's most interesting and oldest historic sites was adopted by the county commissioners, acting in co-operation with the Fairbury Rotary club, at the regular meeting of the county board Wednesday.

Commissioners C. H. Koenig, George Patterson and Fred Deffer were quite pleased with the plan, as submitted to them by C. C. Howell nad C. M. Hurlburt, the committee from the Rotary club.

The commissioners agreed to appropriate $400 from the county general fund for the purchase of the land surrounding the site, and also agreed to grade the driveway leading into the proposed park. The Rotary club has authorized the committee to spend whatever additional is necessary to buy the land and fence the park.

It is planned to start work as soon as the necessary papers can be arranged, conveying the title to the county. It is the plan, providing the D. A. R.'s local chapter is agreeable, to make them custodians of the park when the work is completed. Mrs. F. G. Endelman, regent, has stated that she thinks they will be glad to take charge of the park.

A committee composed of C. C. Howell, C. M. Hurlburt and L. M. Nelson will have charge of the work necessary to put the park in shape. It is the plan to leave the park in a condition as close to its natural wild beauty as possible.

The site referred to is a sandstone cliff on the J. B. McCreight farm seven miles southeast of Fairbury. This rock has carved in its soft surface scores of names and dates. Some of the names date back nearly ninety years, and there is a collection of autographs of early pioneers, not only many who settled in this county, but others who were immigrants along the Oregon trail, which crosses Rock Creek about half a mile east of the cliff.

Fremont, Carson Autographs.

The most important names on the cliff from a historical standpoint, are those of Col. John Fremont and Kit Carson, which are carved at the east end of the cliff. Between the two names of these early scouts for a trail to the Oregon country is the date, 1842.

There are other names, initials and dates on the face of the cliff, among them many in the '80s and '90s, and some earlier than that.

Some three years ago this historic rock came to the attention of some members of the Rotary club, who immediately took it up at the next luncheon of the group, with the result that committees were appointed to investigate.

The Jefferson county board of commissioners and the Fairbury Rotary club are uniting in preserving one of the interesting historic spots in the state, a cliff bearing the rudely cut names of famous pioneers of the west, and in preparing a parked setting for the site.

On the upper left is a view of the bluff, in which the cliff appears, and immediately below, Commissioner Patterson, Commissioner Koenig, C. C. Howell, County Clerk Nider, and Commissioner Deffer, are shown on the top of the bluff. Mr. Howell is pointing toward the Rock Creek station, where the Oregon trail crossed Rock creek. A view looking east fro the crest of the knoll across part of the land included in the park is shown on the upper right.

The driveway into the park will follow the edge of the trees. The large photograph at the lower right is a view of the east end of the cliff, shewing the names of Fremont and Carson. The date of a "49er" also appears in the picture, as well as "1850" and "1898."

At first it was thought feasible to take out some three tons of rock containing the Fremon and Carson carvings, and place the rock in the D. A. R. pioneers' cabin at the Fairbury City park.

Plan Given Up.

Due to the very soft texture of the sandstone, this was later given up, and the purchase of the site as a county park was decided upon.

The spot is most beautiful. The bluff in which the rock cliff appears rises from the bed of Rock Creek almost one hundred feet. On the crest of the bluff is a small level spot, and from this point there is a view up and down the valley for miles.

The valley of the creek is heavily timbered. To give one an idea of the wild surroundings, there is a bobcat making its home in the park, as well as other wild animals. The park is finely wooded—one large tree is the home of a mother coon and her seven babies.

The plan proposed by the Rotarian committee to the commissioners is that the ten acres surrounding the bluff be purchased from Mr. McCreight, and deeded to the county. The ten acres also allows for a driveway connecting with the public road.

The park area will be fenced, and it is planned to place an iron picket fence around the part of the rock on which the carvings appear, to protect them from vandalism. The rock is a great temptation to present-day autographers, as well as it was to those of pioneer days.

Will Plant Trees.

There will also be a number of trees planted where others were cut out recently, and possibly a rustic bridge across the creek. The total expense of buying and improving the park is estimated at $650.

The co-operation of the commissioners was made possible by an act of the 1927 legislature allowing county boards to appropriate not more than $500 annually for the acquiring and maintenance of places of scenic and historic interest.

It is the thought of the commissioners and the Rotarians, that this spot will become even more significant as the years pass by, and that by acquiring it now, it can be protected, as well as having it accessible to the public.

The following story regarding the cliff carvings appeared in the Fairbury News last September, at which time Miss Inez Cully of Seymour, Mo., wrote to Secretary R. E. Riley of the Fairbury chamber of commerce, asking for a picture of the rock for use as the title page of a book which she is preparing on the Oregon Trail:

"Charles Dawson, author of "Pioneer Days of the Oregon Trail," has the following account of Fremont's expedition, which is said to have carved the names of Fremont and Carson on the Rock:

Lieutenant John C. Fremont was commissioned to find an official route from Missouri to the Oregon country, and on the second day of May, 1842, left Washington, D. C., arriving at St. Louis May 22, 1842, where preparations were completed for his expedition.

"He selected a party of Creole and French Candian adventurers with the noted Kit Carson as his guide. He was also accompanied by two young friends, one being the son of Senator Thomas H. Benton, making in all twenty-eight men. His outfit consisted of eight carts drawn by teams of mules, several head of riding horses, and four oxen for food.

"From Fremont's diary, the following is taken to show his route through Jefferson county:

"'June 22, 1842—Our midday halt was at Wyeth's Creek, in the bed of which were numerous boulders'."

"Note—This was Rock Creek, and the crossing was at Rock Creek station. Fremont's and Carson's names appear on a friable sandstone overhanging Rock Creek, about three-fourths of a mile below the old Rock Creek crossing.

"On the standstone crowning Rock Creek, one mile below Rock Creek station, the following names are legible at this date (1910). Many names of the '40s and '50s have been obliterated by the weathering of the rock, and quite a portion of the rock has slabbed and fallen off. The writer was at this place in 1885, and has the word of many old settlers that hundreds of names were here during the sixties and seventies, wtih dates of 1840 to 1850, one date being 1832."

Rock Near Endicott.

The rock cliff, which is composed mainly of soft sandstone, is located on the south bank of Rock Creek, and along the right of way of the St. Joseph-Denver line of the Burlington, about a mile and a half northeast of Endicott.

This site was doubtless picked for the camp of the Fremont expedition because it was well protected against a surprise attack by Indians, from almost every direction.

Fremont's diary speaks of a tree under which he pitched his tent, and on the crest of the knoll there is the ancient stump of a tree. The size of the tree, according to others on the knoll, would indicate its age to be over sixty years, and it is said by old settlers that the tree was cut down at least thirty years ago.

There are other sandstone outcroppings in the vicinity, and the names of "Wild Bill" Hickok and McCandless were formerly to be seen on a cliff about two-thirds of a mile to the southeast. The part in which they were carved has since fallen off and disintegrated. The McCandless ranch site where the celebrated Hickok-McCandless fight took place, can be seen from the crest of the knoll.

Sandstone Weathers Rapidly.

The sandstone is exceptionally soft, and weathers rapidly. The sides of the railroad cut through the ridge just back of the cliff have been worked on by water, frost and wind to produce striking erosion effects.

The carvings have been protected by nature, however, so that they have stood the weather well enough to remain legible. The contour of

Preparations Nearing Completion For Lincoln's First Boy Scout Circus April 18

April 18 is the boys' night for at least the Boy Scouts of Lincoln and for that matter of all central and southern Nebraska. The reason for their taking the evening over is Lincoln's first Scout circus to be staged in the university coliseum.

Preparations for the event have been going on for weeks and the next six days will be spent "polishing off" the eighteen acts in which 1,200 boys are to participate. At a circus meeting held last week, scout executives reported that their troops were at the project enthusiastically. Because of the number of the acts to be presented within the two hours and a half, every boy must "be on his toes" throughout the whole show.

In addition to the Scouts in the Cornhusker area, a class from the Lincoln Y. M. C. A. under the direction of W. A. Luke, a group of Camp Fire girls under the supervision of Mrs. E. Sanman and the Lincoln Wolf Cubs whose leader is K. B. Cary are to have parts in the show. About fifty Camp Fire girls will present their ceremonials. In the ceremonials are included the singing of several beautiful but uniquely arranged songs.

Historical Prologue.

The show opens with the presentation of a prologue especially written for the circus by E. P. Brown. It has a historical background, beginning with Athenians and culminating with the time of the modern scout. Brilliant lighting effects will be put to use in achieving impressiveness in the act. Following the grand entry of the scouts, comes the first lesson of scouting, that of a joyous scramble for the goal. Other parts of this first division of the circus are demonstrations in fire building and first aid, a bicycle drill, and a short playlet directed by Ed Danielson. In this playlet is depicted the development of a boy beginning with membership in a back alley gang and culminating with activities in a scout troop. E. F. Burke is handling the first aid act, and A. W. Westberg is chairman of the fire building act. The second part of the show is being turned over to the companion organization.

Launch Model Planes.

Part three of the show opens with the signalling act by J. C. Jensen and the chariot races are to follow. Keeping up the modernistic trend of the acts, the junior aviators will display and launch their model planes. E. R. Colvert has charge of this feature.

One of the acts in which a great many of the outstate troops are to participate is the demonstration of scout games. Professor E. W. Lantz has charge of the act. Scouting includes both work and play and many of the lessons are learned through play.

Commodore Thompson and his Lincoln sea scouts are scheduled to stage a spectacular rescue in a ship act. Thompson is being assisted by A. E. Rische in the breeches buoy rescue.

Indian ceremonials and dances are the features of the Indian act for which Flavia Waters Champe is director. Mrs. Champe has been interested in Indian lore for many years and has trained the boys in knot-tieing, which is to be handled by Clarence E. Shipman.

Obstacle racing in which is included the problem of wall scaling is next in succession. J. M. Wolf is arranging the course through and over which the scouts must join in the presentation of a faithful reproduction of the aborigines' customs. Colorful native costumes have been prepared to add to the attractiveness of this act.

Pioneering and Camping.

E. L. Lowell has charge of the final event of the evening, which is pioneering and camping. At the signal, scouts will come swarming from every entrance of the coliseum floor carrying many materials, such as logs, coils of rope, camp furniture and other things. In a few brief moments the entire coliseum floor will be covered with camping and pioneering projects. Junior engineers will sling a rope suspension bridge from one side of the coliseum to the other, while others will busy themselves with the construction of rustic lean-tos. A full sized log cabin will be erected on the floor.

In the center of the floor will be formed a typical council ring by the Sun scouts, ranking members of the scout organization. Just as the act closes, the scouts and their friends will gather to pay homage to the Great Spirit, much in the same manner as they do about the council fire at Camp Quivira.

Although 1,200 are scheduled to "do their stuff" for the show, the entire presentation is to be completed by 10 o'clock.

Midland Notes

The annual "M" club banquet will be held April 18 at the Hotel Pathfinder, Edward Schnabel, Clearwater, president announced.

"Children of the Moon," by Marvin Flavin, was selected for the commencement play by members of the Midland Players at a meeting Thursday. The play, which is a three act drama, will be presented the last week in May.

Practices for the May Music festival have been started by choirs in Fremont, Columbus, Scribner, Omaha and Lincoln, according to Oscar Lyders, A. B., director of the festival. The affair will be held May 8, 9 and 10 in the Midland auditorium.

Demonstrations of Scout work which will be shown during the first annual circus next Saturday night.

MOREHEAD FIGHTS APPROPRIATION JUMPS

NEBRASKA CONGRESSMAN FAVORS CHANGES IN HOUSE RULES AT NEXT SESSION AS AID TO CHECKING INCREASING EXPENDITURES.

Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of articles on the records of Nebraska senators and congressmen during the final session of the Seventy-first congress. Each article is written, without bias, from official records. The fourth article will deal with the record of Rep. Willis G. Sears of Omaha.

BY RUBY A. BLACK.

WASHINGTON BUREAU THE LINCOLN STAR

THE final act of Rep. John H. Morehead of Falls City, in the seventy-first congress was to give notice, through an extension of remarks in the Congressional Record, that he would press for changes in the rules of the house in the seventy-second congress.

His proposals are for the purpose of cutting down appropriations, not for making it easier to get measures before the house for consideration or for abolishing "gag rule," which are the aims of the democratic-insurgent move to change the rules in the next congres—a move which will be at least partly successful.

In proposing his changes in the rules Representative Morehead said:

"Being of a cautious nature, brought about by experience and observation, I view with considerable apprehension the increasing expenditures of government...

"There has been much discussion as to change of the rules for the orderly procedure of business in the house. None have been of a nature that would effect a great saving in the appropriations, to the taxpayers of the nation.

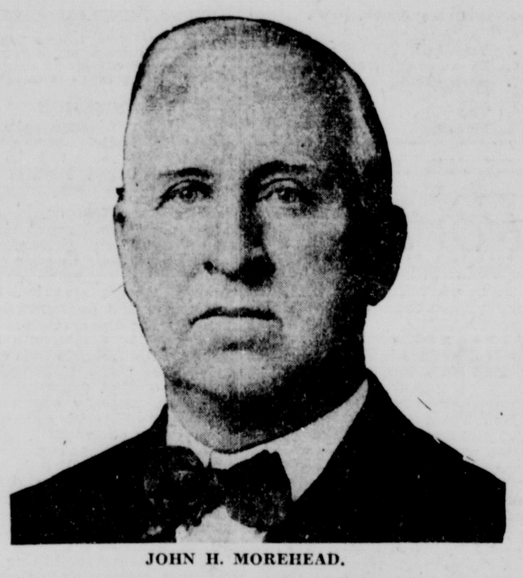

Effect of Record Vote.

"A member of the house should have the courage and sincerity of purpose to go on record on any legislative matter, or any appropriation, when a large amount of money is involved. Many times in the appropriation of large sums, I have seen the majority changed to a large minority. When a record vote was forced, they had reversed their vote.

"Therefore, when congress convenes, I shall do everything in my power to get a rule compelling a record vote, and I am satisfied it will save several hundreds of millions of dollars to the people, and reduce the tremendous amount that is being appropriated."

Check Rush Claims.

Representative Morehead also proposed that no measure authorizing expenditure of any magnitude could be placed on the unanimous consent or private calendars during at least the last twenty days before the closing of the congress. This, he said, would prevent members entering into collusion with one another to get support for

JOHN H. MOREHEAD.

"claims of questionable character" and get them through in the rush at the end of the session.

This "extension" also attacked large appropriations for the navy, the expensiveness of the highway to Mount Vernon, which Senator Robert B. Howell likewise criticized, the construction of so many expensive public buildings in Washington, increases in personnel on the government payrolls and increases in their salaries, federal appropriations for "purely state matters," which, he said, are often won "by barter."

The first district congressman introduced few bills in the seventy-first congress, only four bridge bills, all of which were passed, and three private bills, none of which were passed. This is exclusive of private bills, which are not passed separately, but included in omnibus bills.

Pass Bridge Bills.

Two measures for extending the time for commencing and completing the bridge across the Missouri river at Rulo were passed, the first extending the commencment and completion times to March 29, 1931 and March 29, 1933, respectively, and the second one extending commencement until March 29, 1931 and completion until March 29, 1934. In the seventieth congress the time had likewise been extended once. John C. Mullen, T. L. Davies, John H. Hutchings, and Virgil Falloon, all of whom are of Falls City, are authorized to build the bridge. The department of agriculture recommended against further extension, but Representative Morehead got it through. The builders have had difficulty in financing the bridge.

Morehead also got through a bill to extend the time for commencing the Brownville bridge until February 26, 1931 and the time for completion until February 26, 1933.

Senator Howell got a bill through the senate making still another extension, but it was not passed by the house although reported by the committee.

Like Howell Bill.

Representative Morehead introduced a bill identical with the one introduced by Senator Howell and passed, changing the Nebraska City bridge to a railroad bridge instead of a highway bridge.

One of his private bills, not passed, would authorize payment to Mrs. Mary E. McGerr, widow of Patrick McGerr, a soldier, the pension which she was denied for 12 years, together with allowances for support of minor children, amounting in all to $2,302. The pension was erroneously denied her because of property she held which was mortgaged, it was claimed.

Another, on which there was no action, would pay to Mrs. Nettie B. Rush $5,000 in settlement of all claims against the government on account of the death of her son in a typhoon, September 24, 1908, while he was employed by the government as a surveyor in the Philippine islands.

The other would allow John Lester Ritchey, formerly a second-class seaman in the navy, all benefits conferred upon honorably discharged seamen. This was not reported from committee. All three private bills were introduced in January, 1931, a little late for consideration in a short session.

Show Morehead's Votes.

On legislation on which there were yea-and-nay votes in the house during the final session of the congress, Representative Morehead voted as follows:

For increasing the loan value of World war veterans' bonus certificates to 50 per cent of their face value, and for overriding the president's veto of this measure.

Against the Longworth amendment to the "lame duck" amendment setting a limit to the final session of each congress and for submitting the "lame duck" amendment to the states for ratification, favoring substitution of the Gifford resolution for the Norris resolution.

For accepting the senate amendments to the veterans' hospitalization bill, increasing the amount and permitting the veterans' administrator to transfer funds from one project to another with the consent of the president.

Against reducing immigration in 1931 and 1932 to 10 per cent of the 1930 immigration.

For Shoals Compromise.

For the compromise proposal for government operation of Muscle Shoals.

Against additional funds for foreign service buildings, against additional funds for the national arboretum in Washington, against authorizing $5,000,000 advances to the reclamation fund for construction and operation, against increasing the salary of the governor of Alaska to $10,000 from $7,000, against additional compensation for relatives of men in the navy and marines who were killed in the Lake Denmark naval ammunition depot explosion in 1926, against appropriating funds for certain increases in salaries of government employes previously authorized by law — all these votes carrying out his opposition to increase appropriations.

Helps Add Oleo Tax.

For the oleomargarine bill putting a tax of 10 cents a pound on all yellow oleomargarine, whether naturally or artificially colored.

Against use of federal funds for compulsory military training in schools.

Against a "gag rule" for consideration of the drouth relief measure.

Against the drouth relief measure the first two ways it was brought before the house, appropriating $30,000,000 for seed, feed, and fertilizer loans, but nothing for food; for final passage of house bills; against concurring in the senate food amendments with an amendment allowing funds to be used for relief of unemployed in the cities as well as farmers; against permitting president to distribute $25,000,000 for relief; against appropriating $25,000,000 for charities to distribute.

Against Appropriation.

Against an appropriation of $125,000 for "representation allowances" for ambassadors and ministers of the United States, to be used for entertaining, etc.

Against recommitting to committee the Capper-Kelly bill to permit maintenance of the manufacturer's set price on trade-marked goods, a move designed to kill the bill after it had been so amended that it was entirely different from the way it was reported from the committee on interstate and foreign commerce.

For reducing the marines in Nicaragua to one-half the present contingent after December 31, 1931, and to one company after May 31, 1932.

Against overriding the president's veto of a private bill.

For eliminating the feature of a treasury financing bill which made such government securities exempt from federal income and profits taxes.

For taking up and passing the Wagner unemployment exchanges bill.

Against federalizing the national guard.

What Those Who Won Phi Beta Kappa Are Doing

Star's Movie Editor Crashes Gate of DeMille's Fascinating Work Room

UNTIL the talkies came, a mere push or a little "pull" would enable you to squeeze past the "no admittance" signs of the Hollywood studios. Now you might make the lot, if your business be sufficiently important, but the "closed set" signs on the sound stages mean what they say. Directors are taking no chances on re-filming a whole sequence because of an unprotected sneeze.

While all the directors were of one opinion as to visitors, Cecil B. De Mille was the most adamant. You might be the sister of the star. You might be almost anybody at all. You might even be a newspaper person. There was still the possibility of a sneeze.

A drag with Barrett Kiesling, Cecil B. De Mille's director of publicity, luckily gave us entrance the other day to the M-G-M studios. Mr. Kiesling even presented us with a handsome guide, one Ray Long, something more than the average ex-newspaper man, who happens to be in the publicity department. He is the son of Ray Long, editor of Cosmopolitan, and Dorothy Day, a prominent newspaper woman of Cleveland, Ohio.

On Sound Stage.

All "wised up" on sound stage etiquette, we were led into a huge tomb-like building. The ceiling was fifty feet high, and the room must have been at least 50 by 100 feet. There were no windows. The floors were concrete, but were heavily carpeted with sand. It was one of the twenty-two new sound stages now on the M-G-M lot.

A group of men, thirty-six or more, were milling around a three-sided room. Klieg lights were everywhere. All sorts of mysterious looking contraptions cluttered the room. This was the set where a sequence of "The Squawman" was about to be shot. "The Squawman" was the first great picture ever made. The first filming took place seventeen years ago in the old Lasky barn. De Mille himself wrote the script.

Outside the door of the set, Cecil B. De Mille was preparing for action. He is exactly like his photographs. Tall, well-built, with sharp black eyes, he looked every bit the sportsman, with his bronze complexion. He spends all of his "between picture" days aboard his jacket. He wore the four-pluses of the proverbial director.

Mattress Stops "Bouncing."

A glimpse at the interior of the set showed a sparsely furnished room, with table, a couple of chairs and a stove. The mattress that was draped over the ceiling, we learned, was not for decorative purposes. It is another trick to keep the voices from "bouncing." A "bounce" gives that hollow effect of talking down a barrel.

Dangling concealed above the heads of the othree men in the room, was what appeared to be a telephone mouthpiece. In reality it was the small instrument that has caused the vast upheaval in motion pictures, the supersensitive "mike."

We recognized one character as our favorite, Warner Baxter, with his devastating personality, his snappy black eyes, curly hair and sophisticated mustache. He isn't quite as tall in person as he appears on the screen. Towering over him was Charles Bickford, in black shirt, dirty looking trousers and broad brimmed hat. All togged up in a bright red shirt, with a revolver waiting to do its stuff, was a dashing sheriff; DeWitt Jennings in person.

All Set To Go.

Everybody was all set for action. Cecil B. De Mille was intent upon a peculiar box-like looking instrument, similar to a camera. As "speed" was announced, a red glow appeared in the box. That's a very important feature in the shooting of sound pictures. It signifies that the camera and sound instrument is synchronized in action. A nearby orchestra softly began, "Reaching for the Moon."

"Silence" came the order. Everybody stopped in his tracks.

A soft whir came from the sound proof camera box. Mr. De Mille waved a signal. Another sequence of the sound version of "The Squawman" started unfolding, as the voice of the "sheriff" announced:

"I'll be back, and I'll bring Mrs. Carston with me."

"You'll never enter this house again while I live," Carston (Warner Baxter) informed him.

"That might not be long."

"Just a few seconds longer than you will have."

That was all—every bit. DeWitt Jennings and Charles Bickford stamped out.

"O. K.," from Mr. De Mille.

"Say you guys, tread a little softer. Your footsteps sound off stage," came a voice from the air.

Glancing up, we saw a man in a glass house, projected from the side of the building, just above the sets. An intricate network of wires ran from the microphone back to the appliances that filled the stage. This is another new innovation brought about by the talkies. Here the "mixer-man" watches the action below, and listens in on the voices. He is the go-between from the set to the recording room. Just one twist of a little knob, and a strident voice becomes dulcet as it is wafted on through the mixing room into the recording apparatus.

The talking film has changed practically everything in the studio. Even the cameraman has become ritzy. He no longer turns his crank. The camera is now encased in a soundproof box, electrically operated. The cameraman merely focuses his machine and presses a button.

With so many changes in the personnel, the influx of the stage stars to replace the old screen favorites, the cast of "The Squawman" is especially interesting. Cecil B. D Mille, the maker of stars, has not deserted his old stand-bys of the screen. With very few exceptions, the cast is filled with screen players of long standing.

Warner Baxter, the leading man, was borrowed from Fox for the picture. Mr. Baxter had won his spurs long before the advent of the sound film.

Mitchell Lewis and Herry Northrup were in the original New York stage production of Edwin Milton Royle's classic.

Billy Elmer, Dick La Reno and Tex Driscoll played in the first version of the play, which Cecil B. De Mille made seventeen years ago. Raymond Hatton, De Witt Jennings, Lawrence Grant, Victor Potel and J. Farrell MacDonald have long been popular character actors on the screen.

Julia Faye has had a role in nearly every picture Mr. De Mille has ever produced. Eleanor Boardman won fame on the screen over ten years ago.

Lupe Velez, Charles Bickford and Roland Young might be caled the new players in the cast. Lupe is the leading lady. She had a good start up the ladder of fame before sound pictures gave her an extra boost.

"Takes" were over for the morning. The players were filing out toward the lunch room. We trailed along to eat with the stars. That's a privilege granted very few.

Red Hair? "And How."

Conrad Nagel joined Charles Bickford at one of the tables. Too bad Conrad is getting a little bald, but we like him anyhow. He's such a finished player. The camera hardly does "Big Boy" Bickford justice. He is at least six feet two in height, and well filled out. And is Charlie's hair red? "and how."

William Haines was wise-cracking with some newspaper men. We looked about for Polly Moran, but she wasn't there. Buster Keaton rolled up in his Austin. Austin jokes don't phase the "stony-faced" comedian. Helene Chandler, petite blonde, lunched in her camera make-up, a sun-tan powder, no rouge and very little lipstick.

As Joan Crawford failed to appear for lunch, we peeked in at her set on our way out. We found her between shots, chatting with Monroe Cwsley. Her blue-velvet gown was becomingly tight to set off her dainty slenderness. She appeared all eyes. Her mass of red hair fell to her shoulders and accentuated the blue of her unusually large eyes.

Lives Up To Reputation.

Monroe Owsley has an important role in Miss Crawford's new picture, "Girl's Together." He lived up to his "fashion plate" reputation in a tuxedo, with his black hair slicked up, a la Valentino.

Miss Crawford proudly displayed her portable dressing bungalow, a Christmas present from her husband, Douglas Fairbanks, jr. It is a white colonial, with green shutter and resembles a good-sized doll house.

Doors of the studio clicked behind us, leaving a pleasant consciousness that we had watched the filming of our first sound picture, and under the direction of no less a personage than Cecil B. De Mille, himself.

To go behind the tall gates of a motion picture studio is the goal of most western travelers, but so closely are the lots guarded that only the few are ever successful in viewing the stages where the noted players are at work. Mrs. Hilton was present for the filming of "The Squawman" on the Cecil B. DeMille lot, and these pictures depict some of the interesting views she had.

1—Warner Baxter as "Jim Carston" and Lupe Velez as "Naturich" in the DeMille's new M. G. M. picture are staging an effective scene. 2. The sheriff, DeWitt Jennings, tells Charles Bickford that he doesn't want any quarrel between him and Warner Baxter. 3. Charles Bickford arrives at Carston's ranch with DeWitt Jennings, Chris Martin, Frank Hageny, and Ed Brady.

4.—In this picture, Baxter is telling Lupe Velez to leave his ranch —"forever." 5. Cecil B. DeMille, at whose studio this long-time favorite is being made, and who has been responsible for many fine pictures. 6. Eleanor Boardman, who has appeared infrequently of late, but whose return to the screen is showing an increased art, has the role of "Diana" in "The Squawman."

UNPLEASANT MEDICINE. .

No two people will agree upon what constitutes reasonable and proper support for an institution of the character of the University of Nebraska. Its friends believe it should be treated most generously. Its critics and those who are lukewarm toward "higher education" give grudgingly.

The records reveal that in the last four years the state has spent slightly in excess of $250,000 annually for the acquisition of land and the construction of new buildings for the University of Nebraska and all of its branches. It is doubtful if any educational institution of the size and standing of Nebraska has been more conservatively treated in the funds allotted to it for development. It is the largest university between the Missouri river and the Pacific coast region. Thousands of students are enrolled in its courses annually. It draws, not only from the state, but from the surrounding states of Kansas, Missouri, Colorado, Oklahoma, North and South Dakota, Wyoming, Iowa, and Montana.

In the last two bienniums, the legislatures have appropriated $1,015,000 for development. The total appropriation of the legislature of 1927 was $500,000, out of which but one new building for class room purposes on the city campus could be built. The regents spent $42,500 for the purchase of land; $285,000 for the construction of Andrews hall; $9,000 for improvements on the law library, or a total of $336,500 for the city campus. They spent $50,000 for a dormitory at the Curtis agricultural school, and $75,000 for hospital equipment at the Omaha medical college. A greenhouse at the agricultural college cost $23,000 and $15,000 was divided between North Platte and Curtis for improvements there. In 1929, the legislature provided $515,000 for development, of which $315,000 was used for the building of a joint heat, light, and power plant and $200,000 set aside to begin the dormitory program, in the first step of which $106,214.45 has been used to buy land.

Surely no one will brand that as an extravagant use of the taxpayers' money. It is difficult to imagine how it could have been less if Nebraska were to maintain a pretense of building a great university.

Gradually time outlaws any building. Some of those which are now being used, were built years ago and are unsuited and unadapted for use. Mindful, however, of the tax burden which has been so heavy, the board of regents has never contemplated abandoning any of the physical plant. It would have been content with the program which enabled it to keep pace with the increasing enrollment of recent years.

If that increase were but two hundred students a year, it would mean that at the lowest estimate, one new building should be added every biennium to provide classroom facilities for the undergraduates. In the last four years, we have built just half what any sane and reasonable program requires. The power plant, which was the only new construction undertaken in the two years from 1929 to 1931, is to serve not only the university, but the new capitol as well. It in no way relieves the congestion existing at the university.

What is needed in connection with the University of Nebraska is a modest, long-time building program. It would be far more economical and far less burdensome if we were to provide for present needs during each biennium, instead of permitting them to pile up until huge sums of money are required to meet the emergencies. There is a definiteness and stability to a program of that character, which avoids mistakes and wastes. It gives a permanence which makes careful planning possible and which enables the administrative officers to secure the maximum return in beauty and efficiency for every expenditure.

There will never be a generation which does not kick on taxes. They are unpleasant medicine always. The public may anticipate that there will be the complaint which has been heard continuously since the Boston tea party.

More than that, the benefits of expenditures for education itself are intangible. We can't place a value on citizenship. We can't measure in dollars and cents the worth of culture and intelligence and of cultivated tastes. But the goal of civilization is happiness and contentment. If through our colleges and universities, young men and young women may live more splendidly and happily, all of the treasure poured into the campuses and buildings of the educational plants is well spent. An attractive campus, and splendid buildings at the University of Nebraska should prove an inspiration to all the people of Nebraska. It is their university and in an increasing degree, they are becoming more deeply attached to it.

To deny it any chance of keeping pace with the rival institutions in the central west during the next two years, as Governor Bryan has, is to say to it that it shall lag and fall behind. There is no emergency calling for such drastic action. Had Governor Bryan during his campaign indicated by word or action that it was his plan to cut off every cent of money for building purposes, he would have been defeated. Mr. Bryan was too shrewd a politician to suggest that last November. The university is deserving of better treatment than it has received from Mr. Bryan.

MRS. DANIEL FREEMAN.

In the death of Mrs. Daniel Freeman of Beatrice Thursday night, America lost the wife of its first homesteader.,

Her husband, a Union soldier, was the first to make entry under the provisions of the Homestead act, which is responsible for the development of most of that vast region known as the Louisiana territory. He and his wife both died in modest circumstances. The homestead which he chose was an unprepossessing section of ground through which Cub creek wound its path, only a few miles from the point where it empties into the Big Blue. It wasn't particularly good soil, but it had timber, which in the days of seemingly limitless prairie was a matter of first concern. There was no gold or oil underneath it.

And yet it was the rare privilege of this pioneer woman to witness amazing changes and great growth. She saw the state in the raw. She knew what it was to suffer the discouragements of the late '70s and the early '90s. She was here when there were less than 20,000 people in all that which is now Nebraska and she lived to see more than 1,250,000 persons comfortably housed here.

There can be few regrets in a life so filled as hers was. And although she undoubtedly longed for her friends and her home in the east, she, like all pioneer women of that period, was thrilled by the knowledge that civilization was pushing beyond the last frontiers in this country.

AT THREE RIVERS.

It was seven years ago that Mr. Doheny admitted he had given former Secretary of the Interior A. B. Fall $100,000 as a "loan." As big business man, with great wealth, Mr. Doheny may have been accustomed to carrying that much money around in a little satchel, but the Supreme court apparently had a different idea of it. At least, Mr. Fall, charged with betraying the public trust which he held, was convicted in connection with the oil land scandal and driven into disgrace and retirement.

Once again Fall's name bobs up in the news columns. He is broke, sick at heart, and ready to take whatever punishment his country may see fit to inflict upon him. He has nothing except the slender funds which his wife ekes from the dairy herd maintained on the old Fall land. He is through fighting; will not attempt to press his appeal, in his effort to establish his innocence and to clear his name.

There was a day when Fall was powerful in the councils of the republican party. He served as United States senator for years. He was one of the trusted leaders who obtained the nomination of the late Warren Harding at the Chicago convention in 1920. Harding's election resulted in Fall's elevation to the president's cabinet. It was a fitting climax to a life of glamorous adventures, which led him over the mountains in the early days, with Doheny by his side, in search of oil and gold. As the old chap sits on his porch in the sunlight, twisting his inveterate cigar, it is to be hoped his thoughts are philosophically inclined. He was, after all, only a puppet and a symbol in the amazing chain of corruption unfolded in the national capitol. He has been punished greatly.

Viewing the picture, however, it is impossible to overlook the devoted wife and daughters, who have fought constantly by his side, soothing him, comforting him, seeking to ease the pain. Perhaps there is comfort enough in that to deaden the pain in his heart.

NON-UNANIMOUS VERDICTS.

Every legislature does a great many things which are displeasing to large numbers of people of the state. This is inevitable. It requires only a majority in each house to enact an ordinary measure without the emergency clause, and often bills receive bare majorities, showing that there are practically as many members opposed as there are in favor of such measures. Frequently one house will be strongly for an act and the other as warmly opposed. So in very many cases legislation is a compromise and is not the crystalized sentiment even of the body which enacts it.

This being the case, it is safe to say that the action of the Nebraska senate in indefinitely postponing the VanKirk measure, which would allow the people of the state to vote on a constitutional amendment, permitting non-unanimous verdicts in misdemeanor and felony cases, lacks a great deal of representing the sentiment of the citizenry of Nebraska. Within a few years the enactment of such an amendment would saved to the taxpayers of the state much more than the difference between the Bryan budget and the house appropriation bill.

Those who know the ways of criminals and of those attorneys who make a specialty of defending violators of the law, know how difficult it is to obtain a conviction, especially against a member of an organized criminal ring, with unlimited financial backing. The skilled and adroit defender is able to bring into play every trick of the profession for the purpose of confusing the unsophisticated juror and in the end to play upon his emotions to a degree that makes him anything but a competent judge. Then, deplorable as it may be, it must be admitted that there are persons who would "hang" a jury for a consideration.

If half of a legislative body may say what shall become law and what shall not, it would seem to be quite ridiculous to say that ten out of twelve men shall not be allowed to decide whether an accused person is guilty or innocent of an offense with which he or she is charged. As a matter of fact the jury system is a relic of an age long since past, when monarchs and the nobility were wont to arbitrarily deprive people of their properties and their liberty, or even of their lives. It was to circumvent these despoilers that the system was devised, and it now serves more frequently to retard justice than to promote it.

The grand jury has for many years been all but a dead letter in Nebraska and the state has got along without it just as well as those which cling to it. The eventual abolition of the petit jury is inevitable, but it is not to be expected that it will be entirely done away with for many years. There is no valid reason, however, why the people of the state should not be allowed to say whether they are willing to allow five-sixth verdicts to be returned.

ONE-MAN GOVERNMENT.

Governor Bryan fought the civil administrative code. It was extravagant and inefficient and it was worse—it was one-man government. This newspaper agreed with Governor Bryan on the civil administrative code—it had been waging the fight before the governor had become a convert.

Yet the governor, with a sprinkling of democrats in the house, is utilizing something which came with the code to vest autocratic power in him over appropriations. It is the budget provision which requires sixty votes to override the governor's veto. Mr. Bryan and his democratic friends in the house are providing a strange spectacle. They fought McKelvie for setting up a one-man government. Now they are turning around and doing what they condemned him for doing. This amazing inconsistency will not trouble them, however. Mr. Bryan is never troubled over a thing like that. He can take more hurdles in opposite directions than any political acrobat in Nebraska.

It was not intended the legislature should be a rubber-stamp for the governor. If his voice and his will was to be absolute, there would be no need of spending from $100,000 to $150,000 every two years for a legislative session. The governor could formulate the laws, decide upon appropriations, and do it within less than a tenth of the time if it were intended his judgment should be conclusive. Nebraska operates under a system of checks and balances in no less a degree than the federal government. The legislature is a co-ordinate branch of government to check abuse of power by the executive. It is the plain duty of the lawmakers to apply their judgment and experience in the matter of appropriations.

There is a great deal now being said about taking Mr. Bryan at his word, passing his appropriation bill, and letting the blame fall upon him. That would be cowardly but it would be worse than cowardly. It would be duck soup for as resourceful and as clever a politician as Charley Bryan. Within four months, after necessary activities were seriously crippled, Governor Bryan would be saying to the people of the state: "The legislature agreed with me on this." And the people would accept Mr. Bryan's statement because if it passes his budget bill it would place its approval upon the measure. No amount of explaining could alter that fact. The legislator, who against his judgment votes for the bill in its present form, would be wasting his breath when he attempts to say he voted against his will and his judgment.

There is no other course open for the senate or the house but to fight it out with Mr. Bryan. One-man rule is not tolerated in a democracy. The senate might kill Mr. Bryan's appropriation bill and send word to the house it will take no action until there is a measure sent to the upper branch drawn in accordance with the views of the overwhelming membership of both branches. That might take some of the sting out of Mr. Bryan's whip.

Knute Rockne's Greatest Feat His Last Game Believes Rogers

BY WILL ROGERS.

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers. Been so much calamity here the last week or so that its hard to dig much cheerful nourishment out of the news printe. Poor Knute Rockne so upset everybody that we just cant get over it, especially those of us who had the good fortune to know him. The more you think of him the more remarkable he becomes. I used to go out on one night stand (so called Concert Tours, and I always used to play South Bend, and there would be a bunch of the Boys down to my little Lecture. Well the minute I would hit town He would be down to the Hotel and I would be with him most of the day, go out to the school, and if it was anywhere around football time, I would see them work out, and when I say them, I mean them, there would be literally hundreds of em on all the teams together.

You know he dident just have the big team and the Scrubs, he had dozens of em, Domitory teams, class teams, Every kind of team, all but Fraternity teams, they don't have them there. They have got some kind of a preparatory school there too I guess, for he showed me practicing one time a bunch of little kids, and he would show me how they had all his plays.

Couldn't Fool Kids.

He said, "If some Coach was smart enough, he would come here and watch these little kids work out and he would get every play I've got. I have secret practice, to try out my new formations and there wont seem to be a soul in the place, but you come out here the next day and you will see them running through the same ones I had the Varsity working on the day before. They sneak in here away ahead and hide in the most outlandish places, under the stands, the seats, and everywhere and they all try to copy my Stars, they try to walk like em, talk like em' copy all their little mannerisms. Two of them had a fight over which one was Struldrehr. I will always have pretty good material as long as they study the fine points of the game that early."

Then down at the Theatre that night were I was playing I would get him up on the stage, and also all the team, and it would always be a great night and also day for me. Just to be around him was a treat. He had developed into one of the best after dinner speakers in this country. He had a great fund of humor, and storys of real happenings and he had so much sincerity in his talk, he really made you believe it, I can easily understand how those Boys played their heads off for him. He sure did inspire confidence.

Rockne's Greatest Feat.

I think his greatest feat was his last game, that was out here with University of Southern California. Here we thought out here we had the greatest team that ever represented the coast, tremendous Stadium filled, Notre Dame hadent lost a game in two years, and this was their last, it was the last for a lot of their big Stars who were graduating. Rockne was touted to lose. The night before over the radio he admitted that he dident have much of a chance. "Savoldi is out; he was our mainstay. Then on the way out we lost our fullback by illness. We have gone through a tough season, and we just couldent stay on edge so long. The Boys had to have a let down. I have asked too much of them this season with the terrible schedule they had, and it just is not in human beings to keep up their pace till now. We have got to lose, and we want to lose to you in preference to anybody else. Its a long train trip out here. Its much warmer here than back home, and the heat is against the boys, but we will just give you the best we got. But I dont possibly see how we can win, in the shape we are in."

Now what other coach on earth could give such a straightforward talk as that, and not have every word swallowed hook, line and sinker? Then get this last line he gave us that night before, "Now there is going to be a lot of heart-aches tomorrow afternoon after that game. Great big strong young men are coming into the dressing rooms and break down and cry. But my boys can take it a little easier because they dont expect to win, they have steeled themselves to the defeat."

Got California's Goat.

Well here we are all packed in the stands, really pitying those poor boys from back there, and hoping that the California boys wouldent seriously hurt any of them running over them on the way to the goal posts. Well on the very first play California fumbled. Well from then on it was just too bad. You never saw a team beaten so cool and deliberate like. Notre Dame huddled for a change, and when they come out of it they would walk as slow to their places, and that got poor Cal's goat. They finished by Notre Dame beating 27-0. It wasent the score, it was the deliberate and mechanical way they did it, it was a machine doing things where the others were trying with their hands.

And here was a great thing he did, as each one of his Stars that would be taken out of the game in the last half and it was their last game for Notre Dame, he would jump up from the bench and go out and meet him and hug him, you could just see the affection that he had for each one, and it was conveyed to that whole audience. I will never forget when little Carideo, (perhaps the greatest field general that ever played football) left the field. He had played a whale of a game, handled his team uncanny. There is a lot of drama in a player like that leaving the field for his last time as a College player. I think Rockne pulled him out just to get him that great hand as he left the Stadium. Well when old "Rock" went out to put his arms around that little Cariedo and walked him off the field, it wasnt an ovation, it was hurricane.

We dident know then what we was looking at. We thought it was the exit of another great Quarterback. But we was looking at the exit of Knute Rockne. He was hugging his last Player, fine young men all over the U. S. can feel back and cherish the hug they got on their last game from "Rock." But it was little Carideo that got the last hug. Here he was right on the crest. He had beaten the Coasts great team for a two year no defeat record for Notre Dame. But the whole of California loved him, for that night on the radio he apologised for the size of the score and said, "I had to make it big for Coach Jones will make it bigger than that against me next year." He coached Notre Dame Stars in Charity games ence or twice after that. But this was his last real Notre Dame scheduled game.

One lone Ranch Hand in Kansas was supposed to have been the sole witness to his passing. But thats not so, eighty thousand of us saw his passing out, his last game, and it will stick with us through life.

Married Women Working.

LINCOLN, Neb., April 9.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: An article in the forum signed by Mr. Mericle, seems to have provided an excuse for some person signed "Reader," to make a personal attack on him.

Just what the writer found in Mr. Mericle's article that would justify such a letter, is beyond our comprehension, since Mr. Mericle's letter was very explicit. It hardly seems possible any one could place the wrong construction on his statement.

Mr. Mericle did not sweepingly condemn all married woman workers to the ash can, or elsewhere, as the "Reader" would have us think. He did appeal to the public to clean up the "married woman menace." For which he no doubt will be commended by most right thinking people. He stated very plainly what, in his opinion constituted this menace.

His statement did not call for criticism of any married woman worker, unless the husband's earnings were $200 or more per month. Certainly this view was of such a liberal nature there could be no justification for the bitter personal attack he has been subjected to. Especially since "Reader" makes the statement her husband's earnings are considerably less than $200 a month.

I am somewhat astonished "Reader" could develop the mental condition necessary to justify the statement that Mr. Mericle would deprive any one of life, liberty, or pursuit of happiness. That he would recommend his mother go to the poor farm under any condition. Nor that he would encourage any one to sit idly by when some one was in need. No, "Reader," you have Mr. Mericle all wrong.

Had "Reader" concentrated on Mr. Mericle's statements instead of a vivid imagination, she would have no incentive or desire to heap criticism on any one, since Mr. Mericle expressed his sympathy for the married woman, who is forced to work to acquire the necessities of life. But he is not in sympathy with the married woman worker, whose husband's salary is ample to maintain a decent standard of living, yet whose wife is permitted to deprive some deserving woman of the necessities of life. And I believe Mrs. "Reader" if you will read Mr. Mericle's letter carefully you will appreciate that you just about spoke out of place.

G. W. WHEELER.

Concerning Religion.

LAMAR, Colo., April 3.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I have seen several contributed letters in The Lincoln Star condemning this and that in the Bible, saying they don't believe this and that, also making light of the virgin birth of Christ. We have a few, but very few, of our big college men who do not believe in the Bible. Jesus said, "I did not come to destroy the scriptures but to fulfill them."

Some people really think some of these high-ups know more in a minute than Jesus did in his three years of ministry. Their minds just canot grasp these wonderful truths that Jesus spoke. If any of us had been told fifty years ago a man could go down in his cellar, shut the door and not have a wire or anything else connected outside this cellar in New York City and a man could sit in Los Angeles and speak in a whisper or throw a penny in a tin pan, this man in New York could hear him whisper and could hear the penny fall in the cup, we would probably have said to take that man to the asylum before he killed some of us. But we believe that now.

If a little insignificant mind wrapped up in a little insignificant body can invent such a wonderful instrument that you can put in a half bushel measure and hide it, then why some of these Bible knockers will hold their breath in amazement at God's power. I can't understand. All I have to say to these Bible knockers is unless they change before they die, they probably will be calling to some of the ministers of God who have gone on before.

As the rich man cried to Abraham to send Lazarus to dip his finger in water and cool his parching tongue, the will probably be saying: "Oh preacher, if you can't come, send someone back to earth, I have brothers there who believe as I did. Oh please tell them to quit knocking God's Holy Word."

The preacher will probably say: "I left hundreds of men of God there. If they won't hear them, they wouldn't listen to me if I went from the dead."

If I were a United States senator, I would introduce a bill saying that any man who broadcast over the radio or lectured in any hall or building that we have no proof there is a God, would be subject to a penitentiary sentence the minimum being ten years.

That isn't what I call free speech. It is hitting at the very foundation of our government and it is ten times worse than if it were in Russia. Everyone has the right to worship God in his own way. No one has a right to broadcast over the radio to our young boys and girls that we have no proof that there is a God.

H. W. NEWMAN.

Our Swan Song.

LINCOLN, Neb., April 9.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: In the midst of a joyful acclaim by the people, the press and the radio that the Platte bottoms are to be the source of Lincoln's future water supply, allow us to venture the final comment.

It was reported to us prior to election that the undertakers were 100 per cent for Platte bottom water Yet their support alone would scarce account for such a sweeping victory for a "noble experiment."

An editorial in one of our dailies, mentioning anti-bond meetings, concludes—"while those who had their minds made up (for the Platte) stayed at home." It might have added—read their papers, including the advertising spreads and listened to Platte propaganda over their radios.

At all meetings arranged by us, Platte boosters were welcomed and speakers given time. Argumentatively speaking, they were licked; they knew it; so did the audiences.

At none of the pro-bond meetings were we invited or allowed to speak, or put up charts. Plainly we were "persona non grata." Even the air was taken from us. "Wotta life! wotta life!" And all in a free city of much culture, where stands a great capitol building and engraved over its portal we find these words: "Safety of state lies in watchfulness of its citizenry."

In the course of our arraignment against the Platte project we made statements which if true should have resulted in a defeat of the bonds and if not true should have resulted in the writer doing this stuff on a stool and as a guest of Mr. Claude Hensel.

And now we have foregathered all newspaper writings, cartoons and advertisements promoting the bonds and placed them in cold storage all wrapped in a large envelope labelled: "Book of Aladdin, vol. 2. To be opened in 1941."

NEIGHBORING WITH THE PRESIDENT

"It is strange," I remarked, "that our neighbors don't call,
Or ever once chat with us over the wall.
We've been here a week and they've never once said:
"Good night" or "Good morning,"
What's wrong with 'em, Fred?
We've been here a week and there's not been a sign
Of washing or bathing suits hung on the line.

"Policemen stand guard at the gate night and day.
Can it be that they wish to keep neighbors away?
The Briggs and the Fishers have asked us to tea.
We've talked to Jack Dempsey and kindly was he,
But these neighbors of yours who live back of the wall
Haven't shown us a neighborly spirit at all.

"I'm not grumbling about it. I'm stating the fact.
Is that how our mothers have taught us to act?
The four of us men were all trained from the start
How to neighbor with others and not be too smart,
But these strangers who live just a stone's throw away
Go in and go out and have nothing to say.

"They've never once borrowed our lawn mower there,
Or asked if we had a few eggs we could spar..
All the neighbors I've known trotted over with speed
To se if we had a good book they could read.
Do you know who they are?" And
Fred said with a grin:
"I've heard that's the house which the Hoover's are in."

QUESTION.

Glen Falls, N. Y.

Can Methodists and Congregationalists unite with Baptist churches without baptism by immersion?

ANSWER.

The particular Baptist church to which admission is sought determines the answer to your question. Contrary to common supposition, English Baptist churches did not originally insist on immersion as a condition of membership. By the middle of the seventeenth century, however, the rite was thus administered among the Calvinistic communions of that denomination, and it is now generally observed.

But every Baptist church is autonomous in government. Under this law of liberty, not a few such churches in Great Britain and our northern states receive candidates without requiring their immersion. Some would go further, and receive by sprinkling persons who had not been baptized at all.

One of the foremost living Baptist ministers received into the church his own children by sprinkling and not by immersion. But this is an unusual instance, which the majority of his devout fellow Baptists would deplore as the surrender of a vital principle. The general conclusion would seem to be that while in certain sections the mode of baptism is becoming less important for many Baptists, their main body still holds to it as essential to conscious and voluntary confession of faith in Christ.

QUESTION.

Bridgeport, Conn.

Do you think we shall ever have a calendar which brings Easter on the same day every year?

ANSWER.

The World Calendar Association, Inc., located at 485 Madison avenue, New York City, has recently published a pamphlet by Elizabeth Achelis containing a scheme for which the following advantages are claimed .It is said to be balanced in structure and perpetual in form; to stabilize all holidays and place them as a rule on Mondays; to respect religious customs, and arrange for Easter to fall regularly on a fixed date.

To achieve these results only seven changes are made in the existing calendar year. February is given two additional days; the 31st days of March, May and August are eliminated; April is given thirty-one days, and December 31 is converted into what is termed Year Day.

Ancient nations measured time by the moon's changes because its regular phases were easier to study than those of any other heavenly body. Moon calendars were divided into twelve months of thirty days each, and the day and night into twenty-four hours. But these moon changes required only 360 days. The Egyptians soon discovered the error in their calculations and added five days to the year without disturbing the twelve-month division.

Centuries later Julius Caesar conquered Egypt, and made its calendar the basis of his famous reform. The year of 365 days and 6 hours was established, and the leap year of 366 days every four years was introduced. This Julian calendar was adopted by the Romans in 45 B. C., who were then the masters of the world.

Pope Gregory XIII rectified some defects in the Julian calendar, and his revision was adopted by all Catholic countries in 1582 A. D. Germany accepted it in 1700, Great Britain and her colonies in 1752. It is this calendar with which Miss Achelis deals, and I recommend her pamphlet to your attention. It is an exceedingly interesting and scholarly bit of work.

QUESTION.

Atlanta, Ga.

What has become of the old-fashioned neighborly spirit? It looks to me as if the American people have lost consideration for others in the rush for money and pleasure. What do you think of this automobile age?

ANSWER.

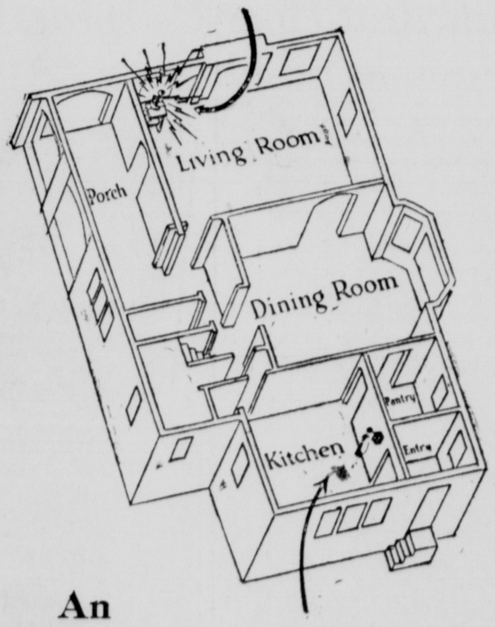

I do not agree with you that the simple virtues of self denial, consideration for others and general helpfulness have vanished. I do agree that in the recent get-rich-quick times, those virtues have hard sledding. Greed and grab did their best to stifle them. But like hope, they fall to rise, "eternal in the human breast" and suffering's resistless appeal calls them to the rescue.

Do not judge our country solely by its rabid automobilists. True, the cowardly hit and run drivers, the roadhog of various breeds, the speed maniac and the joyrider are the scum which floats on the surface of the bubbling pot of our democracy; social pests who pollute our highways and endanger life and limb. A few stiff jail sentences instead of mere fines would cramp their respective styles of reckless and criminal behavior.

But come with me or any pastor having the cure of souls to scenes of poverty, want and bereavement. There we witness daily an outpouring of sympathy and sacrifice which

THREE TALKS BY HOOVER ON AIR

Presidential Addresses During Week on Both National Chains.

Three addresses which President Hoover is scheduled to make Monday and Tuesday will be broadcast over nation-wide networks of the National and Columbia broadcasting companies. The speeches will be as follows:

Monday, from 9:30 to 10 a. m., central standard time, before the annual session of the American Red Cross, at Memorial Continental hall, Washington, D. C.

Tuesday, 11:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., Pan-American day address from Pan-American building, Washington, D. C.

Tuesday, 4:30 to 5 p. m., at fiftieth anniversary celebration of Tuskegee institute, from White house.

Speaks as Red Cross Head.

President Hoover's Red Cross address is in line with an established custom. He speaks as the head of the Red Cross. On the same program, John Barton Payne, chairman, and James L. Fieser, vice chairman of the Red Cross, also will speak.

At the Pan-American day celebration, the chief executive will be introduced to the radio by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson. Other addresses of three minutes in length will be given by Don Manuel C. Tellez, the Mexican ambassador; Senor Don Crestes Ferrara, the Cuban ambassador, and Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director-general of the Pan-American union.

On Both NBC Networks.

For the NBC broadcast of the program, President Hoover's address will be broadcast over the combined WEAF-WJZ systems. The last half of the program from 12 noon to 12:30 p. m., will be carried only over WEAF's chain. A feature of the second half hour will be an address by a Latin-American student, with a reply by a high school student of the United States.

The Tuskegee anniversary program will originate in two points, the white house and the chapel of the institute in southern Alabama. The program to be "picked up" from the south will include addresses by Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams college, and Dr. R. R. Moton, principal of Tuskegee institute. Dr. Moton will speak on Booker T. Washington, founder of the institute. The Tuskegee choir of 125 voices and the Tuskegee male quartet also will be heard during the broadcast.

Caruso's Daughter

Gloria Caruso, 11-year-old daughter of the famous operatic tenor, will make a radio appearance next week. She will open a series of talks under auspices of the American Child Health association, speaking on what she thinks of May day and child health over the Columbia network Thursday at 4 p. m., central time. She will be introduced by her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Benjamin Caruso.

BATTERY RADIO SETS DECREASE

Give Way to All-Electric Devices, Says Official of Stromsberg-Carlson.

"The old-fashioned battery radio set continues to be steadily relegated to that state of desuetude in which efficient motor car transportation has placed the horse-drawn vehicle," says George A. Scoville, vice president of the Stromsberg-Carlson Telephone Manufacturing Co.

"The battery set is giving way every day to the improved all-electric device," he says, "principally because in the last few years, both the purchase price and maintenance cost of all-electric receivers have greatly decreased, while the quality of reception in high-grade non-battery sets has vastly improved."

With the advent of full electric operation the upkeep of a receiver has become decidedly more economical. No longer is there the cost of new storage batteries, nor charging these batteries, nor of replacing B batteries—a total which ran perhaps $50 or more a year. In the electric set the only cost, aside from tube renewal on rare occasions, is the negligible charge for the current. This current is used only when the set is turned on, whereas batteries depreciate even when idle.

The higher amplifying power and the increased durability of radio tubes are a further contribution to economy. For a given current consumption the screen grid tube of today gives much greater sound output than any former type.

Newest Radio "Find" Again to Broadcast

May Questel, songbird and impersonator, made such a hit when she broadcast in the Pleasure hour last March 18, that she again will be guest star in the Pleasure hour next Wednesday evening. This program is broadcast over WJZ and stations, including WLW, KYW, and KOA, from 8:30 to 9:30 p. m., central time, and is repeated for another WJZ hookup, including KFAB, from 10:15 to 11:15 p. m.

ASK PERMIT FOR STATION AT YORK

A. L. Beghtol, president of the KFAB Broadcasting company, and Dietrich Dirks, manager of station KFAB, have applied to the federal radio commission for a construction permit to build a new radio station at York, with 1,000 watts daytime and 500 watts night power. They have asked to use a frquency of 930 kilocycles, sharing time with KMA, Shenandoah, Ia.

This channel has been occupied by KGBZ, York, which was refused renewal of its license by the commission. Should KGBZ's appeal for continuance of operation, however, be received favorably, the application of KFAB would be dropped. According to Mr. Beghtol, it is not planned to buy KGBZ's equipment, but to construct an entirely new plant.

Mr. Dirks, who appeared before the commission in Washington last week, will return to Lincoln within a few days.

Ball Stars on Air

Four baseball stars will give their views of what the big league season may develop over WJZ and stations, probably including KFAB, Monday at 6:45 o'clock, central time. The players will be Babe Ruth, Hack Wilson, Lefty Grove and Dazzy Vance.

Plan Second Drama.

Valentine Williams of London and his wife, Alice Crawford, who co-starred last week in an NBC presentation of their story, "Moon Maiden," will broadcast another play, "King's Messenger," Tuesday, April 21.

YANKEE-RED SOX GAME ON RADIO

Networks to Broadcast New York's Opening Baseball Contest.

The opening game of the 1931 major league baseball season in New York, between the Yankees and the Boston Red Sox, will be described over networks of the National and Columbia broadcasting companies Tuesday afternoon. Graham McNamee will announce the event for the NBC, assisted by George Hicks, while Ted Husting will be at the microphone for the Columbia chain.

The broadcast of the game will begin at 2:15 p. m., central standard time, but the National chain will go on the air at 1:45 p. m. with a half-hour preliminary description of the flag-raising and other ceremonies.

Two field generals new to American league baseball fans will be introduced to the radio during the program. These are Joe McCarthy, recently appointed manager of the Yankees, and John "Shano" Collins, new leader of the Boston Red Sox. Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Herb Pennock and other Yankee stars will speak over the air, as will several other notables participating in the pre-game ceremonies.

Anniversary of Great San Francisco Fire to Be Commemorated on Air

A one-hour broadcast over sixty-five stations of the Columbia network Saturday from 8 to 9 p. m., central standard time, will commemorate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the great San Francisco fire. The program has been arranged by the Board of Fire Underwriters of the Pacific in co-operation with the national board.

William Butterworth, president of the United States chamber of commerce, will give an address from Washington, D. C. after the United States Navy band has opened the broadcast with "California, Here I Come." Then the origination point of the program will be switched to San Francisco, where the Blue Goose glee club will be heard.

Thomas H. Anderson, president of the Board of Fire Underwriters of the Pacific, will introduce Governor James Rolph, jr. of California, and Mayor Angelo J. Rossi of San Francisco. B. H. Gearhart, commander of the California division of the American Legion, also will speak.

Gets "Mike" Fright

When Lily Pons, French dramatic soprano, faced the microphone last Sunday for her radio debut over WEAF'S network, she exclaimed: "That machine—I'm afraid of it!" Her program over, she had changed her mind, for she said: "It wasn't terrifying after all."

Five Nebraska Stations Stayed Within Frequencies In February

WASHINGTON BUREAU
THE LINCOLN STAR

WASHINGTON, April 11—Three Nebraska radio stations were unusually well-behaved during February, never operating in excess of 100 cycles from their allotted wave lengths, the federal radio commission has announced. Two other Nebraska stations stayed within 200 cycles of their frequencies.

WOW, Omaha; KMMJ, Clay Center, and KGFW, Ravenna, are the Nebraska stations which stayed within 100 cycles of their broadcasting bands, while KFOR, Lincoln, and WJAG, Norfolk, are the stations within the 200-cycle deviation. Other radio stations in the state may have been just as carefully operated during the month, since all stations of the country are not tested each month. Only 367 stations of the 612 in the United States were tested during February.

The federal radio commission at present allows a deviation of 500 cycles, but is considering its tolerance of frequency transgression, which causes static and interference, to 50 cycles. The commission conducts monthly tests at its supermonitoring station at Grand Island, Neb., and at six other monitor stations. Three new monitors on the Pacific coast joined the present seven for the March testings.

Improvement Is Seen.

The commission believes that throughout the country there is a steady increase in the number of stations keeping well within their allotted wave-lengths. During February 27 per cent of the 36q stations measured under 100 cycles, as against 15 per cent in January, and 10½ per cent in December, 1930. Among stations over the 200 mark, there were 58 per cent in February as against 56½ per cent in January and 70 per cent in December, 1930. The 367 stations were checked 5,328 times day and night for the February testings.

DROP OF PIN IS HEARD BY "MIKE"

The broadcast of the drop of a pin was made last week over an NBC network during a talk by O. H. Caldwell, former radio commissioner, in which he discussed radio broadcasting.

It was done in this manner: A supersensitive microphone was used. A sheet of paper was placed over the mouthpiece, held upright, and the pin dropped on the paper from inches above with a terrific thud something like the crash of a steel girder.

During a microphone rehearsal of the pin drop an engineer pulled a hair out of his head and scraped it across the microphone to demonstrate the sensitiveness of the instrument. In the speaker the hair sounded like a scratchy pen.

Cathedral Hour Celebrates Third Anniversary On Air; Famous Bandmasters Appear In Gala Memorial Concert

THE Cathedral hour, which has been broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting system every Sunday since the second week in April, 1928, will celebrate its third anniversary Sunday from 1 to 2 p. m., central standard time, with a performance of Haydn's "Imperial Mass." Channon Collinge will direct.

In more than 150 broadcasts, Collinge has carried out the idea of presenting for Sunday radio audiences a program which incorporates all the features of a full cathedral service in music, without any spoken passages.

The "Imperial Mass," written soon after Haydn's travels in France and England, is a more mature work than the ten masses that preceded it, and shows the impression made upon him by contact with other schools of composition. But it remains essentially true to his own conception of a sturdy, joyous type of religious music, distinguished by his devoutness of feeling.

The Cathedral choir and symphonic orchestra will be heard in the presentation with the following soloists: Adele Vasa, soprano; Barbara Maurel, contralto; Theo Karle, tenor, and Crane Calder, bass.

400 Musicians In Band.

A mammoth concert in which 400 delegates to the second annual convention of the American Bandmasters' association will participate will be broadcast over WJZ and stations Sunday from 3:45 to 9:15 p. m. The concert, which is the closing feature of the association's convention in Boston, is presented in honor of Patrick Sarsfield Gilmore, generally conceded to be father of concert bands.

Various bandmasters will wield the baton during the memorial program, most of them conducting their own compositions. Among these will be Edwin Franko Goldman, Leo Sowerby, Richard B. Hayward, Carl Busch, Henry Hadley and Percy Grainger. John Philip Sousa, who is permanent president of the association, probably will direct a selection or two during the part of the concert to be broadcast.

Audition Winners In Series.

The Audition quartet, a group composed of winners of past national radio auditions, will inaugurate a series of concerts beginning Sunday evening over WEAF'S network from 8:15 to 8:45 o'clock. The quartet is composed of the following: Agnes Davis, former Denver soprano and winner of the first national audition in 1927, who is now a member of the Philadelphia Grand Opera company; Hazel Arth, Washington, D. C., contralto, winner of the second audition in 1928; Wilbur Evans, bass-baritone of Philadelphia, winner of the 1927 men's audition, and Edward Austen Kane, young Kentucky tenor, winner of the third national audition in 1929.

In addition to the ensemble numbers, solos will be offered each week by one of the group. Edward Austen Kane will be soloist in Sunday's program, assisted by an orchestra under Josef Pasternack's direction. Details follow:

March, The Golden Voice (Pryor), orchestra; Three Irish songs, a. The Low Back Car, b. Oft in the Stilly Night, c. The Harp that Once Rang Through Tara's Halls, quartet with orchestra; Only a Rose, from "The Vagabond King" (Friml), tenor solo, Edward Austen Kane; Oh That We Two Were Maying (Nevin); Agnes Davis, soprano, Hazel Arth, contralto, and orchestra; Swing Low Sweet Chariot (spiritual), quartet with piano; Two Hearts in Waltz Time (Stolts), orchestra; Excerpts from "The Red Mill" (Herbert), orchestra with solo and duet interludes by members of quartet.

Roxy Concerts Resumed.

The special concerts of the augmented Roxy Symphony orchestra will be resumed over the combined WEAF-WJZ networks Sunday morning from 10:30 to 11:45 o'clock, Erno Rapee directs the following program:

Fingal's Cave (Mendelssohn), Nocturne and Scherzo, from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" (Mendelssohn), Ein Heldenleben (Richard Strauss).

Honor Youthful Composer.

Abram Chasins, 28-year-old New Yorker, will be the first young American composer to be honored by Arturo Toscanini, when the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra presents two of his works Sunday afternoon over the Columbia network. Details for the program, which is broadcast from 2 to 4 p. m., follow:

Overture to "The Bartered Bride" (Smetana), Symphony in F, Opus 10 (Szostakowicz), orchestra; Description of music by Olin Downes; Flirtation in a Chinese Garden (Chasins), Parade (Chasins), Suite from "The Snow Maiden" (Rimsky-Korsakoff), Overture to "The Flying Dutchman" (Wagner), orchestra.

Broadcast From London.

A program of Wagnerian music, originating in Queen's hall, London, and relayed across the Atlantic by short wave, is scheduled for American listeners Wednesday afternoon, according to arrangements between the British Broadcasting corporation and National Broadcasting company. Atmospheric conditions permitting, the broadcast will be carried over WEAF'S network from 3:05 to 3:30 p. m.

James Melton Guest Soloist.

James Melton, tenor of the Revelers male quartet, will be guest in the orchestral concert directed by Nathaniel Shilkret over WEAF'S network Wednesday from 7:30 to 8 p. m. The program:

Selections from "Maytime" (Romberg), orchestra and James Melton, tenor; The Lonesome Whistler (Guion), Harmonica Player (Guion), orchestra; Hills of Home (Fox), tenor solo, James Melton; Jeannine, I Dream of Lilac Time (Shilkret), Chinese Lullaby (Bowers), Chinese Fantasy (Deppen), orchestra; Selections from "The Rogue Song" (Stothart-Lehar), James Melton, tenor, and orchestra.

Carol Deis, soprano, and Raol Nadeau, baritone—winners of the fourth national radio audition last fall—will be guest artists in the "Garden Party" program over WEAF's network Sunday afternoon from 2:30 to 3 o'clock, central time. Mr. Nadeau will open the program with a group of selections, "Vale" by Russell, Guion's "De Ol' Ark's A-Moverin," and Clay's "Gypsy John." Miss Deis will sing Rudolf Friml's "Indian Love Call," "Trees" by Rasbach, and "Italian Street Song" from Victor Herbert's "Naughty Marietta." The program will close with a duet by the two winners, "Love's Old Sweet Song."

Huge Chorus In Virginia Festival.

A chorus of 1,000 voices, gathered from all parts of Virginia, will sing Schubert's Mass in E Flat over WEAF'S network from the University of Virginia campus at Charlottesville Thursday afternoon from 2:30 to 3:30 o'clock. The chorus will be the largest group of specially trained voices ever to broadcast, and will be accompanied by the Manhattan Symphony orchestra.

The chorus has been recruited from Virginia musical societies and has been rehearsing for several months. The broadcast will be a part of the four-day program of the Virginia State Choral Festival association. The festival begins Tuesday, April 14, the birthday of Thomas Jefferson, founder and planner of the University of Virginia.

Mario Chamlee Returns to Air.

Mario Chamlee, operatic and concert tenor, will be guest artist in the concert over WJZ and stations, including WLW, KYW and KOA, Thursday from 8:30 to 9 p. m. The noted Metropolitan opera star will sing his selections in English, accompanied by Rudolph Thomas, pianist. Don Voorhees will direct the following program:

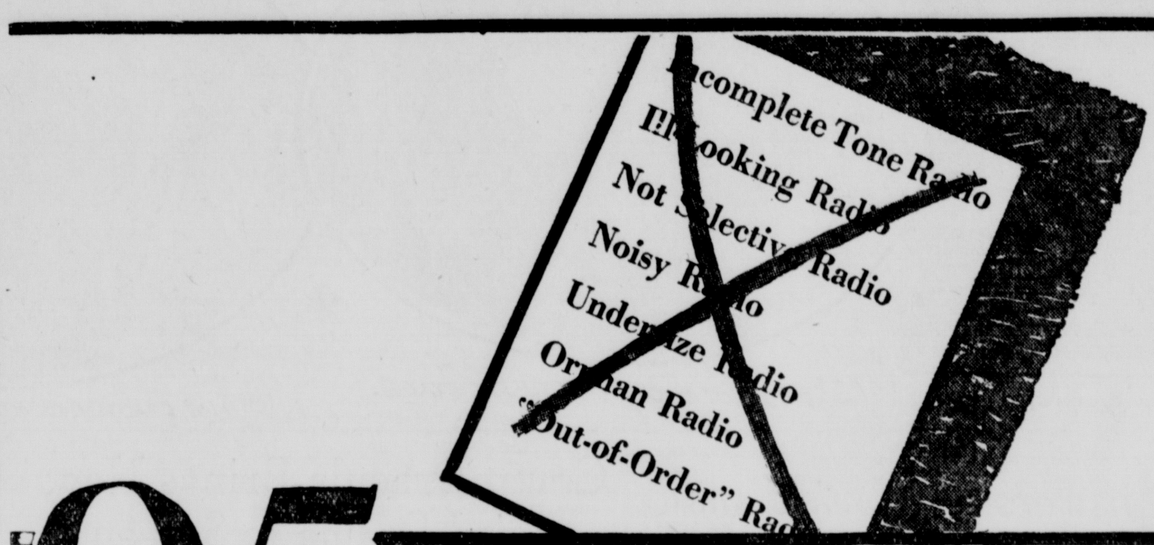

Allah's Holiday (Friml), orchestra; Then You'll Remember Me, from "The Bohemian Girl" (Balfe), Mattinata (Leoncavallo), Dreams of Long Ago (Caruso), tenor solos, Mario Chamlee; Caprice Viennois (Kreisler), orchestra with Lou Raderman, violinist; Call Me No More (Cadman), Only a Rose, from "The Vagabond King" (Friml), tenor solos, Mario Chamlee; Marlequin's Serenade (Marino), orchestra.

Fordham Glee Club Featured.

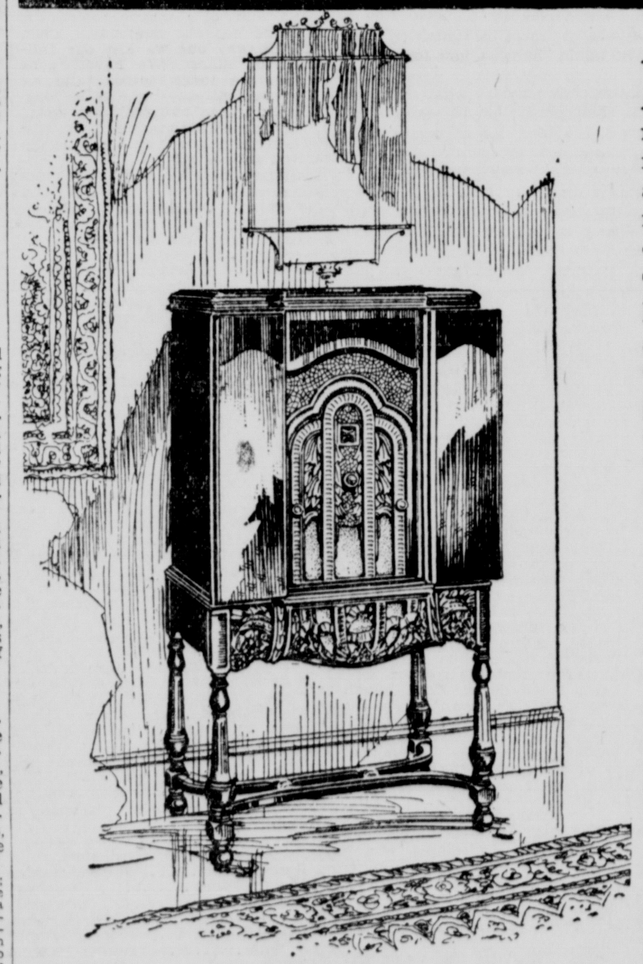

The Fordham university glee club of sixty voices will broadcast a half-hour recital over WEAF'S chain Saturday afternoon from 1:30 to 2 o'clock. Dr. Frederick Joslyn will direct the group, which ranks as one of the leading eastern glee clubs. Selections to be sung follow:

We Meet Again (Coe), In Picardie (Osgood), Serenade (Haydn-Schultz), Adoramus Te (Asula), Feasting I Watch (Elgar), Fordham Marching Song (Breslin), Alma Mater Fordham (Joslyn), The Fordham Ram (Coveney), Echo Song (Di Lasso), Keep in de Middle of de Road (arr. Bartholomew), Shenandoah (arr. Bartholomew), Fireflies (arr. Davidson), The Unknown Soldier (Schubert).

95 Makes of Radio discarded by Stromberg-Carlson Purchasers . . .

No. 11 "Convertible" Console. A unique radio convertible into a Radio-Phonograph for the reproduction of records electrically. Walnut finish.

Listen to the Stromberg-Carlson Hour Monday Evenings in a Coast-to-Coast Broadcast of the Rochester Civic Orchestra over the NBC Blue Network and Associated Stations.

"There is nothing finer than a Stromberg-Carlson"

MORE than half the present owners of Stromberg-Carlsons were not novices at owning radio. They had previously owned one or more radios of other makes. It was also brought out by a recent research that this 52% of experienced radio owners had discarded 95 different makes of radio to buy Stromberg-Carlsons.

This questionnaire sent to thousands of Stromberg-Carlson owners also showed, that whether an owner is enjoying his fourth Stromberg-Carlson, whether he has owned the same one going on seven years or whether he bought one last month—each is equally satisfied that he couldn't find a receiver equal to his.

92% said they wouldn't even consider changing to another make.

4% have owned their sets six years or more.
10½% have owned their sets five years or more.
24% have owned their sets four years or more.
55% have owned their sets three years or more.
84% have owned their sets two years or more.

We asked thousands of our owners just the questions you would ask a friend if considering buying the make of radio he owned: How long have you owned your set? How many models of this make have you owned? How many makes had you owned previously? Would you consider changing to any other make?

Before you buy ANY radio receiver ask a Stromberg-Carlson dealer for a free copy of Bulletin No. 10 which clearly illustrates the actual range of every musical instrument and type of human voice which a radio must reproduce in order that you can get the most out of the fine broadcasts that you deserve from your radio.

Stromberg-Carlson unsurpassed quality Receivers range in price from $155 to $369. The Multi-Record Radio (automatic radio-phonograph combination, electrical), $645. (Prices, less tubes.) They may be purchased with moderate down payment out of income.

Answers to Movie Fans

Dear Movie Editor—Another new face to the fore, so I'll have to pester you again. I saw "Hell's Angels" and would like to know something about Jean Harlow. She's a newcomer, isn't she? I've never seen her before at any rate. I got the impression somewhere that Greta Nissen was going to play in the picture. How come that she did not? Will you kindly tell me a few facts concerning Miss Harlow? Anything that you may have concerning her, including the color of her hair and eyes, and whether or not she is married. I'll not keep the line any longer this time. Sincerely, RUTHIE.

Her First Picture.

Jean is most decidedly a newcomer. "Hell's Angels" was her first picture. She is Hollywood's newest Cinderella. She has only been in the film city a year, but the role in "Hell's Angels" was one of the best of the season's offerings, and she won it from scores of old seasoned actresses who were given voice and screen tests. Jean was appearing as an extra in a Clara Bow picture when she tried out for the role.

Miss Harlow was born on March 3, 1911 at Kansas City, Mo. She attended the Barstow School there and later went to Chicago where she graduated from Ferry Hall, an exclusive girl's school at Lake Forest, Ill.

Following her graduation, Jean went to Hollywood to seek a place on the screen. She is striking looking with her platinum blonde hair, and her voice is said to be peculiarly suited to the talking screen. She has been married, but recently secured a divorce from her husband.

Agrees With Just Ducking.

Dear Movie Editor—Like so many of the Fans, I have to come to say that I approve of "Just Ducking" and heartily agree with her.

I would like to ask you what a

Count Dracula Brings New Weird Drama to Screen At Stuart for Coming Week

Dracula

Count Dracula	Bela Lugosi
John Harker	David Manners
Mina Seward	Helen Chandler
Renfield	Dwight Frye
Dr. Van Helsing	Edward Van Sloan
Dr. Seward	Herbert Bunston
Lucy Weston	Frances Dade
Martin	Charles Gerrard
Briggs	Joan Standing
Maid	Moon Carroll
English Nurse	Josephine Velez

Out of all that fogs and eery clouds and mists can do for a background, out of mad houses and cellars has been created a mystery thriller, which has left most of the others a step and a half behind. No trusted friend, no inquiring detective, no clever officer is the death- and- destruction element in the Stuart's picture for this week, but a vampire living five centuries beyond its death, coming from the grave only for the nights, to wreak his terrible vengeance, and incidentally to make all the hairs of all the heads of all the audiences shoot upright.

Count Dracula is a strange 'undead' figure, neither alive nor dead, whom daylight sends back to his temporary death. Sensationally different, weird, and startling, is this story of the count, apparently a polished gentleman, but in reality a bloodthirsty creature, seeking to destroy. Driving his victims to insanity, one following the other, he at length centers his attentions on a beautiful girl, whom only science can save from his threats, for his kisses mean death, even though it brings him life. Roaming the night, this sinster figure is the center of the strangest passion the world has ever known, coming from a musty castle to walk alone in the night, to destroy men and women—and to haunt one.

Three of First Cast.

The cast includes three players who were in the original and very successful stage production, Bela Lugosi, Edward Van Sloan, and Herbert Bunston. It was directed by Tod Browning, who guided many of Lon Chaney's most successful pictures.

"Hot Feet," on the stage, has a cast of five colored dancers. They present a wide assortment of dances, with tap and soft shoe in the fore, boht emphasized by speed.

Brooks and Rush are the "Clean-Ups," a new comedy with many a laugh in the few minutes they are on the stage. Their act is a cross-fire of fun, with a liberal supply of songs and dances mixed in with the comedy.

SCREEN SIFTINGS.

Toomey Opposite Clara.— Regis Toomey has been cast as Clara Bow's ex-convict husband in her new Paramount feature, "Kick In." Regis has just completed a major role opposite Richard Barthelmess in "The Finger Points."

Skippy.

Skippy Skinner	Jackie Cooper
Sooky Wayne	Robert Coogan
Eloise	Mitzi Green
Sidney	Jackie Searl
Dr. Herbert Skinner	Willard Robertson
Mrs. Ellen Skinner	Enid Bennet
Harley Nubbins	Donald Haines
Mrs. Wayne	Helen Jerome Eddy
Dog-Catcher Nubbins	Jack Clifford
Dad Burkey	Guy Oliver

You've seen him in the news paper's comic strips — now meet him in person on the Lincoln screen this week — Mr. Skippy Skinner, age six, very inventive, very lively, very irrepressible. The talkies have given another gift to the youngsters in "Skippy," the great little kid of printed forms coming forth as a moving, talking, whistling youngster, but they've done more than that, they've made a picture that the children will have a hard time to view because all the oldsters will have the seats.

Young Skippy lived on the right side of the tracks—wasn't his father the health officer? But there was a wrong side of the tracks, of doubtful gentility, but of undoubted fascination to Dr. Skinner's Skippy. Sooky, his favorite pal, lives among the ash heaps of Shanty Town, where Eloise follows and Penny a little dog, gambols while old scraps are settled and new ones found by the gang. Dr. Skinner thinks little of this part of the village, and his hard-hearted decrees have a good bit to do with the story much to Skippy's sorrow, but when Dad sees the light, then the delightful young man that is Skippy must brag about him.

Eight or nine years ago—or was it a decade, Charlie Chaplin presented "The Kid" to a world that immediately adored him—Jackie Coogan, then, by name. A replica of that Jackie, too-big cap, baggy sweater, big eyes, little-boy chin, but this time — Robert Coogan —the kid's brother. He is Sooky from over the tracks, and he makes his debut as Skippy's pal.

Not Exactly Gentlemen.

Bull Stanley	Victor McLaglen
Lee Carleton	Fay Wray
Ace Beaudry	Lew Cody
Bronco Dawson	Eddie Gribbon
Layne Hunter	Robert Warwick
Nelson	Franklyn Farnum
Bruce	David Worth
Bull's Girl	Carol Wines
Ace's Girl	Joyce Compton
Bronco's Girl	Louise Huntington
Marshall Dunn	James Farley

The background of "Not Exactly Gentlemen" isn't so far from home, for it features the Dakota land rush, when that territory was opened to homesteaders. The gambler, the horse thief, and the bad man met and joined forces for this picture, to be seen at the Colonial the last half of the week. Headed for Dakota and gold, they find Lee Carleton in the wagon train, a girl alone going into the rush, with a mine location map in her pocket. They had designs on the map, but though they weren't exactly gentlemen, a charming girl was too much for their plans, and they turned out to be just big hearted bad men on the loose, a trio of black sheep turned white because she smiled at them.

"My Past."

Dora Macy	Bebe Daniels
Robert Byrne	Ben Lyon
John Thornley	Lewis Stone
Marian Moore	Joan Blondell
Consuelo Byrne	Natalie Moorehead
Lionel Reich	Albert Gran
Miss Taft	Virginia Sale
Mrs. Bennett	Daisy Belmore

Well, this may be "My Past" for Bebe Daniels' screen purposes, but it is certainly a part of her present, too, for Ben Lyon is the other half of the Daniels' household in real life. Ben spent so many years with "Hell's Angels" that he was almost lost to pictures, but in this initial appearance with his wife he's the Ben of old, a very satisfactory partner in a picture with a theme that isn't so modern, or novel, perhaps, but which has an unusual twist. "My Past" comes to the Orpheum for the week.

The private life of a stage star is revealed in this picture. In her role as an alluring woman of the world, loved by two men, and loving both of them, with a difference. Miss Daniels has an unusually colorful role. Ben Lyon and Lewis Stone are partners in business, but not in love, for both would have the hand. Her past they accepted, considered it slightly, if at all, but to Dora Macy it was a very real thing. Beautiful and sought after as she was, yet she hated men, and all because of a secret of the gone past.

The picture is a dramatization of a novel, said to be an autobiography, but written anonymously. She is torn between past happiness, which sometimes means present regret, and the desire for future joy, whinch she finds means present regret, and the desire for future joy, which she finds means but one thing. But whether or not a woman with 'My Past' 'can have an unclouded future is a part of the tale of this drama.

Common Clay.

Ellen Neal	Constance Bennett
Hugh Fullerton	Lew Ayres
W. H. Yates	Tully Marshall
Bud Coakley	Matty Kemp
Mrs. Neal	Beryl Mercer
Judge Filson	Hale Hamilton
Richard Fullerton	Purnell B. Pratt
Anne Fullerton	Ada Williams
Edwards	Charles McNaughton
Mrs. Fullerton	Genevieve Blinn

With the talented Constance Bennett in a gripping story of a pleasure-living girl whose mistakes and subsequent attempts to redeem herself bring about poignant drama, the Colonial has one of the outstanding plays of the year for Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. A girl of "common clay," who becomes the plaything of forces too strong for her and whose efforts toward rehabilitation and happiness only entangle her more deeply, froms the plot. Learning of the dangers of her speakeasy job, she turns to a more respectable occupation, only to find that it, too, has dangers and pitfalls, and that she is involved in an apparently hopeless fight for justice, because the past has turns and is not a straight, clear road.

Screen Siftings

Work on Barthelmess Film—The camera work has been completed on Richard Barthelmess' latest starring production, "The Finger Points." The picture is adapted from an original story by John Monk Saunders. Mr. Saunders was also responsible for "The Dawn Patrol" in which Mr. Barthelmess starred. In "The Finger Points," The star takes the part of a young southern newspaper man who becomes involved in the gang activities of a northern city. Fay Wray, who in private life is the wife of John Monk Saunders, plays opposite Mr. Barthelmess in the picture.

Former Stars Returning— Enid Bennett and Helen Jerome Eddy, who were prominent on the screen several years ago, are playing important character roles in "Skippy," which Paramount is producing from Percy Crosby's cartoon strip.

Screen Siftings

Miss Young Switches Role—Loretta Young has been assigned the leading role opposite Walter Huston in his forthcoming First National picture, "Upper Underworld." Rose Hobart will take the role in "We Three" for which Miss Young was originally slated. Prominent in the supporting cast with Mr. Huston and Miss Young are such names as Doris Kenyon, Didley Digges, David Manners and John Halliday. The picture will go into production under the direction of Roland V. Lee.

Fay Will Be Gigolo—"Poor Gigolo," which is selected as Frank Fay's next starring featvre for Worner Brothers, is expected to give Mr. Fay one of the most spectacular characterizations of his career. His role is that of a Parisian gigolo who falls in love with a beautiful American girl. The picture will go into production at an early date. Mr. Fay's latest complete picture is "God's Gift to Women."

Daddy Bennett Signs— Richard Bennett, veteran stage star, is not going to leave all the screen fame to his popular daughters, Constance, Joan and Barbara. Mr. Bennett has signed for a leading character role in Marion Davies' new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "Five and Ten." He will take the part of John Rarick, the millionaire father of Miss Davies. The mother role will be played by Irene Rich. Leslie Howard is the leading man. Robert Z. Leonard is directing the picture version of Fannie Hurst's novel.

Has Lead Role

W. Zolley Lerner is to have the leading character role of "Bird in Hand," to be given by the University Players all this week in the Temple theater. This comedy, written by John Drinkwater, will conclude the Players' most successful season.

UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA SCHOOL OF MUSIC

Herbert Gray will play a group of solos Sunday evening at the annual musicians' party at the Stuart theater.

Vera Augusta Upton, accompanied by Edith B. Ross, sang for the naturalization program at the Chamber of Commerce last Saturday noon.

Alma Wagner will give a program of modern American songs at the meeting of the Musical art club Monday.

The University of Nebraska school of music is greatly interested in getting in touch with all former students. To this end, Howard Kirkpatrick is sending out a letter which he hopes will reach all interested. In this letter there is considerable information concerning changes which have taken place in the school. Any one seeing this notice, but not receiving this letter should write to the secretary for information.

May 2 Walter Stultz of Northwestern university will be in the city, at which time he will address a meeting of Pi Kappa Lambda.

Herbert Gray will judge the district music contest in Wayne, Saturday.

Mr. Kirkpatrick, delegate to Pi Kappa Lambda convention held in Chicago April 3, reports a successful meeting. Many questions concerning the best method of electing new members to Pi Kappa Lambda were discussed.

Marguerite Klinker and Genevieve Wilson gave the following program for two pianos at the Thursday afternoon hour over KFAB:

Blanche Childers, violin student with Carl Steckelberg, and Beth Miller, student with Edith Ross and Earnest Harrison, gave a program before the Kiwanis club April 3.

There will be a recital program Wednesday afternoon, May 27, by the theater orchestra class under the direction of Don Gordon Berry. The program will consist entirely of original orchestration numbers, produced by the members of Mr. Berry's division of orchestration.

Josephine Berggren, student with Herbert Schmidt, was heard in a group of piano solos at the Alpha Phi alumnae club meeting at Omaha last Saturday.

The Warfel clarinet quartet, directed by Harry Warfel, appeared last Sunday evening on a program at the First Christian church. The quartet also played at the Wesleyan convocation Wednesday and at the home of Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Hilton Friday afternoon.

Don Berry was judge for the high school music contest held at Red Oak, Ia., last week.

Ruth Martin, student with Miss Klinker, and Mildred Johnson, student with Mrs. Lillian Polley, gave a short musical program at a meeting of the Hall-in-the-Grove club at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Hilton Friday afternoon.

Audrey Reed, student with Mrs. Polley, sang a group of Schubert songs on the guest program of the Matinee Musicale Monday afternoon.

Alice Wing, supervisor of music at Pierce, was a visitor at the school of music last week. Miss Wing was a student with Earnest Harrison last year.

Dr. Stiles, student with Bertha Aydlotte, sang at the Hawthorne church Easter.

Howard O. Miller, baritone student with Mary Hall Thomas, was soloist in the "Seven Last Words" by Dubois for the Temple Baptist church Sunday evening. He also sang with the First Presbyterian church choir Friday evening and Sunday morning. Lester H. Rumbaugh, bass, sang last Friday evening and Sunday with the First Plymouth Congregational church choir. Harold Hollingsworth, also a student with Mrs. Thomas, was soloist in the "Holy City" by Gaul, given by the combined church choirs at York Sunday evening.

The following students appeared on the weekly recital Wednesday afternoon at Morrill hall: Phyllis Ann Thompson, student with Herbert Schmidt; Mildred Johnson, student with Lillian Polley; Viola Curry, student with Mary Hall Thomas; Elizabeth Webster, student with Mr. Steckelberg; Marian Stamp, student with Earnest Harrison; Dorothy Madden, student with Alma Wagner; Marian Wolfe, student with Herbert Gray.

Beatrice Torgerson of the class of Howard Kirkpatrick will give a senior recital for the bachelor of fine arts degree this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Temple theater. Her program follows:

In the Silence of Night—Rachmaninoff.
The Crying of Water—Campbell-Tipton.
May Day Carol—Taylor.
The Wind's in the South—Scott.
Earnest Harrison, accompanist.

Ruth Martin, student with Marguerite Klinker, will play her senior recital for the degree of bachelor of music this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Temple theater. The program follows:

Pastorale—Corelli-Godowsky.
Prelude and Fugue, D minor, Book II—Bach.
Sonata, Op. 10, No. 2: Allegro, Allegretto, Presto—Beethoven.
La vallee des cloches—Ravel.
The Pensive Spinner—Ganz.
The Dance of Puck; Minstrels—Debussy.
Etude, Op. 25, No. 7; Impromptu, Op. 36—Chopin.
Du bist die Ruh'—Schubert-Liszt.
Fruhlingsnacht—Schumann-Liszt.

Mildred Mayborn, student with Edith B. Ross, will appear in a graduation recital in organ for the Bachelor of fine arts degree at the Church of the Redeemer, Twelfth and D streets, Wednesday evening at 8:15 o'clock. Her program is as follows:

Sonata No. 1: Allegro moderato, e serioso; Adagio; Andante; Allegro assai vivace.
Praeludium und Fuge in A-Moll—Bach.
Canon in b minor—Schumann-Bonnet.
LLa amoDiselle Elue—Debussy.
The Bells of St. Anne de Beaupre, Gathering of the faithful—chanting of the choir "Bonne St. Anne, prier pour nous"—the procession—the Miracle—benediction—bells in distance.—Russell.

Concert Overture in c minor—Hollins.

Jack Wheelock, tenor, accompanied by Beth Miller, presented the program for the Kiwanis club Friday noon.

THE ROBBINS VOICE-PIANO STUDIOS.

Edith Lucille Robbins spoke to the Organists' guild Saturday noon at the chamber of commerce on "An Inspiration From Years in Europe." Miss Robbins illustrated the lecture with pictures of music and art centers on the continent, personally collected. The following countries were reviewed from the cultural attractions: England, Holalnd, Germany, France, Italy, Austria, Switzerland. The grand operas to be heard this summer in Munich, Salzburg, Bayreuth and Vienna were outlined.

Ruth Randall, student with Floyd Robbins, will present a Bach group at the Temple theater in the public recital scheduled for April 23, from the University of Nebraska school of fine arts.

Orchestras led by J. L. Heilman and Gladys Loetterle were competitors for scohol honors in the district contest this past week at Geneva.

J. L. Heilman, accompanied by Ruth Randall, presented a recital program, assisted by musical groups from the Hickman schools at Hickman, Tuesday evening.

NEBRASKA FEDERATION OF MUSIC CLUBS CONTESTS.

Much interest is being manifested in th eninth biennial contests for Nebraska, sponsored by the National Federation of Music clubs. The Nebraska contestants in the junior, student and young artist divisions will meet in Norfolk May 8 and 9, Friday and Saturday, for the auditions. Each contestant will receive the original criticisms of the judges. The winners in the young artists divisions, including voice, piano, organ, cello and violin, will represent Nebraska in the district contests to be held in Cheyenne. District winners will compete at San Francisco in the national contests, held there in June. The time limit for enrollment is two weeks prior to the state dates. All registration blanks must be filed with the state chairman, Edith Lucille Robbins, 411 Liberty theater building, Lincoln, by April 24. The following rules govern these contests in the young artist group:

1. Each contestant must fill out and sign the official registration blank and send with the entrance fee of $10 to the state chairman, before April 24.
2. Only those who intend to follow music as a career are allowed to compete in these contests.
3. Age limits, 17 to 27, by May 1.
4. Contestants, except organists, perform entirely without words or music.

University Notes

William T. Quick, director of the university band, has accepted an ininvitation extended him by the Kansas League of Municipal Bands to conduct a concert at Concordia, Kas., May 8, in which 400 musicians will play. The concert will follow an all-day contest program by bands from ten Kansas towns. Members of all bands will join in the evening to play a program which Mr. Quick is arranging.

Dr. T. J. Thomson, dean of student affairs, has been invited to become a member of the committee on athletics of the commission on institutions of higher learning in the North Central association of colleges and secondary schools. This committee was established five years ago to study and promote a better understanding of the relationship of athletics and education.

In the current issue of Telephony, national journal of the American Telephone Co., appears an article on "Researches in the Field of Vocational Analysis," by Dr. Charles Fordyce of the department of educational psychology and measurements. The article deals with measuring devices for selecting telephone operators.

"How Far Possession Overrides Intention in Sales of Goods" is the title o fan article by Professor Laurence Vold of the college of law which was published in the March issue of the Dickinson Law Review.

Three university faculty members will speak before the Nebraska State League of Nursing Education when it convenes at the Cornhusker hotel, April 14 to 16. They are Prof. Hattie Plum-Williams, Dr. D. A. Worcester, and Dr. H. C. Koch.

Lewiston and David City high school students visited the university last week and were shown through the museum in Morrill hall by F. G. Collins, assistant curator.

Prof. Jiles W. Haney, chairman of the department of mechanical engineering, will leave Lincoln late this week to attend the national spring meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at Birmingham, Ala. Enroute, Mr. Haney will visit local sections at Kansas City, St. Louis and Memphis and student branches at Washington university and the University of Alabama. He is a member of the local sections committee of the national organization. Mrs. Haney will accompany him on the trip.

Marvin R. Haith, who graduated from the university in mechanical engineering in 1928, visited Dean O. J. Ferguson's office last week. He is now employed as assistant city engineer at Fairbury.

Loren Eiseley and Dorothy Thomas are the two Nebraskans who have poems published in Harper Brothers' "New Anthology of College Verse," according to word received at the university last week. From a total of 4,000 poems submitted, 340 were selected for publication in the anthology. Eiseley, a frequent contributor to the Prairie Schooner, is majoring in anthropology at the university. Miss Thomas, a student at the university two years ago, also has written considerably and has received honor roll rating by Edward J. O'Brian, short story critic. Both have had poems and stories published in outstanding literary periodicals.

Answers to Movie Fans

"stand-in" is in pictures? I've seen different girls that look like stars mentioned as "stand-ins" and I'm wondering just what is meant by it.

How old is Nancy Carroll's little girl, and what is Nancy's husband's name? Does her little girl look like her? I saw Nancy in "Laughter," and she looks so young it is hard to believe that she is married and has a child. Is it true that she has a sister in pictures? What picture is she in? I'd like to see her.

I thought Fredric March was rather silly in "Laughter." Nobody in real life would go in another man's house like he did and make himself quite so much at home. I was really sorry that Nancy decided to go away with him. I thought her husband was a pretty good sort, even if he did have money. He really wasn't mean to her, and cer- I can't say that I exactly approve tainly forgave her many things, of a picture like that in this day and age when divorces are so prevalent anyhow. It just encourages people to do such things when they see it on the screen.

Is Fredric March married, and if so to whom?

Hoping to hear from "Just Ducking," "Justice" and some of the old-timers again soon, and with best wishes to you, Movie Editor, I will sign myself, as ever KOO KOO.

Stand-in Doubles For Star.

More flowers, "Just Ducking." You will need a dray to carry them off in.

A stand-in for the screen star is the "double" who does all of the monotonous end of the acting, such as standing in the place of the star while the cameras and lighting effects are being adjusted. The stand-in keeps the star from becoming fatigued before the actual acting is started. There are always so many little details to be gone over that require the presence of the star or somebody of the same height and coloring, but that are not recorded by the camera, that a "stand-in" is used by all of the big stars on the screen.

Nancy Carroll's small daughter, Patricia, is 4 years old. Her daddy is Jack Kirkland, a writer. Patricia is more like her father, with her brown eyes and hair. Nancy's sister, Terry, has a role in Nancy's latest release, "Stolen Heaven."

Fredric March is married to Florence Eldrige. Miss Eldridge is also a movie actress.

Her Favorites.

Dear Movie Editor—Here's another old Fan back again to ask some things about the movies.

First I'll name my favorites. They are Constance Bennett, Neil Hamilton, Richard Barthelmess, Lewis Ayres, Nancy Carroll and Kay Francis.

Are Neil Hamilton and Richard Barthelmess married? I know that Lew Ayres is not, but what about Constance Bennett?

Who played the role of Diana's Husband in "Lightnin." I didn't think Will Rogers was as good in that picture as he has been in his others.

I was very much disappointed in "Passion Flower" because I had read the book, and thought with such players as Kay Francis and Charles Bickford it ought to be a good story. I expect it would have been alright for anybody who hadn't read it as Kathleen Norris wrote it. Zasu Pitts was wonderful as she always is.

Another picture that I was terribly disappointed in was "Min and Bill." I read that it was adapted from Lorna Moon's "Dark Star," but you would certainly never suspect it from the picture. I really think "Dark Star" would make a good picture. I don't see why they don't do a real picture from that book. If you accept "Min and Bill" just as a comedy and forget its origin, it's alright.

I should have named Warner Baxter as another of my favorites. I adore seeing him on the screen and never miss a picture if I know he is to play in it. Who played opposite him in "Renegades?"

Claudette Colbert reminds me very much of Nancy Carroll except for the fact that she is ever so much darker. What nationality is she? She looks French. Is she married, and how old is she?

This letter is getting long, and I want to come again so I'll say "adios." OTILIA F.

Wed Non-Professionals.

Your favorites are well chosen.

Neil and Richard are both married to non-professionals. Richard was married once before—to Mary Hay. Miss Bennett is separated from two husbands.

That was Rex Bell in "Lightnin." He seems to be interested in Clara Bow just now.

It is rather disillusioning to have a good story ruined in the making, or should I say changed in the making, as the two you mention were, "Dark Star," particularly was disappointing to me—not so much as a picture, but as an adaptation of Lorna Moon's story. The novel was so tragic as a whole that it seemed almost a desecration to film it as a slapstick comedy.

Myrna Loy was Mr. Baxter's leading lady in "Renegades."

Miss Colbert was born in Paris under the name of Chauchoin, so there's not much doubt as to her nationality. She is 23 and married to Norman Foster.

Curious About Ruth Roland.

Dear Movie Editor—I was visiting a small town near here recently and saw "Reno." The picture wasn't so "hot," but I'm wondering who the leading lady was. I think her name was Ruth Roland. I have never seen her before. Is she another recruit from the speaking stage? I would apreciate it if you could give me some information concerning her. Is she married and if so, to whom, and anything else that you may be able to tell me about her, including the color of her hair. Many thanks for your kindness. EILEEN.

Not New to Movies.

Ruth Roland, the featured player in "Reno" is certainly not new to the movies. She is a serial queen of the early days, and was just staging one of her periodical "comebacks" in "Reno." Ruth was a wise maiden in the days of her youth and starring pictures, and invested her money in Los Angeles real estate. As the result, she is now one of the wealthiest women in Los Angeles, and works just for the pleasure she gets out of appearing before the camera.

Miss Roland was born in San Francisco, and started her stage career when she was only 3 years old. After she grew older, she entered pictures under the old Kalem company. Her rise to fame was rapid, and she eventually became her own producer.

Ruth has reddish brown hair, violet eyes and is five feet four inches tall. She weighs one hundred and twenty pounds. Her present husband is Ben Bard. Lionel Kent was her first husband, and he is now the manager of her real estate holdings.

Praises James Rennie.

Dear Movie Editor—After seeing "Illicit" I have another new favorite. Now I know you wil think it is Barbara Stanwyck, and she surely was good, but it isn't. It's James Rennie. He was perfect in the role. Had just enough reserve to make him interesting, and not too good looking. I really don't like them when they are too good looking. They think too much of themselves. Has Mr. Rennie ever appeared in pictures before? Is he married, and if so to whom? Who was the player who took the part of "Georgie?" He certainly was a scream. Always bobbing up at the wrong time. It was a really good picture, even though a little daring. I like those sophisticated films.

How old is Paul Lukas? I think he is just grand. Is he married? I saw him in "The Right to Love," and love to hear him talk. He has just enough of an accent to be interesting, only I didn't think he had a large enough part in the picture.

Will you please give me the addres of Paul Lukas, Ruth Chatterton, Barbara Stanwyck and James Rennie? Adios, BLUE EYES.

Rennie Not Newcomer.

You got your name in the paper, James.

Mr. Rennie is not a newcomer to the screen. He played in silent pictures several years ago. Perhaps you will recall him in "Star Dust," "Mighty Lak' a Rose," and "The Dust Flower." He is better known on the stage. Dorothy Gish is Mrs. James Rennie. Addres your favorite at the Warner Brothers Studio, 5842 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood, Calif.

Charles Butterworth was the splendid and blundering "Georgie" in "Illicit."

Mr. Lukas is 34 and married. Address him at the Paramount Studio, 5451 Marathon, Hollywood, Calif. Ruth Chatterton is also with that company. Barbara Stanwyck receives letters at the Warner Brothers Studio.

Enjoyed Two Shows.

Dear Movie Editor—Back again! I have just enjoyed two more interesting shows lately, so that means more questions plied up on what I have already found. I expect you wil wonder why on earth I want to ask so many questions. To make it just a little easier, I won't ask you to print the questions, but just the answers.

I have a few questions to ask in this part of my letter, so I guess I'll slip them in the box now, hoping you'll pull them out and answer them.

The shows I saw were "Raffles" with Ronald Colman" and "Playboy of Paris," starring Maurice Chevalier. They certainly are interesting. "Playboy of Paris" certainly was a comedy, and "Raffles" was a good crook play.

Roland Colman certainly does the bad things in a nice way. Any show would be a comedy with Maurice Chevalier doing his stuff. What are some more of Maurice's and Ronald's shows? What are they working on now? What company does Ronald have a contract with? Is he a star or featured player?

Can anyone be a star for one company and a featured player for another, or either one at both places?

Those two shows were examples of the shows I like to see. Of course, I like the shows Gary Cooper, Buddy Rogers and Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell play in, too.

Does Clara Bow dye her hair red?

Now just a few words to the fans to let them know what is said about some of the stars in the various magazines. According to some people's opinion: "Maurice Chevalier is "a ham actor"; Greta Garbo is a "folp"; Buddy Rogers is a 'sissy', mamma's boy and all that, and the girl's hearts go flitter-flatter when Buddy smiles; Charles Bickford is a he-man; Clara Bow can't be a flapper very long 'cause Norma Shearer is at her heels; Charles Farrell can't sing, and neither can Janet Gaynor; the directors were blind when Alice White made her screen debut; Gary Cooper isn't a hero; Mary Brian ruins all of Gary's and Richard Arlen's pictures; what's this 'boop-boopa doop' that 'baby' Helen Kane tries to do?"

Fans for Ruddy Rogers, take it from me there will be more than one letter boosting Buddy and Maurice. I suppose just what I have quoted will tickle "I'm Ducking," "Jerry B" and some of the others of the like, just pink.

Come on, I'd like to hear from you all about your opinions concerning the previous material.

I have written two or three letters before, but didn't see them in print, so that is why I have so many questions. I'll sign off with many thanks with call letters A-M-O-V-I-E B-U-G. Superior, Neb.

Loan Feature Players.

Flowers for Ronald and Maurice!

Ronald has appeared in numerous pictures during his several years before the camera, but his latest are "Bulldog Drummond," "Condemned" and "Raffles." His next picture will be "An Unholy Garden." Mr. Goldwyn is a star for Samuel Goldwyn Productions.

Mr. Chevalier started his screen career with "Innocents of Paris." "The Big Pond" is one of his most recent hits. "The Smiling Lieutenant" is the title of his next picture.

A player is more apt to be a featured player for one company, and a star for another, than a star for one and featured player for another. The stars are seldom loaned about, but a popular feature player with one company may be loaned to another for a starring role. Occasionally, of course, when a star happens to be "between pictures" on the home lot, and a good offer comes along for another company for a choice role that will add to the box-office prestige, the player or star is "farmed out" for the role.

Yes, Clara brightens up her hair a little. It was always a reddish tinge, but Clara thought she could improve upon nature. The result is plenty "hot."

Seriously now, you didn't expect me to answer the twenty-one pages you sent, did you? I'm always happy to answer any reasonable number of questions and to give all of the information I have at hand regarding any questions concerning the players or their screen activities. You listed over 200 names, besides a number of casts, and wanted their age, birthday, correct names, color of hair and eyes, height, and so down the line. The questions have been answered repeatedly in my columns. I'll always be glad to take care of any fair request you may make to this department.

He Stole the Picture.

Dear Movie Editor—To get right to the point, who played as Bill Williams in "The Indians are Coming"? What is his address? He sure looked like Frank Braidwood. It wasn't him, was it? He almost and unintentionally took the picture right away from Tim McCoy. He surely is good looking, and that was a good picture.

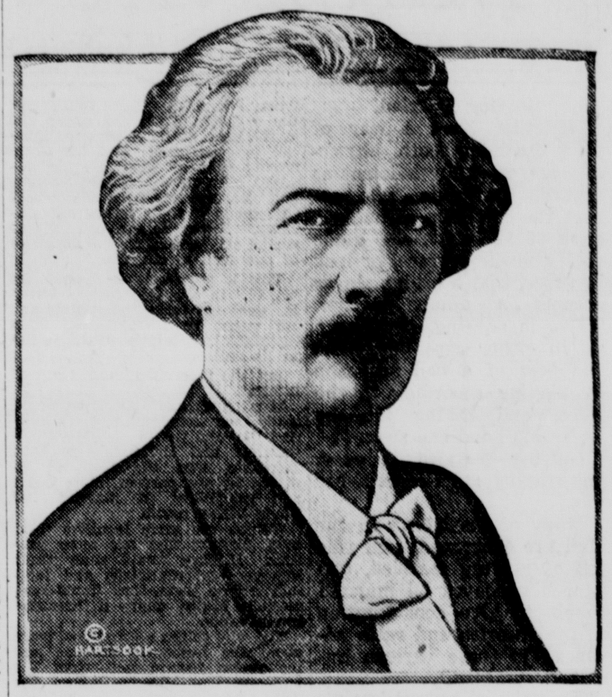

Why doesn't Carl Laemmle, jr., step into some pictures himself? He He is too good looking to remain out of sight. Thanks a lot. I'll be back later. Signing off again, I am as ever, ROMA.

Ask Fans to Help.

I've held your letter up, Roma, endeavoring to secure the cast of "The Indians are Coming?" To date, I have been unable to do so. Perhaps some Fan who saw the serial could help us out on Bill Williams. I didn't see it, and never get the casts to serials. A letter to the company has not yet received a reply. The serial is a Universal production, Universal City, Calif.

Mr. Laemmle is too busy taking care of the producing end of pictures, to have any desire to appear before the camera.

Damrosch Lauds Paderewski

Walter Damrosch, dean of American conductors, who has been closely associated with Paderewski since he first came to America in 1891, has written of him:

"Ignace Paderewski made his first appearance in America in 1891, and I conducted his first five orchestral concerts. He came to America under the auspices of Steinway & Sons, and they reported that the gross receipts for the first concert were only $500. His playing as well as his personality, however, immediately took the public by storm, and I do not think that since the days of Franz Liszt there has been any traveling virtuoso in whom the man was as fascinating as the artist.

"The world well knows what Paderewski has achieved in music; but it took the World war to demonstrate, that as an orator and a statesman he ranks as high as he does as a musician. I heard him make a speech on Poland during the exposition in San Francisco in 1915 before an audience of ten thousand people, in which he was so eloquent that his audience was aroused to a frenzy of enthusiasm.

"I think that if Paderewski had been willing to sacrifice his marvelous career as a piano virtuoso he would have become one of the greatest composers of our time."

Staying Married.

WIVES have a way of becoming both physically and mentally indolent as regards husbands, who accept the condition as being a part of the marriage game with the same grace, or lack of grace, that a bridge player accepts a dumb partner. There is nothing a man can do in either case but make the best of a bad situation by playing according to the rules, and taking all the tricks his hand can swing.

Getting married is easy, but staying married is a big job.

Many of the letters in our Mail are concerned with this job of staying married, and it well behooves all married people to give consideration to the theories and rules advanced in these various human documents.

"The states of conjugal love are innocence, peace, tranquillity, inmost friendship, full confidence, and a desire of the disposition and of the heart to make all good mutual to each other; and the states arising from all these are blessedness, blissfulness, delightsomeness and pleasure; and from the eternal enjoyment of these is heavenly felicity. These things can by no means exist except in the marriage of one man to one wife."

This is a paragraph quoted by "F. W." in a letter received today. He does not state the source, and we might be transgressing upon copyright laws to publish the article in its entirety.

But the theories advanced are of interest.

If all husbands and wives would study their individual roles in married life, and try to play them accurately and thoroughly without intrusion upon the parts to be played by the partner, more peace and tranquillity in married life would surely result.

Women are more intuitive than men, likewise they are more prudent. If they would study their hunches and cautiously and tactfully act on them, they would successfully bridge many a threatening situation.

The wife thinks a great deal more about the husband's attitude and inclination toward her, than the man concerns himself feeling the pulse of her devotion. If the wife gives vent to her concern in constant nagging and questioning, she naturally defeats her purpose. But she can utilize her sensitive response to her husband's reactions quietly and unobtrusively, if she will do so.

The man is likely to regard all as well unless there are heavy clouds on the horizon. It would be well if he were more sensitive to the small forewarnings of storm, but when it is not natural for him to notice the little things, the wife should be perceptive enough to manage philosophically without them.

If two are to remain truly united as one, they must consider their individual propensities, abilities, duties and characteristics.

Subtle Campaign.

Dear Minerva: My husband has recently started accusing me of extravagance. Now I am not wasteful nor a spendthrift. Those are not faults of mine. I manage my home carefully, and dress well on considerably less than most women do, because I am a good manager.

When he first started his criticising, I was very puzzled and hurt over it, and am still hurt but not puzzled.

I have discovered that an attractive woman who is with him a great deal in a business way, has chosen this method of playing up to him. He is Scotch, and while our home financial relations have heretofore been very pleasant, still he does have a fanatical respect for the saving of the dimes and nickles.

This woman tells him she has no interest in spending money, that it is a shame the money he wastes on the whims of an extravagant wife and children. And he is susceptible and weak enough to let her influence him.

As a matter of fact, she spends more on one tailored suit than I spend on an entire season's wardrobe of home-made garments.

My husband has started feeling sorry for himself, that his nose is held to the grindstone by a demanding family.

Before this, he was proud to be able to provide well for his family. It makes me sick that men are such weaklings.

Sympathizing with a husband is like giving candy to a small child, and this woman is smart enough to know it. Recently we all attended a dance together. She raved about his marvelous dancing until I was nauseated, for he is truly a rotten dancer.

Now I love my husband and I am not going to let her break up our happiness, no matter how hard she tries.

What do you advise? Do you think I should meekly agree with all his new absurd ideas for home economies, or insist that I manage such things as I always have? Would you try to open his eyes to the very obvious methods this woman is using, and my knowledge of them, or would you keep quiet?

PUZZLED.

A. I would continue to manage my household as usual, and refuse to become outwardly harried or irritated by his new concern about it. I would remain good natured and laugh at him for his new "feminine" interests, meanwhile assuring him that you know your end of the business just as well as he knows his, and that you do not expect him to interfere with your home management and you do not expect to try to run his business.

Never mention your knowledge of the other woman's attempt to influence him. It will wear off in time. Take the youngsters this summer and go on a cheerful and fairly lengthy vacation. He will welcome you back with a new appreciation of what you all mean to him.

Rushes Too Much.

Dear Minerva: I have written to you before, but have never followed your advice because I thought it would not help me.

My trouble is nothing new; it is just about boys in general. I must be the sort of girl that boys do not like. After I've had the friendship of one boy, I swear I'll never like another one. I always seem to like the ones that everyone else likes and then a fine chance I have. I wonder if it is just the way I treat boys that our friendship doesn't last. I would give anything in the world to be able to make friends with boys as easily as I do with girls. Maybe it's because I start liking boys too quickly—LOUISE

A—Perhaps you do give the boys too much of a rush. They don't like that, you know. They prefer to do the rushing themselves, and are always much more interested in the girl who is a bit elusive and difficult to date.

Spring Adjustments.

Spring affects us all in one way or another. The fancy of the young man, and of many others as well, turns to love. There is a glamour in the air, which is reflected in our own hearts.

And yet—to very many, the spring spells a sluggishness and a restless, a general dissatifaction with everything.

"Daisy" writes that she rises with difficulty every morning, after lying in bed until the very last moment, that she has become a lifeless, unambitious person and has to force herself to keep on working. She is irritable. Everyone gets on her nerves and she feels that she gets on everyone's nerves.

This, too, is a familiar reaction in the spring, and it means that the individual who suffers in this manner, has been neglecting her health, and driving herself a pace far beyond her strength during the winter.

When such indications of lassitude are felt, it is high time to take yourself well in hond. Heavy foods should be eliminated from the diet and substituted with quantities of fruits and vegetables.

Instead of lying in bed until the very last moment, the lethargic person should force herself to get out of bed a half an hour earlier than necessary, to exercise briskly and take a cold shower or bath.

Start with a few stretching exercises taken in front of the open window. Manage to walk at least a few blocks before you take the car for work. Walking combined with deep breathing will do wonders. Sunbaths are also remarkably beneficial.

The week-ends should be spent out of doors, walking, playing tennis, on picnics, playing ball, anything and everything to keep you out of doors. It is difficult at first, but soon comes a remarkable vigor, a sense of being made over again, and a return of ambition, energy and contentment.

Midland Notes

May 14 has been set by the Student council as the date for the fifth annual honor day program during which public recognition will be given to students who have done outstanding work in scholarship and extra-curricular activities during the year.

Sigma Lambda Chi, honor society for women, met this week to consider new girls for membership. Eligibility is determined by scholarship, leadership, loyalty and character.. In scholarship, a quotient average of 3.00 is required.

Sandstone Cliff To Be Made Into Park

the ridge is such that the seepage is toward the northwest side, away from the cliff. Water does not thus get a chance to freeze in the crevices of the rock, and split it off..

A fine moss also covers a large portion of the rock, which further protects the soft sandstone.

The top of the cliff, where the rock is not covered by the soil, seems to be a much harder layer of sandstone, with a considerable iron content, which weathers well, and forms a kind of protective cap.

What Phi Beta Kappa Winner are Now Doing

torney in Cambridge, Mass., are others of that class. Others elected in 1905 were Blanche Horning of Plattsmouth, Alma Vanderveer, now Mrs. C. E. Keefer of Lincoln, Katherine Lumry, now Mrs. John A. Wilson of Lewiston, Mont., N. Allene McEachron, now Mrs. Sidney Lee Mumau of Tobias, and Etta B. Agee, who teaches in the New York school of fine and Applied arts.

Numbers of others who have become noted have been elected to Phi Beta Kappa in the years since its installation. The class of 1905 concludes the first decade of the scholastic fraternity at Nebraska.

Everyday Questions

defies description. Do not forget that poorly paid office clerks, stenographers, bookkeepers and similar groups in the honorable white collar brigade are setting aside a fixed percentage oftheir scanty wages to aid in alleviating the want and suffering of their less fortunate fellow creatures who are unemployed.

Self denial lives in every tenement house alley, however mean, and takes care of its own there and then. The benevolent fiber of our people is as sound as a bell. Would that their lawfulness and social discipline were as healthy!

By and large, the inhabitants of North America vie with those of any other continent in their resolution to feed the hungry and clothe the naked. From the White House to the wayside hovel, philanthropy has first claim on their hearts and pocketbooks. This well nigh universal recognition of one of life's most sacred obligations should dismiss your fears for the nation's future. It is frequently careless to a fault, but thank God, it is neither callous nor selfish!

SIDNEY SMITH

NOW THAT'S THE THIRD TIME I'VE TOLD YOU TO ASK FOR WHAT YOU WANT—

LET THE CHILD ALONE! QUIT PICKING ON HIM—

HE'S BEEN LET ALONE TOO MUCH— THAT'S THE TROUBLE WITH HIM— WHAT HE NEEDS IS A LITTLE TRAINING—

SOMEONE TO TEACH HIM MANNERS AT THE TABLE— HE NEEDS A GOOD TALKING TO—LOOK OUT!

ALL OVER MY LAP— LOOK AT THAT! NOW— I HOPE YOU'RE SATISFIED—

I JUST GOT THROUGH TELLING YOU NOT TO REACH FOR ANYTHING AT THE TABLE— DIDN'T I?

YOU HAVE A TONGUE— HAVEN'T YOU? WELL— WHEN YOU WANT ANYTHING AT THE TABLE— WHY— DON'T YOU USE IT— INSTEAD OF REACHING FOR IT WITH YOUR ARM?

'CAUSE MY TONGUE ISN'T AS LONG AS MY ARM—

THERE GOES A FRESH KID— ONE OF YOUR HOME GROWN PRODUCTS— THE KIND YOU RAISE IN THIS HOUSE—

IT'S TOO BAD THERE ISN'T SOME ONE AROUND HERE THAT CAN GIVE YOU A FEW INSTRUCTIONS ON HOW TO BEHAVE AT THE TABLE — TEACH YOU SOME MANNERS — YOU SIT HERE AND JABBER LIKE A POLL PARROT ALL THROUGH YOUR MEAL— YOU'D THINK YOU HAD BEEN RAISED IN A BARN — NO RESPECT FOR A SOUL— YOU'D THINK YOU HAD NO PARENTS—

WHEN I WAS A KID I HAD A MOTHER— AND BELIEVE ME SHE TAUGHT US MANNERS— HER MOTTO WAS— CHILDREN WERE TO BE SEEN AT THE TABLE— BUT NOT HEARD— SHE GAVE HER ATTENTION TO HER CHILDREN— AND BELIEVE ME THERE WAS ONE THING SHE TAUGHT US— AND THAT WAS ETIQUETTE—

SAY— QUIT WAVING YOUR HANDS AROUND LIKE SOME WINDMILL— AND WHILE YOU'RE DISCUSSING ETIQUETTE— DID IT EVER OCCUR TO YOU TO PUT ON A COLLAR AND TIE WHEN YOU SIT DOWN TO EAT— AND PUT YOUR COAT ON WHEN YOU COME TO THE TABLE—

AND TAKE YOUR SPOON OUT OF YOUR COFFEE

OLD DOC YAK

WELL-WELL- CHARLIE- YOU'RE LOOKING PRETTY GOOD TODAY- A NICE HAT YOU HAVE ON— THAT WAS A PRETTY GOOD LOOKING GIRL YOU WERE WITH LAST NIGHT-

YES SIR-

HOW ARE YOU AT RIDDLES? I HAVE A GOOD ONE FOR YOU— YOU'RE PRETTY SMART— BUT I'LL BET THIS IS ONE YOU CAN'T ANSWER—

WHEN DOES A SHIP TELL A FALSEHOOD?

WHEN SHE LIES AT THE WHARF—
